The Ladies are helping us to make our Millinery a greater success this year than ever before. We do not need to make glaring statements about our own improved business. We are making it interesting and pleasant to lady shoppers by having the Newest and most fetching styles, telling the truth about our goods, marking everything at moderate prices and surrounding their selling with every courtesy. The worst thing that could happen would be to not do our part well.

SPANISH-AMERICAN.

Spain Greatly Excited and Hot for War.

THE U. S. SENATE IS GOING SLOW

A Meeting of the Spanish Cortes Called for Wednesday Next—Gen. Weyler as a National Hero—Official Spaniards Are Pursuing Peace Methods—Threat by the Queen Regent.

Madrid, April 15.—Gen. Weyler, the former Captain-General of Cuba, arrived in Madrid yesterday, apparently called here by the Government. He was met at the railroad station by Gen. Prat, in full uniform, and many friends, military men and civilians. The Governor of Madrid prohibited the demonstration which it was proposed to make, and adopted strong precautionary measures. There was a detachment of police at the station; there were policemen in the station, in the streets through which the General passed and police officers were stationed even within the entrance of the General's residence.

From the railroad station the former Captain-General was driven rapidly to his home in a carriage, accompanied by Senor Mesamens, a member of the Chamber of Deputies.

When questioned on the subject, Gen. Weyler refused to say he was called to Madrid by the Government, but he added to the correspondent of the Associated Press:

"I have indeed offered my services to the Queen. I consider war with America inevitable, or Cuba is lost to Spain. I believe war is preferable to a continuation of the prolonged tension between Washington and Madrid."

Cabinet Council Held.

A Cabinet council, at which the Queen Regent presided, was held in the afternoon. It was decided to reopen the Spanish Parliament on Wednesday next, instead of April 25.

The Queen Regent at the Cabinet Council signed the national subscription decree to increase the navy. At the meeting, the Premier, Senor Sagasta, made a statement on the subject of the recent developments of the Cuban situation as affected by events in Washington. He declared the situation was very serious, and while pointing out that "the debates in Congress have no legal value," he said he deemed it advisable to expedite the reopening of the Cortes, "in order to allow national opinion and its representatives to declare the will of the people and to enable the Government to act in accord with the nation."

The Spanish Government is contemplating sending a note to the great powers. A Cabinet Minister, who was interviewed on emerging from the Council, said:

"The true climax is approaching. But Spain is calm. She has done everything to avert war, and is now confident in the right and in the justice of her cause. She is ready to defend her soil and honor. When the American Government communicates its decisions, Spain will stand ready to meet all eventualities."

AS TO PRIVATEERING.

Spain Will Make That Species of Warfare a Special Feature.

London, April 15.—There is great interest here in Government and commercial circles over the possibility of privateering in the event of war between the United States and Spain. Several applications for letters of marque have been made at the Spanish Embassy and at the office of the Spanish Naval Commission, but there were no applications at the United States Embassy. It is generally recognized that Spain intends to make privateering a conspicuous element of the campaign. It is thought, however, that she will confine her energies in this direction to preying upon American coastwise commerce. It is not believed she will risk offending the European powers by stopping their American-bound vessels or by searching trans-Atlantic ships for American goods, for if European ships are molested the powers will probably adopt radical preventive measures.

The prevalent opinion that the United States will not embark in privateering produces an excellent impression.

ON THE DEFENSIVE.

Spain Remains Firm in Her Decision to Maintain National Rights.

London, April 15.—The Madrid correspondent of the Standard, telegraphing Thursday night, says:

"The despatches announcing the resolutions proposed in the United States Senate and passed by the House of Representatives caused more indignation and displeasure in Madrid than even the Presidential message. Not a single paper admits the supposition that such pretensions could be tolerated by any Spanish Government desirous of keeping in harmony with the unanimous feeling of the nation.

"The watchword in official circles is to remain on the defensive, firmly awaiting the development of President McKinley's action and the advance of American diplomacy.

"The military newspapers talk very wildly to-day, demanding war and considering further concessions impossible."

Queen Signs the Decree.

Madrid, April 15.—(Via Paris).—The Queen Regent signed the decree convoking the Spanish Parliament at 6 o'clock last evening.

No Provocation.

London, April 15.—The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, says:

"I have just had a conversation with Senor Sagasta, who assured me that the Government was absolutely resolved not to provoke hostilities with America. He added: 'I should be extremely sorry were the country to lose its present self-possession because of the incessant menaces addressed to us by the United States. We are striving with all our might to repress the national excitement.'"

Very Significant.

London, April 15.—According to a special despatch from Madrid the Supreme Council of State has authorized Senor Gullon, the Foreign Minister, to order the Spanish Minister at Washington, Senor Polo y Barnabe, to return to Spain directly President McKinley accepts "any resolution of Congress which attacks Spain's sovereignty in Cuba."

The Queen Will Abdicate.

London, April 15.—The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Post, telegraphing by way of Biarritz, says that the Queen Regent has informed the members of her household that it is her intention to abdicate immediately if the Cabinet takes any steps derogatory to Spain's honor and dignity.

The Pope in Distress.

London, April 15.—The Pope is greatly concerned over the impending war and has, so says a correspondent in Rome, prayed that death may intervene before the strife begins, that he may not be a witness of the bloodshed.

The Spanish flotilla is still at Cape Verde Islands and has been joined by the armored cruisers the Cristobal Colon and Maria Teresa.

THEY WANT TO TALK.

Consequently the War Vote in the U. S. Senate Is Yet in the Future—A Resume of the Situation.

Washington, March 15.—The report of the Foreign Relations Committee was yesterday laid before the United States Senate. Mr. Turner accused President McKinley of delaying the presentation of his message to Congress to further the Pope's efforts to bring about a peaceful solution of the situation. The President was waiting, he said, to secure from the Pope's action what American diplomacy had failed to obtain. Mr. Turner declared himself in favor of recognizing the independence of the insurgent Government of Cuba.

Mr. Hoar followed in a milder tone, defending the attitude of the President and representing the seriousness of war. In conclusion it would be well for the impetuous people of this day to remember Abraham Lincoln's counsels in the early days of the Civil war and not to forget Bull Run.

The testimony taken before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations in connection with the investigation into the relations between the United States and Cuba, was made public yesterday. It contains a statement made by General Lee, that he was informed on very good authority that the Spaniards had placed two rows of torpedos at the mouth of the Havana harbor subsequently to the Maine disaster. The electrical switchboard operating the torpedoes was placed in Morro Castle. General Lee had had no information of the placing of any torpedoes before the Maine was destroyed, and none in regard to the purchase abroad by the Spanish authorities. He stated it as his belief that the Maine was wrecked by an external explosion, and the Maine must have been fired by some Spanish officer who understood the submarine batteries in Havana harbor. He did not think General Blanco had anything to do with it. General Blanco had expressed genuine sorrow on hearing of the disaster.

The War and Navy Departments are making every preparation in case of war. Everything is in readiness for a mobilization of troops at Chickamauga Park. The Quartermaster-General has been ordered to purchase 1,000 mules for transportation purposes, and the Government having purchased the St. Louis and St. Paul, are now negotiating for the purchase of the Cunarder Lucania and the German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Friedrich.

Secretary Long has announced that hereafter no news concerning the movements of the navy will be made public.

The Spanish Minister, Senor Polo, is preparing to leave Washington.

FURTHER DELAY.

Senate Vote on the War May Not Be Taken Till the End of the Week.

Washington, D.C., April 15.—The attention of the civilized world is focused upon the Senate of the United States. Upon its action probably depends the momentous question of war between this country and Spain.

The most significant event of the day was an attempt to fix a vote and the failure to do so on account of the desire of many Senators to debate the resolutions at considerable length. It is impossible now to say when a vote will be taken and the utmost the friends of the resolution hope is to secure a vote by the end of the week.

TWELVE MILLION MEN

Available for the Service of the United States in Case of War.

Washington, D.C., April 15.—Major-Gen. Miles, commanding the army, said yesterday that considerable misapprehension existed in regard to the raising of troops in the event of war.

"In the event of the passage of the resolution reported by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee," said Gen. Miles, "the President would have authority to call into the service of the Government militia to the number of about 12,000,000 men. The third section of the resolution directs and empowers the President to use the entire land and naval forces of the United States and to call into the actual services of the United States the militia of the several States to such extent as may be necessary to carry these resolutions into effect."

VICIOUS FRENCH-CANADIAN.

John Picot Shot Two Men and a Policeman Shot John Picot.

Berlin, N.H., April 15.—Telespore Gagnon, proprietor of the Androscoggin House, was shot through the breast and Assistant City Marshal Younglies in the hand and foot yesterday by an unruly French-Canadian, who gave the name of John Picot. Gagnon is not expected to live. Picot was captured, but not until he had been shot in the arm and leg by Patrolman Christianson. Picot will probably recover.

LOCAL LEGAL.

A New Trial Ordered in the Undermentioned Cause.

The following occurs in the report of Divisional Court proceedings at Osgoode Hall:

Hall v. McPherson.—W. R. Riddell and R. R. Hall (Peterborough) for plaintiff, appealed from judgment of Ferguson, J., dismissing the action which was brought by an infant to recover damages for false representations alleged to have been made by defendants to induce plaintiff to purchase five shares in the capital stock of the Bay of Quinte Bridge Company for the price of which plaintiff gave the promissory note guaranteed by his father. The defendants denied making the false representations, and set up that as plaintiff was an infant when he signed the note, he was not liable thereon, and suffered no damage. The plaintiff contended that he was entitled to maintain the action, and that he was entitled to prove damages by reason of the misrepresentations. S. H. Blake, Q.C., for defendants, contra. Appeal allowed, and order made directing a new trial. Costs of appeal and former trial to be paid by defendants,

LADY OF THE LAKE.

This is the Name of Mr. W. B. Kelly's new Steamer Which Will Run From Chemong Park.

Mr. W. B. Kelly, of Bridgenorth, launched his new boat, "Lady of the Lake," yesterday afternoon, when a large number of villagers were present to witness the event.

The steamer was built by J. W. Hickey & Sons, of town, and is 65 feet in length with an 11 foot beam. The trial trip was a great success in every way, and Mr. Kelly is evidently the possessor of one of the fastest of the craft on the back lakes. He purposes running excursions on the "Lady of the Lake" during the summer from Chemong Park and will also utilize her for towing.

Inspector Donnelly when examining the hull, gave great credit to Mr. Hickey for the work, stating that he had seldom seen so neat and well built a model.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

LACROSSE.

The lacrosse team had its first practice yesterday afternoon, when quite a number of the team turned out. The evenings are too short as well as too chilly for the boys to do any practising after tea, but those who are able to get over to the grounds in the afternoon will have an opportunity of getting into fine shape early in the season. The grounds are dry and are fit for a match any day, so that if the season continues to advance as rapidly as it has done within the last month, the game will begin far earlier than ever before.

The roadmaster was instructed to have necessary repairs done to fire engine, enforce the moving of boat houses off the wharfs and prosecute all who do not obtain their dog tags by the 1st of May.

Fire Committee were instructed to have engine and hose reels repainted and small engines put in thorough working order.

A by-law to borrow money for current expenditure was passed through its several stages, read and signed.

Council then adjourned to meet at call of the reeve.

WHEAT EXCITATION.

An Advance and Then a Weak Close for July—Toronto Live Stock—Local Prices.

Thursday Evening, April 14.

Wheat cables were exceedingly strong today and Chicago advanced in sympathy during the early portion of the session, July selling up to 85¾c. The reports of large sales of cash wheat to Liverpool at an advance of from 1c to 1½c strengthened the feeling and the advance was maintained pretty well throughout the morning. Heavy offerings in the neighborhood of 86c caused a decline and the market closed with July wheat at yesterday's final figure, and with the remote options a little below it. May wheat closed with a clear gain for the day of 3½c. Liverpool wheat closed at from 1⅝d to 3d over yesterday and Paris was up 20c to 25c, while Antwerp was off 12½c. Broomhall cables make the strength abroad due to war apprehensions. Despite an advance of about 2d in corn at Liverpool the coarser grains showed weakness in Chicago.

Toronto Live Stock.

For Thursday there was a large run of live stock at the cattle market to-day—41 car loads all told, composed of 606 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 1500 hogs and 13 calves.

Trade on the cattle market generally speaking, was dull, and very tame, with prices weaker, but not quotably changed from those of Tuesday.

Dealers in the export trade were not operating, except in small lots, and from present appearances and reports $4 per cwt. is about the outside that can be paid for shipping cattle.

There was a fair local trade in butchers' cattle and a few small lots of export cattle changed hands.

A large number of stockers and feeders were offered, demand good, prices unchanged.

Prices for sheep and lambs, calves and hogs were about the same as on Tuesday; supply equal to demand.

East Buffalo Live Stock.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 22 cars of fresh arrivals and 12 loads that held over. The market was quiet and easy for all kinds, and while a few of the best handy weight clipped lambs sold at about yesterday's top values, the bulk of the transactions were at easy to lower prices. Native lambs, choice to extra, $5.80 to $5.90; fair to good, $5.60 to $5.75; culls to common, $5.00 to $5.50; yearlings, fair mixed to choice wethers, $5.00 to $5.25; clipped lambs, $4.25 to $4.90; heavy, do., $4.65 to $4.75; native sheep, choice to selected wethers, $4.90 to $5.00; good to choice mixed sheep, $4.75 to $4.90; common to fair, $4.35 to $4.65; culls to common sheep, $3.50 to $4.00; clipped sheep, $3.15 to $4.35; heavy, do., $3.90 to $4.90.

INTEREST IS WANING.

The Budget Debate Drags Wearily Along.

WAS THERE AN OFFICIAL LEAK?

The Postmaster-General on His Department—The Seeley's Bay Dismissal—A Significant Statement by Mr. Mulock—Questions and Answers—Proceedings in Parliament—The Budget Debate.

Ottawa, April 15.—It must in candor be confessed that the present budget debate possesses fewer elements of interest than have been developed by this annual discussion for many a session. The fact that no radical changes of fiscal policy were proposed by the Minister of Finance, and the additional circumstance that the results of last year's revision have disappointed the Opposition prophecies of evil, afford small ground for criticism and therefore little occasion for defence. Though but three days have been given to a debate which last session occupied more than a month's time, the House is weary of the subject, and if the understanding arrived at between the leaders is respected by individual members, the question will be put to-night. The speakers yesterday were Messrs. Craig, McMullen, Bennett, McMillan and Kloepfer.

An Official Leak.

Mr. Taylor asked a number of questions concerning the dismissal of W. W. Williams, postmaster of Seeley's Bay.

Mr. Mulock, in refraining from answering the questions put categorically, disclaimed any intention of being discourteous to Mr. Taylor, but he said that it was only by putting the papers before the House that all the circumstances could be presented. He added that the postmaster has left Seeley's Bay, where the post-office was located, and had removed to Smith's Falls, 40 miles distant, to take a position in a store. Coming after the recent protest of Liberal members in caucus against Tory influence in the departments of the public service, the succeeding words of the Minister were significant: "I cannot understand," he said, "how this question was got up so pointedly unless there was some departmental information conveyed to Mr. Taylor."

Geological Survey.

Mr. Sifton introduced a bill respecting the Geological Survey Department. It proposes to remove the restrictions now imposed on the director in the matter of appointing subordinates possessing technical qualifications.

Information Dispensed.

Mr. Blair informed Mr. Foster that $453,750 had been paid to the C.P.R. on account of the construction of 49¾ miles of the Crow's Nest line.

Mr. Foster was told by the Postmaster-General that he could not give the information as to what amount received for Jubilee stamps was included in the revenue for 1896-97.

Mr. Sifton informed Mr. Foster that Mr. William Ogilvie was on leave of absence in England. He was still in receipt of his salary.

Mr. Ogilvie had prepared the Klondike Guide and read the proofs for Mr. D. A. Rose.

Budget Debate Resumed.

The budget debate was resumed by Mr. Craig, who devoted some time to comparisons of Liberal promises with Liberal performances. He claimed they had utterly failed to carry out their pledges to economize. They had also failed to secure reciprocity with the United States, an object which was to be obtained within 24 hours after they came into office.

It lacked 10 minutes to 6 when Mr. Craig concluded, so Sir Charles Tupper arose to make a personal explanation, and a rattling tilt ensued between the Opposition leader and the Finance Minister.

Sir Charles asked to be allowed to justify the statement he made the night before, and which was challenged, that Mr. Fielding himself admitted last year in England that no preferential tariff then existed for British goods. He read from the report of Mr. Fielding's speech in Sheffield this sentence: "For the present, therefore, there is no preferential tariff in Canada for British goods."

The Opposition applauded and Sir Charles went on to say the Minister of Customs declared in his speech that if, as Sir Charles had stated, he (Sir Charles) made a proposal last session in regard to the sugar duties as affecting the West Indies, it was not to be found in Hansard.

Sir Charles desired to show that he had made such a proposal, and quoted at length from Hansard, which showed that he protested against the change in the refined sugar duties, and urged the Government to stay its hand until it should look into the whole question.

It was 6 o'clock when Sir Charles got through, and the members were ready to start off to dinner.

However, Mr. Fielding was quietly listened to while he made a five minutes' speech, in which he objected to the quotation of a single sentence from his Sheffield speech, and claimed that what Sir Charles called his "proposal" about sugar duties was no proposal at all.

Mr. McMullen spoke after dinner. He ventured the prediction that the day of corrupt governments in Canada was gone.

Mr. McMullen, continuing, said that great economies could be effected in the civil service by appointing a board of supervisors. He believed the Dominion had 1,000 more civil servants than she needed. Adverting to trade topics he denied that any prominent Liberal had supported commercial union.

Mr. Bennett arraigned the Government for their inconsistencies and failure to carry out their promises. Referring to the Fielding tariff, Mr. Bennett pointed out that it benefitted the wealthy classes as against the poor man, as luxuries would come in 25 per cent. lower than the necessaries of life. Mr. Bennett scored the Government for their action on the superannuation question. Last year they had added to the superannuation obligations to the amount of $64,240 per annum.

The debate was continued by Messrs. McMillan and Kloepfer. Mr. Taylor moved the adjournment of the debate. On understanding, the discussion is to close to-night.

The House adjourned at 11.10 p.m.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAGUE.

Hon. G. W. Ross Moves a Resolution to Bring the Mother Country and Colonies Closer Together.

Toronto, April 15.—The annual meeting of the Toronto branch of the British Empire League was held last night.

Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, moved the following resolution:

"That in the opinion of this League it is advisable that a customs arrangement be effected between Great Britain and her colonies by which the trade within the Empire may be placed upon a more favorable footing than that which is carried on with foreign countries."

Hon. Mr. Ross in a speech ringing with patriotism supported his resolution, and it was unanimously carried.

ONTARIO'S TEACHERS.

The Association Closed Its Convention—Much Good Done by the Meeting.

Toronto, Ont., April 15.—The Ontario Teachers' Association convention is at an end. The teachers came, convened, debated and departed. Yesterday's sessions were winding-up ones, some were but half-day conventions. "Good has been got" was the opinion of all the teachers. The papers in all the sections were particularly good for a winding-up day.

In the public school section, rural teachers in large numbers attended this branch and gained much good for their future work.

W. E. Graves, Toronto, presented a report on resolutions that were unanimously carried.

These resolutions were:

1. To raise the standard for teachers.
2. Against abolition of public school leaving examinations.
3. Favored that 21 years be a teacher's age limit.
4. Not in favor of the abolition of entrance examinations.

Two cars, two with trailers, were crowded by the weary teachers at 4 o'clock, and an enjoyable trip was had around the city by the belt-line, and west on Queen street. Mayor Shaw represented the city, and did it in his usual gracious manner.

Board of Directors met at 6 p.m., and appointed delegates to represent the O.E.A. at Halifax in August at the Dominion Educational Association. They also arranged for publication of the proceedings of this annual meeting. A telegram was received from Cheltenham, England, from the National Union of Teachers' Conference, sending brotherly feelings.

THE WAR IN RAILWAY RATES.

Hostilities Only Begun According to Present Indications.

Montreal, April 15.—The railway rate war is by no means at an end. Indeed there are those who believe that the real struggle is just about to begin, and that Chairman Hanford's prophecy that we would yet see a fifty per cent. rate to the Pacific Coast may still be fulfilled. According to the latest despatches from New York, the special sub-committee now in conference in New York have not yet accomplished anything, nor has even any slight promise of settlement been made apparent.

Traffic Manager McNicoll, who is still insisting on the Canadian Pacific differential for which he has been struggling all along, is being bitterly opposed by the representatives of the United States lines in the committee. Traffic Manager McNicoll and Passenger Agent Davis will return this morning, and unless some new and unexpected development takes place, they will come back unsuccessful from their third attempt to reach a settlement. If this is done, and if no solution of the dead-lock is found, it is something more than a probability that a further and more drastic cut will be made, this time by the United States lines, to force things to an issue.

HARRY JOHNSTON CONVICTED

Of Burning the House and Barns of Thomas K. Scovil of Portland.

Brockville, April 15.—Quite an important criminal case was tried here yesterday by Judge McTavish of Ottawa, the prisoner being Harry Johnston of Athens, who was charged with burning the house and barns of Thomas K. Scovil of Portland in November, 1896. William Laing talked freely after the fire, implicating Johnston and Scovil, alleging that the latter paid Johnston $900 to commit the incendiary fire for $3,700 insurance. Laing skipped out and was not arrested until last fall. Johnston and Scovil's arrest followed. His story, which he repeated at the trial yesterday, was that he drove to Portland with Johnston and held the horse while Johnston touched the matches. He was promised $100 by Johnston, but never received a cent. His evidence was not shaken. Johnston attempted to prove an alibi by setting up the story that he drove to Brockville that night with a lady who was anxious to catch the midnight express. This was in some parts corroborated. Unfortunately Johnston was not able to produce the lady. The Judge found him guilty, but sentenced him to 11 months in the Central Prison, because he believed him not to be the most guilty party in the transaction.

Seems as if consumption always picks out the brightest and best. Fully one-sixth of all the deaths that occur in the world are caused by consumption. Many things were once considered impossible. It would be strange if medical science did not make some progress. The telegraph and telephone, the phonograph, the electric light, all were once impossible, and once it was impossible to cure consumption. That was before the time of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Taken according to directions, this standard remedy will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. Consumption is caused and fostered by impurity in the blood. It is cured by purity and richness in the blood—surely, certainly cured by the "Medical Discovery." It builds up solid healthy flesh and vigourous strength.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a 1008 page medical work, profusely illustrated, will be sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover all postage ONLY. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y.

Carlists Are Loyal.

Madrid, April 14.—Don Carlos has issued a manifesto, in the course of which he says: "The Carlist who, in the face of a war with the United States, would rise in arms against Spain, is a traitor. If war occurs, all those who fight against the foreigner who insults us will deserve well of Carlos. If the Spanish Government does not venture on war, but permits the loss of Cuba, then Carlists who do not respond to the voice of the King will also be traitors."

Spain's Other Thorn in the Flesh.

Madrid, April 14.—It is reported that an official telegram has been received from the Philippines, saying that a serious outbreak has taken place in Fulnan, and that the insurgents have seized the telegraph station, the operators barely escaping with their lives. Troops have been sent to quell the outbreak.

A MARBLE CUTTER'S MISERY.

Now He's Strong and Vigorous.

Few people have escaped the attacks of that insidious disease "Grippe" and its terrible weakening and undermining effects on the system. To counteract the evil consequences of this subtle foe to health, to restore the entire system to perfect condition, there is no remedy so thorough going as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Mr. T. Barnicott, marble cutter at Messrs. Hutchinson & Thompson's, Aylmer, Ont., says:—"One year ago this winter I was quite sick with La Grippe, which left my system in an exhausted condition. I could not regain strength and was very nervous and sleepless, getting up in the morning as tired and unrefreshed as when I went to bed. I was listless, had no energy, and was altogether in miserable health. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills built up my system, strengthened my nerves, restored vigorous circulation of the blood, and in fact, made a new man of me." Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure Palpitation, Faint Spells, Shortness of Breath, Dizziness, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Dyspepsia, Anaemia, Female Troubles, After Effects of Grippe, Debility, or any condition arising from Disordered Nerves, Weak Heart, or Watery Blood.

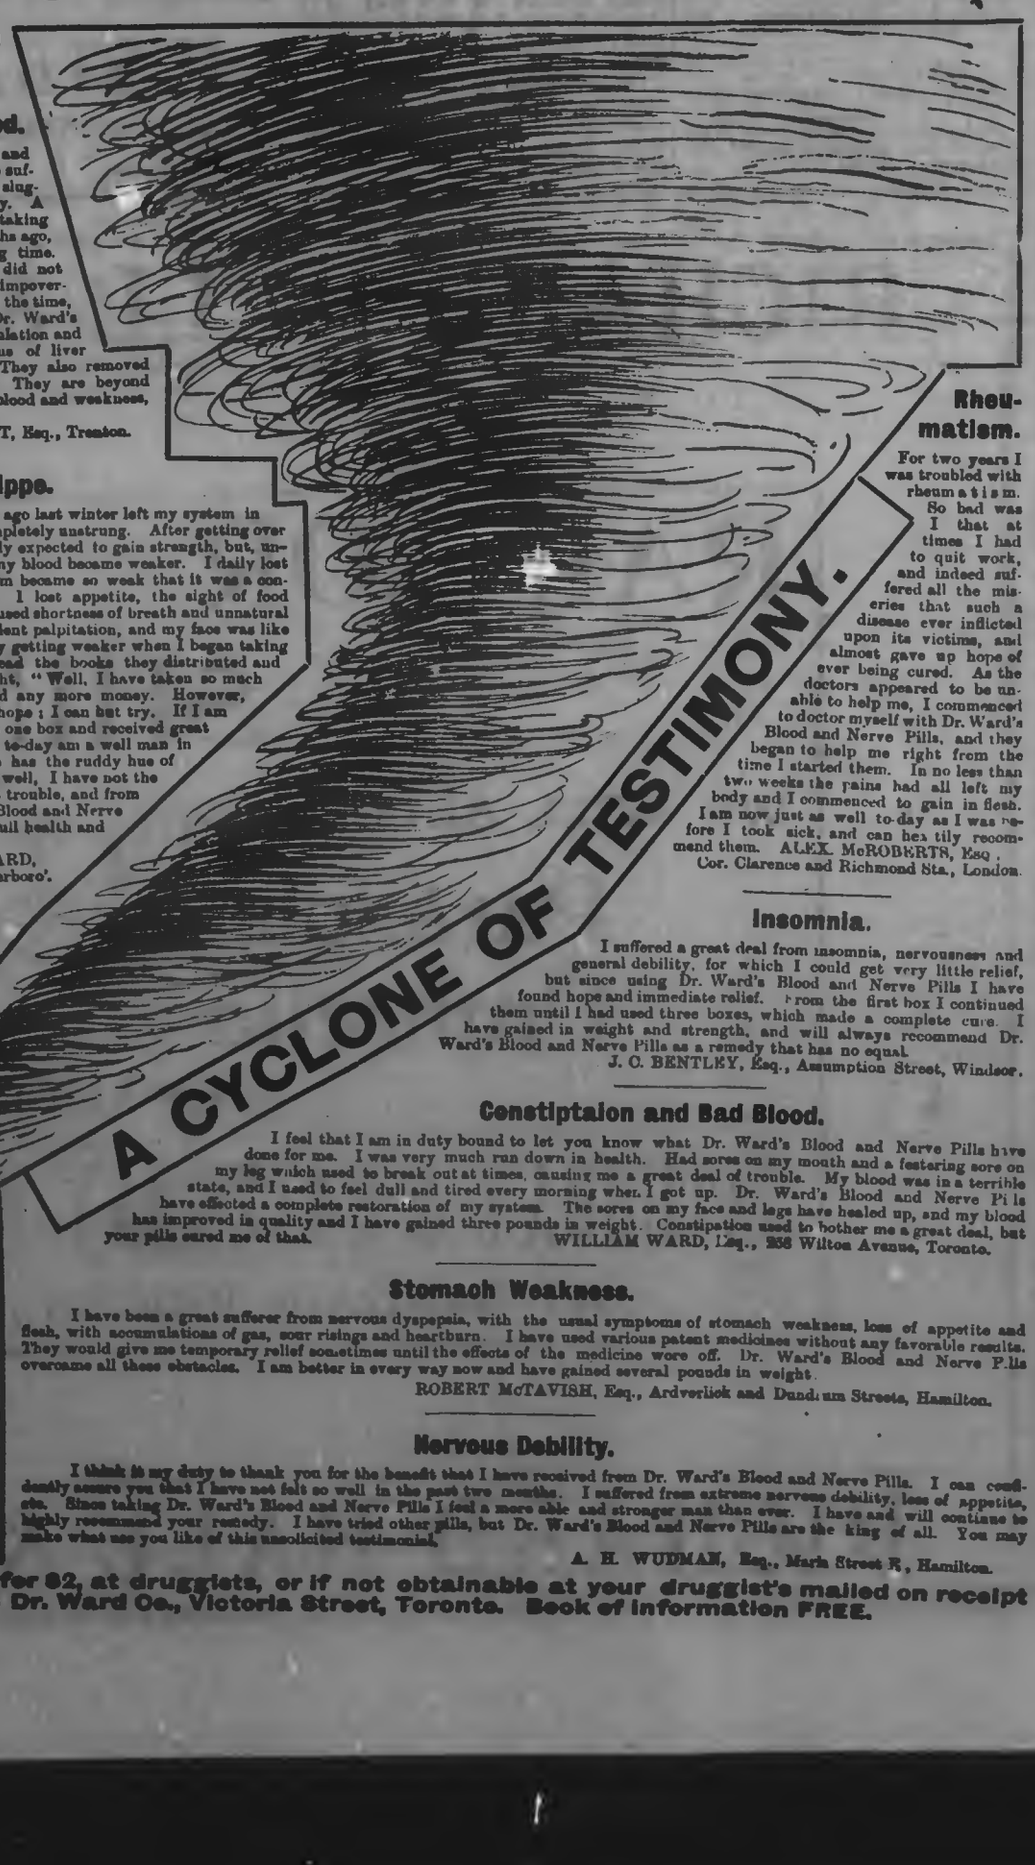
DR. WARD'S BLOOD AND NERVE PILLS

Sweep Disease Before Them With Whirlwind Force.



Sluggish Liver and Bad Blood.

I heartily recommend Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills as an excellent remedy to anyone suffering from liver complaint, drowsiness and sluggish blood and other symptoms caused thereby. A member of my family, until she commenced taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills, two months ago, had been suffering from torpid liver for a long time. This affected her whole system. Her blood did not circulate properly, and she became anemic or impoverished, causing ill-health. She was drowsy all the time, had no energy, and felt listless and tired. Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills restored healthy circulation and enriched her blood, removed all indications of liver trouble and other distressing ailments. They also removed drowsiness and gave her vitality and health. They are beyond question a wonderful restorative for vitiated blood and weakness, and a splendid health giving medicine.

J. C. WERT, Esq., Trenton.

Effects of Grippe.

A very bad attack of the Grippe one year ago last winter left my system in a very weak state and my nervous system completely unstrung. After getting over the dangerous stage of the disease I naturally expected to gain strength, but, unfortunately did not do so. On the contrary, my blood became weaker. I daily lost strength and vitality, and my nervous system became so weak that it was a constant source of suffering both day and night. I lost appetite, the sight of food nauseated me, the weak state of my system caused shortness of breath and unnatural action of the heart, such as fluttering and violent palpitation, and my face was like chalk. I was in this condition and constantly getting weaker when I began taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. I had read the books they distributed and their advertisements in the papers, and thought, "Well, I have taken so much medicine without benefit it is useless to spend any more money. However, I finally made up my mind. It is a forlorn hope; I can but try. If I am not benefited I will not be hurt. So I bought one box and received great benefit therefrom, so continued their use, and to-day am a well man in consequence; my blood is strong, my face has the ruddy hue of health, my appetite has returned, I sleep well, I have not the slightest indications of nervousness or heart trouble, and from a sick, weak, nervous man the Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have transformed me in six weeks to full health and strength." I am, yours very truly,

WILLIAM WILLARD,
Night Clerk Grand Central Hotel, Peterboro'.

Dyspepsia and Debility.

Nothing does a right-thinking man more good than helping his neighbors, especially the sick and weary. In recommending Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills and helping to bring them before the public, I feel that I am truly helping my neighbors. Both my wife and myself have used these pills and derived great benefit from them. We are getting along in years and, like many others, feel the need of a tonic and strengthening medicine. My blood was thin and impoverished, and my wife was miserable with general debility, brought on by dyspepsia. We used many kinds of medicine, but nothing did so much good as Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills.

It is a pleasure to me to recommend Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills to all who are suffering as we were, because I feel sure they will be benefited by their use.

Yours, very truly,
MR. and MRS. CLARK,
Victoria street, Clinton, Ont.

Rheumatism.

For two years I was troubled with rheumatism. So bad was I that at times I had to quit work, and indeed suffered all the miseries that such a disease ever inflicted upon its victims, and almost gave up hope of ever being cured. As the doctors appeared to be unable to help me, I commenced to doctor myself with Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills, and they began to help me right from the time I started them. In no less than two weeks the pains had all left my body and I commenced to gain in flesh. I am now just as well to-day as I was before I took sick, and can heartily recommend them. ALEX. McROBERTS, Esq., Cor. Clarence and Richmond Sts., London.

Insomnia.

I suffered a great deal from insomnia, nervousness and general debility, for which I could get very little relief, but since using Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills I have found hope and immediate relief. From the first box I continued them until I had used three boxes, which made a complete cure. I have gained in weight and strength, and will always recommend Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills as a remedy that has no equal.

J. C. BENTLEY, Esq., Assumption Street, Windsor.

Constiptaion and Bad Blood.

I feel that I am in duty bound to let you know what Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have done for me. I was very much run down in health. Had sores on my mouth and a festering sore on my leg which used to break out at times, causing me a great deal of trouble. My blood was in a terrible state, and I used to feel dull and tired every morning when I got up. Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have effected a complete restoration of my systems. The sores on my face and legs have healed up, and my blood has improved in quality and I have gained three pounds in weight. Constipation used to bother me a great deal, but your pills cured me of that.

WILLIAM WARD, Esq., 258 Wilton Avenue, Toronto.

Stomach Weakness.

I have been a great sufferer from nervous dyspepsia, with the usual symptoms of stomach weakness, loss of appetite and flesh, with accumulations of gas, sour risings and heartburn. I have used various patent medicines without any favorable results. They would give me temporary relief sometimes until the effects of the medicine wore off. Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills overcame all these obstacles. I am better in every way now and have gained several pounds in weight.

ROBERT McTAVISH, Esq., Ardverlick and Dundurn Streets, Hamilton.

Nervous Debility.

I think it my duty to thank you for the benefit that I have received from Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. I can confidently assure you that I have not felt so well in the past two months. I suffered from extreme nervous debility, loss of appetite, etc. Since taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills I feel a more able and stronger man than ever. I have and will continue to highly recommend your remedy. I have tried other pills, but Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are the king of all. You may make what use you like of this unsolicited testimonial.

A. H. WUDMAN, Esq., Main Street E., Hamilton.

"The Geisha."

The Japanese musical comedy "The Geisha" will be presented at Bradburn's opera house Monday evening next. "The Geisha" is the greatest operatic success of the past two years. It was written by Owen Hall and Harry Greenbank, with the sparkling music by Sidney Jones. The theme is as light as the songs and score. It is the tale of a "Tea House," and it appeals to the galleries as well as the parquet. One of the most fetching numbers in it is the chrysanthemum music with harp obligato, in Act II. Worthy of mention is the song of "The Amorous Gold Fish" and "The Jewel of Asia," but the song that took the roof off Daly's theatre in New York is "Jack's the boy for me."

The Bellicose Resolutions of the American Congress

RENDER "WAR INEVITABLE."

German Opinion as Construes Them—The Great Powers will not Further Intervene—The Cuban Situation Greatly Exaggerated—Consul McGarra Thinks a War a "Grievous Mistake."

Special to The Examiner.

London, April 15—The Berlin correspondent of the Times says: The vote in the American House of Representatives is universally regarded here as rendering war inevitable. Indeed one description of the resolutions adopted is that they constitute "an overt declaration of war." It is therefore asserted on good authority that the European powers have no intention of making any further attempts at joint mediation.

War a "Grievous Mistake."

Boston, April 15—Consul McGGarra, who has just returned from Cienfuegos, is quoted by the Globe as follows: A declaration of war against Spain by the United States would be a grievious mistake. The situation in Cuba has been most grossly, yes, criminally exaggerated by irresponsible persons for the purpose of bringing on war between Spain and the United States. The people of Cienfuegos, where I was stationed, were profoundly grieved and surprised at the possibility of war between Spain and the United States. When I left there I hardly believed my instructions recalling me a week ago yesterday. "How many Americans are there in Cienfuegos?" "I should say about 150 in all." "You don't seem to be much of a Cuban enthusiast." "No sir, I'm not. I think we have completely lost our heads over this Cuban revolution."

Vessels Chartered to Carry Troops.

Washington, April 15.—The Secretary of War has authorized Quartermaster General Ludington to invite the companies operating steamship lines along the coast to submit proposals for chartering to the Government their vessels fit use in transporting troops, munitions of war, war supplies, etc.

Spain Ignores Further Discussion.

Madrid, April 15th.—The Liberal approves the "energetic measures adopted by the Government yesterday," saying only through Parliament can all which the nation should know be made known. Continuing, the Liberal advises the press to "confine itself to fanning the warlike enthusiasm," adding: "No new discussion is possible while Spain's sovereignty in Cuba is challenged."

International European Naval Demonstration.

London, April 15—A special despatch from Rome, referring to the rumours of a proposition to made an international naval demonstration off the Island of Cuba, says Austria is taking the lead in the matter but it is understood that Great Britain and Germany are not favourable to the suggestion.

Confirmatory Report.

Rome, April 15.—The Popolo Romano understands the powers will intervene in favour of Spain, with a naval demonstration.

The Queen's War Subscription is Popular.

British Consul's Demand Complied With.

Havana, April 15—An American citizen named Joacquin Belancourt was arrested yesterday, charged with bringing correspondence from an insurgent camp. The British Consul, Mr. Gallon, who has charge of the United States interests here, demanded that the prisoner be released and the latter was accordingly granted his freedom.

The Ambassadors in Consultation.

London, April 15—A special despatch from Rome states that the Spanish Ambassador made a long visit to the British foreign office to-day, and later the Austrian Ambassador called.

No Naval Demonstration Believed in.

The British Foreign office does not believe that the powers will make a naval demonstration.

No Hope of Successful Intervention.

The Austrian Ambassador admits he has given up hope of Europe preventing war.

Sagasta's Protest to the Powers.

Senor Sagasta, the Spanish Premier, is quoted in a special despatch from Madrid as saying with reference to the destruction of the Maine having been caused through Spanish agency—"This infamous calumny merits the reprobation of the whole world. All the nations know the true cause of the disaster and many American officials know it too. For the American government to base a plea of intervention upon a heartless calumny of this character is to rebel against reason and justice. For this reason it is impossible for us to refrain from protesting formally to the powers against the injustice."

"The Coming King."

The up-to-date volume bearing this title shows the relation of Christ as Creator and Redeemer to this world from the Bible standpoint. Many subjects which are live issues of "to day" are also emphasized. The various fanciful and incongruous theories regarding our Lord's return receive a just rebuke. Conversely His direct statements as to the precursors of that greatest of earthly events, are shown in a clear setting; while side by side are the statements of facts concerning the rapidly shifting "present." The latter feature constitutes it a valuable reference book on many great questions. It commends itself to the candour of those who prefer fact before fancy, and Scripture before mere assertion and arbitrary interpretation.

ORANGE CONCERT IN ASHBURNHAM.

SPEECHES BY REV. W. L. ARMITAGE AND REV. H. SYMONDS.

Mr. Armitage Speaks on William III. and Mr. Symonds Takes For His Subject "The Unity of the English Speaking Races."

There was quite a large attendance last evening at the Orangemen's in Ashburnham Town Hall, which was given under the auspices of Col. Saunderson L. O. L. No. 321.

The chair was occupied by Mr. Allen McCarthy, Master of the Lodge, and the entertainment was opened by the singing of "Three cheers for the Red, White and Blue" by a chorus of ladies, Mr. John Armstrong presiding at the piano.

Rev. W. L. Armitage, of All Saints church, was the first speaker of the evening, the subject of his address being "William III. and his Times."

In introducing his subject Mr. Armitage first spoke of the necessity of knowing more of a man whose name was borne by so many of the present time—a man whose by thousands of his countrymen, who is followed by the hundreds of thousands today, and because of what they enjoy as the fruits of his labours, revered by the millions. He was born in the home of sadness occasioned by his father's death, but was destined to raise for ages the glory of the House of Orange, to save the United Kingdom from slavery, to curb the power of France and to establish the English consolidation on a lasting foundation. The character of the man was shown in his first address to his people, in which he said: "If our natal soil and the marvels with which human industry has covered it, were buried under the ocean, all would not be lost. The Hollanders would survive Holland. Their liberty and pure religion would still be preserved. If driven by tyrants and bigots from Europe, they would find a refuge in the islands of the sea, where they would raise the Dutch commonwealth to a new and more glorious existence, and rear under the Southern cross and amidst the sugar canes and nutmeg trees, the exchange of a wealthier Amsterdam and the schools of a more learned Leyden.

The speaker then described William's physical appearance, which was one, when once seen, would NEVER BE FORGOTTEN.

His natural qualities fitted him to be a great ruler, and at twenty-three he was renowned throughout Europe as a soldier and politician, having contended on the field with honour against the greatest generals of the age.

Mr. Armitage then recited the long and bitter struggle in England and the attempt to overthrow the constitution of the kingdom, touching on the incidents which led to the invitation being sent to William, the arrival and the establishing of the responsible government, which is the pride and joy of every Britoe.

In conclusion the speaker pictured the events surrounding the death of the Prince of Orange, and urged all who bore the name of Orangemen to follow the footsteps of their noble sovereign and his example.

Rev. Mr. Symonds was then introduced to the audience. He spoke on "The Unity of the English Speaking Peoples," using the term Englishman in its widest sense.

To understand this unity we must look as the said, "Unto the Rock whence ye are hewn and to the hole of the pit whence ye are digged"—that is, to the ancestry of the nation. They consisted of the Celts, the ancient Britons, the Scots and the Irish, also the Teutonic races and the Danes, the characteristics of each of which were graphically described. He referred to the bravery of the Celt, the phlegmatic steadiness of the Teuton and the active sailor life of the Vikings, which combined had raised the English-speaking people to the envious position which they hold to-day.

The speaker then referred to the great Republic to the south of us which was really founded on a similar plan by the fusion of a great number of nationalities, who had learned to speak a common language and were loyal to the country of their adoption. He showed that there was a unity between Great Britain and the United States in language, literature and law. That their Bible, their Shakespere and their Blackstone were one and the same. They were united by a common love of liberty.

Mr. Symonds closed with a description of the enthusiasm in a New York theatre, when the people saw the blending of the Stars and Stripes with St. George's Cross, and heard the strains of the Star Spangled Banner and God Save the Queen."

Mr. Geo. Adams was present and during the evening gave a number of vocal and instrumental selections.

REDEMPTION.

This was the Subject of Mr. Henry Varley's Address in the George Street Methodist Church.

Last evening Mr. Henry Varley spoke in the George street Methodist church to a large audience.

Rev. Mr. Shorey conducted the opening exercises, following which Mr. Varley read the 12th chapter of Exodus, describing the scenes connected with Israel's last night in Egypt.

The whole narrative portrayed and was a true type of Christ, the Lamb of God, and almost every point in the first sacrifice prefigured the anti-type.

The Passover was God's protection provided for man whereby the latter escaped the power of the destroying angel.

The lamb was killed by the whole assembly between the evenings, so at this very time of the day had Jesus died for the sins of the world.

He was the great metropolis of the Bible, as 367 names had been applied by the writers in speaking of Him in prophecy.

Egypt was a type of sin, and God had spoken to man there, so He speaks to the sinner in his sins.

The Lamb slain must be without blemish. Christ—God's Lamb—was spotless. Peter says: We are not redeemed with corruptible things, but with a lamb without spot or blemish.

Christ's blood gave righteousness to man—it was imputed.

The man without a wedding garment found no place at the great feast. We must have on the wedding garment of Christ.

The salvation provided by the passover was not a question of a man's being good, it was by virtue of the sprinkled blood; neither was it a question of feeling, it was rather one of the knowledge of being safe. God's judgment came to those who were outside of the house on the eventful night referred to, as well as to all the houses not bearing the marks of the blood. Judgment took place outside while inside there was feasting. We are not to be reconciled to God by our prayers or by our conversion, but by the blood of Christ. Men who continue to reject Christ become worse and worse in sin.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Varley, in an earnest impressive manner, asked for decisions and a large number rose in response.

The last meeting will be held this evening in the George street church. At that meeting a free will offering will be taken up for Mr. Varley's work. Envelopes have been provided for this purpose and can be had from the ushers or from the secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

REV. FATHER O'SULLIVAN'S ABLE LECTURE.

An Eloquent Tribute to the Homely but Graceful Virtues of the French Canadian Character, as Portrayed in Dr. Drummond's Poetry of the "Habitant"

At the last meeting of the Catholic Literary Association Rev. Father F. J O'Sullivan delivered an excellent address on "The Poetry of the French Habitant." Below is found the full text, which is well worthy of perusal:—

I have chosen for my subject this evening the "Poetry of the Habitant.' By the habitant I mean the French Canadian farmer as distinguished from the inhabitants of the cities. The French people of Lowell and Fall River and even of Montreal and Quebec cannot be called habitants, though many of them are the sons and daughters of habitants. They left behind them the simple manners of their country homes, and, alas, too many of them, what is more precious, their faith. Some, ashamed as it would seem of their origin, assumed Yankee names, like the unworthy son of an Irishman of whom I was reading the other day, who applied to the council to have his name changed from Patrick to Percy. It is to be hoped for the honour of our national saint that they acceded to his request. A classmate of mine once related to me a little incident that illustrates very well this foolish pride. He was invited to a party that was being given in honour of a couple of young ladies who had been working in the cotton mills of New England and who had returned on a visit to their French home. It fell to his lot to entertain one of them at supper and among other things he asked her how many habitants, that is inhabitants, in her town. Misunderstanding, she answered quite indignantly, "Excuse me, sir, we sir, we have no habitants in our town." The French Canadian farmer belongs to the good old Catholic stock that came out with Champlain and his associates and were the first to settle the colony of New France. Latterly, however, a less desirable element has been cast upon our shores, the refuse of the French revolution. Happily their influence has been confined in a great measure to the large cities. But there it has been felt, in Montreal especially, to the detriment of religion and society. They would fain place the church where she is in France to-day—at the mercy of the state. Of all enemies those within the fold are the worst. Many a youth has been led astray by their false doctrines, and you all know what sorrow they caused to the heart of the late lamented Archbishop Fabre. Of this class I have nothing to say. I could say nothing good. Nothing of them nor of those who have associated themselves with them, nor of those who are ashamed of their French Canadian parents.

To speak of the poetry of the habitant may seem to some of you a paradox, for if we accept the description given of him by our Ontario newspapers—the Globe for example—we would be led to believe that he is a personage with very little poetry in his composition. But we know the object of these caricatures. They serve the politician's ends, and it matters little to him whether or not they are founded on truth. He may not know very much, it is true, about geometry, trigonometry, zoology and the other ologies that our Ontario educationalists try to cram into children's heads before they can read and spell, but I will venture to say that he can tell more about God and his own immortal soul, and say his prayers better than many a graduate of our collegiate institutes. If I say this of the French Canadians, it is because I know whereof I speak, and it is with a passionate intensity of conviction that I declare that they are a poetic people, a polite people, a charitable people, a religious people. Five of the happiest years of my life were spent among them. I owe my training to the saintly French priests of St. Sulpice—men of learning, men of sanctity, men adorned with every priestly virtue, men who have been instrumental in making Montreal what she is to-day, the Rome of America; men to whom Canada, especially the Catholics of Canada, owe a debt of gratitude which their children's children can but ill requite. I studied on the same benches with the sons of the French Canadian habitant. I learned to love them and to esteem their virtues. I felt how much they were under-estimated, even by our Catholic people of Ontario. Consequently it was with much pleasure that I read a little volume of poems recently published, written by Dr. Drummond, of Montreal, himself an Irish Protestant, who in the preface to his book says:—

"Having lived practically all my life, side by side with the French Canadian people, I have grown to admire and love them, and I have felt that while many of the English speaking public know, perhaps, as well as myself the French Canadian of the cities, yet they have had little opportunity of becoming acquainted with the habitant, therefore I have endeavoured to paint a few types, and in doing this it has seemed to me that I could best attain the object in view by having my friends tell their own tales, as the they would relate them to English speaking auditors not conversant with the French tongue."

To say that he has succeeded is putting it mildly. It is a charming volume and amply merits for the writer the title which was bestowed upon by Louis Frechette, "path-finder in a new land of song." It is destined to live, for it has within itself the germs of vitality. Why is it that Moore's melodies are so dear to the Irish heart? Because they faithfully reproduce—mirror, as it were,—the poetic and patriotic sentiment of the Irish character. Why is it that Longfellow is found in every New Eyland home? Because the people may read from his pages the history of their own thoughts, their love of liberty, their trials, their hopes, their homely joys. And why is it that Dr. Drummond's poems will soon be found in every chaumiere in lower Canada? Because he has painted the habitant as he is, mild, amiable, honest, simple yet intelligent, with a heart full of native poetry, fond of his home and family, patriotic, a lover of the old time of long ago.

Perhaps the most predominant trait in the character of the habitant is his love of home, and this in large measure accounts for the poetic instinct of his nature. How is it that there is so much poetry in the soul of the Irishman? Is not one reason his love for the thatched-roofed cottage "in a bright smiling valley far far away." Why is it that the American people as a whole are an unpoetic people? Is it not because their affections are not centered in any little spot handed down from father to son—called home. Such is not the case with the French Canadian—

"De fadder of me, he was habitant farmer, Ma gran fader too an' hee's fader also."

If you wish to realize how strong are the family ties that draw the French Canadian to the domestic hearth, you have but to witness one of their reunions on the Jour del'An—New Year's Day. When COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

The Evidence Produced Against James McDonald in the Norwood Burglary Case Sufficient to Hold Him.

The preliminary investigation into the charge against James McDonald, of Toronto, of being implicated in the burglary of the Norwood post office, was resumed this morning before County Magistrate Edmison at the Court House.

Mr. James Calder, Assistant Postmaster at Norwood, in his evidence identified a fifty-cent Jubilee stamp found on the person of the prisoner, as one which belonged to him and was stolen from the office.

Detective Parkinson gave evidence as to the door being forced by a "jimmy" such as was found in possession of the prisoner.

The magistrate decided to commit McDonald for trial.

Boils are simply the outcropping of Impure Blood. When the blood is purified, enriched, vitalized by Burdock Blood Bitters the boils quickly disappear and your health and strength come back again.

Mr. Oliver J. Murray, Charlottetown, P.E.I., says :—

"I write in praise of Burdock Blood Bitters. About six months ago I was troubled with painful Boils and got one bottle of B.B.B. which completely cured me. I am now in good health, in fact, better than ever in my life."

WHEAT ADVANCES.

The War Scare and the Demand From Europe the Chief Bullish Influences —The Local Prices.

Wednesday Evening, April 13.

July wheat moved up 3¼c in Chicago yesterday, closing at 87⅞c. May gained 2¼c, and the Sept. and Dec. options 2⅛c and 1⅝c respectively. The advance was due to the warlike situation at Washington, the strong demand from Europe and the bullish news of destroyed crops on the Pacific Coast. Liverpool was very strong, closing at an advance of 1½d to 1¾d, but the greatest rise was in Paris, which market was quoted from 2⅝c to 3c per bushel higher, while Antwerp followed with a rise of from 2⅝c to 3⅞c. In sympathy with wheat, corn advanced on both sides of the Atlantic, the gain in Chicago being from ⅛c to ⅜c. Oats and provisions borrowed strength from wheat and corn.

CHINA AND RUSSIA.

The Trouble at Kin-Chou Was Due to an Attempt of the Russian Commander to Take the Town.

Pekin, April 14.—Details of the conflict between the Russians and the Chinese at Kin-Chou tend to show it was due to an attempt made by the Russian commander to take possession of the town. He tried to persuade the Chinese general that Kin-Chou belonged to Russia by virtue of the recent agreement arrived at between China and Russia regarding the cession of Port Arthur and Ta-Lien-Wan. The Russian commander demanded the evacuation of the place within 24 hours, but the Chinese refused to leave, and the matter was eventually referred to Pekin and St. Petersburg.

OUR TRADE WITH GREAT BRITAIN.

Continued Expansion Notwithstanding Other Countries' Decrease.

London, April 14.—Anglo-Canadian trade continues to improve. The exports to Canada during March increased 6 per cent., and for three months increased 13 per cent.

Exports to all countries decreased 4 and 3 per cent., respectively. This remarkable contrast in Canada's favor is partly attributed to the new Canadian tariff.

Imports from Canada were stationary for the month, but increased 15 per cent. for the three months. Imports from all countries increased 7 and 1 per cent., respectively.

The chief increases in imports from Canada in thousand pounds sterling for three months are: Animals, £9,000; wheat, £104,000; wheat flour, £9,000; bacon, £15,000; butter, £10,000; eggs, £2,000; fish, £68,000.

Chief decreases are: Hams, £5,000; cheese, £1,000; timber, £75,000.

REMAINS LYING IN STATE.

Funeral of Late Cardinal Taschereau Will Be a Most Imposing Ceremony.

Quebec, April 14.—The remains of Cardinal Taschereau were laid in state in his private chapel yesterday, which is beautifully decorated. There was a continual flow of sympathizers visiting the chapel all day. Flags are at half-mast on Laval University, Dufferin Terrace and municipal buildings.

Many messages of condolence have been received from all parts. From despatches received so far a very large number of bishops and priests will attend the funeral. On Monday afternoon the volunteer corps of the city will turn out and line the streets from the Palace to the Basilica, an order authorizing the calling out of the militia having been received. It is also expected that minute guns will be fired from the citadel during the funeral procession.

Strikes in Toronto.

Toronto, April 13.—There are two strikes on in the city just now. The Bertram Company's ship laborers struck for higher wages, but finding Mr. Bertram would not increase the wages many of them have gone back to work. A dozen places have been filled with new men.

The second strike is that of a portion of the employes of J. D. King & Co., who struck because two men belonging to the union were discharged. Mr. King says they were discharged for bad work, and, on receiving an ultimatum from the men that the discharged must be reinstated before 5 o'clock yesterday, the firm shut down at 12 o'clock for the purpose of stocktaking. This is the fourth strike the firm has had in twenty years.

For over a year Mr. House has waged a fierce conflict with kidney disease. The pain he endured was unspeakably severe, and he could get absolutely no relief till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. Now he is completely cured—of course.

SHOOTING CASE AND SUICIDE.

Adelbert Wycott Shoots His Neighbor and Then Takes Carbolic Acid.

Picton, Ont., April 14.—The shooting of Mr. A. S. Carson by Adelbert Wycott occurred yesterday about three miles from Picton on Mr. Carson's farm. Wycott, who is a neighbor, owns and lives on an adjoining farm. He went over to Mr. Carson's and met him in the yard, and after some time spent in conversation Wycott drew a revolver and fired. The first shot grazed Carson's head; the second passed through his clothes, and the third shot took effect in the fleshy part of the hips, where the bullet remains imbedded. The wound is not considered dangerous.

Mr. Carson is about 45 years old, and has been prominent in business and political circles for some years.

Adelbert Wycott is the same Wycott who tried to commit suicide by cutting his throat at a hotel in Kingston last fall. At that time he had some $10,000 in cash in a valise in his room. His father died some ten or twelve years ago, leaving an estate of $40,000, Adelbert being the sole executor.

Since the affair in Kingston last fall efforts have been made to get the estate out of his management. Mr. Carson, as a friend, has been trying to effect a settlement, and it is supposed the conversation between him and Carson prior to the shooting was regarding the estate. It is thought Wycott's mind is unsettled, caused by worry.

Wycott Kills Himself.

Adelbert Wycott, who shot Carson yesterday, died from the effects of a dose of carbolic acid at 5 o'clock. Two constables went with a warrant for his arrest, but were afraid to approach him. About 5 o'clock he took carbolic acid, which he must have had in readiness, and died in a few minutes. The wound to Carson is not considered dangerous.

THE ONLY HOPE!

For Victims of Bright's Disease is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Not a day passes on which the newspapers do not record the death of one or more persons from Bright's Disease. Already its victims number hundreds of thousands. Day by day the awful total grows larger. No class is safe from this destroyer.

War and intemperance, with all their miseries and fatalities, are not responsible for as many deaths as have been caused by Bright's Disease. Yet, there is a way of resisting it; of drawing its poisoned fangs, and making it as harmless as a summer breeze. That great medicine, Dodd's Kidney Pills, has cured thousands of the worst cases. It never fails to cure, hopeless as the case may seem.

Would you safely shield your loved ones from the fatal grip of this curse of mankind—Bright's Disease? Then use Dodd's Kidney Pills, the only cure on earth for this disease.

DANGER INDOORS ON A SHIP.

Steamship and Battleship Bulkheads Not Worth as Much as They Seem.

On all first class passenger steamships and on all large warships a great percentage of the total cost is spent directly and indirectly on bulkheads or on what these bulkheads necessitate. No passenger would willingly make a voyage in a liner which was not known to have a cellular structure, and no government would think of building a battleship or cruiser without bulkheads. Yet it is a fact well known, at least to all seafaring men and shipbuilders, that these bulkheads, strong and perfect in themselves, are precisely as safe and efficient as the doors in them and not a whit more so.

The doors as at present constructed and operated are notoriously bad and dangerous. They have been the direct and known cause in the loss of many lives and many good ships and are doubtless chargeable with many more ships on the list of "missing and unaccounted for." It is astonishing to the expert to see the general public and even seafaring men so ready to accept the prevailing superstition about the safety of bulkheads. The best possible bulkheads without equally good doors, operated on a safe system, are about as good as a chain with a link missing. The history of marine disaster has taught us this if it has taught us anything, and yet we go on crossing the Atlantic in liners of much vaunted safety and bragging about invulnerable battleships, apparently with implicit confidence in this bulkhead fetich.

There should be as few doors as possible, and some very able experts contend that there should be none. On the other hand, most captains and chief engineers say they must have doors. Manifestly the only way out of the difficulty is to get safe doors, safely operated. The number of watertight doors and hatches on a first class battleship is over 350, and there are nearly 800 valves and gates connected with ventilating, draining and flooding the hull and involving the safety of the ship. It will therefore be seen that the systematic control and operation of these devices is a matter of no mean importance.

It takes about 110 men to look after these details alone in response to a collision alarm under the present conditions, and it is a matter of very grave doubt on the part of those best informed as to whether the supreme efforts of these 110 men can attend to doors, hatches and valves quickly enough to save the ship.—Cassier's Magazine.

Startled the Old Man.

The acoustics of Statuary hall in the capitol at Washington are a matter of wonder to tourists, and many are the tricks played upon them. An exchange tells of a youth employed in one of the departments who was visited by his father recently and took the old gentleman to Statuary hall. There is a block about the center of the circular hall where, if one stands and faces the north, a sound uttered from the doorway, 40 feet in the rear, seems to be immediately in front of this block. The youth managed to get his father on the block and, attracting his attention toward a statue in front, slipped to the rear and said: "What time have you? My watch has stopped." The father drew out his watch and was half through giving him the time when he looked around and saw that he was standing alone and that the son was nowhere to be seen. He was bewildered and looked like the man from beneath whose coat collar the magician has just extracted a live goose. Presently the son stepped forth from the pillar where he had been in hiding, but it required many explanations to restore the old gentleman's serenity.

William II's Toad Talisman.

The house of Hohenzollern possesses a family talisman. Since the time of the Elector John Cicero, who flourished toward the end of the fifteenth century, each ruler has, when possible before dissolution, handed to his successor a sealed packet. This contains a ring in which is set a black stone said to have been dropped by a huge toad on the coverlet of a princess of the family just as she had given birth to a son. Frederick the Great found the ring in an envelope, which also inclosed a memorandum written by Frederick I, stating its value and its mode of transmission. Schneider, the librarian of William I, declares that he saw the packet handed by Geiling, the treasurer, to his royal master on accession, and further asserts that he read his account of the talisman to the emperor, who fully confirmed it.—St. James Gazette.

MR. E. HANCOCK'S VICTORY

Over Kidney Disease Won by the Help of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Galt, April 11.—(Special)—The greatest "speech" delivered for many years in Galt, was made recently by H. Hancock, Esq., proprietor of the fine hotel, the Iroquois. It was short and pithy and conveyed to every sufferer from kidney disease the glad news that they need suffer no longer.

Mr. Hancock's statement runs thus:—"For over a year I suffered with terrible backaches. Nothing I used gave me the least relief till I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. I used only a few boxes, but to-day every vestige of pain has vanished completely."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only cure on earth for Kidney diseases.

THE DISAGREEABLE WOMAN.

A Type of Being That One Prefers to Avoid.

Of the disagreeable woman there are many types and phases, but one of the most eminent physicians of the country declares that we know her at her worst as a "nagger." Of this sort of feminine individual he goes so far as to say that her relatives do not yearn for her recovery when she falls ill. While this seems, indeed, a severe estimate of the "nagger's" depressing effect upon those in closest proximity to her, it is, perhaps, only its outspoken candor that shocks us, and we rather incline to believe his assertion that varied experience proves it undeniable.

But the "nag," with her reiterated complainings about this, that or the other trivial delinquency, and petulant interrogations as to the why and wherefore of everyone else's most inconsequent comings and goings, is by no means the only disagreeable woman, even if high authority ranks her as a chief among sinners in marring the peace of mind of a whole household. There are others who, if not exactly the same kind, are not less trying in degree.

One of this genus of disagreeables is the patronizing woman; she who always assumes that you do not know quite the best people, the best way of doing things or the best music, literature and art. She hastens to tell you who is who and what is what, looks you over with unabashed eye, and makes you feel, by the crucial intensity of her sizing-up glance, that your trimmed-over bonnet is a perfect guy and your neatly-mended gloves disreputable.

"This is a Wedgewood pitcher," said a patronizing woman to a new acquaintance who was calling on her. "Wedgewood's was a celebrated pottery in England, and this is an heirloom." "How interesting!" replied the woman who wouldn't be patronized, as she handed it back; "and my mother has a saltglaze pitcher, a rarely unique one, made by Crouch, who sold the pottery to the Wedgewoods."

The patronizing woman said: "Ah, indeed!" with an incredulous lift of the eyebrows, but her face betrayed that she had never heard of Crouch, and her intended victim scored one with a sense of triumph only to be appreciated by those who have as skillfully parried the thrusts of the patronizer.

"I wouldn't have believed that those cheap silks would have made up into such a pretty dress," said another woman of this type to a dainty little thoroughbred whom she envied for her style and elegance in inexpensive attire; but in this case the patronizing woman overstepped the narrow line and evolved into that even more widely different species, the downright rude woman. And it is no use to say that the rude woman is not "in society"—she is there as surely as the whist woman, and every coterie can point to one who has made herself avoided on account of the barbed arrows with which she takes unerring aim at the vulnerable points of her self-styled friends as well as the enemies whom she cannot forego humiliating.

If she has herself achieved matrimony, even at the eleventh hour, she always greets her old schoolmates with the laughing query: "When in the world are you going to get married, Fanny?" And she gets in her cleverest digs under cover of a laugh, for it gives her the loophole of having been "merely in fun, don't you know?" should her personalities be resented, and, indeed, the disagreeable woman who smiles and smiles and is disagreeable still is about the most difficult of all to endure with fortitude, unless it be the woman who, upon the slightest acquaintance, whispers you a warning story about every one you had inclined to like especially.

Verily there are none of us perfect, but no woman need be the disagreeable woman if she wills to be otherwise. The radiant success, even in this world, of the agreeable woman is well worth striving for.

Fishing for Health.

When a man breaks down with that dread disease, consumption, and recognizes his condition, he starts out to fish for health. He tries this thing and that thing. He consults this doctor and that doctor. He indulges in all kinds of absurd athletic exercises. He tries first one climate and then another. He tries the rest cure and the work cure. He grows steadily worse.

That is the story of most consumptives. Finally, when the consumptive dies, the doctor shrugs his shoulders and pronounces consumption incurable. A thirty years' test of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has demonstrated that it cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease, before the lungs are too far wasted. In a consumptive there is a weaker spot than even the lungs. That spot is the stomach. A consumptive never really begins to die until his stomach gives out. The "Golden Medical Discovery" not only braces up the stomach, but acts directly on the lungs, healing them and driving out all impurities. Honest medicine dealers will not urge you to take an inferior substitute.

"I had a very bad cough, also night-sweats, and was almost in my grave with consumption," writes Mrs. Clara A. McIntyre, Box 171, Ashland, Middlesex Co., Mass. "A friend of mine who had died with consumption came to me in a dream and told me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and, thank the Lord, I did so. By the time I had taken half of the first bottle I felt much better. I kept on until I had taken three bottles. That was all I needed. I got well and strong again."

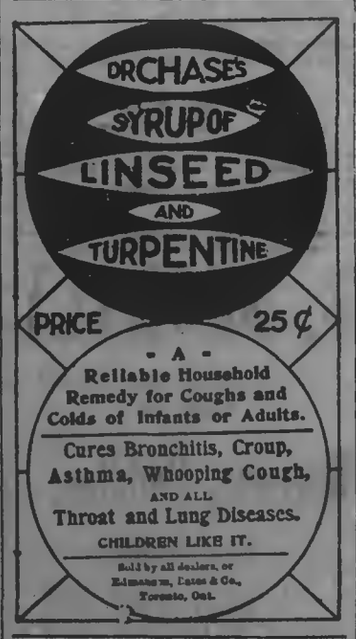
Whenever constipation is one of the complicating causes of disease, the most perfect remedy is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which are always effective, yet absolutely mild and harmless. There never was any remedy invented which can take their place. They never gripe.

ARITHMETIC 1700 B. C.

Sums Over Which Egyptian Children Puzzled Their Brains.

Probably the oldest copy book for home lessons in arithmetic was recently unearthed in Egypt. The papyrus, which was found in excellent condition, dates from the period about 1700 B. C.—that is, about 100 years before the time of Moses, or almost 3,600 years ago. It proves that the Egyptians had a thorough knowledge of elementary mathematics almost to the extent of our own. The papyrus has a long heading, "Direction how to attain the knowledge of all dark things," etc. Numerous examples show that their principal operations with entire units and fractions were made by means of addition and multiplication. Subtractions and divisions were not known in their present form, but correct results were obtained nevertheless.

Equations are also found in the papyrus. Among the examples given is this one: Ten measures of barley are to be divided among ten persons in such a manner that each subsequent person receives one-eighth of a measure less than the one before him. Another example given is: There are seven men, each one has seven cats, each cat has eaten seven mice, each mouse has eaten seven grains of barley. Each grain of barley would, if cultivated, have yielded seven measures of barley. How much barley has been lost in that way? The papyrus also contains calculations of area, the calculation of the area of a circle and its transformation into a square, and finally calculations of the cubic measurements of pyramids.—Philadelphia Record.



Shaking Hands.

Men shake hands with strangers of their own sex with far greater readiness than do women. Two men, on being presented to one another, will frequently extend the hand in a grasp of greeting, which gives opportunity to form a general idea of each other's make up, and know whether they are attracted or repulsed. Occasionally there is a man with sufficient good nature and courage to refuse another man's hand without causing offense. There are men who have been so impressed with the discoveries of bacteriology that they maintain handshaking to be the cause of dissemination of disease germs. The bare hand comes in contact with innumerable germs looking for pasturage on some vulnerable spot of our anatomy. A cut or abrasion on the hand leaves a door open for the admission of the enemy. Therefore it is with reason that men argue against promiscuous handshaking out of the home among the men met in business life. Science long ago frowned upon the practice of promiscuous kissing, which prevailed among women. Is the ungloved handshake also doomed? —New York Ledger.

Health is Better.

"I had no appetite and could not sleep at night, and I was so tired that I could hardly walk. I saw Hood's Sarsaparilla advertised and procured four bottles. My health is now better than it has ever been since I was a child, and I have not been sick for a long time." Miss Jessie Turnbull, Cranbrook, Ont.

Life's Red Stream.

When the blood is pure and rich, health and vitality are carried to all parts of the body. When it is impure or watery, the seeds of disease germinate and grow. To clear the blood current of all impurities, to make it rich and health-giving there is nothing to equal the standard blood remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters.

CANADA LIFE
Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty-first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $407,093.05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3 008, for the sum of $6,165,995, of which, however, 268 for $561,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 191 applications for $373,300 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5 231,695, under 2 609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $708,990.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,499 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,108 45, and Endowment policies for $128,846 03 having matured, these sums, as well as $318,481.29 for profits, $145 411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,263,307 84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $3,958,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1,272,486 05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18 678 915 67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company. I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, the prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

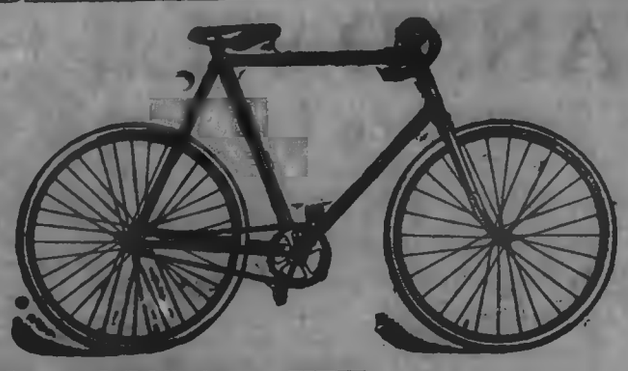
It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Barrett, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.



OF COURSE WE MEAN TO SELL

Bicylces

And very many of them, too, of the best kind. Our arrangements are settled for trustworthy goods and not for articles made purposly to meet a low-price market, and skinned at various points in unseen places. Every Bicycle we sell is intended to fill out our idea of reliability, speed and satisfaction in the long run. A full assortment from the well known makes "E, & D." and "Gendron," and carefully chosen stocks from other makers. To confine ourselves to one factory, would be as foolish as to limit ourselves to selling one make of hat. Whatever the price, we shall be at the lowest for really dependable goods.

"OUR SPECIAL" Bicycle is cheap enough to buy—quality of material used, manner in which it is put together, style, appearance, durability, price—these points considered, this Wheel is undoubtedly in the lead. Only $40.00 with with Dunlop Tires.

"TRENT VALLEY." In these wheels are combined all the merits that skilful workmanship and knowledge of the wheel industry can produce. There are few better Wheels at any price. You can pay more for fancy trimmings or a big name if you wish, but you can get no more satisfactory Bicycle. A good Bicycle is a good investment—$50.00, Cash.

Bicycle Supplies, Bells, Cyclometers, etc., at lowest rates.

PETERBOROUGH AND TORONTO.

THE POETRY OF THE HABITANT.

mass is over all the children, grandchildren, and sometimes great grandchildren, come for miles to get the old people's blessing. Whence comes, I ask you, this beautiful custom which recalls the simple manners of the Patriarchal times? Is it not the outcome of their Catholic faith—the faith of a St. Martin, a St. Louis, a St. Geneviève, a St. Francis of Sales, that faith which is the fountain-spring of all domestic and social happiness? The following little home scene, which I clip from "The Habitant," very prettily portrays this happiness:

An' some cole winter night how I wish you can see us,
W'en I smoke on de pipe an' de ole woman sew
By de stove of Tree Reever—ma wife's fader geeve her
On day we got marry, dat's long tam ago—

De boy an' de girl dey was was readin' it's lesson,
De cat on de corner she's bite him de pup,
Ole "Carleau" he's snoring, an' beeg steve is roarin'
So loud dat I'm scare purty soon she bus' up,

Philemene—dat's de eldes'—is sit on de winder
An' keep jus' as quiet lak wan leetle mouse;
She say de more Ieer moon never was shiner—
Very fenny, for moon isn't dat side de house.

But purty soon dey, we hear feet on de outside
An' some wan is place it hees han' on de latch;
Dat's Isidore Goulay, las' fall on de Brule'
He's tak' it firs' prize on de grand ploughin, matsch.

Ha, ha, Philemene! dat was nice trick you play us,
Come help de young feller tak' snow from his neck,
Dere's not'ing for hinder you come off de winder,
W'en moon you was look for is come I expec'.

Dat song I will never forget me, t was song of de leetle bird
W'en he's fly from it's nes' on de tree top, 'fore roun' of de worl' got stirred.
Ma-dam she was take us about th, den start off so quiet an' low
An' sing lak' de bird on de morning, de poor leetle small siseau.

'member was tam I be sleepin' jus' under some big pine tree
An' song of de robin wak' me, but robin he don't see me—
Dere's noting for scarin' dat bird dere, he's feel all alone on de worl',
Wall! Ma-dam she mus' beeen lak dat too, w'en she was de Chambly girl!

And thus their lives glide on and they are happy and satisfied. The girls are not afraid to work or wear home-made flannel dresses. They will even help in the fields if it is necessary. The father speaking of his daughter, says:

"He say, "Bu gosh—ma girl can wash—can keep the kitchen clean
Den change her dress—mak' politesse before God Save the Queen."

An eulogium that any girl might be proud of. Their city cousins may think them behind the times, yet there is more feeling and womanly instinct, yes, poetry in their nature than is possessed by many of the votaries of fashion. In a poem entitled "De Nice Leetle Canadienne," Dr. Drummond pays this compliment to the daughter of the habitant:

"Don't matter how mose dat girl she may be,
Her dress is so neat and so clean
Mos' ev'ryone think it was mak' on Paree,
An' she wear it, yeah, jus' lak' de Queen.
Den come for dat girl, got she mak' it her beeswif,
For she am a good worker mooch for sure;
But all de same dat, she was never got lef'—
Dat nice leetle Canadienne."

No wonder the habitant can have a big family and still not lose his pluck. Why, if some of the fathers of this parish had as many daughters as the habitants, when with spring suits and Easter hats, they would be bust empty in one year. Truly he has reason to say:

"Yaas I tak you—dat's true—I don't go on the city,
If you grow de flax roun' an' beaucoup
I rader farming up an' down de lan' dan up
On farm by de regular duyk call Chevral Blanc."

Nevertheless the habitant takes a holiday sometimes. The visit to Montreal of the French prima donna Albani, who was born in the County of Chambly, was a great event for them, for they are proud of her. One of Dr. Drummond's best poems is "When Albani Sang," being young Antoine's account of the opera. It is too long to give in full, but I will read the last few lines which are to the point, as they illustrate what I commenced to prove, viz., that the habitant has a true poetic instinct. He describes a French song which Albani sang after the opera:

Cos how could she sing dat nice chanson, de dame as de bird I was hear,
Till I see it de maple an' pine tree an' Richelieu romin' near.
Again I'm de leetle feller, lak young colt upon de spring,
Dat's jus' on de way I was feel me w'en Madame Albanee is sing!

An' after de song it is finish an' crowd is makin noise wit' it's hans,
I s'pose dey be t'inking I'm crasy, dat mebbe I don't understan'
Cos I'm sit on de chair very quiet mese'f an' poor Jeremie,
An' I see dat hees eye it was cry too, jus' sam' way it go wit' me.

Dere's rosebush outside on our garden, ev'ry spring it hasgot new nes',
But only was blue bird is build' dere, I know her from all de res',
An' no matter de far she be flyin' away on de winter tam,
Back to her own leetle rosebush she's coming jus' de sam'.

We're not the beeg place in our canton, mebbe cole on de winter too,
But de heart's 'Canayen' on our body, and dat's warm enough for true;
An' w'en Alibanee was got lonesome far travel all roun' de worl',
I hope she'll come home like de bluebird, an' again be de Chambly girl!

There are three principal scenes in the drama of the French Canadian's life. The first is the youth at home, the second is the man in the chase and the lumber camp, the third the old habitant smoking his pipe in the chimney corner, dreaming of the times gone by and awaiting calmly the day when he shall be called upon to make the last portage. We have seen him in the home. We will now follow him to the camp on the Mattawa. There we will find exemplified the adage, "The boy is father of the man." There we will see that early home influence moulding all his thoughts and actions. I have be told by eye witnesses that on Sunday mornings while the others in the camp would be smoking and playing cards, the French Canadians would quietly withdraw to some shady nook in the woods and there recite the Rosary. What a beautiful example of the effect of early home training, and what a lesson to the heads of families. In two beautiful poems: "Poison Dore" and the "Camp on the Cheval Gris," Dr. Drummond graphically describes this phase of the habitant's life. In the latter an old lumberman, one of those pioneers of the forest, tells of his visit to the log camp, the scene of his early labours. He cries like a little child at finding the place so changed and deserted, and sitting down he falls into a reverie and dreams of the companions of his youthful manhood. Once more they sit around the camp while the box stove roars and the wind whistles without. Each is amusing himself according to his taste. Some are playing checkers or cards, others are telling stories around the fire; while in a corner some love-sick youth is reading for the tenth time the last letter he got from his girl at Riviere du Loup. Later on the violin is brought down and with song and dance the evening closes. They then return to their bunks to sleep soundly till the morning call, when the old habitant imagines he hears again the boss shouting out:

Leve-toi Jeremie, ma young feller or else 'll be late for de garg—
An' den I am 'wak' up Johanie an' where de you think I be?
Dere was de wood an' mountain, dere was de Cheval Gris,
But w'ere is de boy an' musique I hear only w'ile ago?
Gone lak de flower las' summer, gone lak de winter's snow!

Yes, ladies and gentlemen, many a generous heart beat within the breasts of those hardy lumbermen. Many a poetic soul once animated those bodies that now rest in some unknown grave beneath the waving pine trees on the banks of the Mattawa. O what a halo of sacred memories rests upon those woods and rivers, memories which have been beautifully enshrined in the following verses:

O spirit of the mountain that speaks to us to-night, etc.,
We'll worship thee among the hills where flows the Saint Maurice.

And thus we leave the habitant to live and die where his forefathers sleep, by the banks of the St. Lawrence, in the land of the Good St. Anne.

One word to you Irish and French people of Peterborough and I have done. Remember that you are descendants of glorious ancestors. You belong to the two races that have given the most saints to the church, that have done the most for the name of Christ. Stand firmly together, shoulder to shoulder, as your forefathers stood at Fontenoy. You have a battle to fight, not a bloody battle it is true, but one on which more depends than depended on Fontenoy—the battle of your faith, of your religion.

And you French people of Peterborough forget not the traditions of your fathers. Be true to that glorious faith which made France once the pride of Christendom, and often breathe a prayer for a return to the true Catholic spirit in that beautiful land

"The native home of chivalry
The garden of romance."

HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes, Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? In Death. A premature, horrible, agonised, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

WERE THROWING STONES.

A Number of Young Lads Before Magistrate Dumble.

Half a dozen small boys were before the Magistrate this morning charged with being disorderly

It appears that W. H. Foord was driving up George street the other day when a stick was thrown from a crowd of boys on the corner of Antrim street and struck the wheels of his wagon. His remonstrance was greeted with a shower of stones. He attempted to catch the lads but they were too swift for him and escaped. On coming down the street a little later on he saw the same boys throwstones at three bicyclists who also chased them without avail. Mr. Foord, however, managed to head one off and brought him down to the police station, where he gave the names of his companions.

All denied throwing the missiles, but two, this morning. The magistrate dismissed the whole half dozen with a warning, pointing out the unmanly, mean and cowardly trick of which they had been accused.

Severe Bronchitis Yields Promptly to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

I used your Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for severe attacks of Bronchitis. I got better from the time of taking the first dose. Having a family of young children, my doctor's bills have annually come to a considerable sum. I believe a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup occasionally will aid me in reducing them very materially.

Spring Housecleaning.

While people are particular about having their house cleaned of the winter's accumulation of dirt, they're not always so particular about their system. It needs cleaning too, and there's nothing will do it so thoroughly and effectually as Burdock Blood Bitters. Alex. Miller, Ardoch, Ont., says:—"I have taken B. B. B. every spring for some years and as a blood purifier it is unequalled.

TO PRESERVE SPAIN'S HONOR

Queen Regent, Don Carlos and Government United in This.

THE MANIFESTO OF DON CARLOS

He Threatens to Take Hold of the Government of Spain if the Country Is Further Humiliated—The Queen Regent's Vigorous Words—The Temps on Europe's Interest.

Madrid, April 16.—The action taken by the Spanish Cabinet yesterday has confirmed the general belief which has been prevalent here that war is now inevitable. The warlike tone of the official note issued by the Spanish Government finds general approval here and creates much excitement.

Contrary to the general opinion that the Queen Regent has been negotiating for peace at any price, her attitude yesterday had much to do with the firm action of the Cabinet. It is learned on unquestionable authority that the Queen Regent recently made the following statement:

"I prefer even the horrors of war rather than a tarnish on the prestige of the army or an impairment of the rights of the Crown."

DON CARLOS' MANIFESTO.

He Threatens to Overthrow the Government if Spain Is Further Humiliated.

Another factor undoubtedly is Don Carlos' manifesto of yesterday, of which the following is an extract, which was not risked submitting to the censor:

"The Governors of Madrid may make a call to arms inevitable and immediate if they continue to permit the Spanish standard to be dragged in the mud. Twenty years of patriotic retirement have proved that I am neither ambitious nor a conspirator. The greater and better part of my life has been spent in the difficult task of restraining my natural impulses and those of my enthusiastic Carlists, whose eagerness I was the first to appreciate, but which, nevertheless, I curbed, although it rent my heart to do so. To-day national honor speaks louder than anything, and the same patriotic duty which formerly bade me say: 'Wait yet a while,' may lead me to cry commandingly to the Carlists: 'Forward!' and not only to the Carlists, but to all Spaniards, especially to the two national forces which still bravely withstand the enervating femininities of the regency, the people and the army. If the glove which Washington has flung in the face of Spain is picked up by Madrid, I will continue the same example of abnegation as before, wretched in that I cannot partake in the struggle other than by prayers and by the influence of my name.

"I will applaud from my soul those who have the good fortune to face the fire, and I shall consider those Carlists as serving my cause who embark in war against the United States.

"But, if everything leads me to fear that the policy of humiliation will again prevail, we will snatch the reins of Government from those who are unworthy to hold them, and we will occupy their places."

The report that Spain had purchased the Hamburg-American liners Normannia and Columbia was confirmed last night. It is said that the Minister for the Colonies, Senor Moret, bought them without consulting Admiral Bermejo, the Minister of Marine.

As indicated in the Heralds, Spain is figuring on yellow fever being an important factor of the Cuban situation. It says: "We have 200,000 troops on the Island, perfectly acclimated, and any Americans who are landed there will die like flies."

According to Madrid reports the Spanish Minister at Washington, Senor Polo y Bernabe, is ready to leave Washington, but has not received the necessary orders from his Government.

Government Endorsed.

London, April 16.—The Madrid correspondent of the Standard says:

"The Government's attitude has pacified popular and military excitement. In fact, the military and political press is unanimous to-day (Friday) in praising the Queen Regent and Ministers, and in discussing the prospects of inevitable war."

Europe's Interests.

Paris, April 16.—The Temps yesterday afternoon warns the powers against action and says: "Europe must not forget she has a great interest in America. It would be simply disastrous to provoke war between the two continents, and above all it is necessary for the powers to come to an understanding and act in concert. Any nation which alone assumed the responsibility of supporting Spain and making an enemy of the United States would do the greatest injury to its most essential interests."

WILL RETAIN CUBA.

Again It Is Announced That Spain Will Hold the Island.

Washington, April 16.—In view of the conflicting reports as to the attitude of Spain, a high foreign personage authorizes the following semi-official statement of the Spanish position as to the surrender of Cuba: "Once and for all let it be understood that the erroneous impressions as to Spain's relinquishment of the Island of Cuba are false and are calculated to inspire false hopes and embarrass intelligent action. The Government of Spain has never entertained the thought, and never will entertain it, of evacuating Cuba. At no time has there been a consideration of any step withdrawing the sovereignty of Spain over her West Indian colonies. The honor and dignity of Spain revolt at the suggestion of the independence of Cuba, which would alike reduce that island to the misery of irresponsible rule, and at the same time terminate a Spanish authority irreparably bound up with the prosperity of the island. For this and other reasons the reports that Spain is slowly yielding to a retirement from Cuba are both mischevious and groundless. No rulers, no statesmen, no Cortes of Spain would ever consider such a humiliation. But, in the face of it, Spain, always desirous of peace and ready by every honorable means to secure peace, will stand resolutely in defense of her inalienable rights, her sovereignty and her honor. And she feels confident she has with her the moral support of the entire civilized world."

MOBILIZATION BEGUN.

American Land Forces Being Concentrated in Florida—The Four Points Selected—Troops and Commanders.

Washington, D.C., April 16.—Decidedly the most warlike step yet taken by the War Department was inaugurated yesterday, when orders were issued for the concentration at four points in the South of six regiments of cavalry, 22 regiments of infantry and the light batteries of five regiments of artillery. At Chickamauga there will be six regiments of cavalry and the light batteries of five regiments of artillery; at New Orleans, eight regiments of infantry; at Tampa, seven regiments of infantry, and at Mobile, seven regiments of infantry. Since the Civil War, no such proportion of the army has been mobilized, and the movement itself is the best evidence of the gravity of the situation as looked upon by the President and his advisors.

When Secretary Alger returned from the Cabinet meeting he at once called into conference General Miles and Adjutant-General Corbin, and acquainted them with the result of the Cabinet deliberations. There were hurried consultations in which the Quartermaster-General, who has charge of the transportation of the troops, the Commissionary-General, who looks after their sustenance, and representatives in Washington of various railroads running to the South, participated. The orders as finally given contemplate the movements of troops to the places indicated as follows:

The Troops Mobilized.

To Chickamauga Battlefield — The First, Second, Third, Sixth, Ninth and Tenth Regiments of Cavalry, and the light batteries of five regiments of artillery.

To New Orleans—The First, Seventh, Eight, Twelfth, Sixteenth, Eighteenth, Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Regiments of Infantry.

To Mobile, Ala.—The Second, Third, Tenth, Eleventh, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-second Regiments of Infantry.

To Tampa, Fla.—The Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Ninth, Thirteenth, Seventeenth and Twenty-first Regiments of Infantry.

The heavy batteries of artillery in each of the first regiments will remain at their present posts. The two new regiments of artillery recently authorized by Congress have not been recruited to their full strength, and therefore are not included in these orders. The department has distributed the troops at concerted places on the Gulf most accessible to Cuba. Proposals have been invited from steamship companies for chartering vessels to the Government for this work. Troops will be provided with 30 days' rations and necessary camp equipage.

Secretary Alger also immediately selected as commanders of the divisions that are to assemble: For the division at New Orleans, Brigadier-General W. B. Shafter, now at San Francisco, in command of the Department of California, was discussed; for that at Tampa, Brigadier-General J. F. Wade, now in command of the Department of the Dakotas at St. Paul, Minn.; for Mobile, Brigadier-General J. J. Coppinger, who is on duty in command of the Department of Missouri, at Omaha, Neb.; while for the post at Chickamauga, Major-General J. R. Brooke, in command of the Department of the Lakes, headquarters at Chicago.

The command of the army will devolve upon Major-General Miles, who is now at the head of the military branch of the Government. His temporary headquarters, it is said, probably will be at Atlanta, where General Graham, who has command of the Department of the Gulf, is now located. General Miles' permanent headquarters will depend entirely upon the exigencies of the situation, and the developments of the campaign.

BETWEEN THIS WORLD AND THE NEXT WORLD.

MR. VARLEY DRAWS THE CONTRAST.

The God of This and the World to Come—An Impressive Address.

Mr. Henry Varley's last address in connection with the meetings which have been in progress during the past week, was a most impressive one. The subject was "The God of this world and the God of the world to come." He based his remarks on 2 Cor. 4, 4—6. The speaker dealt exhaustively with the existence of the devil. He was a mind blinder and did all in his power to keep men away from Christ.

If the devil was dead, as a great many said he was, who was carrying on his business for him, the fruits of which were apparent on every hand. If the evil in the world was not caused by the devil then, it must be traced to the wickedness of man. The speaker said the devil used many devices to further his ends. Indifference was one. Others were prejudice, ignorance, gambling and card playing.

Gambling was stealing, because gamblers take from their fellows what they give no return for.

The speaker then dealt with the God who commanded the light to shine out of darkness to give light to men. Man's spiritual condition was the chief thought of Jesus Christ. Advancement of science and art and accumulation of wealth were nothing to him. God's value is man. Many men go to Australia and Klondyke to seek gold and died there. They make a mistake, because they have a wrong idea of values. This was an age of doing things in a "moment of time."

God made no haste—nothing of importance was ever done in haste. Christ has paid the debt of sin and to as many as receive Him he gives power to become the sons of God, that in ages to come He might share the richness of His mercy to men who had accepted Him.

In closing, Mr. Varley asked all those who had been benefitted by his meetings to express it by standing up, and in response a large number throughout the congregation arose. The meeting was closed in the usual way.

Mr. and Mrs. Varley left to-day at noon for Belleville, where they will remain a week.

MARKET COMMITTEE.

The Increased business Necessitates the Purchase of Another Set of Scales.

The Market Committee met last evening and recommended the purchase of another pair of scales for the market from the Peterborough Hardware Company. On account of the new clauses in the market bylaw requiring produce, etc., to be weighed, the scales on the square were found insufficient.

The committee decided not to recommend the council to grant Mr. R. H. Green a rebate on last year's market tolls.

Why Suffer?

When there is such a good remedy as Nerviline for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute; lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pain just as rapidly. Give it a trial.

Work for us at Home.

A darning machine is now as much a necessity in every house as a sewing machine. The Swiss Darning Machine Co., of Toronto, have put a very simple and inexpensive machine for this purpose on the market. While this machine is so simple that any one can learn to use it by studying the printed directions that go along with it, it takes a little time to get up such speed as will do credit to the machine. Having this in view the Company have decided that it would pay them to have at once a rapid worker in every town in Canada to act as instructor and to whom they will pay good wages. They also want at once 500 ladies as instructors in the public schools. In order to qualify for these positions an applicant must practise till she can do a simple darn in 3 minutes. A large number of sample darns are also wanted at once which can be done by children or aged people at home. A good price is paid for these. The advertisement of the Company in another column is worth studying.

"Star" Grocery Re-opened.

I have re-opened the "Star" grocery, corner of Water and Hunter streets, Peterborough, with a fresh and carefully selected stock of choice family groceries—teas, sugars, provisions and everything usually found in a well-stocked grocery. The premises is well known, having lately been occupied by W. H. Hill's insurance agency, and formerly known as the "Star" grocery, adjoining the Morgan House. As I intend to do a strictly cash business I can guarantee my customers the very best value in everything they buy. Soliciting the patronage of my friends and the public generally.—P. ROBINSON.

Mayor Bennett of Lowell

Heartily Endorses This Testimonial--Hood's Sarsaparilla Triumphant in a Severe Test

The testimonials in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla are worth reading because they tell things worth telling. Just spare a few moments to read this statement below:

No man is more favorably known in and about Epping, N. H., than Mr. Joseph Stokes, the husband of the lady referred to. His word is as good as a U. S. bond, and every statement from him or his family may be most implicitly relied upon. Read this:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen:—For fully twenty years my mother has been seriously troubled by a sore on her nose. For some time we thought it of a cancerous nature, and it was removed three times. A physician in Boston said the sore was not a cancer, but

"A Catarrhal Sore."

It discharged and was, of course, very annoying as well as painful. Sometimes it was as large as a half dollar, and it was necessary to keep it bandaged and protected most of the time. About two years ago the sore seemed to be spreading over her face, and was larger than when the Boston physician removed it. There is no question but that its origin was in

with which my mother has always been troubled. Two years ago she decided to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a faithful trial, also using, as an outward application, Hood's Olive Ointment. It was soon noticed, to the joy of the family, that the sore was diminishing in size and was becoming less troublesome. This encouraged her to continue the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla. She took 11 bottles, and now

Her Face is Well.

The sore has entirely disappeared, leaving not a scar, but only a slight mark, which we think may in time totally disappear. It is such a comfort to her and such a joy to the rest of the family that we feel indebted more than we can express, to Hood's Sarsaparilla, that she has been cured after twenty years of suffering."

MISS B. A. STOKES, Epping, N. H.

From Mr. Stokes.

"I am glad to say that the cure of my wife is exactly as stated in my daughter's letter above." JOSEPH STOKES.

Hon. J. W. Bennett,

Mayor of Lowell, takes pleasure in voluntarily adding his endorsement to the above testimonial, as follows:

"I know the parties referred to in the letters above, and endorse them as thoroughly reliable. I have known about this case for some time, and am glad this testimonial has been sent to C. I. Hood & Co." J. W. BENNETT, Lowell, Mass.

A GREATER THAN "MICAH CLARKE."

It's a pity the elections are over. Otherwise the Opposition might have a chance to institute another comparison of the Third Reader with one of Conan Doyle's novels. The Copp, Clarke Company has just issued a novel by this author, "The Tragedy of the Korosko," about the same matter as "Micah Clarke," printed in pica, in paper covers, at 75 cents. If it were bound it would cost $1.00 or $1.25. This bears out the Liberal contention made in the last campaign that the price of a book depends upon its demand. When, as at first publication by a popular author, a book is in brisk demand, the price is up; when it outlives its demand and becomes stale, the price drops, as in the case of Micah Clark, to 19c. With such absurdly dishonest comparisons in the futile attempt to show that school books were too dear, it is no wonder that the electors turned down the Opposition candidate to the tune of 999 majority. "Fakes" are short-lived whether in school book comparisons or in other matters. And the man or party that works a "fake" once will be watched hereafter.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

WHICH is Conservative leader, Foster or Tupper? Will Mr. Foster succeed in knifeing Sir Charles as he did Sir Mackenzie?

THE Mail and Empire says that if Hon. Alex. Mackenzie were alive he would be in Opposition. The great statesman must have been keeping bad company in the other world if he would cast in his lot with the nest of traitors and the great Stretcher.

LIBERALISM isn't very much on the wane if we judge by the result of the bye election in West Prince, Prince Edward Island. Mr. McLellan, Liberal, was elected over Mr. Hackett, Conservative, by a majority of 239, nearly three times greater than the majority by which the Liberal was returned at the general election.

We have evidence of improved times in the reports of the great railways. The C.P.R. made a great advance and the report of the G.T.R. for the past six months shows largely increased earnings and this is emphasized in indicating the improved condition of the railway by the fact that the working expenses also show a great reduction—a feather in the cap of Mr. Hayes, the General Manager.

THE indications are that nothing but Cuba sinking beneath sea or Spain recognizing the independence of the war-harried island or some other miracle intervening, will prevent war between Spain and the United States. The American jingoes have hold of the cis-Atlantic lanyard and the Spanish jingoes of the trans-Atlantic lanyard both determined to put the match to the powder. Both nations are bending every energy to perfect military and naval preparation and it seems that only some miraculous interposition can avert hostilities.

THE present Government has economised in the various departments, leaving out of account the Department of Agriculture, with whose increased expenditure no one will find fault, to the amount of $732,000. The Government, the Montreal Herald points out, ask $132,000 less than Mr. Foster did for the charge on public debt account; $13,000 less for expenses of management; $31,000 less for civil government; $64,000 less for penitentiaries; $40,000 less for the expenses of Parliament; $81,000 less for militia. If these figures do not convince Conservatives that there is a ...ing endeavor ... cut all expenses while it can be done without injury to the country it is because they prefer not to be convinced.

SOME mealy-mouthed, milk-and-water philanthropists may cry out against the new regulations that deprive the convicts in the Kingston penitentiary of their tobacco and butter and sugar. Convicts will now understand that the penitentiary is not a hotel on the European plan. This institution has in the past been regarded by the criminal as a place de luxe compared with the Central Prison, where the rigorous discipline and plain food make a year more dreaded than three years in the Penitentiary under the old regime. Convicts are imprisoned for the sake of punishment, not for the sake of feeding them on luxuries. The more effectively they are made to realise that the way of the transgressor is hard, the sooner will they pursue a course that does not involve the risk of a term in the penitentiary. While a man is under confinement for trial treat him treat him as if he were innocent, but once he is convicted give him the benefit of the full discipline of the law.

IT is rather amusing to Canadians who are familiar with the colossal character of the British navy to read some of the dispatches. One report of this kind declares that the naval detachment at Key West is like a bull dog in leash, foaming at the mouth to get at the throat of the enemy. In the piping times of peace it has hardly been safe to permit an American war vessel to leave the wharf without having a chain on it. Then to talk of their navy sweeping the Spanish from the sea seems ridiculous. It would appear from reports that the American and Spanish navies, which, it is said, will do most of the fighting, are about equal as to strength. The special navy of both powers, judging from the reports of purchases and of crafts utilized for war purposes, will be something like the naval analogue of Falstaff's regiment. They will be composed of passenger steamers, pleasure yachts, turtle backs barges, scows, stone hookers, etc. Under these circumstances the greatest loss of life in case of conflict is likely to result from those hetrogenous crafts going to the bottom and the crews drowned like trapped rats. There will be little of the yard arm to yard and hand to hand tussels that distinguished the Nelsonian period of naval glory.

The evidence in the case proves Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scorfula, salt, rheum, boils humors and all eruptions.

COSTE HAD TO COME BACK.

He Could Not Get Up the Stikine River Owing to the Slush.

Vancouver, B. C., April 16.—Louis Coste, Dominion Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries, returned last night on the steamer Quadra, having been obliged to postpone his trip up the Stikine River on account of the ice and slush in the stream. He expects navigation will be opened by May 5 at the latest.

News brought by the steamer Pakshan from Dyea yesterday was that the first reports of the Chilcoot avalanche were exaggerated by nearly 200 per cent. Instead of 150 people losing their lives, the number is now supposed to be 52. The Pakshan left Dyea on Thursday, April 7, and the corrected list of dead up to that time has been issued, save with respect to 12 men who were missing.

The first treasure ship is expected to leave Dawson City about the middle of June with $15,000,000 on board in dust and nuggets.

WELLAND CANAL OPENING.

Vessel Men Along the Lakes Are Very Anxious to Know When.

St. Catharines, April 16.—There is a great deal of interest manifested here as to when the canal is to be opened. From all over the lakes vessel men are telegraphing enquiries as to the opening of the canal. Though there are no vessels at Port Dalhousie or Port Colborne waiting for the opening, there are many boats lying in the harbors all along the lake transportation route awaiting instructions from the authorities at Ottawa as to when the canals will be open.

They Start on Tuesday.

Toronto, April 16.—The detachment from Stanley Barracks that is being drafted to serve on the Yukon expedition will leave Toronto for Ottawa on Tuesday night. There will be 36 men in all and Major Young of the R.R.C.I. will be in command. The men will remain in Ottawa fitting out till the 25th, when, joined by the rest of the expedition from Eastern Canada, they will leave for their long trip.

Child Desertion at Fairbank.

Toronto, April 16.—The investigation of the charge against Mrs. Sheehan of abandoning her infant on March 17, at Fairbank, took place yesterday. Miss Gertrude Hoover deposed that she found the child about a mile north of the railway track lying in a pool of water. Constable Wilson, who made the arrest in company with County Constable Burns, swore that the defendant had admitted to him that she had deserted the child, urging as a reason that her mother was sick, and the knowledge of the possession of the child would have killed her. The prisoner was committed for trial and allowed out on bail, to appear at the May sessions.

KETTLE VALLEY BILL

American Railway Defeated in the House.

BUDGET DEBATE OBSTRUCTION.

An Agreement Broken—Mr. Wallace Self-Constitutes Himself the Leader of the Conservatives After Sir Charles Tupper Goes Home—The House Gets Excited—A Lively Row.

Ottawa, April 16.—A solemn understanding was come to by Sir Charles Tupper on behalf of the Opposition and the Government that the budget debate, which has lacked some of the elements of popular interest, should be brought to a conclusion last night. It has ever been the custom of gentlemen in the House to keep their promises, and Sir Charles and the Prime Minister went home early, believing that the arrangement would be carried out. At midnight Mr. Davin, despite the fact that his leader had pledged his word, asked that the debate be carried over to next week to suit his convenience. He was supported by Mr. Wallace, who has set up as a leader of the Conservative party on his own account, and who does not concede that any pledge given by Sir Charles Tupper is binding upon him. Sir Richard Cartwright insisted upon the bargain with the Opposition, whereupon Mr. Davin proceeded to obstruct. The member for Assiniboia bored the House for an hour by reading in bad French quotations from Le Revell and translating them for the benefit of his weary and disgusted hearers.

The British Yukon Company desires to change its name to the White Pass & Yukon Company. Mr. Wood (Hamilton) has charge of the bill. Bill to incorporate the Canadian Mining Institute was read a first time.

THE BUDGET DEBATE.

Mr. Taylor resumed the budget debate. Mr. Taylor strongly animadverted on the sale of the Kingston penitentiary binder twine output to the Hobbs Company of London by permitting that company twice to amend their offer for the binder twine, and then the Government charged them less than the contract provided. Although binder twine was on the free list and Canadian factories ruined, the farmers could not get the article any cheaper than last year. Another instance of the effect of the Government's tariff policy was seen in regard to barbed wire. Not a yard of barbed wire was being manufactured in Canada this year Although the tariff had been abolished the price was just the same as last year, namely, two and a half cents per pound.

Mr. Frost was the next speaker. He commended the Government for having brought peace and prosperity to Canada. He defended the Ministers from the attacks made upon them.

He condemned Mr. Bennett for charging the Minister with having received $30,000 from Mr. Greenshields.

Mr. Bennett, interrupting, said that Mr. Tarte had himself admitted the point last year.

Mr. Tarte—Permit me to say the statement made by the honorable gentleman is altogether untrue, and he knows it, too. (Loud cries of order.)

Then for the next ten minutes there was one of the liveliest scraps of the session. The Conservatives contended that Mr. Tarte should be compelled to withdraw the last remark as contrary to Parliamentary etiquette.

Mr. Davin and Mr. Clancy were insistant on the point. Mr. Fielding rushed into the breach to defend Mr. Tarte, whereupon Dr. Montague rose to his feet and called upon the Deputy Speaker, who was in the chair, for his ruling.

Amid great uproar two or three members rose together to give their views, but finally above the din Sir Charles Tupper was heard to say that the rules of the House would not permit the use of such language as that uttered by the Minister of Public Works.

Mr. Fielding got the floor again for half a minute, when Dr. Montague and Dr. Sproule pointed out that Mr. Fielding had already spoken on the point of order. The noise in the Chamber was something awful just at this period. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who was in the gallery, talking to some ladies, hurried down to try and straighten out the difficulty. Sir Charles Tupper arose to another point of order, when Mr. Tarte at once interrupted him. Sir Charles was heard to say, "Will you permit me to say—," when Mr. Tarte was on his feet again, wildly gesticulating and shouting, "No, not much."

Eventually the Deputy Speaker shut off discussion by giving his ruling. He said he was sorry that he had permitted both Mr. Bennett's and Mr. Tarte's remarks to pass unchallenged. However, that was past now. He thought that Mr. Tarte's observations to which exception had just been taken should be withdrawn.

Whereupon Mr. Tarte rose and said, "In deference to your decision, Mr. Speaker, I will withdraw the expression."

Dr. Sproule scored the Government for their backslidings Indeed, wherein they had kept their pledges they had injured the country. Binder twine was dearer than when it was dutiable, while the free importation of corn was working injury to our farming interests, and the reduction of the rate of interest was a blow at the thrifty, industrious working people of Canada.

The Performance Resumed.

After eight o'clock the performance on the Kettle Valley Railway bill was resumed by Mr. Oliver, who dwelt upon the importance of securing competition in railway rates. If the wholesome principle of encouraging competition were agreed upon, we would not have the spectacle of railway magnates lobbying the members of the House, to which we were now treated.

Mr. Ross Robertson wound up the debate. He pitched into the C.P.R. without gloves. First, he said the people of Ontario were favorable to the construction of the Corbin road. Mr. Blair, he went on, had told the House the other night that when he favored the Kettle Valley bill he was speaking only for himself. Mr. Robertson thought it would be well for the other Ministers if they would speak oftener for themselves and not for the C.P.R.

This ended the debate and the House divided on the question, which was upon the second reading of an amendment to the bill made in committee. The vote was as follows:

Yeas—Belth, Belcourt, Blair, Bostock, Brodeur, Burnett, Cargill, Sir Adolphe Caron, Sir Richard Cartwright, Christie, Clarke, Cowan, Dobell, Domville, Erb, Fitzpatrick, Flint, Godbout, Graham, Guite, Jameson, Kloepfer, Landerkin, Lang, Lavergne, Macdonald (Huron), McCormick, McGregor, McGugan, McHugh, Morrison, Mulock, Oliver, Paterson, Penny, Quinn, Rinfrit, Robertson, Russell, Semple, Sifton, Talbot, Tisdale, Wood (Hamilton)—total 44.

Nays—Angers, Basinet, Beattie, Beausoleil, Bennett, Bergeron, Bertram, Bourassa, Cameron, Carroll, Champagne, Chauvin, Choquette, Clancy, Cochrane, Copp, Davin, Dechene, Douglas, Dugas, Earle, Ethier, Foster, Frost, Ganong, Gauthier, Gauvreau, Gilmour, Guillet, Haggart, Hale, Haley, Henderson, Hodgins, Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere, Klock, Lariviere, Lemieux, Lewis, Macdonald (Kings), MacPherson, McAlister, McCleary, McClure, McDougall, McInerney, McInnes, McIsaac, Malouin, Marcotte, Martin, Maxwell, Mignault, Mills, Morin, Powell, Proulx, Savard, Sproule, Tarte, Turcot, Wallace, Wilson, Wood (Brockville)—total 64.

The Budget Again.

Dr. Sproule, continuing his speech on the budget severely scored the Minister of Finance for reducing the savings bank interest, which would invariably affect the working classes. He commented on the disastrous effects of the Government's tariff policy, which by closing up certain factories had deprived hundreds of employment and possibly driven them out of the country.

Mr. Tarte was the next speaker. His remarks were brief, being in the nature of a personal explanation regarding the Drummond County Railway matter. He again denied that he had pecuniarily benefitted from that company. He severely condemned the practice of newspapers slandering public men. The newspapers had slandered him, but he was not dead yet. (Government applause.) Speaking of the Quebec Bridge, towards which Sir Charles Tupper said the Conservatives were willing to vote $1,000,000, Mr. Tarte said the Liberals would celebrate their victory at the next general elections on the Quebec Bridge.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Lemieux, Clancy and Davin. The latter was pegging away at 2.30 o'clock, but with the prospect of keeping the House in session for an hour or two longer.

IT WORKED LIKE A CHARM.

Paine's Celery Compound, the World-famed Spring Medicine, Gives Mr. Ducharme a New Lease of Life.

This is the Trade Mark of the Kind That Cures---Look for the Name "PAINE'S" and the Stalk of Celery---Refuse all Substitutes and Imitations.

GENTLEMEN,—For a long time I was subject to spells of weakness that rendered me quite unfit for work. At such times my nervous condition was very alarming, and I felt as if my life was coming to an end. My sufferings were increased owing to violent attacks of rheumatism, and altogether I was as helpless as a child. Friends strongly advised me to use Paine's Celery Compound, as they had such grand results from its use. I used the Compound and the results were astonishing and happy. Paine's Celery Compound has done for me what the doctors failed to do. It has made me active and strong, able to work every day, and has given me a new lease of life. Every sick, weak and broken down man and woman should use Paine's Celery Compound; there is nothing like it in the world.

Yours truly,
ALFRED DUCHARME,

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

THE DOGS OF WAR READY TO BE LOOSED.

No Sign of Rift in the Impending War Cloud.

THE QUEEN REGENT MEANS BUSINESS.

SPAIN CALLS HER SUBJECTS HOME TO ARM.

The Situation Still Regarded as Very Grave—A Daily News Forecast—too Good to be True—Loyal Cubans Offer to Help Spain.

The War situation still remains grave. Spain, evidently expecting hostilities, has called home all able-bodied subjects. The European powers, with the exception of Great Britain, are contemplating a concert in the interests of intervention, but without Britain's co-operation it is thought little will come of it. The feeling in Spain has grown more belligerent; the fact of the Queen Regent, who has all along been anxious for peace, attending an emergent Cabinet meeting in person and favouring a more decided attitude towards the United States, is specially significant. Sunday may pass in peace but Monday may bring war.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Fighting Spaniards Called Home.

Paris, April 16.—Spain has begun calling home all able bodied Spaniards.

A Doubtful Statement.

Madrid, April 16.—It is officially announced that "Perfect tranquility prevails in Cuba."

Regarded as Very Grave.

London, April 16.—The Madrid correspondent of the Times says that the latest news from Washington is regarded as very grave.

To Act Without Britain.

London, April 16.—According to the Washington correspondent of the Daily Chronicle, all the European ambassadors, except the British, are so annoyed at Congress for ignoring Spain's offer of armistice that they are conferring with a view to concerted action.

A Denial From Rome.

Rome, April 16.—The foreign office declares it absolutely untrue that the powers have even discussed any proposition of concerted action in the Hispano-American dispute.

Forecast of a Possible Programme.

London, April 16.—The Washington correspondent of the Daily News says:—As a forecast it is alleged that President McKinley's plan is to send supplies to the reconcentrados, escorted by warships, which would practically seize Cuba. Spain then would propose arbitration and America would consent, claiming compensation for the losses of American citizens in Cuba during the last decade. The amount would be too large for Spain to pay and Cuba would be peacefully annexed by America in satisfaction for her claim.

The Daily News commenting editorially upon this "bold forecast," says: "It is too good to be true."

Spain Promised Help From Cuba.

Madrid, April 16—The Cuban Colonial Cabinet has addressed a manifesto to the Queen Regent, offering unconditional assistance in defence of Spain, and in behalf of the regeneration of Cuba.

CRICKET.

Arrangements have been completed by the Cricket Club to bring the "pro" from the Trinity College School during the latter part of June and keep him here for the rest of the summer months.

Parkdale Club wants to play here on May 24th.

The T. C. S. have asked for home and home games for both their first and second elevens.

Mr. Perry Goldsmith writes from Belleville asking for a date for a Bay of Quinte district team to play the local club.

Toronto and Hamilton clubs are both anxious to play in Peterborough during the summer.

The Cricket Club Minstrels practice tonight.

THE WHEEL.

A citizen has received a letter from a friend in Ottawa in which he tells of the way the Ottawa wheelmen advertised themselves when after the meet. The Rossin House, he states, was decorated with banners, flags and streamers, and every delegate was offered free drinks and cigars to influence his vote. Mr. Genslinger, of the Hotel Cecil, was there to represent the Ottawa hotels and advertised his own by distributing cards, sticking up labels and giving away matchboxes which must have cost, the correspondent states, five cents a gross. Genslinger was covered with ribbons and rosettes from head to waist. He had a double team hitched to a decorated hack waiting to drive him around the city when the result of the vote was announced, but the cab wasn't needed. The Peterborough boys, the Ottawa man thinks, did their work quietly and did it well.

BASEBALL.

The first baseball game of the season took place this morning on the Auburn diamond, between the Carders and Spinners (night operators) of the Auburn Woollen Mills. For a long time there has been considerable rivalry between the two teams as to which were the best players, and it was decided this morning by the Carders winning by 1 run, the score standing 8—7. There is the making of a first-class nine between the two teams, which could keep up the reputation of the town against all comers. There will be a return match next Saturday. The standing of the team is as follows:

Carders.		Spinners.
W Parnell	p	Flaherty
J Dale	c	Welsh
J Doris	1st b	F Flaherty
McWherry	2nd b	McKnight
Menzies	3rd b	Gonyeau
W Long	r f	D Arsenault
J Roach	l f	Green
	s s	McCaul.ffe

Umpire—F Long.

LACROSSE.

Peterborough will undoubtedly have the strongest team on the field this year that has represented the town in years, and the officers are much enthused over the prospects. With such men as Dobbin, Lynch, Boland, Brown, Glover and Mein on the defence it would keep any team hustling to score against them. For the home field there is Boland, King, Hollingshead, the two McCabes, Lipsett, Rubidge, Phelan, Rickey, Thompson, and half a dozen other fast ones to pick from. The Juniors will also put a remarkably fast team on the field and will be given more attention than ever before.

Practice begins on Monday, April 20th, and by that time the evenings will be long enough to enable the boys to put in a couple of hours work easily. The members are urged to have everything in readiness by that time.

WOMAN'S WAY.

GERT'S GOSSIP OF TIMELY TOPICS

Thank goodness, the fine weather and taking time by the forelock, I have got over the house cleaning agony. My husband's temporary loss of reason over the matter is restored, and I can now give some attention to other matters.

I feel like shaking some of our town councillors. After I had got house cleaning done and everything settled, and the house as clean as a pin from cellar to attic, I could have cried to see the dust from the unwatered streets come sifting in through every crevany. It's disgusting, and I think the councillors should be ashamed of themselves. If they are going to water the streets they should do it from the beginning—the sprinkling being done by contract it won't cost any more to do it from the first time it is needed. Hundreds of housewives are broken-hearted over the state of their houses from dust, and merchants tell me the dust has lessened the value of goods by hundreds of dollars. And all because a tire or something was punctured on a watering cart. Just like the men. Always behind hand.

Speaking of tires reminds me that I have a new biking costume. I asked my husband if it wasn't perfectly lovely. The wretch sarcastically agreed with me, and with his weakness for poor puns, said the public would take a great deal of stockin' it, for there was a good deal displayed. When I was in New York last fall, during my visit to the noted parks of the city and vicinity, where fashion holds its open air levees, I saw many beautiful, but beautifully brief bicycle skirts. I could not but admire the chic and charming effect of these wheel outfits, with the jaunty hats, fine figures and shapely pedal propellers of the fair riders. The exceeding shortness of the skirts, while a great convenience to the wearer, made rather too lavish a display of well upholstered hose repellant to Canadian ideas of modesty. These were, of course, extreme cases. A well turned ankle, however, is, after all, not so repellant to one's ideas of seemliness and neatness as the long flopping skirts that dangle about the pedals of the wheels of some Peterborough lady cyclists—the very height of unsightly, slovenly awkwardness. I would advise the Peterborough girls to use the divided skirt—that is divided between the extremes of the shockingly short New York skirts and the slattern long skirts worn by some women of this town.

I can see, with even a woman's eye, that the bicycle is destined to make such a place for itself in the world, not only as a luxury and a source of pleasure, but as a positive necessity to hundreds of thousands that it will be impossible to get along without them. And after all the modern bicycle is a small affair. Here is a machine containing—so they say—over a thousand parts, as delicate almost as the parts of a watch; a machine that outruns the horse and vies with the locomotive; one that will carry a woman all day long although weighing no more than a baby; one that ranks with the steam engine and is all art revolutionising the world. Why, if I had to take my choice I would rather do without my piano than my "E. & D." wheel. And my husband says the same thing—for he rides an "E & D." too. Just think of the continued out-door pleasure, recreation and health-giving returns possible in our two wheels such weather as this. This is my first season for an "E. & D." wheel, but I give it the preference over any other I have ridden in the past seasons, or of any I have seen this year. Speaking for my own sex, I know no wheel equal to the "E. & D." for a woman, and I have ridden a good many and a good deal these last six years. You never feel obliged to apologise for the "E.& D." and I've gone overall kinds of roads with it and in every kind of company with other wheels. There is a happy blending of strength, lightness and beauty in this wheel, and the growing demand among lady riders for a particularly light mount has been supplied by the "E.& D." Is is a wheel that bids the rider have no fear of rough and heavy riding on country roads. It laughs at mud. No grinding. No snapping. No breaking. No trouble. It ought to be a satisfaction to Messrs. Fairweather & Co, the local agents, to indulge in the flattering thought that they have the wheel that ladies are taking chief interest in, this year. Yankee ingenuity, famous in all other lines, has nothing to beat it, so far as I have seen. The endeavours made to introduce American wheels has been fully met by our alert Canadian manufacturers, whose creditable work is well represented in the E. & D.

The average bicycle buyer is well posted, and I can say with perfect freedom that the bicycle represented in Fairweather & Co's display are meritorious wheels, and I am pleased to say that nearly all those I saw were Canadian manufacture. We are all looking for the best that can be had, consistent with moderate prices. The unitiated soon find out for themselves. No one ever heard of such a guarantee as is offered with the "E. & D." wheel. No less than three years, and not only must the bearings not give out in that time, but they must not show signs of wear. This appears to me to be the acme of perfection, and as a Canadian I am proud of such a product of this country. $35 buys it.

No oil can is sent out with the equipment of the "E. & D." and when I asked why I was told that it was guaranteed to run the year without being oiled or cleaned, no matter how many miles it is ridden. Some agents contend that the four point bearings does not run as easy as a two or three point-bearing, but this has been proved over and over again by the "E & D." The bearings are guaranteed against wear for three years, and they never require to be adjusted or interfered with. The 1896 ladies models have the most perfect gear-case made. It forms a great safety in preventing the skirts being caught or dragged by the chain or gearing, and the low mount and ample space between the handle and seat post, enables the skirts to be securely and comfortably placed.

It also keeps dust from the sprocket and chain, fits closely and is elegant in appearance and finish, being made of aluminum, with celluloid front.

Where it is found impossible to purchase an ideal wheel, like the "E. & D.," Messrs. Fairweather & Co. have other grades of wheels to sell at $50, $40, and even as low $30. For some people buying a bicycle is like buying a hat or a suit of clothes—they must made a compromise between a cheap article, which they would not have at any price, and one enjoying the distinction of not being exactly a rival of the "E &D," but which is quite likely to last as long. The "Gendron" and "Reliance" have proved themselves good wheels; and the patronage of riders whose purse prevents a greater expenditure for a wheel than $50 will have no difficulty in procuring a good faithful mount. In proof of very large sales this season, Mr. Fairweather affirmed that his firm have already sold more bicycles than they did during the whole of last season.

Apropos of the subject of skirts for cycling women, is the summer blouse and shirt waist. If skirts must be reformed to permit of the least possible obstacle in pedalling, so must our corsets and shirt waists be constructed, so as to afford the least possible obstruction to the play of the lungs. In the case of the corset it should be properly supported and reinforced where strength is required, but at the same time it must not be too long nor too rigid. A short and flexible corset for summer wear is the common sense requisite. In the construction of the blouse waist, lightness and loose-fitting are qualities that should be aimed at, and no more material used than necessary in the body or sleeves. Shirt waists have one great advantage over all others in that they can be laundried easily and satisfactorily.

If there is any doubt about the continued popularity of these goods, the very creditable display at C. G. Gemmell's blouse opening this week dispels it. A glance at the styles and designs shown at this successful opening, certainly indicates not only the continued popularity of the shirt waist, but the increased attention paid to new materials for blouse making. Ladies' waists in wash materials were shown in countless combinations of colours. No painter ever blended on canvas more dainty and harmonious combinations of colours than have the weaver and dyer of these wash materials. The fabrics shown are American fancy prints, percales, muslins and zephyr ginghams. The newest styles have a pleated front with double pointed yoke, or full blouse front and pleated back and yoke, medium sleeves, detachable white linen collars and cuffs. The collars are both of the plain stock pattern, or partly turned down, and the cuffs are straight, pointed, or arched. The buttons and links are very pretty and effective in various new designs. The waist has some fullness at the shoulders, but the fullness is drawn in at the belt, only blousing just a little directly in front. There is no special material that are made in this fashion, but the ginghams, percales and lighter weights are the smartest. I was gratified to learn from Mr. Gemmell, jr., the pushing business manager, that all the blouses on exhibition were the output of their own factory. That was the secret of the very moderate price tickets I saw on the blouses. This is their first season in the blouse trade, and yet, Mr. Gemmell states, so successful has been the new venture that the orders sent in by their travellers are largely in excess of his ability to fill.

I was invited to take a look through the cutting department, where the designing and cutting is done, and was surprised at the piles of material being made ready for the sewing machines. From 40 to 60 thicknesses of fabric is cut at a time, so that it does not take long to use up a long web of stuff. Upstairs in the operating room, rows of girls were seated directing the work into the machines, which are run by electricity. What a comfort I thought it was for those girls instead of having to tread all day long with their own strength, day in and day out. The Singer Company's high speed machines are what are used, which run at the rate of 1,400 stitches a minute. Some lightning machines were running 2,800 stitches per minute, so you can imagine how much work one of those would get through in a day. But the most interesting machine was the button-hole maker that worked its button-hole of any desired length in 10 seconds. Everything is automatic about this machine. It starts and stops itself when the hole is sewed and cut, and makes 5,000 button-holes a day easy. No wonder then that this firm can afford to sell blouses much cheaper than regular.

The very large show of corsets of this firm's own manufacture was another display of much interest to women. The Peterborough Corset Factory has made rapid strides since they occupied their present commodious premises on Charlotte street. The firm has shown great enterprise in meeting the wants of ladies, adopting many improvements in method, material and machinery that experience has shown desirable. The corset industry affords an interesting study, and my visit to the workrooms, where so many new machines, run by electricity and in charge of expert machinists, was well worth the time spent. The introduction of short and medium lengths in corsets is a sensible reform. These shorter corsets possess admirable features to the wearer. Too much credit cannot be given to our domestic manufacturers of corsets. They are as perfect in detail as the imported corset regarding shape and finish. When women become educated to wearing these shapely makes, they will appreciate the value of have such a local industry in our midst. Some of the dry goods stores get in a bad habit of stocking up with any low grade corset that has an "N. G." or some other useless name or trade mark. When they can't be sold, they are sacrificed at a low price, and at a sacrifice to the wearer's comfort. A regular customer calls for the corset she is accustomed to wear. And if the store is out of it, she may purchase an "N. G." make. What is the result? Ten chances to one, it is no more fit for her body than a plaster-of-paris jacket. At Gemmell's there can be no such risk.

"Young lady," said a man of taste,
"You have a shapely, perfect waist,"
"Perhaps because," the maiden says,
"My waist is shaped with Gemmell's stays"

The display of whitewear and separate dress skirts was another leading feature at this opening. The muslin whitewear attracted special attention. Time was when women bought muslin and paper patterns, and after days of toil, evolved a night robe. These new days, night robes and other lingerie are cut and fitted, and sold at prices that barely cover material and thread—no home production compares in style, fit and "tout ensemble."

The separate dress skirt is a new departure here. They are gored, and measure from three and half to four and a half yards in width. The material is black lustre, brilliants, and brocaded silks, velvet bound.

The show rooms were specially decorated during the opening days with flowers and plants, and musical chimes were heard in the distance. Judging from the attendance of ladies, more interest is manifested in these displays than ever before, and the advance guard of buyers was strongly in evidence.

SAVE THE MOTHERS

Dodd's Kidney Pills Their Only Safety in Female Diseases.

You have seen a flower nipped by frost, fade and die in the flush of its beauty. That is how women die when attacked by any of the diseases peculiar to their sex.

Woman's burdens are woefully heavy. Her sufferings are agonizing. Her patience is grand. Disease preys upon her. The light dies out of her eyes, her steps become slow and dragging; she loses flesh; grows sallow, listless, droops like a flower. Then she dies. Her family is left to the cold mercy of the world.

"Mother's dead!" What a piteous phrase. What sufferings have been endured before it was used. Why should mothers, wives, sisters suffer so? They need not. Dodd's Kidney Pills will quickly and thoroughly cure all cases of Female Weakness. They never fail. They give health, strength, courage: a new lease of life.

Upwards of fifty members of Parliament, who have suffered from catarrh, have used this medicine with success. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

Killed on the Track.

Toronto, April 14.—Arthur Morris, 196 Macauley street, Hamilton, came to Toronto with a companion named Michael Driscoll yesterday, and shortly after 1 o'clock in the afternoon was struck by a train going at a rate of a mile a minute. His body, horribly mutilated, now lies in the Morgue, and Coroner Johnson will hold an inquest.

The fatality occurred at the foot of Dunn avenue, where the train passes daily like a flash of lightning. Deceased was 23 years of age, and was a sailor. He left Hamilton on Tuesday night.

ONTARIO'S CROPS.

Farmers Preferring Peas and Tobacco to Corn—The San Jose Scale.

Toronto, April 15.—Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, received yesterday a letter from Essex County in which it was stated that the farmers in that district had become convinced of the advantage of growing peas and tobacco, rather than corn, which heretofore has been the staple crop. As a result the corn areas will this year be much decreased to give place to peas and tobacco.

The men employed to inspect the orchards in the districts infected by the San Jose scale, and destroy all trees that have been attacked, have about completed their work, and Mr. James stated that he expected the pest would be stamped out in a couple of weeks.

FOUR NEW MEMBERS

British Columbia Legislature by Redistribution Bill Will Have.

Victoria, B.C., April 15.—The Redistribution bill will, it is expected, be presented to the Legislature to-day, the number of members to be increased by four to a total of 37. One additional member is proposed to be given to Vancouver, West Kootenay, East Kootenay and Cassiar. Some territory at present included in West Kootenay and Yale will be put into East Kootenay. The other constituencies and their representatives will, it is understood, remain practically as at present.

Seems as if consumption always picks out the brightest and best. Fully one-sixth of all the deaths that occur in the world are caused by consumption. Many things were once considered impossible. It would be strange if medical science did not make some progress. The telegraph and telephone, the phonograph, the electric light, all were once impossible, and once it was impossible to cure consumption. That was before the time of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Taken according to directions, this standard remedy will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. Consumption is caused and fostered by impurity in the blood. It is cured by purity and richness in the blood—surely, certainly cured by the "Medical Discovery." It builds up solid healthy flesh and vigorous strength.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a 1008 page medical work, profusely illustrated, will be sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover all postage ONLY. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y.

RESTOCKING THE PIGGERY.

Interview With the Manager of the Ontario Institution at the Humber.

Toronto, April 16.—The piggery at the Humber is taking on a sign of life. The interior and the exterior, pig pens, joists, outside pens and every square inch except the outside of the roof, has received a beautiful coat of whitewash, and Mr. Isaiah Warner has decided to reopen the academy with fresh pupils, having killed the old ones. For this purpose he has been traveling through the country purchasing stock from the farmers.

Asked if he had any new ideas as to the conduct of the place, Mr. Warner replied: "Not particularly; the idea is to have stock going out every week and some coming in every week to the Government institutions which are supplied and the market generally. We can produce 250 pounds of pork per day, and there is no reason why we should not, as a hog weighing from 60 to 90 pounds will gain one pound a day if good stock is procured, and I am looking after that, and taking precaution to see that the animal is perfectly healthy.

"I claim that we can produce the best stock obtainable, for we feed the leavings of the tables of the institutions clean and sweet every day."

"The best meat does not come from the fattest hog."

"No, it does not. We don't want fat hogs; 180 pounds is our limit and we are paying the highest market for it."

None of the hogs will come in by train, but will be delivered by the farmers themselves, though Mr. Warner could not say with what stock he would start.

Three Alleged Thieves.

Barrie, Ont., April 16. — Detective Beardsley and Constable McBride yesterday arrested Edward and George Roland and Joe Livingstone, who are charged with stealing a quantity of grain from John Ross of Innisfil on Wednesday night. The men came from near Holland Landing. Edward Roland has been wanted for some time by the constabulary of that district, who were unable to capture him. When arrested he carried a loaded revolver. All the grain was found in a shack occupied by them at Allendale. Edward Roland pleaded guilty. The prisoners were remanded to allow their records to be looked up.

MR. HOUSE A WINNER.

In a Long and Stubborn Struggle at Berlin, Ontario.

Berlin, April 4th—(Special).—The recent elections and the return of the popular candidate created less interest in Berlin, than did the news that our respected fellow citizen, Mr. Andrew House, had won the contest in which he had been engaged.

For over a year Mr. House has waged a fierce conflict with kidney disease. The pain he endured was unspeakably severe, and he could get absolutely no relief till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. Now he is completely cured—of course.

Mr. House says: "I am sincere in saying Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me, and I am truly and sincerely thankful for my cure.

THREE DIED OF FIRE.

Terrible Results of Small Fires in Toronto.

AN HEROIC ATTEMPT AT RESCUE

It Was Unsuccessful, However, and the Rescuer Shared the Fate of the Child He Would Fain Have Saved—A Man and Two Children Fatally Burned.

Toronto, April 15.—Shortly before noon yesterday a japanning mixture, containing turpentine, naptha and benzine, used by Fred. Dawson, aged 22, an employe of Henry Le Page, washing machine manufacturer, at 25 Cunningham street, exploded.

Dawson, who was working in the second floor of the shed, threw the burning mixture downstairs, and, grasping Herbert Le Page, his employer's seven-year-old son, who was playing around the shop, attempted to dash through the flames to escape from the burning building.

A second explosion of the material covered them both with flames.

The boy was almost burned to a crisp, while Dawson was dangerously, if not fatally, injured. He was taken to the Western Hospital.

Dawson died at 7.45 o'clock.

The fire destroyed $2,000 worth of stock and did $350 damage to the building.

Another Child Burned.

In the afternoon the four-year-old son of David Allen, of 211 Wellington avenue, was playing around the yard, when his clothes caught fire from a heap of rubbish which the family were burning. Mrs. Allen heard the child's screams, and rushed to him, rolled him over on the ground, and put out the blaze.

The little fellow was badly burned, and was attended by Drs. Sheppard and McMahon, then taken to the Children's Hospital. The child died at 11 o'clock last night.

MOORE WENT CRANKY.

Sometimes He Was Very Wealthy, at Other Times a Prize Fighter.

Sutton, Ont., April 15.—Magistrate Trealor yesterday committed R. Moore of this place as a lunatic. Moore had been acting very strangely for some time, and for a week past has been a terror to the neighborhood. He imagines at one time that he is immensely wealthy and buys every horse he sees. Another delusion of his is that he is a prize fighter and matched to meet Fitzsimmons at an early date, and he is anxious to prove his boxing powers on people he meets.

German Consul at Halifax Looking for a Safe Harbor in Case of War.

Halifax, N.S., April 15.—In view of possible contingencies the German consul here has been enquiring as to the accommodation available at Halifax in regard to suitable docks in the event of German passenger lines making this, instead of American ports, their arrival port. He obtained all the desired information.

Sugar, Butter and Tobacco Taken Away.

Kingston, April 15.—It is evidently intended to make the Kingston Penitentiary a place of punishment with all the meaning of the word.

After having deprived the convicts of their tobacco supply, the order has gone forth that they be further deprived of sugar for their tea and butter for their bread.

The convicts find this dry fare, but what they get of it is wholesome and substantial.

PERMANENT CURE OF CANCER.

Burdock Blood Bitters Cured Mrs. Gilhula, Wife of the Posmaster at Buxton, Ont., 12 Years ago, and She has Never been Troubled Since.

MRS. ELIZABETH GILHULA.

Some twelve years ago Mrs. Elizabeth Gilhula, wife of the well-known postmaster of Buxton, Ont., was taken ill with an obscure stomach trouble that baffled for a time the skill of the leading local physicians. At last, after a careful examination, they pronounced it cancer of the stomach and informed Mrs. Gilhula that in the nature of things her lease of life would be short, as they knew of no remedy that could possibly cure her.

On the advice of friends she commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters. The results that followed were little short of the marvellous. Every day she improved in health, her strength and vigor returned and in a short time she was completely cured. Best of all, though, Mrs. Gilhula is to-day in the full enjoyment of good health and in all these long years there has not been the slightest return of the trouble, which goes to prove how complete and permanent is the cure B.B.B. always makes.

Here is the letter Mrs. Gilhula wrote at the time of her cure:

"I wish to bear testimony to the good which I have received from the use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

"About four years ago I was taken sick with stomach trouble and consulted several of the leading physicians here, all of whom pronounced the disease to be cancer of the stomach of an incurable nature, and told me that it was hardly to be expected that I could live long. Afterward the two doctors who were attending me gave me up to die.

"Through reading your advertisement and by the advice of some of my friends who knew of the virtues of Burdock Blood Bitters. I was induced to try it, and I am now happy to say that after using part of the first bottle I felt so much better I was able to get up out of my bed, which I had not been out of for a long time. I am thankful to state that I am completely cured of the disease by the use of B.B.B., although it had baffled the doctors for a long time. I am firmly convinced that Burdock Blood Bitters saved my life."

"Yours truly,
"ELIZABETH GILHULA,
"Buxton, Ont."

Here is the letter received from her a short time ago, dated March 27th, 1898:

"I am still in good health. I thank Burdock Blood Bitters for saving my life twelve years ago, and highly recommend it to other sufferers from stomach troubles of any kind.

"Yours truly,
"ELIZABETH GILHULA."

Could anything be more conclusive as to the curative powers of B B B? It means that when B.B.B. cures you you're cured to stay cured.

The secret of its wonderful success lies in the fact that it goes to the very source and origin of disease and clears it out of the system root and branch so that not a trace remains to again cause trouble.

For all diseases arising from impure blood there is no remedy equal to B.B.B. It positively cures Eczema, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Shingles, Boils, Pimples, and all skin eruptions and diseases.

In severe and malignant diseases, such as cancers and cancerous growths, tumors, scrofulous sores, large ulcers, even if to the bone, B.B.B. applied externally and taken internally according to directions never fails to effect a cure.

For all forms of stomach trouble, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Kidney Disease, Rheumatism, there is nothing works so well as B.B.B.

In short B.B.B. makes the blood pure, rich and red, the skin clear and smooth, improves the appetite, cleanses, invigorates and vitalizes the entire system and infuses new life, strength and energy into weak, worn, run-down, shattered constitutions.

Farmers Preferring Peas and Tobacco to Corn—The San Jose Scale.

Toronto, April 15.—Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, received yesterday a letter from Essex County in which it was stated that the farmers in that district had become convinced of the advantage of growing peas and tobacco, rather than corn, which heretofore has been the staple crop. As a result the corn areas will this year be much decreased to give place to peas and tobacco.

The men employed to inspect the orchards in the districts infested by the San Jose scale, and destroy all trees that have been attacked, have about completed their work, and Mr. James stated that he expected the pest would be stamped out in a couple of weeks.

FOUR NEW MEMBERS

British Columbia Legislature by Redistribution Bill Will Have.

Victoria, B.C., April 15.—The Redistribution bill will, it is expected, be presented to the Legislature to-day, the number of members to be increased by four to a total of 37. One additional member is proposed to be given to Vancouver, West Kootenay, East Kootenay and Cassiar. Some territory at present included in West Kootenay and Yale will be put into East Kootenay. The other constituencies and their representatives will, it is understood, remain practically as at present.

Seems as if consumption always picks out the brightest and best. Fully one-sixth of all the deaths that occur in the world are caused by consumption. Many things were once considered impossible. It would be strange if medical science did not make some progress. The telegraph and telephone, the phonograph, the electric light, all were once impossible, and once it was impossible to cure consumption. That was before the time of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Taken according to directions, this standard remedy will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. Consumption is caused and fostered by impurity in the blood. It is cured by purity and richness in the blood—surely, certainly cured by the "Medical Discovery." It builds up solid healthy flesh and vigourous strength.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a 1008 page medical work, profusely illustrated, will be sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover all postage ONLY. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y.

RESTOCKING THE PIGGERY.

Interview With the Manager of the Ontario Institution at the Humber.

Toronto, April 16.—The piggery at the Humber is taking on a sign of life. The interior and the exterior, pig pens, joists, outside pens and every square inch except the outside of the roof, has received a beautiful coat of whitewash, and Mr. Isaiah Warner has decided to reopen the academy with fresh pupils, having killed the old ones. For this purpose he has been traveling through the country purchasing stock from the farmers.

Asked if he had any new ideas as to the conduct of the place, Mr. Warner replied: "Not particularly; the idea is to have stock going out every week and some coming in every week to the Government institutions which are supplied and the market generally. We can produce 250 pounds of pork per day, and there is no reason why we should not, as a hog weighing from 60 to 90 pounds will gain one pound a day if good stock is procured, and I am looking after that, and taking precaution to see that the animal is perfectly healthy.

"I claim that we can produce the best stock obtainable, for we feed the leavings of the tables of the institutions clean and sweet every day."

"The best meat does not come from the fattest hog."

"No, it does not. We don't want fat hogs; 180 pounds is our limit and we are paying the highest market for it."

None of the hogs will come in by train, but will be delivered by the farmers themselves, though Mr. Warner could not say with what stock he would start.

Three Alleged Thieves.

Barrie, Ont., April 16. — Detective Beardsley and Constable McBride yesterday arrested Edward and George Roland and Joe Livingstone, who are charged with stealing a quantity of grain from John Ross of Innisfil on Wednesday night. The men came from near Holland Landing. Edward Roland has been wanted for some time by the constabulary of that district, who were unable to capture him. When arrested he carried a loaded revolver. All the grain was found in a shack occupied by them at Allendale. Edward Roland pleaded guilty. The prisoners were remanded to allow their records to be looked up.

MR. HOUSE A WINNER.

In a Long and Stubborn Struggle at Berlin, Ontario.

Berlin, April 4th—(Special).—The recent elections and the return of the popular candidate created less interest in Berlin, than did the news that our respected fellow citizen, Mr. Andrew House, had won the contest in which he had been engaged.

For over a year Mr. House has waged a fierce conflict with kidney disease. The pain he endured was unspeakably severe, and he could get absolutely no relief till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. Now he is completely cured—of course.

Mr. House says: "I am sincere in saying Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me, and I am truly and sincerely thankful for my cure.

THREE DIED OF FIRE.

Terrible Results of Small Fires in Toronto.

AN HEROIC ATTEMPT AT RESCUE

It Was Unsuccessful, However, and the Rescuer Shared the Fate of the Child He Would Fain Have Saved—A Man and Two Children Fatally Burned.

Toronto, April 15.—Shortly before noon yesterday a japanning mixture, containing turpentine, naptha and bensine, used by Fred. Dawson, aged 32, an employe of Henry Le Page, washing machine manufacturer, at 25 Cunningham street, exploded.

Dawson, who was working in the second floor of the shed, threw the burning mixture downstairs, and, grasping Herbert Le Page, his employer's seven-year-old son, who was playing around the shop, attempted to dash through the flames to escape from the burning building.

A second explosion of the material covered them both with flames.

The boy was almost burned to a crisp, while Dawson was dangerously, if not fatally, injured. He was taken to the Western Hospital.

Dawson died at 7.45 o'clock.

The fire destroyed $3,000 worth of stock and did $850 damage to the building.

Another Child Burned.

In the afternoon the four-year-old son of David Allen, of 711 Wellington avenue, was playing around the yard, when his clothes caught fire from a heap of rubbish which the family were burning. Mrs. Allen heard the child's screams, and rushed to him, rolled him over on the ground, and put out the blaze.

The little fellow was badly burned, and was attended by Drs. Sheppard and McMahon, then taken to the Children's Hospital. The child died at 11 o'clock last night.

MOORE WENT CRANKY.

Sometimes He Was Very Wealthy, at Other Times a Prize Fighter.

Sutton, Ont., April 15.—Magistrate Trealor yesterday committed R. Moore of this place as a lunatic. Moore had been acting very strangely for some time, and for a week past has been a terror to the neighborhood. He imagines at one time that he is immensely wealthy and buys every horse he sees. Another delusion of his is that he is a prize fighter and matched to meet Fitzsimmons at an early date, and he is anxious to prove his boxing powers on people he meets.

SEEKING A SAFE PORT.

German Consul at Halifax Looking for a Safe Harbor in Case of War.

Halifax, N.S., April 15.—In view of possible contingencies the German consul here has been enquiring as to the accommodation available at Halifax in regard to suitable docks in the event of German passenger lines making this, instead of American ports, their arrival port. He obtained all the desired information.

Sugar, Butter and Tobacco Taken Away.

Kingston, April 15.—It is evidently intended to make the Kingston Penitentiary a place of punishment with all the meaning of the word.

After having deprived the convicts of their tobacco supply, the order has gone forth that they be further deprived of sugar for their tea and butter for their bread.

The convicts find this dry fare, but what they get of it is wholesome and substantial.

PERMANENT CURE OF CANCER.

Burdock Blood Bitters Cured Mrs. Gilhula, Wife of the Posmaster at Buxton, Ont., 12 Years ago, and She has Never been Troubled Since.

MRS. ELIZABETH GILHULA.

Some twelve years ago Mrs. Elizabeth Gilhula, wife of the well-known postmaster of Buxton, Ont., was taken ill with an obscure stomach trouble that baffled for a time the skill of the leading local physicians. At last, after a careful examination, they pronounced it cancer of the stomach and informed Mrs. Gilhula that in the nature of things her lease of life would be short, as they knew of no remedy that could possibly cure her.

On the advice of friends she commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters. The results that followed were little short of the marvellous. Every day she improved in health, her strength and vigor returned and in a short time she was completely cured. Best of all, though, Mrs. Gilhula is to-day in the full enjoyment of good health and in all these long years there has not been the slightest return of the trouble, which goes to prove how complete and permanent is the cure B.B.B. always makes.

Here is the letter Mrs. Gilhula wrote at the time of her cure:

"I wish to bear testimony to the good which I have received from the use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

"About four years ago I was taken sick with stomach trouble and consulted several of the leading physicians here, all of whom pronounced the disease to be cancer of the stomach of an incurable nature, and told me that it was hardly to be expected that I could live long. Afterward the two doctors who were attending me gave me up to die.

"Through reading your advertisement and by the advice of some of my friends who knew of the virtues of Burdock Blood Bitters. I was induced to try it, and I am now happy to say that after using part of the first bottle I felt so much better I was able to get up out of my bed, which I had not been out of for a long time. I am thankful to state that I am completely cured of the disease by the use of B.B.B., although it had baffled the doctors for a long time. I am firmly convinced that Burdock Blood Bitters saved my life."

"Yours truly,
"ELIZABETH GILHULA,
"Buxton, Ont."

Here is the letter received from her a short time ago, dated March 27th, 1898:

"I am still in good health. I thank Burdock Blood Bitters for saving my life twelve years ago, and highly recommend it to other sufferers from stomach troubles of any kind.

"Yours truly,
"ELIZABETH GILHULA."

Could anything be more conclusive as to the curative powers of B B B? It means that when B.B.B. cures you you're cured to stay cured.

The secret of its wonderful success lies in the fact that it goes to the very source and origin of disease and clears it out of the system root and branch, so that not a trace remains to again cause trouble.

For all diseases arising from impure blood there is no remedy equal to B.B.B. It positively cures Eczema, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Shingles, Boils, Pimples, and all skin eruptions and diseases.

In severe and malignant diseases, such as cancers and cancerous growths, tumors, scrofulous sores, large ulcers, even if to the bone, B.B.B. applied externally and taken internally according to directions never fails to effect a cure.

For all forms of stomach trouble, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Kidney Disease, Rheumatism, there is nothing works so well as B.B.B.

In short B B.B. makes the blood pure, rich and red, the skin clear and smooth, improves the appetite, cleanses, invigorates and vitalizes the entire system and infuses new life, strength and energy into weak, worn, run-down, shattered constitutions.

Girls who have to stand on their feet most of the time work as hard as any day-laborer yet they do not get what is rightly called exercise. Close, confining, indoor occupation gives no exhilaration to the nervous system nor active circulation to the blood. It wears, tears and drags a woman's life away. The whole physical system grows sluggish and torpid under it.

No wonder so many sales girls and factory girls and housewives suffer from indigestion and constipation and bilious troubles. No wonder they are subject to the diseases of the delicate special organism of their sex. The wonder is rather that they can stand it as well as they do.

But "a poor weak woman," as she is termed, will endure bravely and patiently agonies which a strong man would give way under. The fact is women are more patient than they ought to be under such troubles.

Every woman ought to know that she may obtain the most eminent medical advice free of charge and in absolute confidence and privacy by writing to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. Occupying this position for thirty years he has had a wider practical experience in the treatment of women's diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-famous for their astonishing efficacy.

The most perfect remedy ever devised for weak and delicate women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. His "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only permanent digestive and nutrient tonic. The two medicines taken alternately, form the most perfect and successful course of treatment ever prescribed for female troubles complicated with a sluggish, overwrought, nervous, diseased constitution. In severe constipation Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be occasionally taken with the others. They never gripe.

WHEN YOUR EYES SMILE TOO.

When your eyes smile too—when your eyes smile too,
It's then I know your hidden heart is laughing out with you.
It's often I have seen your lips go searching up a smile,
And, oh, I somehow knew your heart was grieving all the while,
And the sky was dark and gloomy and the bird songs were so few,
And the sun forgot its shining—till your eyes smiled too!

When your eyes smile too—when your eyes smile too,
Oh, the listen of the willows and the glisten of the dew!
Oh, the brightness of the meadow and the lightness of the grain,
And the music of the little winds that laugh along the lane!
Oh, the whisper of the valley and the deepness of the blue,
And the glory just of living when your eyes smile too!

FIRING ON THE MOB.

The Scene After the Death Dealing Volley Had Done Its Work.

The yelling mass below neared the walls. A whistle pierced the tumult. From the windows jetted swift lines of flame, and a shattering volley tore the air.

A crash, and then stillness on the mob, an intense hush, a swift paralysis; a blue gray smoke cloud floated up the walls and out over the jailyard. Men gasped, then held their breath. From their nests in the eaves startled sparrows flew above the crowd with frightened twitterings.

In the jail corridor sounded the clink, clink of empty shells falling to the floor as nervous fingers fumbled at boxes or shoved fresh cartridges home with a snap snapping of breechblocks, while staring eyes were fixed upon the scene outside.

From below came a new sound, the noise of agony. On the outskirts of the crowd men were running. The mob surged back from the jail walls. In the space left clear lay prostrate forms outstretched or huddled in attitudes of grotesque horror on the stone paved way. One figure half arose, wavered backward and then fell toward the retreating mob with a gasping cry. Men running back from the crowd with apprehensive glances at the windows carried off the limp forms. In the crowd men bore up other men who reeled and staggered to and fro.

The corridor was very still. The guard stood in silence. Here and there one drew a long breath, with a slow heaving of the chest and a lifting of the shoulders. Turning their eyes with an effort from the mob, they glanced at each other as though seeking confirmation for their thoughts, to be assured that all this thing had happened, that the dark forms on the pavement below had been a grim reality. A slight, pale faced private threw his rifle to the floor and turned his face from the window, with a burst of shuddering sobs. Others swore apparently at nothing and busied themselves with their weapons. No one paid any heed to the private who wept except that his next rank man stooped and picked up his rifle. The smell of burned powder hung in the air.—H. H. Bennett in Lippincott's.

BEGGING EASIER THAN WORK

At Least That's Why One Man Sold Out a Street Stand.

I once got a rather curious confession from a professional beggar, which if true, and I believe it was, opened my eyes to the reckless ways in which American beggars are made. "I had been keeping a sidewalk stand for years," said he. "I worked hard and earned from $3 to $4 a week. On that I lived. One night when I started to go home by the Mission street cars I found that my pocket had been picked. It was too far to walk, so I decided to borrow a nickel. The first man to whom I told my story gave me a quarter without hesitation. All the way home I thought it over. A quarter was as much as I made clear at my stand many a day. It all ended by my selling out and going to begging, always telling my first story. I have done pretty well since then and like the business."

One day I met him in Union square. "How's business?" I asked. He was leaning against a tree, deeply intent on some figures in a book. He slipped the book into his pocket and began to whine.

"Never mind your regular story," I said, "I know it. Answer my question like a man, and you may add a dollar to your bank account."

After a little preliminary skirmishing he waxed confidential.

"I make it a rule," he said, "never to walk less than 100 blocks each day. It is a very poor block that doesn't average 2½ cents. Two blocks will more often net me 10 cents." He consulted the book. "Yes, the average of the last six months is $5 a day—that is, just 5 cents a block. I have been on this beat nearly a year now, and I have my regular customers. Excuse me a minute."

He passed through the fog to the other side of the street and touched his hat to an elderly acquaintance of mine who was coming down the broad steps of the Pacific Union club. In a moment he returned with a bright new quarter in his hand.

"I told him my wife was better today," he said, smiling pleasantly, "and that she prayed for him night and day. Well, so long! Your dollar passes the limit today—and business is over."

Can you blame him? Five dollars a day is the wages of a first class mechanic. Why should not begging become a profession when people are such easy game?—Overland Monthly.

A RELIABLE OFFER.

Honest Help Free to Men.

The (Peterborough Examiner) is authorized to state by Mr. D. Graham, Box 139, Hagersville, Ont., that any man who is nervous and debilitated or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from overwork, excesses or abuse, such as nervous debility, exhausted vitality, lost vigor, unnatural drains and losses, lack of development, etc., can write to him in strict confidence and receive free of charge full instructions how to be thoroughly cured.

Mr Graham himself was for a long time a sufferer from above troubles and after trying in vain many advertised remedies, electric belts, etc., became almost entirely discouraged and hopeless. Finally he confided in an old clergyman, whose kind and honest advice enabled him to speedily obtain a perfect and permanent cure. Knowing to his own sorrow, that so many poor sufferers are being imposed upon by unscrupulous quacks, Mr. Graham considers it his duty as an honest man and a firm believer in christian sympathy and kindness, to give his fellow-men the benefit of his experience and assist them to a cure. Having nothing to sell, he asks for no money, the proud satisfaction of having done a great service to one in need, he rightly considers an ample reward for his trouble. If you write to Mr. Graham you can rely upon being cured and upon absolute secrecy as well.

Address as above, enclosing a stamp and refer to the (Peterborough Examiner). No attention however will be given to those writing out of mere curiosity, therefore state that you really need a cure.

THE SWEETEST GIFTS OF LOVE.

What shall I give her—my little girl,
With the soft, dark eyes and the silken net
Of tresses, with many a sun bright curl?
What shall I give her—my love, my pet?
What shall I give her of beauty and bliss
To match the bright curls that she gives me to kiss?

My love! I have given her that. 'Tis old—
Old as her life, though her face is young.
I have given my darling my heart to hold,
With the sweetest songs that my heart has sung!
There is nothing to give her, save only this—
The kiss on the curls that she gives me to kiss!

She is climbing up to my arms. I see
The light of heaven in her lovely eyes.
Over the face and the life of me
Curl on curl in its splendor lies!
Nothing to give her, save only this—
The kiss on the curls that she gives me to kiss!

Doghouses and Dog Kennels.

Doghouse is the name applied to a house made for a dog to live in out of doors; dog kennel to a house or box built for a dog's quarters indoors. The doghouse is likely to be for a big dog; the kennel, in private houses, for a little dog. There are few doghouses used in the city, and in proportion to the number of pet dogs not a great many kennels, but still the number of kennels in the aggregate is considerable.

Doghouses are made with a sloping roof to shed rain. No such necessity exists in the case of the kennel, and kennels are always made with a flat top. Things may be placed on top of them. The kennel is practically an oblong box made of yellow or white pine or of whitewood, and customarily painted white and without ornamentation. The kennel has a grated opening in the top for purposes of ventilation, with a cover to put over to prevent draft. Formerly the doors of such kennels were made of wire cloth; now they are all made with bars of a very small sized gas piping.

The kennel of this kind is so made that it is raised at the corners enough to make the bottom clear the floor, and it is often mounted on casters, so that it can be conveniently moved about from room to room. Such kennels are made by carpenters, and they cost $5 to $10 each, according to the size.—New York Sun.

Coughs and colds need not be endured; they can be cured, and that quickly.

Many mixtures are temporary in effect, but Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites is a permanent remedy.

The oil feeds the blood and warms the body; the hypophosphites tone up the nerves; the glycerine soothes the inflamed throat and lungs.

The combination cures. This may prevent serious lung troubles.

FALLS ARE WEAK.

Niagara is a Pigmy Compared With Dodd's Kidney Pills.

No Kidney Disease is Dangerous if Dodd's Kidney Pills be Used—Mr. J. B. Jones is a Living Proof of This.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 15.—The Falls of Niagara are a stupendous power for the welfare of mankind. But, right in the midst of our quiet populace, another power, a million times greater, has been at work recently. Niagara Falls have destroyed scores of lives. With all their power and grandeur, they have never saved one life. The other power we refer to has saved thousands of lives—it has never destroyed one. This power is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Let one of our most respected citizens tell what Dodd's Kidney Pills did for him. He says: "I have suffered for seven years with Bladder and Kidney Disease, and tried in vain to find a remedy that would cure me, until I providentially heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills. So highly were they recommended to me by a friend who had used them, that I bought three boxes at once. I am happy to say I didn't need to buy any more. Those three boxes cured me.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me of Diabetes also. Therefore, I contend, I have good reason to sing their praises. I shall never cease doing so.—JOHN B. JONES."

Niagara Falls, with the strength of a billion of giants, could not relieve Mr. Jones of one twinge of pain. Dodd's Kidney Pills banished all his pains forever. And, even as they cured Mr. Jones, so will they cure any person who suffers from Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, Lumbago, Bladder and Urinary Diseases, Diseases of Women, and all other Kidney Diseases.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or will be sent, on receipt of price, by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

THE FIREMAN'S LIFE.

The Spectacular Side of It Doubtless Has Strong Attractions.

In The Century there is an article on "Heroes Who Fight Fire" by Jacob A. Riis in the series of "Heroes of Peace." Mr. Riis says:

Doubtless there is something in the spectacular side of it that attracts. It would be strange if there were not. There is everything in a fireman's existence to encourage it. Day and night he leads a kind of hair trigger life that feeds naturally upon excitement, even if only as a relief from the irksome idling in quarters. Try as they may to give him enough to do there, the time hangs heavily upon his hands, keyed up as he is and need be to adventurous deeds at shortest notice. He falls to grumbling and quarreling, and the necessity becomes imperative of holding him to the strictest discipline, under which he chafes impatiently. "They nag like a lot of old women," said Department Chief Bonner to me once, "and the best at a fire are often the worst in the house." In the midst of it all the gong strikes a familiar signal. The horses' hoofs thunder on the planks; with a leap the men go down the shining pole to the main floor, all else forgotten, and with crash and clatter and bang the heavy engine swings into the street and races away on a wild gallop, leaving a trail of fire behind.

Presently the crowd sees rubber coated, helmeted men with pipe and hose go through a window from which such dense smoke pours forth that it seems incredible that a human being could breathe it for a second and live. The hose is dragged squirming over the sill, where shortly a red eyed face with disheveled hair appears, to shout something hoarsely to those below, which they understand. Then, unless some emergency arise, the spectacular part is over. Could the citizen whose heart beat as he watched them enter see them now he would see grimy shapes, very unlike the fine looking men who but just now had roused his admiration, crawling on hands and knees, with their noses close to the floor if the smoke be very dense, ever pointing the "pipe" in the direction where the enemy is expected to appear. The fire is the enemy, but he can fight that, once he reaches it, with something of a chance. The smoke kills without giving him a show to fight back. Long practice toughens him against it, until he learns the trick of "eating the smoke." He can breathe where a candles goes out for want of oxygen. By holding his mouth close to the nozzle he gets what little the stream of water brings with it and sets free, and within a few inches of the floor there is nearly always a current of air. In the last emergency there is the hose that he can follow out. The smoke always is his worst enemy. It lays ambushes for him which he can suspect, but not ward off. He tries to be opening ven- in the roof as soon as the pipemen are in place and ready, but in spite of all precautions he is often surprised by the dreaded back draft.

THE KLIPSPRINGER.

A South African Animal That Resembles the Chamois of Europe.

The klipspringer, or klipbok, as it is often called by the colonists, seems, like the chamois of Europe, to be created for no other purpose than to complete and adorn a mountain landscape. Although smaller than its distant cousin of the snowy Alps, the klipspringer yields neither to it nor to any other mountain dweller in the world in the ease with which it can get about the most difficult and dangerous rocks and precipices. To watch a pair of these little antelopes bounding with the elasticity of a piece of india rubber up and down the precipitous face of some yawning cliff or sheer mountain wall or on to pinnacles and ledges that might startle even a Rocky mountain goat, displaying the while a coolness and lack of fear born of countless generations of a climbing ancestry, is to watch the very perfection of wild life upon the mountains. Certainly in all South Africa there is no more charming or wonderful sight than the klipspringer amid its own wild mountains, kloofs and krantzes.

About 2 feet in height at the shoulder—sometimes a trifle more—the klipspringer is a sturdily built little buck. The ram carries short, sharp, poniardlike horns about 4 inches in length; the ewe is hornless. One great peculiarity of the klipbok lies in its olive brown coat, which is thick and very brittle to the touch. Each hair is hollow, and the whole coat is singularly light and elastic. Among the colonists, and especially the Boers, the hair of the klipspringer is in consequence in great demand for stuffing saddles. The legs are robust, as they need to be, the pasterns singularly stiff and rigid, while the tiny hoofs are hollow, somewhat jagged at the edges and exactly adapted for obtaining foothold on the most difficult mountain sides.—London Spectator.

Rheumatism & Dyspepsia Cured

571 ST. PATRICK STREET,
OTTAWA, July 31st, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Company, Ltd., Ottawa, Ont.

GENTLEMEN,—On the advice of a friend I tried one bottle of your famous rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline, and to my surprise it cured me of rheumatism, from which I have suffered for many years.

It also cured me of dyspepsia, from which I was suffering at the time, so that I feel now like a new man.

I have tried several remedies for rheumatism, some of which did me a certain amount of good, but nothing that I have taken has done so much for me as your Phrenoline, and I have much pleasure in recommending it to other sufferers.

Yours very truly,

CANADA LIFE
Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty-first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,088 05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3,086, for the sum of $6,185,926, of which, however, 206 for $621,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 191 applications for $373,350 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5,201,626, under 2,680 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $708,960.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,469 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,168 45, and Endowment policies for $128,846 92, having matured, these sums, as well as $218,481.29 for profits, $145,411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,263,307.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,963,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1,272,486.05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18,678,915.67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company. I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system; and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, the prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Barrett, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

THE COMING OF OUR LORD CONSIDERED.

THE "SANCTUARY" THEORY PRESENTED AND DISCUSSED.

Fallacious and Superficial Interpretations of Scripture Exposed—Misconceptions Corrected.

(By Washington Morse.)

That the Lord is to reveal himself personally to the inhabitants of this world, the Scriptures plainly declare. That this coming is to be in the clouds attended with divine power and splendour, with inconceivable power and glory, they just as clearly state. But that there are many passages seemingly referring to this subject, which cannot apply to the same event, is evident. From a misapplication of some of them very erroneous views have sprung up, and are misleading the minds of many. There are a number of texts which speak of a coming which is not at the time expected, which takes place suddenly, which comes as a thief, unawares, and is liable to find some of the churches asleep and unprepared. [See Math. 24, 41-44; Mark 13, 35-36.]

FROM THESE PASSAGES

some, for what reason we know not, unless it is to make out that more has been fulfilled than has been set up, claim that the second coming of Christ will be like a thief stealing in upon the world unawares, secret, silent, unobserved and unknown. This gives them an opportunity to set up any view concerning it which they please, even to the assertion that the coming has already taken place; and so we find them teaching that the prophecy of the second advent has been fulfilled and Christ is now here doing his work among men, silently and unperceived. Thus we have in our day a class analagous to those with whom Paul had to contend, who, in his day rose up and claimed that the resurrection was past already and overthrow the faith of some.—II. Tim., 2:18. But as soon as they take this position that Christ comes in a silent, secret manner, they are confronted with another large class of Scriptures which most emphatically assert that the Lord will come openly in the

with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God, in flaming fire, in the glory of the Father with all the holy angels, when every eye shall see Him and all the wicked shall wail because of Him, and the earth and sea shall give up the dead in them, and the greatest and mightiest men of this world shall utter their despairing wail for the rocks and the mountains to fall on them and hide them from the face of Him that sitteth on the throne. See Matt. 24:27:30: 25:25:31; Mark 13:26:27; Luke 21:27; Acts 1:9:11:1; Thess. 4:16:17:2; Thess. 1:7:8:9:8; Rev. 1:7:6:15:16.

And what do they do with this larger and more explicit class of texts? These, marvellous to relate, they claim to be figurative, while the first class is literal and to them this meaning of this latter class must be made to conform. And then they attempt to explain them all along in a manner which would apply to

of the Bible as well, and would transform the whole volume into a mass of nonsense and nothingness. We present one specimen. We are told by Paul in 1 Thess. 4 16, that the "Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the arch angel, and with the trump of God," and these expositors attempt to harmonise that shout with their silent coming of Christ, in the following manner: They say "that the shout" does not mean the utterance of a voice from heaven, but the word "shout" means a message designed not only to alarm and terrify, but to assist and encourage. In this case the shout is a shout or voice of encouragement. Then to find a fulfilment they make the following assertions: "The aspect of affairs in the world for the last fifteen years very strikingly corresponds with this symbol in the outburst of the world-wide encouragement for all men to wake up to a sense of their rights and privileges as men and to consider their the principles on which they are based and the ends which they should accomplish." This then we are to understand is all there is to the "shout, the voice of the archangel and the trump of God," which are to accompany the revelation of the Lord himself from heaven.

If such language as 1 Thess. 4:16:17 can be thus spiritualised away into nothing, the whole Bible can be just as well, and its threatenings and its promises, its histories and its prophecies amount to nothing at all, and are not worth one moment's attention. It is sad that men will thus devote themselves to the baleful work of destroying confidence in the Scriptures, in order to bolster up some phantom of their own imagination.

All the difficulty that exists concerning the texts which speak in the different strains concerning the Lord's coming, arises from a lack of information or understanding pertaining to the subject

OF THE SANCTUARY.

This subject is the great key and the only key to the situation in the last days. This understood, every text falls into line, no violence is done to any Scripture, and there is consistency and harmony throughout.

Let us, then, look at some of the seemingly contradictory texts to ascertain what they teach, and where, consequently, they most apply. It is evident from the list of texts above referred to, such as Matt. 24: 30:31, 1 Thess. 4:16:17, Rev. 1:7, etc., that when the Lord visits this earth the second time, in that event, which is generally known as the second event, second coming or second appearing of Christ, it will be a literal personal coming in the clouds of heaven, visible to all, and attended with such phenomena in the convulsions of nature (Rev. 6:14:16:18:21) as this earth has never experienced. Such a coming as this cannot be in any sense as a thief; it will not be silent or secret, and so far as the event itself is concerned, it will not be unexpected; for such pronunciations will appear as its precursors, as will indicate to all of Christ. Even the wicked, as appears from the closing verses of Rev. 6, are aware from their terrible surroundings that the great day of wrath has come, before Christ actually appears.

This point being settled, the next question that arises is, are there any other events in the experience of Christ and His church which are called a "coming of the son of Man," and "coming of the Lord?" We answer, yes; two events, both of which are brought to view in the subject of the sanctuary, both of which are explained by that subject and that alone, and all the apparent discrepancies cleared away. This will appear if we look at a few features of the sanctuary work which relate to this question, and the Scriptures which apply to them.

The only points that need be noticed for our present purpose are these: 1, Christ, after performing the work of a priest in the first apartment—the holy place—of

during the time allotted for the work in that department (Dan. 8:14) then enters upon that part of his ministry which is the antitype of the atonement made by the ancient Levitical high priest, on the great day of atonement in the type, Leviticus 16. To do this work he enters into the second apartment, or "most holy place" and performs a work of atonement or blotting out of sin. This decides the eternal destiny of all to whom this work pertains; for whosoever is found worthy to have his sins finally atoneded for and blotted out will be saved. This then is the work of judgment, to reach a decision and render sentence in all cases. And this judgment scene is opened by the Ancient of Days taking his position as judge in a court of justice, as the verb "did sit" signifies in Dan. 7:9, where the scene is described. Christ is then brought in before God amid the shining hosts of

HIS HEAVENLY ATTENDANTS.

Here decisions are rendered which involve an examination of the books from which all judgment is determined, (Rev. 20:12) and an atonement is made for all who have overcome. The cases of the living of course come up last into this investigation, and this is called "the reckoning" of the Lord with His servants. Matt. 25:19. This is the moment of supreme importance in the experience of the church. And to both of these movements the entrance of Christ into the inner sanctuary, to make the atonement for his people before His Father and finish his work as priest, and His coming to His people to reckon with them, in the manner indicated above the the terms "coming of the Son of Man," coming of the Bridegroom, and coming of the Lord, are applied; not in the exact form of the foregoing expressions, but expressing exactly the same idea. Proof: Dan. 7:13;14. "I saw in the night visions, and behold one like the Son of man (Christ) came with the clouds of heaven (myriads) of holy angels" for this is not not the atmospheric heavens where literal clouds are, and came to the Ancient of days and they brought him near before him (not to this earth, for God the Ancient of days, is not here) and there was given him dominion and glory and a kingdom.

HERE IS A COMING

that is brought to view, not to this earth, but the Ancient of days after he has taken his position in the judgment scene described in verses 9 and 10. Here, then, is one movement, taking place wholly in heaven, which is called a coming of the Son of man. This is the same coming that is brought to view Matt. 25:10: And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came. Christ is the bridegroom; and at this point in the parable of that chapter, He comes, not to earth, but to the marriage, which is His reception of the kingdom; and He receives His kingdom before He comes: Luke 19:12, He receives it when being brought in before the Ancient of days, as described in Dan. 7:13:14. He concludes His priesthood with the atonement and then arrays Himself in royal attire, is inaugurated king.

2. On the second point, that the decision of our cases in the sanctuary above, is a coming of the Lord to us, Matt. 25:19, Luke 12:36 and Rev. 3:20 may be offered as a proof.

(a) "After a long time the Lord of those servants cometh, and reckoneth with them. Matt. 25:19. All reckoning with the servants of the Lord, to decide in regard to their faithfulness, as in this case, takes takes place before the Lord comes, for without any further reckoning or judging, the righteous living are changed in a moment (1 Cor. 15:51:52) and the righteous dead are raised 1 Thes. 4:16. This reckoning must therefore be the investigation of character and decision of destiny involved in the atonement, as Christ finishes His priesthood before His coming as king to this earth; and this is called a "coming of the Lord" to these servants to reckon with him them.

(b) "And ye yourselves like unto men that wait for the Lord, when he will return from the wedding; that, when he cometh and knocketh, they may open unto him immediately"—Luke 12:36. This cannot apply to the coming of Christ in the clouds of heaven to gather His people to Himself; for he does not then come to knock to see if He can find admittance; for then all cases are decided and he comes to upon his people. The coming and knocking must therefore refer to the same time as the "reckoning" of Matt. 25:19. that is, to the time when our cases come up for decision in the sanctuary; and this, again, is called a "coming" to us.

(c) "If any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come unto him and will sup with him, and he with me."—Rev. 3:20. Here is brought to view a condition of union with Christ which comes from hearing his voice and opening the door to him. It is a condition which cannot be reached till sins are atoned for and blotted out (Acts 3:19); and yet it is something which the church is to enjoy here before the Lord appears in the clouds of heaven; for after that he does not plead and knock for entrance. This must refer to the same time as Matt. 25:19 and Luke 12:36. And this is called "coming in" to the church.

THUS WE FIND

three events to which these phrases concerning the coming of the Lord are applied. 1. His coming to the Ancient of days, when he enters the most holy of the heavenly sanctuary; 2, His "coming to reckon," with His servants, when our cases come up for decision in the conclusion of the sanctuary work; 3, His coming in power and glory with the sound of a trumpet and amid the last convulsions of nature, personally and visibly in the clouds of heaven.

Let us now see to which of these three, if any, that element of suddenness and unexpectedness which some of the texts bring to view pertains.

1. The first coming, that to the Ancient days [Dan. 7:13] and to the marriage [Matt. 25:10] took place at the end of the 2,300 days [Dan. 8:14] in 1844. That coming was marked by a prophetic period, and that period was understood. That could not come, therefore, at any hour when they—the church—thought not. Matt. 24:44.

2. We pass over to the third coming, that in the clouds of heaven, and find, as already noticed, that so many signs and convulsions [Rev. 6:16] will herald it that the event itself, will not be unsuspected, even by the wicked, but—

3. When we look at that second coming, the coming to reckon, we find nothing to indicate the time, when it will be, that is, nothing to show us just when our cases will be reached in the judgment and

COME UP FOR DECISION.

This, then, is liable to come suddenly, unexpectedly, and find us sleeping and unprepared. Matt. 24:44, Mark 13, 35-36.

It is to this that the illustration of the coming of the thief applies. "If the good man of the house had known in what watch the thief would come, he would have watched and would not have suffered his house to be broken up." Matt. 24:43. So if anyone knew at just what time, the very day, his case would come up for examination and his eternal destiny be decided, as the hour approached, dismissing every other consideration, he would give himself to self-examination and prayer, repentance and confession of sin and buy of Christ the gold tried in the fire, that he might be rich, and white raiment—the righteousness of Christ—that he might be clothed, and would annoint his eyes with eye salve that he might see, Rev. 3:18, that he might be "ready" and that this supreme hour of destiny might not find him "sleeping" and

TAKE HIM UNAWARES,

Luke 21:34. But no time, when the Lord will come to reckon with us as His stewards, is made known. We know not when the time is. We only know that we are already many years in the period since judgment in the sanctuary commenced; and when the cases of dead are passed, the work will come then come to the living. So it will some time reach our cases, in how long or short a time we do not know. Hence the danger that we begin to feel that the time is not so near as we supposed, and say: "My Lord delayeth His coming" and let our attention become engrossed in other things, and the work of preparation go neglected, and so before we are aware, at such an hour as we think not, when we look not for Him, and and in an hour that we are not aware of, the Lord comes to us as servants, Matt. 24:50 to reckon with us, and we are not ready. It is to this time that we believe all passages of the nature of Matt. 21:43:44:50; Mark 13:35:36, etc., have their application. With this view it is plain to be seen that there is no conflict between these passages and those who speak of another coming of a different nature in the clouds of heaven. And we are saved from the error of supposing that the second coming of Christ to this world is to be in a secret silent, invisible manner, and are spared the painful necessity of trying to harmonise with this silent stealthy coming, those strong and unequivocal texts which proclaim the majesty and glory, the flaming fire and the mighty thunderings, the voice of the trumpet of His second advent to this earth.

INDEPENDENCE FOR CUBA'S ISLE.

So Says the U. S. Senate in Its Resolution.

GOOD CHANCE FOR MORE DELAY

The House of Representatives May Refuse to Concur, and Thus More Time Will Be Gained to Perfect the Work of Patching Up a Peace--Latest War News.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—The Cuban resolution passed by the Senate Saturday night is made up of the House heading, number and enacting clause; the Senate preamble, resolution, and the Turpie amendment, and a fourth paragraph proposed by Mr. Teller. In full it is as follows:

Joint resolution, for the recognition of the independence of the people and Republic of Cuba, demanding that the Government of Spain relinquish its authority and Government in the Island of Cuba, and to withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters, and directing the President of the United States to use the land and naval forces of the United States to carry these resolutions into effect.

Whereas, the abhorrent conditions which have existed for more than three years in the Island of Cuba, so near our own borders, have shocked the moral sense of the people of the United States, have been a disgrace to Christian civilization, culminating, as they have, in the destruction of a United States battleship, with 266 of its officers and crew, while on a friendly visit in the harbor of Havana, and cannot longer be endured, as has been set forth by the President of the United States in his message to Congress of April 11, 1898, upon which the action of Congress was invited:

Therefore, Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled:

First, That the people of the Island of Cuba are and of right ought to be free and independent and that the Government of the United States hereby recognizes the Republic of Cuba as the true and lawful Government of that Island.

Second. That it is the duty of the United States to demand and the Government of the United States does hereby demand, that the Government of Spain at once relinquish its authority and Government in the Island of Cuba and withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters.

Third. That the President of the United States be and he hereby is directed and empowered to use the entire land and naval forces of the United States and to call into the actual service of the United States the militia of the several states to such extent as may be necessary to carry these resolutions into effect.

Fourth. That the United States hereby disclaims any disposition or intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over said island, except for the pacification thereof: and asserts its determination when that is accomplished to leave the Government and control of the island to its people.

The Test Vote.

The test vote was quite naturally on the amendment offered by Mr. Turpie, recognizing the independence of the Cuban Republic. It prevailed by a majority of 14, the vote being 51 to 37. By political parties, the vote was cast as follows.

Yeas—Republicans 11, Democrats 28, Populists 7, Silver Republicans 5.

Nays—Republicans 32, Democrats 5.

Upon the final vote the alignment of parties was quite different from that on the Turpie amendment. An analysis of it follows:

Yeas—Republicans 24, Democrats 31, Populists 7, Silver Republicans 6. Total 67.

Nays—Republicans 19, Democrats 2. Total 21.

ITS VOICE FOR WAR.

This Is the Real Meaning of the Senate's Resolution as It Speaks for the United States.

Washington, D.C., April 18. — The United States has spoken. Its voice is for war—war until the saffron flag of Spain shall have been furled in the western hemisphere, and furled forever. Its voice, too, is for the independence of Cuba.

"Free Cuba, and the independence of the Island Republic," was the shibboleth of the Senate throughout the four days of debate which ended Saturday night.

While the verdict returned was decisive, it is just to say that it was not final. Notes of discord—almost foreboding in their tone—were sounded. This foreboding was prompted by a fear lest, if the action taken by the Senate should ultimately be accepted as final, this Government might become involved in complications that in future years would prove serious.

At 9.10 Saturday night the Davis resolutions—those reported from the Committee on Foreign Relations, amended so as to include the recognition of the Republic of Cuba—were passed by a vote of 67 to 21, as a substitute for the resolution adopted by the House of Representatives.

All day long the contest waged with an earnestness, energy, ability and eloquence seldom equalled in the Senate of the United States. From 10 o'clock in the morning until the final vote the intensity of the interest did not abate for an instant.

The speeches were characterized by an impassioned force and eloquence rarely heard in or out of the halls of the American Congress.

It was not until the first vote—that on the amendment of Mr. Turpie of Indiana, providing for recognition of the Island Republic, had been taken, that the Senate was brought face to face with the tremendous importance of its action.

THIS GIVES THEM PAUSE.

It Is Anticipated That Before Another Week Passes Congress Will Be Asked to Appropriate Many Millions.

New York, April 18.—The Herald's Washington special says: "Whether war with Spain ensues or not, the Government will have to have additional revenues, is the opinion of Chairman Dingley and other Congressional leaders. War preparations and contracts which have been made will amount to considerably more than the $50,000,000 national defence appropriation recently made, and will lead to many millions of additional expenditure in subsequent years. It is believed that before the end of next week Congress will be called upon to appropriate many millions for actual hostilities.

"The available Treasury balance of about $75,000,000 would melt away rapidly unless quickly replenished. Mr. Dingley purposes to report a war tax bill to Congress as soon as war is actually in progress. Special taxes, which are contemplated, including the doubling of the present beer and tobacco tax, duties upon tea and coffee, and a stamp tax in some form, will be expected to yield revenue at the rate of more than $100,000,000 per year, in addition to the present revenues.

This increase will fall short, however, of meeting the enormous increase in the expenditures of the Government, and borrowing must be resorted to. To this end it is the purpose of the Committee on Ways and Means to authorize the sale of bonds to the amount probably of $500,000,000, and in addition to these the Secretary of the Treasury is to issue as may be needed certificates of indebtedness to the amount of $100,000,000.

"The committee purposes to make it essentially a popular loan. The certificates of indebtedness will probably bear from 2½ to 3 per cent. interest, and will be payable after one year from date of issue. The bonds will probably be redeemable at the pleasure of the Government after five years, and will be due in twenty years. Plans are being discussed for selling the bonds and certificates through all the post-offices, so as to bring them within the reach of the people everywhere."

BEER WILL BE TAXED.

$120,000,000 to Be Raised by a Tax on Beer, Cigars, Cheques, Drafts, Etc.

Washington, D.C., April 18.—The Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee of the House have practically concluded the preparation of a revenue measure which will be passed to raise revenue sufficient to prosecute war. The members propose that the present generation shall bear the burdens of the war, and proceeding upon that theory they have prepared a bill that will raise between $100,000,000 or $125,000,000 additional revenue per year. The bill will provide for an additional tax of $1 per barrel on beer, from which $80,000,000 will be raised. On manufacturd tobacco and snuff the internal revenue tax will be increased from 6 to 12 cents. This is expected to raise $15,000,000 of revenue. The increase on cigars and cigarettes has not been absolutely fixed, but probably will be one dollar on all classes. From this $5,000,000 is expected. The proposition which the Senate placed in the tariff bill, but which was defeated, to tax all stocks and transfers of corporations, is embodied in the measure, together with practically all the schemes of internal revenue taxation of the Act of 1866, which includes a stamp tax on all cheques, drafts and all instruments of business (mortgages, loans and bonds); a tax on patent and proprietary medicines and a tax on telegraph messages and express packages is also incorporated in the bill. This scheme of taxation is estimated to raise $35,000,000. The tax on proprietary and patent medicines will be 2 cents on packages or bottles retailing at 25 cents or under and 4 cents on those retailing above that price.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME.

Beginning of the Difficult Task of Adjusting Legislative Differences.

Washington, April 18.—To-day the difficult task of adjusting the differences between the two Houses of Congress on the Cuban questions begins. The rock upon which the two Houses split is the recognition of the independence of the existing republic, which was incorporated in the Senate resolution. Were that clause of the Senate resolutions eliminated, nothing could have prevented immediate concurrence by the House, as the great majority of the Republicans of the lower branch of Congress are eager for a conclusion, but the action of the Senate declaring for the recognition of Cuba's independence against the direct and specific recommendation of the President has given the conservatives a rallying cry from the standpoint of party loyalty, which proved very effective yesterday.

The chief danger lies in a possible stampede. If 25 Republicans join the Democrats and Populists in voting for concurrence the resolutions will go to the President as passed by the Senate. Should the little band of Republicans who will vote to concur make the result doubtful, it is feared that many others who are held only by considerations of party loyalty will go over in a body. This is what their constituents want them to do. The whole programme for to-day has not been absolutely decided upon. Something will depend upon the situation as it appears when the final reports are made to the Speaker this morning.

A SAFE PORT WANTED.

Steamship Companies Making Inquiries at Halifax for Dock Privileges.

Halifax, N.S., April 18.—Information has been received that the managers of nearly all the great trans-Atlantic lines are despatching their New York steamers with instructions to proceed to Halifax to land their passengers and cargo if there is an outbreak of hostilities. So far no steamship line has abandoned New York as its terminal port, but the captains of the big liners are instructed to take no risks if upon their arrival on this side hostilities are found to be in progress. They will not attempt to sail into the port of New York, but will at once proceed to Halifax. This decision has not been confined to the Cunard Line, which has already completed arrangements for landing its passengers and freight here. Other lines have decided that in time of trouble Halifax will be the safest port on the Atlantic seaboard, while it is two days nearer the Old World than New York.

Roosevelt Wants to Fight.

Washington, D.C., April 18.—It is reported that Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, has submitted his resignation to the President. It is said he is anxious to take part in active service against the Spaniards in Cuba. As he is not a sailor and would have no place on a ship, he may ask for a staff appointment in the army. The President and Secretary Long will continue to use the strongest efforts to induce Mr. Roosevelt to withdraw his resignation.

FIRE RAN WITH THE WIND.

Started in Almonte, It Got Out Into the Country and Did Great Damage.

Almonte, Ont., April 8.—At 4.30 p.m. Saturday the fire alarm sounded for a fire discovered in an outbuilding owned and occupied by John Fay as a stable and warehouse. The wind was blowing strong and, as all of the surrounding buildings were of wood, the fire spread rapidly. By the time the fire department got a stream on four buildings were burning fiercely, which spread to another dwelling. At this time the high wind had carried the fire to a barn situated on the outskirts of the town, some 500 yards away, which was also a total loss. From this barn fire was carried to Henry Lang's, nearly half a mile away. A stack of straw standing at the end of his barn caught fire and burned all of his outbuildings and farm implements. The fire was carried from this to the dwelling of Mrs. David Miller, on the next lot, a quarter of a mile further distant, and fully a mile from the original fire. This spread to their barns and destroyed them.

The losses and insurance are: John Fay, two-storey frame building, stock of groceries; a small frame building, occupied as dwelling by W. McGregor, loss on buildings $2,000, on stock $700, on household furniture $300; insured for $550 in Norwich Union and $150 in a company not known. W. McGregor, loss by removal of furniture small; no insurance. John Malone, loss on dwelling $800; insured for $450 in the Alliance; most of the furniture was saved. J. McAuliffe, loss on building $400; insured in Phoenix of Hartford for $300. James Little, loss on contents of stable $100; no insurance. John McLennan, loss on barn $300; no insurance. Henry Lang, loss on barn, outbuildings and all farm implements, a valuable horse, considerable grain, $5,000; insured for $1,500. Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, dwelling, contents and barns, outbuildings, loss $2,500; insured in Liverpool, London & Globe for $1,000.

Constantinople, April 18.—The ambassadors of the powers have prepared notes which they will present to the Porte upon the arrival of instructions from their respective Governments setting forth that it is a requisite condition of the Greek indemnity loan being fulfilled that the evacuation of Thessaly by the Turks should be effected within a month after due notification, and further, that delegates appointed by the powers shall oversee the evacuation.

It is officially announced that the Welland Canal will be opened next Friday at noon.

INDIFFERENT PROPHETS.

The Conservative Opposition in the Dominion are prophesying according to their prayers. They predict, in spite of past failures, the speedy downfall of the Government. Mr. Kaulbach, of British Columbia, the wise man from the West, has joined the wise man from the East, Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, in declaring as the latter did a year ago, that "that for the life of him he couldn't see how the Liberal Government could get through the next session." Your good office-seeking Conservative can't see, for the life of him, how a merciful Providence can permit the Conservative party to be debarred from a free run among the loaves and fishes of office, and the yearning of soul for place easily resolves itself into the feeling that "the king will come to his own again"—it cannot, it must not, be otherwise. Hence a prophesy of the downfall of the odious "Grit" Government comes quite naturally, as the lineal descendent of the wish. But the same "Grit" Government is contumacious. There are certainly no outward and visible signs of the reactionary element that asserted itself previous to the collapse of the late Government—no nest of traitors or little portents of that kind. All is harmony, all is confidence, all is serene resting in the confidence of the country. The bye-elections should be some slight indication of the trend of public opinion. If the people contemplated discharging the Government they would not complicate the process by ignoring the opportunities which a bye-election presents for making the job easy. Since the general elections of 1896 there have been sixteen bye-elections, and the Liberals have carried fourteen of them. For instance:—

Liberal.	Conservative.

Prince Rupert, (acc)
South Bruce,
West Queens, P.E.I., (acc)

This list doesn't look very encouraging to the prophets. The electors evidently prefer facts to fancies and performance to promise, no matter how alluring.

RECONTRADOS.

WE see the word "reconcentrados" constantly recurring in the despatches in reference to Cuba, and a little explanation may not be unwelcome to some who have not grasped the significance of the term. The term represents one of the means employed by the Spanish authorities to crush and exterminate the disaffected Cuban population—those who have risen in revolt against the wearying tyranny that has been systematically practised upon the Cuban population. After finding his plans for the subjugation of Cuba greatly hampered by the co-operation between the insurgents under arms and those Cubans who remained in charge of the homesteads, General Weyler issued an order, which took effect in February 1897, to have the latter removed to the fortified towns, where they would be kept under strict surveillance. Since the decree went into operation the population of Cuba has been divided into three sections, the Spanish soldiers and sympathizers in the coast cities, the Cuban insurgents lying in wait in the mountains, and the reconcentrados, slowly starving to death. These facts are borne out by the reports of the American Consuls. As late as last February General Fits Hugh Lee wrote to the American Government that the reconcentration order had transformed 400,000 self-supporting people, principally women and children, into military paupers, who, trusting to the tender mercy of the cruel Spaniards, were practically doomed to death—left to die from slow starvation and disease. Whole families perished in the space of a few days; mothers were to be heard praying that the sufferings of their children might be relieved by death; girls who had the misfortune to be good looking, were saved from death to meet a worse fate. The people, herded together, died in great numbers from starvation, fever and smallpox. In one town food was so scarce "that one must walk five miles before finding a sweet potato." The lands set aside as "zones of civilization" were taken possession of in some cases by wealthy Spaniards. Women returning with some few articles of food were set upon and robbed. Those who managed to secure raw food were refused permission to get fuel to cook it. After the Americans began sending relief, all who accepted it were told that to the Americans they must look thereafter.

The sufferings of these reconcentrados have been undescribable and the measures of relief from outside sources have no more than touched the hem of the destitute. We have found it necessary to receive with some doubt the reports of the outrages coming from Cuba, but the statements from official sources are certainly to be depended upon. They reveal a condition of treatment that not only justifies Cuban revolt, but active measures of outside interference to bring to an end a state of things that is revolting to every instinct of even savage humanity, not to speak of humane feelings springing from the principles of Christianity.

A GALLANT GENTLEMAN.

War may be entrancingly pleasant to the fire-eaters; but the facts of it are not so pleasant. Britain is seldom without a little war on hand, and the official report of the Tirah expeditition enables us to judge what sorrow the recent British campaign in India must have caused in many homes of the United Kingdom. The killed and wounded exceeded one thousand men, and a large proportion of these were young officers. War may be the surest and speediest road to renown; but it is very costly in blood and treasure.

And now, from another part of the world, comes the news of the approaching finish of one of Britain's little wars. The Madhists have been thoroughly routed, and those who lamented the loss of General Gordon may soon enjoy the satisfaction of hearing that the British standard has been raised at Khartoum. But the triumphant march of Sir Herbert Kitchener is not being made without serious losses to the Anglo-Egyptian forces, and the death of Captain Urquhart brings the misery of warfare home to many a Canadian friend of that gallant gentleman. His last reported words have the right ring to them: "Never mind me, lads; go on." The brave utterance of this Cameron Highlander shows the survival of the same spirit which animated the officers and men who fought at Inkerman "shoulder to shoulder."—Finance Chronicle.

THE COST OF MODERN WARFARE.

An Object Lesson to the Bellicose Jingoes Who Don't Have to Do the Fighting.

War will never cease while the field of battle is the field of glory. But calculation of the cost of fighting may act as a deterrent, and an admirable object lesson was recently published, without commenting thereon, in the New York Commercial Bulletin. A certain minister has been misusing Rudyard Kipling's "Let we forget," for the purpose of stirring up revengeful feeling over the sad loss of an American battleship. The same quotation could be used, with equal force and reason, in emphasizing the lesson taught by the following reminiscences of the Civil War in the United States.

"The ordinary expenses of the Government during the four years of the Civil War amounted to close to $3,180,000,000. But the peace expenditures of the Government would have amounted to $260,000,000, leaving $2,920,000,000 for war. About $730,000,000 was raised by taxation; if we assume that $260,000,000 would have been required to carry on the Government in peace, the war taxation was $470,000,000, and $2,450,000,000 was raised by borrowing on interest-bearing bonds and non-interest bearing notes. It will be observed that the people who fought the war provided at the time for rather less than one-fifth of the expense of it, leaving the rest of it to be defrayed after the war by themselves and very largely by posterity.

The cost of the war while it was going on was	$ 2,260,000,000
Interest during and since the war to July 1, 1897, was	2,884,000,000
Pensions since the war—those paid during the war are included above	2,327,000,000
Cost of the war to the end of the last fiscal year	$ 7,711,000,000

We are now paying in pensions and in interest on the war debt, in distinction from the debt more recently incurred to maintain the value of the war paper money which has never been retired, about $3,500,000 every week. For pensions alone we are paying between twice and two and a half times as much annually as the entire expenses of the Government before the Civil War. As the payments of interest and pensions will go on for many years, it is probable that the cost to the Government, exclusive of vast individual losses, of the Civil War will ultimately be twelve thousand million dollars. This is equal to the entire assessed or to three-fourths of the estimated true valuation of all property in the United States in 1860.

Disraeli's Manner.

I have no doubt Disraeli loses friends by his apparent insouciance and the method in which he walks to his place—without looking at anybody—but I surmise from my own experience that it arises from nearsightedness. I perceive that he cannot tell what o'clock it is without using his glass, and somebody told me lately that he saw him hailing a police van, mistaking it for an omnibus. His face is often haggard and his air weary and disappointed, but he has the brow and eyes of a poet, which are always pleasant to look upon.

He generally says the right thing at the right minute and in the right way, and he is lustily cheered, but sitting among the opposition I have abundant reason to note that he is not completely trusted. It is said that young Stanley and other youngsters of his class believe in him and that the man who is so taciturn in parliament is a charming companion among his familiars and is a gracious and genial host. Some of his postprandial mots steal out and, I should think, make fatal enemies. Somebody asked him lately if Lord Robert M. was not a stupid ass. "No, no," said Benjamin, "not at all; he is a clever ass."—"My Life In Two Hemispheres," Sir Charles Gavan Duffy.

This is how Zola is described by Stuart Henry in "Hours With Famous Parisians:" A business man, no emotion, no ideals, no imagination, no poetry, in his personal intercourse. He does not try to win or entertain you. He takes no personal interest in you and does not expect you to take any personal interest in him. He talks frankly and freely about everything, but in a secular way. He makes life seem to you merely a commercial career. Fiction for him is editions of 100,000 francs a year. His magisterial and magnificent panoramas of descriptions, unequaled for their kind, are all measured off in his mind as so many rods of printed matter at so much a rod. No personal magnetism, no sentiment, no perfume, no rose colors. Life has been for him a blunt, rude, brutish thing. He has conquered merely because he has worked harder than any one else. With him naturalistic literature succeeds only by the sweat of the brow. What loins of strength nevertheless! What Titanic capacities to achieve! He towers over all his Parisian contemporaries, as Victor Hugo towered over his epoch.

The greater includes the less. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scorfula, and may be depended upon to cure boils and pimples.

Weak and Nervous.

To many women that way. They need Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Mrs J. Hawke, Hagersville, Ont., says:—"Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cured me of weakness and nervousness, with which I had been affected for a long time."

TWO MORE PROTESTS.

Muskoka and Russell Now Bring the Total Number Up to 61.

Toronto, April 18.—The Conservatives filed two more election protests on Saturday, one against the return of Mr. Bridgland in Muskoka and one against the return of Onesime Guibord in Russell.

In the Muskoka protest George E. Langford, the defeated candidate, is the petitioner and claims the seat. The Liberal majority was 41. Damase Brasseur, a laborer of Gloucester Township, is the petitioner in the other case. He does not claim the seat, but asks for the disqualification of the member-elect. This brings the number of protests up to 61 in all.

NO HOPE FOR NULTY.

The Murderer After Being Submissive Becomes Violent.

Montreal, April 18.—Tom Nulty, who, up to the time of the discovery of his bold design to kill his jailers and make his escape, had adopted a gentle and submissive mien, has now, it appears, thrown off the mask, and conducts himself in violent fashion in his cell. His rheumatism now no longer troubles him. His counsel, Mr. De Salaberry, has visited him and told him that there is no longer any hope of clemency for him. It is expected that a guard will be detailed for the special duty of watching Nulty henceforth.

Salisbury's Recovery Is Slow.

London, April 18.—The Marquis of Salisbury will return to England on May 3, when, club gossip asserts, he will resign the Lord Wardenship of the Cinque Ports, and be succeeded as Lord Warder by Lord George Hamilton.

Although the Premier is better able to walk about, returning Riviera travelers say he evidently does so with difficulty, and only by leaning on his private secretary, stooping more than usual. His face has not recovered the ruddy hue.

Sold Liquor in a Temperance Town.

Winnipeg, April 18.—Charles Herrell, druggist of Neepawa, has been convicted on two charges of violating the liquor law and fined $400. Neepawa is a local option town.

DEADLY BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Cured by Four Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

GALT, April 18th.—(Special)—From town to town over the whole broad land rolls the irresistible wave of marvellous popularity of Dodd's Kidney Pills. They are bringing the luxury of life to thousands of pain-worn mortals and banishing kidney disease from our country.

Mr. Frank Cromwell of Galt, tells gladly of his escape. Unmistakable signs of Bright's Disease alarmed him. Pains in the back, bloating of the limbs, puffiness, etc., appeared. He used several remedies. All failed.

He then tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Of course there could be but one result. It followed as it always does. Mr. Cromwell was cured. "I had given up all hope of getting well, but four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me," says he.

That aching head can be instantly relieved by taking one of Milburn's Sterling Headache Powders. 1 powder 5c., 3 for 10c., 10 for 25c.

WOMEN WILL TALK.

CAN'T BLAME THEM FOR TELLING EACH OTHER HOW TO GET RID OF WEAKNESS, NERVOUSNESS AND ILL HEALTH.

It's only natural that when a woman finds a remedy which relieves her pains and aches, restores her health and strength, puts color in her cheek and vitality in her whole system, she should be anxious and desirous to let others know about it. Mrs. R. V. Thompson, who resides on Archibald St., Moncton, N. B., tells the following story:—"My heart was in a very weak condition, and I was troubled with starting pains through my left side, which sometimes almost took my breath away. I doctored a great deal and had advice from the best physicians, also took many remedies, but they only gave me disappointment. From the very first Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills gave me relief. My appetite improved, I gained in strength every day and now feel restored to perfect health. My heart now acts regularly and naturally, and the feelings of nervous anxiety have entirely gone away."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure Palpitation, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Weakness, Female Troubles, Anæmia, Dyspepsia, After Effects of Grippe, Debility, or any condition arising from Disordered Nerves, Weak Heart, or Watery Blood. Price 50c. a box, or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers, or sent by mail by addressing T. MILBURN & Co., Toronto, Ont.

How Spain Views the Vote in the United States Senate.

"UNSEEMLY PRECIPITATION."

The United States' Aggressive and Provoking Policy Acts as a Paralyzer of the Kindly Offices of Possible Mediators—Spain's Peaceful Intentions Upset by Yankee Haste.

London, April 18.—The Madrid correspondent of the Standard, telegraphing Sunday night, says: The vote in the Senate has caused a most unfavorable impression in Madrid, as closing the door to an understanding of any kind being arrived at between the Spanish and American Governments. Should President McKinley endorse either the idea of a recognition of the independence of Cuba or of armed intervention no Spanish Government could tolerate either of these courses without risking the gravest consequences in Spain.

The votes of the Senate and the House of Representatives are considered likely to paralyse both the mediation of the Pope and the friendly interference of the European powers in the interests of peace, because the resolutions passed, if sanctioned by the President, would set aside all intermediate conciliatory solutions, like autonomy on Canadian lines, which the present Spanish Government have agreed to.

The unseemly precipitation of the American Parliament leads Spain to believe that such an aggressive and provoking policy simply aims at making a rush into a conflict before the results of the suspension of hostilities with the insurgents can really be appreciated and before the Cuban Colonial Government can have time to parley with the insurgent chiefs.

TENDING TOWARDS PEACE.

Spanish Intentions Were of the Best, But Later Consideration Make the Action of U. S. Senate Almost Unbearable.

Madrid, April 18.—The week closed with unrelieved tension, all awaiting action at Washington. United States Minister Woodford is still working for peace, and is still hopeful of securing it. Important negotiations were held Saturday. It is learned that if the United States Congress finally agrees on a resolution similar to that passed by the House of Representatives, Senor Polo y Barnabe, the Spanish Minister at Washington, will not be recalled, and General Woodford consequently will remain in Madrid. Furthermore, it is not unlikely, in the event of a resolution on these lines passing, that the friendly offices of the United States will be invoked to assist in the restoration of permanent peace in Cuba.

Another important factor in the situation, which also tends towards peace, is the official news that a conference had been arranged for yesterday between General Maximo Gomez and two Spanish generals in Cuba.

The general opinion of evening papers is that the United States decision will be hostile to Spain.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

CONSULATE MOBBED.

Spain's First Victory in an Attack Upon a U. S. Consulate.

Malaga, Spain, April 18.—There was a serious disturbance here yesterday, resulting in an attack upon the United States Consulate. A mob gathered and attacked the United States Consulate. Stones were thrown, and one of the mob leaders procured a ladder, tore down the shield having upon it the arms of the United States, and dragged it along the street.

Sunday Disorders.

Madrid, April 18.—Saturday evening demonstrations were made in several of the provincial capitals. The American shield has been replaced at the American Consulate in Malaga amid the tumultuous protests of the crowd. A force of gendarmes continues to patrol the streets. A Cabinet Council, lasting three hours, approved the conversion into warships of the steamers of the Compania Transatlanta and then discussed the state of Spain's foreign relations, finally deciding that the questions be submitted to the Cortes.

The Imparcial, referring to the attack upon the American Consulate at Malaga yesterday, deplores the outrage as necessarily calling for apologies and warns the Malagueños against provoking a war which Spain would avoid if possible. The Imparcial adds, "Rioting is no proof of courage. The Greeks made demonstrations many days in Athens, but this did not prevent them from quickly forsaking the heights of Thessaly. The Spaniards should enter the contest like gentlemen and not like ruffians."

MR. H. HANCOCK'S VICTORY

Over Kidney Disease Won by the Help of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Galt, April 11.—(Special)—The greatest "speech" delivered for many years in Galt, was made recently by H. Hancock, Esq., proprietor of the fine hotel, the Iroquois. It was short and pithy and conveyed to every sufferer from kidney disease the glad news that they need suffer no longer.

Mr. Hancock's statement runs thus:—"For over a year I suffered with terrible backaches. Nothing I used gave me the least relief till I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. I used only a few boxes, but to day every vestige of pain has vanished completely."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only cure on earth for Kidney diseases.

WHEAT UP AGAIN.

Strong Cables and the War Scare Were Sources of Strength—Expected Decrease in the Visible—Local Prices.

Saturday Evening, April 16.

The wheat market has been a very active one all week. A week ago July wheat closed at 84⅝c in Chicago. Since then it has risen to 89⅝c, and fallen back again to 84⅝c. To-day it sold up to 87⅞c and closed at 86⅞c, a gain for the day of a clear 2c. Strong cables, the severe drought in California and the war scare have been the bullish elements, and the temporary declines have been on heavy selling by the bull clique. Liverpool cables were ⅛ to ¼ stronger. Paris closed 15c to 30c higher; Antwerp unchanged. Corn is about 1½c higher in Chicago and ½d to ⅝d higher in Liverpool.

American visible supply of wheat is expected to show 1,000,000 bushels decrease this week.

Seeding progresses well in Manitoba and the wheat crop area for 1898 is expected to show an increase of 20 per cent. over 1897.

Toronto St. Lawrence Market.

There was little change in Saturday's market, as compared with that of the preceding day. The grain supply was somewhat limited, but the prices, save in the case of oats, were not affected. The market in hay was fairly large and the sale good, 25 loads in all being sold at from $8 to $8 for loads of bundle straw was disposed of at $6 and $7.

A daily increase in the quantity of butter for sale is apparent, but no radical change in price has yet been noticed. Farmers' pound rolls remain at 18c, 19c and 20c, while creamery is still fixed at 21c and 22c.

East Buffalo Live Stock.

East Buffalo, N. Y., April 16.—Cattle—Receipts, only two cars; market dull and slow, with no demand for heavy steers, and only a light demand for other grades, and the outlook for all kinds is anything but favorable, owing to the continued state of affairs in regard to the threatened war, and the refusal of American lines to take stock, which curtails the demand.

Hogs—Receipts, 12 loads and 8 loads that held over. Market slow and draggy, and prices for light grades and pigs lower, with others easy. Good to choice yorkers, $3.95; prime selected light, $4.00 to $4.05; mixed packers' grades and medium weights $3.95 to $4; heavy hogs, $4 to $4.05; roughs, $3.40 to $3.60; pigs, $3.40 to $3.65.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 23 cars of fresh arrivals and 18 loads holding over. Market very dull and slow for all grades, with prices on the few handy sheep and lambs barely steady. Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills

HAVE CONVINCED THE PUBLIC.

DR. WARD'S BLOOD AND NERVE PILLS

Restore the Snap, Vim, Energy and Strength You Have Lost—Those Who Know Speak Wisely.

GENTLEMEN:

I think it due to you to let you know what a great boon Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have been to my daughter Maggie. Prior to taking your great remedy she had been suffering from excessive nervousness for a long time, and her nerves were in a terribly shattered condition. The action of her heart was so weak that it did not have strength to perform its functions, causing violent palpitation and smothering after retiring. Frequently, on account of this suffocating sensation she was afraid to go to bed. Slight exertion exhausted her and caused shortness of breath. Her blood was impoverished and lost vitality, and she had no appetite. She was wasting away and was very hypochondriacal, feeling dejected all the time. Last December she began taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills, and she improved at once. Her blood became healthy and strong, and in six weeks her impaired nervous system was restored to its normal healthy condition. Her heart responded to the healthy condition of her blood and nerves and resumed its strong and healthy functions. She now sleeps without any of the dangerous, distressing, smothering and choking spells; her appetite is good, and she has gained in flesh. Healthy color has replaced pallor, and she is now well and strong, thanks to Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. I thank you, gentlemen, for the remedy that has restored my daughter to health.

Springtime Sufferers

Gain the Ruddy Hue of Health From

Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills.

Weigh Yourself Before Taking Them.

GENTLEMEN,—A very bad attack of the Grippe a year ago last spring left my system in a very weak state and my nervous system completely unstrung. And getting over the dangerous stage of the disease I naturally expected to gain strength, but unfortunately did not do so. On the contrary, my blood became weaker, I daily lost strength and vitality, and my nervous system became so weak that it was a constant source of suffering both day and night. I lost appetite, the sight of food nauseated me, the weak state of my system caused shortness of breath and unnatural action of my heart, such as fluttering and violent palpitation, and my face was like chalk. I was in this condition and constantly getting weaker when I began taking the Dr. Ward Blood and Nerve Pills. I had read the books they distributed and their advertisements in the papers and thought: "Well, I have taken so much medicine without benefit it is useless to spend any more money." However, I finally made up my mind, it is a forlorn hope; I can but try. If I am not benefited I will not be hurt; so I bought one box and received great benefit therefrom, so continued their use, and to-day am a well man in consequence. My blood is strong, my face has the ruddy hue of health, my appetite has returned, I sleep well, I have not the slightest indication of nervousness or heart trouble, and from a sick, weak, nervous man, Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have transformed me in six weeks to full health and strength.

I am yours very truly, WILLIAM WILLARD,
Night Clerk Grand Central Hotel, Peterboro'.

REV. DR. BELL DEAD.

The First Graduate of Queen's University Passes Away.

Toronto, April 18.—Rev. George Bell, LL.D. died Saturday evening at the residence of his son, Mr. George Bell, St. George street. Dr. Bell was the youngest son of Rev. Wm. Bell, who came to Canada in 1817, and was one of the first Presbyterian ministers in this country. Dr. Bell was born in Perth, Lanark County, in the same year that his parents arrived, and was therefore 81 years of age. Deceased enjoyed the distinction of being the first registered student and the first graduate of Queen's University, Kingston. He took the degree of B.A. in 1845, and his alma mater afterwards conferred upon him the honorary degree of LL.D. While in the active service of the ministry deceased was stationed at Cumberland, on the Ottawa; Simcoe, Clifton (now Niagara Falls), and Walkerton. In 1882 he was appointed registrar and librarian of Queen's and when the work was afterwards divided he retained the registrarship, which position he retained until 1897, when he resigned and came to Toronto to live. Dr. Bell was looked upon as an authority in Presbyterian Church law and polity.

What "Goes" on the Yukon.

In The Century there is an article on "The River Trip to the Klondike," written by John Sidney Webb. Mr. Webb says:

Alaska is a country of more square miles than square meals, and the legendary governor of North Carolina would have found little else but muddy Yukon water, assaying 50 per cent solids to the liquid ton, in which to quench his calebrated thirst. "Do as you please" is the motto. In civilization coats are worn for various reasons, "on the Yukon" because it blows up cold or rains. Napkins, tablecloths, sheets and pillows do not "go" on the Yukon, or have not heretofore. Even the Klondike millionaire packs his blankets and takes what he can get.

Impure Blood in Spring.

This is the almost universal experience. Diminished prespiration during winter, rich foods and close confinement indoors are some of the causes. A good Spring Medicine, like Hood's Sarsaparilla, is absolutely necessary to purify the blood and put the system in a healthy condition at this season.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver tonic. Gentle, reliable, sure.

SPANIARDS LEAVE UNITED STATES.

House Likely to Endorse the Senate's Resolution of Cuba.

Spaniards Receive News of Senate Resolutions in Fighting Mood—Spanish Prime Minister Sees Nothing But War.

Though actual hostilities between the United States and Spain may be some way distant, there is little sign that they will be averted.

Spaniards are to be sent out of the United States at once. The Spanish Prime Minister declares that war is inevitable.

The latest despatches indicate that the House of representatives will concur in the resolution passed by the Senate except recognising the present Cuban republic.

The news of the Senate's resolution has aroused great enthusiasm in Spain.

The United States is making itself more "solid" with England by moving to pay half a million pro-British Behring Sea awards.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Spaniards to Leave the States

Washington, April 18.—Under instructions from Minister Polo Spanish Consuls are arranging for departure of Spaniards in their localities.

The Senate Resolutions.

Washington, April 18.—The Cuban resolution now goes to the Senate as soon as the clerks can prepare it, where it will, no doubt, be debated at some length.

Washington, April 18.—The personal statement of a prominent newspaper publisher, owning two papers, that he had been offered $2,000,000 Cuban bonds if he would support recognition of Cuban independence, is having great effect among members. The statement will be made on the floor of the House and may defeat the independence resolution.

A Possible New Complication.

Washington, April 18.—The motion which the Republican leaders have decided upon will be to concur in the Senate amendments, with an amendment striking out the recognition of the existing republic of Cuba. The leaders are very confident their motion will prevail.

Recognition of Cuba Applauded.

Washington, April 18.—At 12.07 p.m. the Senate resolution was received in the House. It was read, and the Democrats applauded when the recognition clause was read.

Spain Enthusiastic.

Barcelona, April 18—Although Sunday morning passed quietly here, there was a demonstration yesterday evening, when the crowds which gathered in front of the newspaper offices read the announcements of the action taken by the United States Senate in regard to Cuba. There was a scene of the greatest excitement, and patriotic shouts were raised on all sides.

Independence of Cuba Insisted Upon.

Washington, April 18.—The Opposition on the Republican side in favour of recognizing the present Cuban republic, though small, was resolute.

War Inevitable.

London, April 18.—General Marcelo De Azcarraga, the former Minister of War and former Minister has, a special despatch from Madrid announces, arrived at the Spanish Capital in order to attend the meeting of the Cortes. He is quoted a declaring that war is inevitable.

None too Soon.

Washington, April 18.—The Senate has under discussion a bill to pay the Behring sea awards amounting to $473,151, in settlement of the claims of Great Britain against the United States.

A LAMP EXPLODED

In Mr. A. H. Mossley's Rooms on Simcoe Street Last Night—No Damage of any Account.

The Fire Brigade was called to Mr. A. H. Mossley's rooms, on Simcoe street, last night, shortly after eight o'clock, but the blaze which had originated through an exploding lamp was extinguished before the arrival of the hose waggon.

The trouble was caused through the falling of a lamp, which was overturned by the wind. The lamp was on a box in a passage between two rooms and had a large shade in which the wind caught.

No damage was done other than the burning of a large hole in the carpet.

Mr. Mossley states that the brigade was very prompt in its attendance.

SIMCOE STREET WASHOUT.

The Creek Undermines the Roadway and Causes it to Cave in.

The current of the creek undermined the roadway on Simcoe street on Friday night on the east side, just in front of the Phelan House.

The creek is walled on both sides at this point to a height of about fifteen feet and the washout took place beneath the wall, consequently the roadbed had to be excavated to this depth to allow of repairs being made. A washout of the same nature took place beneath the hotel last spring.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Steps Will be Taken to Urge the Government to Place Another Section Under Control This Year.

The Joint Committee of the town council and a committee from the Board of Trade met on Saturday evening to consider the matter of again urging on the Dominion Government the necessity of placing an increased amount in the estimates for the purpose of more speedily completing the Trent Valley Canal.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., read a letter from the Minister of Railways and Canals, pointing out the heavy expenditures the government was required to make in connection with the development of the natural resources of the country, and stating that the government appreciated the importance of the Canal project, but that the work could only be continued in such a manner as the finances of the country would permit—that $600,000 was appropriated for the work this year, which in view of the other pressing demands on the Government, was all that could reasonably be expected.

A general discussion then took place with regard to the best means of urging the Government to more active assistance, and a motion was presented asking that a meeting of the Board of Trade be called for as early a date as possible to discuss the matter.

A meeting of the Board will most probably be held this week when the action of the Toronto Board of Trade will be dealt with and steps taken to urge that another section of the canal be placed under contract this year.

THE FLOODED LANDS.

The Water not so High this Year as in 1897 or 1896.

Mr. George H. Pope, Trent Valley Canal Valuator, was in town to-day, looking into the matter of the flooded Otonabee lands.

Nothing, Mr. Pope says, can be done in the matter, until the water falls.

The Minister of Railways and Canals, he says, stated on the floor of the House some time ago that the flooding of the lands was not caused by the Hastings dam. The water is lower on the sill of the dam this year than at the same time last season, or the season before. This year it measures 8 feet 4½ inches, in 1897 it was 8 feet 7 inches, in 1896 it measured 9 feet 4 inches.

AUBURN FIRE PROTECTION.

No Decision Yet as to Whose Shoulders the Expense Will Fall Upon.

The town council met in committee of the whole on Saturday evening to confer with representatives from the Water Company and the Auburn Company in respect to the question of indemnifying the Auburn Company for the expense to which they had been put for fire protection on account of the Water Co. refusing to lay a main across the river to the mills. Those present on the Council Board were the Mayor, and Messrs. Best, McWilliams, Robertson, J. M. White, W. H. White, Langford, Hamilton and Dawson.

The Water Company was represented by Messrs. B. A. Morrow, R. B. McKee, G. W. Hatton, W. H. Hill, Geo. Matthews and W. Henderson. Messrs. Jas. Kendry, M.P., and John Carnegie were in attendance in the interests of the Auburn Co.

The council recognized the claim of the Auburn Co. to recompense for the outlay entailed in providing for themselves protection which should be accorded in a measure by the town, and an endeavour was made to show that as the Water Co. was saved the expense of putting a main across the river, that it should bear a portion of the expense to which the Auburn Co. had been subjected.

It was pointed out by the Water Co. that it was contrary to all precedent in any town for a Water Co. to lay pipes on private property at their own expense. On this ground they refused to entertain any of the propositions made, as the main in question would have to cross both Grand Trunk and Auburn Co. property.

As no decision could apparently be reached a smaller committee, composed of Councillors McWilliams, Langford and J. M. White, will meet a committee from the Water Co. and the Auburn Co. and endeavour to come to some agreement in the matter.

ALMOST A DROWNING.

Three Men Upset Into the River out of a Canoe.

Yesterday afternoon when paddling down the river near Yankee Bonnet, Messrs. John Kearney, M. Lisette, and Sid Beckett upset out of their canoe into the river and would have been in considerable danger from drowning if it had not been for the prompt rescue effected by Capt. Martin and Messrs. Frost and Tenices Guerin, who happened to be on the bank with their canoes.

The men who took the unexpected ducking were chilled to the bone, but otherwise escaped without injury.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Thos. Baker led the song service at the Y.M.C.A. Next Sunday the first of a series of interesting, timely talks will be given by well-known speakers. All young men should note this.

St. Luke's annual Easter entertainment will be held this year in the opera house next Thursday evening. The programme is a very attractive one, over fifty children taking part.

The Men's Chapter of St. Luke's Guild will hold their next meeting Friday evening, when Rev. H. Symonds will lead a discussion on the proposed division of the diocese of Toronto. All men of the congregation are invited to attend.

The solos and duets in Shelly's anthem "Christian, the morn," were admirably taken yesterday morning in St. Paul's by Mrs. Meln and Mr. Jas. Dawson. In the evening Miss Sophie Cameron took the solo in Torrington's "Abide with me" in excellent voice.

"Star" Grocery Re-opened.

I have re-opened the "Star" grocery, corner of Water and Hunter streets, Peterborough, with a fresh and carefully selected stock of choice family groceries—teas, sugars, provisions and everything usually found in a well-stocked grocery. The premises is well known, having lately been occupied by W. H. Hill's insurance agency, and formerly known as the "Star" grocery, adjoining the Morgan House. As I intend to do a strictly cash business I can guarantee my customers the very best value in everything they buy. Soliciting the patronage of my friends and the public generally.—P. ROBINSON.

It's a Mistake

TO THINK THAT ONLY THE RICH MAN CAN WEAR HIGH-CLASS GARMENTS.

We adopted the Cash System of Tailoring in Peterborough partly in order that men of moderate means might be well dressed without any strain upon their finances. Suppose you need

A Genuine Scotch Tweed Suit, our Cash Price for which is $16.50,

Isn't it easier to pay down the cash and be done with it than it would be to have a debt facing you for weeks or months, even if the price was the same?—but that could not be. No good Tailor could or would make it for less than $20.00 if he had to take his money in instalments, or, wait an indefinite time for it.

EARLY HISTORY OF PETERBOROUGH.

AS READ BY MISS DUNLOP LAST WEEK

Before a Meeting of the Town and County Historical Society—New Contributions to the Museum.

Appended is the full text of the paper read by Miss Dunlop at the Thursday evening meeting of the Historical Society:

To anyone fond of historical associations it is interesting to read that so long ago as 1615 the great Champlain sailed down the waters of our noble Otonabee river, then so wildly rapid and beautiful. The following account of the expedition is an extract from Withrow's History of Canada:

"Joining a party of Algonquin and Huron Indians, he proceeded up the Ottawa and over countless portages, and reached by way of Lake Nipissing and French river, Lake Huron, to which he gave the name Mer Douce, "The fresh water sea." Coasting down its rugged eastern shore and threading a forest trail, Champlain and his followers reached at length a place of rendezvous on the narrows of Lake Couchiching, near where the town of Orillia now stands. Here a war party of two thousand plumed and painted Indian braves was assembled. Sailing with several hundred canoes through Lake Simcoe and traversing the picturesque Balsam, Sturgeon and Pigeon Lakes, with their portages, they glided down the devious windings of the Otonabee and Trent rivers and reached the beautiful Bay of Quinte. The Huron fleet then entered Lake Ontario, gave the name, which it long retained, of Lac St. Louis. Boldly crossing the lake, they reached the country of the Iroquois and pressed onward some thirty leagues to the Seneca towns near Lake Canandaigua. The tumultuous onset of the Hurons was ineffective. They were soon thrown into disorder, in spite of the efforts of Champlain, who was himself seriously wounded by the arrows of the savages and were compelled to retreat.

TO WHICH CHAMPLAIN

Champlain had been promised an escort down the St. Lawrence to Quebec, but, daunted by their defeat, the Hurons refused to keep their engagement. He was, therefore, although severely wounded, compelled to return with his savage allies. After long delays, he traversed on snowshoes the wintry forest, beneath a crushing load, through what are now the counties of Hastings, Peterborough and Victoria, and on Christmas eve reached Lake Couchiching. He remained four months with his savage hosts sharing in their councils, their feasts and their hunts, and hearing strange tales of the vast lakes and rivers of the far west. His arrival at Quebec, 1616, after a year's absence, was greeted almost as a resurrection from the dead."

From "The Early Settlement," by Dr. Poole, we understand that prior to the year 1818, that portion of Canada now known as the County of Peterborough was covered by an unbroken forest, in which the settlers' axe had never echoed. In that year a small body of immigrants sailed from England, some of whom braving the perils of the bush, found their way into the township of Smith, then but recently surveyed. This was in the autumn of 1818, the pioneers finding an inlet by way of Rice Lake and the Otonabee, for as yet, and for a long time after, there was no semblance of a road through the wooded wilderness stretching away between the frontier settlement and their new home. Thus we understand that the merit of the first settlement in the county belongs to the township of Smith.

In May of the following year a party of gentlemen in a skiff came up the Otonabee from "the front," for the purpose of selecting a mill site, and otherwise "prospecting" in the new townships. They landed just above at a spot that was afterwards a steamboat landing. One of the party discharged his gun, and then by means of the flint of the lock, a fire was kindled, (no matches in those days) the party assisting in gathering wood for the purpose. After supper they lay down under the spreading branches of the trees and slept.

Next morning after some consideration they arrived at the conclusion that by damming up the creek, which traverses the site of the town, and conveying the water along a short excavation to the steep bank of the Otonabee river, an eligible mill site would be obtained at a trifling cost, compared with the expense of attempting to control the rapidly descending waters of the Otonabee, at any point in the neighbourhood. Well pleased with the result of this exploratory visit the party passed down the river and across Rice Lake the same day. The little piece of engineering was carried out successfully and in about two years Mr. Adam Scott had a small saw and grist mill in operation under one roof. The frame structure was about 18 x 20 feet. Within this small space was fitted up a run of very common stones and a single upright saw. This poor little mill, in the heart of the wilderness was neither in gristing nor sawing adequate to supply the limited requirements of the early settlers as there was no machinery to clean the wheat and the machinery was forever breaking down. This little mill was burned down in 1835

This water privilege, having a canal or flume along the north side of King street from the creek to the mill, existed until about twenty-five years ago. The wooden sides and bents gradually decayed and the canal, being of no further use as a flume, it was finally filled up. In connection with this flume there was a dam at the King street bridge and a retaining wall around the margin of the creek, extending to Charlotte street. This old well, or embankment, can be traced out still on the ground.

Up to the end of 1825 there was only one inhabitant in the future town of Peterborough. Mr. Scott and his family lived on "the plains"—working the little mill—"Scott's Plains," as they were called. The ground west of the river was densely wooded with pine interspersed with oak, beech and maple, a creek running through the woods from north-west to the river. The trees were second growth and stunted from a fire having run through them. Small brush, shrubs and occasional grassy spots bore traces of Indian camps or hunters' solitary fires. The wild flowers grew among the shrubs in great beauty, variety and sweetness, and over the ground east of the creek huckleberries flourished and grew with especial luxuriance amid the stunted trees and shrubbery which covered the beautiful hill now adorned by the county buildings.

THE FIRST HOUSES,

next to Mr. Scott's, were erected for the purposes of immigration by Mr. Peter Robinson. These were all built of logs, with square gables and shingled roofs. Four of them stood in a row on the south-eastern portion of the present market square, fronting upon Water street. The largest of the four, which was also the most northern, occupied very nearly the site of the front portion of the old market house. It also was about 18 x 20 feet, while the others were somewhat smaller. This one was used as a residence for Dr. Reade, surgeon to the immigrants, and as a temporary church, in which service was held by the Rev. Mr. Crowley. The two central were used as storehouses for the provisions, etc. The one nearest the south was Mr. Robinson's general office, where accounts were kept and business transacted by himself and chief clerk. The fifth and largest building was known as "Gov-

THE BOYS' BANQUET.

The Ladies' Auxiliary Entertain the Younger Members of the Y. M. C. A.

Association Hall was transformed into a dining room on Friday evening, when the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. entertained the members of the Boys' Department at a banquet.

The event was arranged to mark the close of the recent boys membership contest, in which they succeeded in increasing the membership by 70. The new members were invited as well as the other members, including the 20 Reds and Blues.

A large number sat down to the tastefully arranged tables and after the bill of fare had been thoroughly tested, short speeches were made by a number of the boys. Some of the subjects were "The Boys' Camp," "The Friday Night Meeting," "The Sports for the Summer" and "Closing Entertainment."

At the close three hearty cheers were given for the members of the Auxiliary by way of appreciation of their kindness.

DECLINE IN WHEAT.

The Toronto Live Stock Market Taxed to Its Utmost, and a Fair Day's Business Done—Local Prices.

Friday Evening, April 15.

On heavy realisation sales away up in the millions by bulls, July wheat declined a clear three cents in Chicago to-day. Letter brokers are credited with doing most of the unloading, but as to this there is some uncertainty. The weakness of the market was helped by weak European reports. May wheat declined 2½c. Closing cables quoted wheat in Liverpool ¾d to 1½d lower than yesterday, while Paris was off 10c to 30c. Corn and oats were weak in Chicago, corn declining ½c to ⅝c for the day. Provisions were strong on a slight advance.

Toronto Live Stock.

The capacity of the cattle market was again taxed to its utmost extent to-day, there being a very heavy run of live stock, 80 car loads, which does not include Thursday's receipts. There were 1100 cattle, 271 sheep and lambs, 125 calves and about 2000 hogs.

Trade was very dull in the early part of the day, but became more lively towards noon. Prices remained unchanged for exporters, but declined from 10c to 15c per cwt. for butchers' cattle. The bulk of the exporters sold at $4 to $4.25. Only a few extra choice cattle brought 10c per cwt. more. Export bulls, light, sold at $3; export bulls, heavy, at $3.37½ to $3.60; choice picked lots of butcher cattle at $4.75 to $4.90; loads of good at $4.35 to $4.70; medium at $3.40 to $3.55; common, $3.15 to $3.30; inferior rough cows and bulls $2.60 to $3 per cwt.

There were large numbers of feeders and stockers on the market. Demand was good. Prices firm and unchanged, stockers selling at $3.30 to $3.50, and feeders at $3.60 to $3.70 per cwt. About 15 milk cows were sold at $25 to $40 each, the bulk going at about $30.

Calves sold at $3 to $6 each for the general run, but choice veals brought $8. Supply greater than the local demand.

The market for hogs was firmer and $4.62½ to $4.75 was paid for best selections and $4.37½ for thick and light fats.

East Buffalo Live Stock.

East Buffalo, April 15.—Cattle—Receipts 8 cars. About four loads of heavy cattle still unsold. The market ruled steady for light butchers' steers and butchers' stock, but there was no change in the condition of trade for heavy steers.

STRAIGHT YEA OR NAY

The Prohibition Question Not to Be Loaded Down.

DECISION OF LIBERAL CAUCUS.

The End of the Session May Be Near—Indications Which Seem to Point This Way—The Franchise Bill Has Precedence of the Prohibition Plebiscite Bill—Notes.

Ottawa, April 16.—The end of the session seems much nearer to-day than it did when members returned from the Easter vacation. The collapse of the budget debate, the taking of every day, except Mondays, for Government business, the harmonious Liberal caucus yesterday in regard to the plebiscite measure, all tend to shorten the session. If the plebiscite bill when it comes down calls for a straight yea and nay question on the prohibition of the liquor traffic the debate upon the bill will be very short. The majority of the speakers at the caucus expressed the belief that a straight question would be preferable to one involving the issue of increased taxation, and while the terms of the bill are still open to change, it seems entirely probable that the Government in this case will be guided largely by the opinion expressed in caucus. The Conservatives are disposed to put as little as possible upon Hansard in regard to the temperance difficulty, and if the straight question is put the prohibition wing of both parties will probably content themselves with short speeches. If this is the case, a matter that might have taken much time will be put through with a rush.

The Franchise Bill.

The Franchise bill is now in committee, and it will get precedence of the plebiscite measure. This is necessary because the intention is to use the new voters' lists established by the Franchise bill in taking the plebiscite. Should the Senate throw out the Franchise bill, a thing among the possibilities, the plebiscite voters' list will be prepared under the present Dominion Franchise Act. The probability is, however, that the Franchise bill will pass, and that the Provincial voters' lists will be used for obtaining an expression of the people on the prohibition question. This is in accordance with the view expressed by the Premier some time ago, that only the electors who would have a voice in the Parliamentary elections of the future should be consulted on the temperance question. The end of next week should see the Franchise bill out of the way. The only bill of first importance on the Government order is that for the abolition of the superannuation system, and it is not of a very controversial nature.

Yukon Bill May Cause Delay.

If another bill to empower the construction of a railway toward the Yukon is introduced there may be some further delay. Up to the present, however, no decision has been come to, and it is now said that there is a disposition to let the Province of British Columbia, which is profiting most by the Klondike trade, take the lead with a cash subsidy, as has been suggested, the Dominion aiding with a land grant. The position of the Government is made more difficult by the open hostility of many of their supporters to the spending of public money upon a Yukon railway. The argument that the Yukon should pay for the development of the Yukon has taken firm root, and it will require a very serious condition fo affairs in the far north to induce the members from Eastern Canada to vote for the building of the railway out of the public till. Were the element of doubt regarding the Yukon programme removed there seems to be nothing in the way of prorogation before the 24th of May. Private bill legislation has been kept back very seriously by the prolonged struggle in the Railway Committee and the House between the C. P. R. and G.T.R. over the Kettle Valley Railway in British Columbia.

MR. HOUSE A WINNER.

In a Long and Stubborn Struggle at Berlin, Ontario.

Berlin, April 4th—(Special).—The recent elections and the return of the popular candidate created less interest in Berlin, than did the news that our respected fellow citizen, Mr. Andrew House, had won the contest in which he had been engaged.

For over a year Mr. House has waged a fierce conflict with kidney disease. The pain he endured was unspeakably severe, and he could get absolutely no relief till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. Now he is completely cured—of course.

Mr. House says: "I am sincere in saying Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me, and I am truly and earnestly thankful for my cure.

POISONED BY STRYCHNINE.

Verdict of the Jury in the Covington Case at Claremont.

Claremont, Ont., April 16.—The inquest on the late William Covington was resumed last evening before Coroner Eastwood. There was not much new evidence. The only additional important fact brought out was by Witness James Harvey, who passed the house about daylight on the morning of his death. He said he distinctly saw a light in Covington's bedroom, which conflicts with the evidence of Miss Covington, who swore there was no light, as it had been put out, and the blind raised, the moon then giving sufficient light. After the jury was addressed by the Coroner and Mr. Farewell, they retired to consider their verdict. They returned in about half an hour. The verdict was as follows: We, the jury empanelled to investigate the cause of the death of William Covington, find that said William Covington died Sunday, March 13, from the effects of strychnine poison, but we are unable to say how said poison was administered to him.

The Elephant Corps.

An English newspaper, in an article on the Siamese army, says: "In one respect the Siamese army is superior to every other, and that is in its elephant corps. Eight hundred of these animals, which are stronger, though smaller, than those of India, are organised into a special corps, commanded by a retired Anglo-Indian officer, and their heads, trunks and other vulnerable parts are protected against bullets by india rubber armor."

Seems as if consumption always picks out the brightest and best. Fully one-sixth of all the deaths that occur in the world are caused by consumption. Many things were once considered impossible. It would be strange if medical science did not make some progress. The telegraph and telephone, the phonograph, the electric light, all were once impossible, and once it was impossible to cure consumption. That was before the time of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Taken according to directions, this standard remedy will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. Consumption is caused and fostered by impurity in the blood. It is cured by purity and richness in the blood—surely, certainly cured by the "Medical Discovery." It builds up solid healthy flesh and vigorous strength.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a 1008 page medical work, profusely illustrated, will be sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover all postage ONLY. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y.

VISITING COUGARS.

There had been for days a great fire in the forest up toward Onion peak, and a strong wind was driving it so far toward the settlement on the upper Nehalem that some of the people watched it with fear. But to Jerod Ames it was bringing a small harvest of silver, for he was a guide as well as a freighter on the river, and fire on the Oregon heights meant game on the lower, accessible levels. Jerod had taken two parties of hunters up the river already. Today he was away with the third, and on his return he must deliver three pigs sent to him for a settler named Keegan.

Usually Jered's young wife did not fret at being left alone with the year old baby, but now the heat and smoke oppressed her imagination and made her think of the end of the world and set her wishing for some neighbor to talk with. The baby, too, was ill at ease in the sultry, smoke scented air and cried fretfully as she tried to rock it to sleep after her early supper.

From her seat, which was under a pine behind the cabin, the little woman could see a long stretch of the path on which her husband must return from his boat, but she could not see his boathouse nor the river. It was possible that he might come home that evening, and her heart was sore with longing to see his tall form striding toward her. It was possible, too, that somebody, some messenger or hunter, might come up the path to engage him as guide or freighter, and she watched the path lest some stranger should take her by surprise.

While she rocked the little one and sang to it, letting it lie unhugged on her lap that it might be the cooler, its crying ceased, and it seemed about to sleep, with its face turned from her. But suddenly it shrieked as if from some instinctive alarm and turned to her, clutching with its feeble little hands and burying its face in her lap. The mother, wondering what had affrighted the child, stared down the path and there saw a moving thing which instantly disappeared.

"A dog," she thought, "somebody's dog. Its owner is coming for Jered. Whoever it is will have to stay all night, for it's too late now to go back to the settlement. I must hurry in. The man will want supper."

She clutched the baby, and at her grasp it screamed, as if in the wildest terror, a note which made her again wonder what ailed it. Into the kitchen she ran, put the kettle again on the stove and thrust in some kindling. Then she went into her bedroom, just off the kitchen, and tried to brush her hair and "tidy" herself with one hand while she held the crying baby with the other.

It struck her after a little while that she ought to have heard the footstep or voice or knock of the stranger, and she turned from her tiny looking glass toward the door of the bedroom, beyond which was the open door of the kitchen. There stood a full grown cougar, or mountain lion.

She recognized the beast at the first glance, although she had never seen one before, and in that one dazed glance she wondered if all wild beasts were so gaunt and rusty looking.

In the next instant the wild shriek of her baby roused her to action, and she threw her shoulder against the door just as the rusty, tawny, long body crouched. The latch snapped down; then the door shook as if from one blow of a heavy wadded mallet, and the thin partition of upright boards rattled and creaked. The little woman stood in mortal terror, and the baby, which had instinctively ceased to cry, pressed its head to her bosom and clutched with trembling hands.

For an instant the partition seemed likely to be pushed down; then the mother heard the fierce sweep of wild claws across the boards, and then there was a great crash in the kitchen. Nothing but a fall of crockery could account for such a noise, and Mrs. Ames knew that her plates and cups and saucers, her preserve dishes, her admired glass pitcher and probably her treasured syrup jug with the German silver top had all tumbled at once from the shelves fastened to the partition. In an instant she was as angry as if Jered had upset her cherished things. Her courage came back in full force, and she pulled open the door recklessly to scold at the cougar.

He had been frightened badly already. He had leaped like a frightened cat out of the kitchen at a bound, but he had not leaped out of the house. He had gone the other way. His head had been toward an open interior door when the precious crockery fell, and his leap had sent him into the "front room," where he stood surprised, alarmed, awaiting something dreadful.

As angry Mrs. Ames, her baby frightened into silence by the noise, opened the bedroom door she saw in the kitchen looking glass the reflection of the cougar in the front room eying her, and she screamed at it with such shrillness that the scared beast shrank into the dark space between the "chest of drawers" and the north corner. The small woman understood instantly that the cougar was frightened, and in the same instant, slipping forward boldly, she shut the door of the front room with a slam.

The other door and the windows of that room were all closed, and now Mrs. Ames felt that she was mistress of the situation. The cougar seemed to feel so too. While she listened and peeped at the keyhole the wild creature shuffled around uneasily inside.

"Yes, you can snoop round in there, knocking my things over," said Mrs. Ames aloud and vengefully, "but when Jered comes home he will teach you to snoop."

She gazed about at the relics of her beloved crockery. That awful spectacle made her angrier than ever, and then she remembered a knothole in the partition through which, by standing on a chair, she could watch her foe and taunt him.

Mrs. Ames had one foot on the chair when a fearful scream came from the cougar in the front room, which was instantly answered by just such another from a spot not ten feet behind her. She turned her head. Well inside the open back door crouched a second cougar not so large as the first, but rather more evil looking. This was the female. She had stolen fearfully in to look for her mate. She was a cougar suspecting a trap.

Mrs. Ames stared one second at the creature; then, desperately enfolding her baby as if to hide it, she stepped forward, uttering terrified and terrifying screams, and seized in her free hand the kettle of boiling water that had just begun to hiss over the fresh kindling. Whether the screams or the threat of the kettle or the forward motion of Mrs. Ames scared the female cougar to flight no one can be sure, but the creature turned tail and dashed out of the kitchen door.

Then the little woman shut that door and bolted it and hugged her baby and kissed it and began to laugh hysterically. Frightened as she was, she had a certain sense that it was all very funny and that cougars were as easy to deal with as cats or hens. Her anxiety for the baby's life had quite gone. She felt that she could defeat a cougar with her broomstick, not to mention her formidable kettle of hot water.

But Mrs. Ames was not out of her troubles yet. She heard a great clawing in the front room, then silence, and she suspected the truth. Rising on the chair and looking through the knothole, she saw no cougar. He had climbed out by way of the big fireplace and up the enormous chimney. As she stepped down to the floor she heard the muffled fall of the cougar's leap from the top of the chimney to the big shingles of the roof.

There were two of them outside now, and she dared not open the door of the kitchen or any outer door. The sun was nearly down. She suspected the beasts would be courageous after dark. What were they doing? Suddenly she saw both of them peering down at her and the baby through a small, uncurtained window which was between the roof of the shed and the eaves of the house.

Staring at her, both of them crouching on the roof, not 15 feet away from the baby! No wonder the nerves of poor little Mrs. Ames gave way again, and she sank down on a kitchen chair almost in a faint.

Still she was conscious of those hungry, staring eyes, and she could not move. She could barely keep the baby from falling out of her arms. They stared so deliberately, so gloatingly, that it seemed that the next moment they would crash through the glass and down at her. Now one of them put its claw forward and felt the glass and then began to claw it softly as if puzzled at the invisible obstacle. Suddenly both rose. They had heard pigs, and on the instant both vanished.

Among the last freight sent up to Jered Ames with directions to deliver it to a settler named Keegan, up the Nehalem river, were those three bouncing little pigs. He was to deliver them at his convenience. Now, it had been more convenient to go off with the hunting party that day, and so Jered had put the pigs in the covered shed or storehouse, in which there was nothing which they could harm.

The pigs, perhaps scenting the cougars, had begun to squeal loudly. The cougars found these sounds interesting. Leaping to the ground, they stared into the storehouse through the chinks in its log walls, then enlarged some of these chinks by clawing out chips and hay and earth, then thrust in their sharp claws and tried to seize the pigs. But the pigs, all the time squealing loudly, kept out of the way.

The cougars soon began looking impatiently about for an entrance. They sprang to the roof of the shed, but found no opening there. They peered down from the edges at the sides. Now, a board that finished the top of the slant just under one edge of the roof had long been loosened and hung down. Looking through the chink, the cougars saw the appetizing pigs. They clawed vigorously at the board. It gave way, and in two seconds both the sinuous beasts had squirmed through the hole and dropped into the shed.

In vain did Mrs. Ames put her hands to her ears. Nothing could shut out the shrieks and squeals and horrid growls. The baby screamed so that she feared it would go into convulsions, and the night was falling fast.

Then came a blessed interruption—a loud knock, combined with a distinctly human kick, at the back door. Mrs. Ames rose and opened it. There stood Keegan, the settler who owned the pigs. He had come down the river and up the path to inquire for them, and he had already peered into the shed through the chinks. There the cougars were too happily engaged to worry themselves because of any man. Keegan had dimly seen them by the little light through the hole they had made in the gable.

"Did Jered take his guns up river with him?" asked Keegan.

"No. Well, now, to think I never thought of the gun!" cried Mrs. Ames.

"I guess I'll just borrow it a minute," said Keegan. "Are there any cartridges? Good! Now if you've got the spunk to hold a light for me we'll fetch those cougars." He explained his plan. Mrs. Ames put the baby down on the floor in her bedroom and came out and shut the door and, trembling with excitement and fear and eagerness, bravely helped Keegan.

She tied a bunch of paper loosely about a broom handle and sprinkled kerosene over the torch. She stood on a barrel and held this light up to the opening the cougars had made in the shed. They did not dare to spring at the fire. In fact, they had not five seconds to decide on any proceeding, for Keegan, putting the muzzle of the double barreled gun through a chink in the wall of the shed, shot both neatly from a distance of six feet. The charges of shot passed solidly, like great bullets, through the lank bodies.

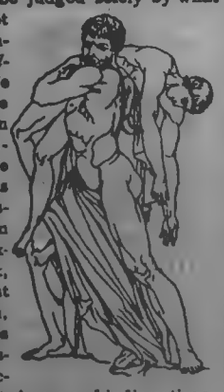
And then Mrs. Ames surprised and alarmed the settler as never cougars could. She went into hysterics, and was still wildly laughing and crying at once when her husband came up the path and held her in his strong arms and soothed the brave little mother to quiet while the tired baby went contentedly to sleep.—Youth's Companion.

The Power of the Press.

"Now that we are a settled element in the community and nation, the reporters do not bother us about little things so much—our newness and interest having rubbed off together," writes A Cabinet Member's Wife in The Ladies' Home Journal. "I have great sympathy for these women society reporters, as I see more of them and their hard work, which must be distasteful to many of them. There is one girl who works up a society column every week as the only means of providing bread and butter for an invalid mother and herself. She is ladylike and pleasant looking, though not pretty, and I feel sure she dislikes to ask people questions more than they dislike to answer them—in fact you would be surprised to see how some prominent people toady to her for notices of their functions. I understand what the phrase 'the power of the press' means."

Rescue for Weak Men

We invite weak men to give our remedies and appliances a fair trial. We ask to be judged solely by what we do, not by what others have failed to do. We have supreme confidence in our treatment. We know it has cured thousands of men who were sexually weak, who had lost all ambition, whose lives had been miserable on account of past abuses and indiscretions, overwork, etc. We want the confidence of all weak men. Our business is honorable.



Free Trial

We will send our medicines and appliances for a ten-days' trial to any sufferer who will promise to give them a fair test. No money is to be paid unless our treatment is found to be just what we claim for it. If no relief is found, send the outfit back to us, and that will end the matter. We want no pay in cases which we cannot cure. Write us freely and confidentially. Our advice is valuable. If you have never seen our famous book, "Complete Manhood," send for a free copy. The imbecility of some men is always inviting the embrace of death. It is the delight of such men to boast of what "tough fellows" they are, and tell how they overwork themselves and how they neglect little disorders and little illnesses that put other people on their backs.

It may not sound nice to say so, but it is a fact that the average man is just that kind of a boastful, cheerful idiot. If his head aches, it isn't worth paying any attention to: if he feels dull and drowsy during the day, it isn't worth serious consideration; if he is troubled with sleeplessness at night, he doses himself with opiates. When he suffers from nervousness, he walks into the nearest drug store and orders powerful medicines that even a physician prescribes with care. He is a very knowing fellow, but without knowing it, he is hugging death. There is a wonderful restorative tonic and health-builder that will keep the hardest working man in good working shape; it is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is made of pure native roots and barks. It contains no minerals, no narcotics and no opiates. It simply aids nature in the natural processes of secretion and excretion. It tones up the stomach and facilitates the flow of digestive juices. It makes a man "hungry as a horse" and then sees to it that the life-giving elements of the food he takes are assimilated into the blood. It invigorates the liver. It drives out all impurities and disease germs from the system. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It is the best of all nerve tonics. It cures bronchial, throat and lung affections as well.

"I had indigestion and a torpid liver," writes Mrs. A. I. Gibbs, of Russellville, Logan County, Ky., "Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cured me."

If constipation is also present, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken. They never fail; they never gripe. Druggists sell both medicines.

Throat lined with Ulcers

A Young Lady Cured of Long Standing Catarrh and Catarrhal Sore Throat by Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

Miss Anna A. Howey, of Eden, Ont., says that she suffered from Catarrh for ten years, used a number of remedies advertised, but was always disappointed in the result.

Last fall she suffered intense pain in her head and her throat was lined with ulcers. The doctors called it Catarrhal Sore Throat, but did not cure it. She saw that Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure was being highly recommended, so procured a box from C. Thomson, druggist, Tilsonburg, Ont., and commenced its use. Soon the ulcers cleared away from her throat, the pain in her head ceased. She says that Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure does not cause distress or sneezing when being used, and is the most effective catarrh remedy she ever tried.

Mr. J. D. Phillips, a Justice of the Peace, declares that he knows Miss Howey and her mother, and can vouch for the truthfulness of her statements.

STILL TALKING.

The War Debate Still Continues in the Senate.

Washington, April 16.—The Senate resumed the debate in the Foreign Relations Committee Cuban resolution. Mr. Cullom (Illinois) attributed the Maine disaster to Spanish treachery, and called upon the Administration to satisfy the American people by striking the avenging blow without delay.

Mr. Berry (Arkansas) stated he would support the President in any contingency, but was disposed to recognize the independence of the insurgent government of Cuba.

There was a lively scene in the House yesterday when Mr. Bailey (Democrat leader) rose and said the Speaker was responsible for the late uproar in the House. The Speaker severely scored Mr. Bailey.

An agreement was reached late last night to come to a vote during this (Saturday) legislative day. It may extend into Sunday.

Consul-General Lee has been appointed to the command of Virginia volunteers.

Spanish Note to the Powers.

The attitude of Spain towards the United States is set forth in a note from the Spanish Government to the European powers. It states that the trouble in Cuba was organized and fermented by the sugar manufacturers, and that the leaders of the insurrection are not Cubans, but adventurers from every nation. It is alleged that the consuls of the United States constituted themselves insurgent agents, and when autonomy promised peace an American squadron was sent to Cuba to encourage the insurgents in their rebellion. The note concludes by declaring that Spain, having exhausted every means to secure peace, is reluctantly compelled to prepare for war, and to fight for the maintenance of its rights and honor.

A report from Chicago told of the confession of a man named Crandall, who said he laid the mine which destroyed the Maine, but the Secret Service people here say they know nothing of it.

CANADA LIFE

Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty-first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,008.05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3,066, for the sum of $6,135,908, of which, however, 286 for $521,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and no 191 applications for $373,500 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5,291,408, under 2,609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 578 policies for $768,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,469 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,168.45, and Endowment policies for $128,846 98, having matured, these sums, as well as $218,621.29 for profits, $145,411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,263,307.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,963,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1,272,496 05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18,678 915 67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company, I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, the prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Merritt, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

EARLY HISTORY OF PETERBOROUGH.

ernment House," and as being the residence of Mr. Robinson, Col. McDonell and Mr. John Smith, surveyor, who assisted in locating the immigrants, and was also the resting place for a brief time of Vice Royalty itself. It stood on the eastern side of the lot now occupied by the Bank of Montreal, south-east corner of Simcoe and Water streets. It fronted south forty feet long by about twenty feet wide, divided into three rooms of nearly equal size by two partitions of logs erected with the walls. Into the middle room of these three the front door opened from a porch, and here was the chief reception room, from which doors opened on either hand. The western room was devoted to the purposes of a kitchen, while Mr. Robinson slept in the eastern apartment, which also contained sundry books, papers and maps. A considerable portion of the ground extending across and north of Simcoe street, was fenced in as a garden. Such is the description of the first and only "government house" so named in Peterborough, and "all five were regarded as first class houses for several years later. The huts of the immigrants were made of poles standing upright and boughs or branches of trees interwoven and mud plastered over all. They lived in these till log shanties were made ready for their families in Douro. These huts caused the Plains to be called a village. In 1826 27 the first school house, a log building with shingled roof, was erected on the ground in rear of the OLD UNION SCHOOL.

Rev. Samuel Armour, first Episcopal clergyman in Peterborough, conducted the school, in which the higher and lower branches of education were taught.

In the winter of 1826, about the first week in February, just a year and a few months from the arrival of the immigrants, an important event took place—no less than the visit of His Excellency Sir Peregrine Maitland. The journey from Cobourg was made in sleighs across Rice Lake. "It was a cold, windy snowy day; it was growing dark" when the procession of five sleighs drove in from Captain Rubidge's (R. N.) in Otonabee, where they had dined. "A bugle was sounded to announce his arrival. The immigrants formed on each side of the road for a quarter of a mile. The arrangements for the Governor's reception and comfort gratified the visitors very much, and all were well pleased." The next day, Sunday, the Governor attended church in Cavan, and afterwards a little reception was held and social evening of pleasant conversation was enjoyed. The visitors mentioned by one of the ladies who were present, were Colonel Talbot, Major Hilliar, Col. Burke, Dr. Connin, Mr. Maitland, son and Aide-de-camp of the Governor. His Excellency remained at Government House for a few days and drove round to several places, receiving many loyal addresses of welcome. One effect of this visit was the good news that the Government had undertaken the erection of a mill within the limits of the town. The site chosen was the site known as the Dickson's mill of late years. The dam was built in the autumn of 1826 and the saw and grist mill the spring following. The settler's within twenty miles came to lend their aid and several of them gave a week's hard labour gratuitously to assist in furthering so desirable a work. The grist mill, which contained two run of stone, was completed in 1827, and was offered for sale by the Government and was purchased by the late John Hall, Esq., of Beckhorn, and Mr. Moore Lee, for several years in partnership. While this great work was in progress a bridge was built across the river, chiefly by Government aid, which was completed about the same time as the mill and by the same contractor, Mr. Horace Perry. From the date of the erection of the mill the prosperity of the town and the success of the adjoining settlement were fully assured.

"The Plains" were rapidly converted into a busy and prosperous village. Many of us know the old story of how

PETERBOROUGH WAS NAMED,

The Hon. Peter Robinson lived for a while in a tent close to the river side. One day at a dinner party which he gave in his tent the question arose, what name to give the future town? It was suggested by a lady present that it should be called Peterborough in compliment to Mr. Robinson. The name was adopted and Mr. Robinson gave orders that the land should be laid out in town lots, and promised each of his guests a town and park lot. The land upon which the town stands was valued at one dollar per acre.

In 1831 tenders were publised in the Cobourg Star for the erection of a Church of England. In July of 1836, though not quite finished, it was opened for Divine service. It appears from a circular taken to England by the late Captain Rubidge, R.N., for the purpose of raising funds for its completion, that he laid the foundation stone of St. John's church. Captain Rubidge also in 1826 cut out and cleared the first road between Rice Lake and Peterborough to facilitate the transport of people and stores from Cobourg, and assisted the Hon. Peter Robinson in the settlement of immigrants brought out by him from Ireland. and in 1831 was appointed by Lord Seaton, Immigrant Agent at Peterborough, and during that year located four thousand people from England, Ireland and Scotland. In 1834 Sir John Colborne was another Vice Regal visitor, but only for a brief stay. He was accompanied through Otonabee, on his return by a mounted escort, to Major Charles Sanderson's, from which place he crossed Rice Lake in one of the two small steamers, "Pemedash" and "Northumberland," they being the first steamers placed on that lake, one or two years before. Sir John Colborne was not LA Governor until four years after his visit. The third visit of a Lieut. Governor to Peterborough is connected with an event of importance in its history, and still looked back to with much interest by a few old settlers. It was desirable that the foundation stone of the new Court House, about to be erected, should be laid by Sir George Arthur. Mr. Scobell, the contractor, was requested to open about six feet of ground and have placed on the spot one load of stone to admit of this ceremony being performed, the foundation having not yet been exsavated, and the ground still covered with brush and fallen trees.

On being asked, His Excellency cheerfully consented to do so, but his time being limited, the committee met at their room at 6.30 on the morning of the 25th of August, 1832, waited upon the Governor at 7, and at 7.30 o'clock a. m., His Excellency and suite, accompanied by the building committee, proceeded to the ground, and in the laid the corner stone of the new building. The official ceremony over, the Rev. C. T. Wade offered up an impressive and appropriate prayer. The Governor placed beneath the stone a parchmant scroll and four coins—a shilling, a sixpence, a penny, and a half-penny. The lettering on the scroll was executed by Mr. Ivan O'Bierne. On January 1st, 1850, Peterborough by an act of incorporation took the rank and dignity of being a town. The late Thomas Benson, Esq., was first mayor. In Sept. 1851, the corner stone of the old market house and town hall was laid with imposing ceremonies, music and rejoicing. Much interest has reluctantly been left unnoticed in this paper, especially the stirring times of the Rebellion of '37. In the early days of December, when the call came to Peterborough, within less than 24 hours nearly 200 volunteers, armed and equipped as best they could, started for the frontier under the command of Col. McDonell and Capt. Cowall. Many of these noble volunteers left their homes and families at a moment's notice, and under the most trying circumstances. The disadvantages under which they went are little known, and well may it be said that men who could make such sacrifices, are worthy of double honour, and though their campaign was a bloodless one, they have by their acts achieved a fame of which any country might be proud and which posterity will not forget. In thus looking over the long stretch of seventy years, a striking contrast presents itself to the mind, when the FEW hardy settlers who welcomed the Lieut-Governor Sir Peregrin Maitland, in 1826, to the gay crowds in the streets on the occasion of the first visit of a Governor-General of all Canada in the person of Lord Aberdeen in 1896. Sir John Colborne was not Governor-General till four years after his visit to Peterborough in 1834.

SALVATION KLONDIKERS.

Farewell Meeting Held Friday Evening in the Barracks—A Party of Eight Persons.

A large number of Salvation Army members and citizens who sympathise with their work gathered in the Barracks Friday evening to bid farewell to the party which is being sent out under the auspices of the Canadian army to the Klondike. The contingent for the gold regions is a pioneer one, and it will depend upon the reports sent back by them whether they will be reinforced. The party consists of six men and two women, whose names are: Adjutant Dowell, who is charge; Ensign McGill, Ensign Morris, Captain Le Cocq, Captain Bloss, Captain Kenny and Miss Ellery and Mrs. Aikin. They will be accompanied to Vancouver by Miss Booth and will hold meetings in the chief cities and towns on the way to the coast for the purpose of raising funds for expedition. The party will take ship at Vancouver, go by way of Skagway and across the Chilcoot Pass to Dawson City. It is believed by the Commandant that there is the greatest need of such a party of workers in Dawson. Miss Booth in her western trip, from which she has just returned, was impressed by the stories she heard from returned Klondikers of the suffering and misery and sin which exist in that city and which will increase with the enlarging population. She believes much can be accomplished by experienced hands for the material as well as the spiritual improvement of the population, and she has selected this pioneer contingent with great care. They have been chosen as well for their physical strength and ruggedness as for their knowledge of human nature, their religious fervour and their sympathy with human suffering. The two women are nurses, who are not only experienced in attending the sick, but can dispense medicine and bandage wounds.

Among the men the most necessary trades are well represented, One is a shoemaker, one a carpenter and others can perform other work of a simple nature called for in a new country. Besides discharging all the usual Salvation Army offices to the people of Dawson City, this party will open a bureau of information primarily for the benefit of their own people who may think of going there and to whom they will furnish reliable and accurate intelligence of the country; and also for the benefit of the world at large. At the meeting last evening several members of the party were present, the members wearing their uniforms. The members of the contingent will take with them a year's supply of provisions and a complete outfit, including a sectional canoe, a stove, a large tent and other necessary articles for the journey by the way.

Finger Nails Came Off.

A wonderful story comes from Emerson, Man., to the effect that Mrs. Jas. Saunders of that place lost her finger nails through a severe attack of Salt Rheum. Nothing seemed to do her any good till she commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters, with the result that the Salt Rheum has all gone and her finger nails gradually grew on again.

SPAIN'S ROYAL SPEECH

Will Not Give Up Cuba on Any Account.

JOINT DEMAND FOR A FREE CUBA

The United States Senate and House of Representatives Agree to Ask Spain to Do That Which She Has Intimated She Will Not Do—War or Backdown Now.

London, April 19.—A special to the Daily News from Madrid says: "The Cabinet Council met at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The session lasted three hours. Senor Sagasta, the Premier, submitted a draft of the speech from the Throne. Its tenor is not precisely known, though it makes an appeal to the highest patriotism of the nation. It summarizes the international problem and points out how Spain has always presented an accommodating front in everything which did not diminish her sovereignty, though she only agreed to grant a cessation of hostilities in Cuba when the Pope made his request and the powers joined in counselling it.

The speech from the Throne appeals to the Spanish people to rally around the young King in order to save the country, and to grant to the Government everything which may be necessary and urgent to defend the national honor and integrity.

Spain Will Not Yield.

It is a matter of comparative indifference to the Spanish people whether the policy of the United States is one of immediate annexation or liberation. It aims at least at the destruction of Spanish sovereignty in Cuba. Spain cannot tamely give up her sovereign rights without a struggle.

To all friendly suggestions of worldly prudence they reply in a calm, dignified manner which commands respect, but where the national honor is concerned prudential considerations must be set aside.

SPAIN NOT SCARED

By the Terms of the U. S. Senate Resolutions—A Conflict Certain.

Madrid, April 19.—The Liberal yesterday reproduces verbatim the United States Senate's Cuban resolution, and remarks that it is not frightened by its reality, though it does not support the rumor in official circles that the proceedings at Washington are a cloak to gain time for further negotiations between the Pope and powers. The Liberal adds: "Such rumors are dangerous, as they lead to popular discontent. The truth is, a conflict is certain. President McKinley is ambitiously following a deliberate plan, and the powers are too jealous of one another to interfere, though they may be driven to suppress hostilities, should their self-interests be endangered. Spain has no allies, and must protect her honor. Let the Government see that it be united Spain."

Carlists Active in England.

London, April 19.—The supporters in England of Don Carlos, the Spanish Pretender, headed by the Earl of Ashburnham, are actively preparing for emergencies. Every detail has been arranged to seize a propitious moment for action. The local Carlists are convinced that the present Spanish dynasty is doomed, and that Spain will be forced to choose between Republicanism and Don Carlos. They add the only chance of the present dynasty is a successful war against the United States, the possibility of which is scouted.

War Is Inevitable.

London, April 19.—General Marcelo de Azcarraga, ex-Foreign Minister of War and Prime Minister, has, a special despatch from Madrid announces, arrived at the Spanish capital in order to attend the meeting of the Cortes. He is quoted as declaring that war is inevitable.

The despatch adds that many Swedish, Brazilian and other foreign officers are offering their service to Spain. The next meeting of the Spanish Cabinet, the despatches further say, will discuss the question of privateering.

Leaflets inciting a popular demonstration have been seized at Madrid.

Disorder at Barcelona.

Barcelona, April 19.—Although Sunday morning passed quietly here, there was a demonstration yesterday evening when the crowds which were gathered in front of the newspaper offices read the latest announcements of the action taken by the United States Senate in regard to Cuba. There was a scene of the greatest excitement and patriotic shouts were raised on all sides. When the students heard the news, on leaving the theatres, they paraded the streets, cheering for Spain, and made an attempt to reach the United States Consulate. The authorities, however, had taken precautions, and the crowds were dispersed.

Another Demonstration.

London, April 19.—A special despatch from Madrid says there was another hostile demonstration outside the American Consulate at Malaga Sunday afternoon. The civil guard dispersed the mob after repeated charges. Three people were injured. Most of the shops were closed.

Spaniards at the Canaries.

Provincetown, Mass., April 19.—Captain Webb of the barkentine Morales, who reached this port from Ponce, Porto Rico, yesterday, reports that on April 6, the day before he sailed from Ponce, eight Spanish torpedo boats arrived at that port from the Canaries. Two Spanish men-of-war were there already. A Spanish cruiser also was sighted in Mona Passage as the vessel sailed.

Expelled From Havana.

London, April 19.—The Times announced this morning that its correspondent has been expelled from Havana. Against the expulsion the Times protests editorially, characterising the act as "another of Spain's efforts to stifle the truth."

What Don Carlos Says.

Venice, April 19.—Don Carlos, in an interview here, which is mainly a repetition of his manifesto, has declared that Spain has mismanaged the Cuban difficulty from the start.

"She should have sought a casus belli a year ago," he said, "when the United States were unprepared, and should have had the courage to bombard New York and to disembark troops upon the coast of Florida. The United States would then have given way. If Spain were now to be vanquished, Cuba would share the fate of California, Texas and Louisiana, and be absorbed by the Anglo-Saxon element."

In reply to a question as to what would happen to Spain after a disastrous war, Don Carlos said: "The future is in the hands of God; but Spaniards would not be likely to rebel against the Government which had known how to vindicate the old Castilian honor."

MANILA PANIC-STRICKEN.

Spanish Officials and Well-to-do Spanish Families Stampeding From the Philippines.

London, April 19.—A special despatch from Singapore says that the steamship Leo XIII., from Manila, has arrived there crowded with Spanish officials and well-to-do Spanish families who are escaping from the rebellion, which is spreading rapidly in the Philippines. They report that Manila is panic-stricken.

Indian Outbreak Feared.

Guthrie, O.T., April 19.—Nearly 1,000 Cheyenne Indians are gathered on the bank of the North Canadian, many miles from the agency, holding a ghost dance. It is feared that the Indians, incited by their medicine men, will take advantage of the absence of troops from neighboring stores to start an uprising to secure more beef rations and in return for the enforcement of the territorial anti-polygamy law, which has caused great discomfort to the tribe.

HOUSE AND SENATE AGREED

That the Interests of the United States and Civilization Requires That Cuba Shall Be Free.

Washington, April 19.—At 1.10 a.m. an agreement was reached by the conferees of the House and Senate. The resolution as agreed is as follows:

Resolved, by the Senate and the House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled:

First—That the people of the Island of Cuba are, and of right ought to be, free and independent.

Second—That it is the duty of the United States to demand, and the Government of the United States does hereby demand, that the Government of Spain at once relinquish its authority and government in the Island of Cuba, and withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters.

Third—That the President of the United States be, and he hereby is, directed and empowered to use the entire land and naval forces of the United States, and to call into the actual service of the United States the militia of the several States to such extent as may be necessary to carry these resolutions into effect.

Fourth—That the United States hereby disclaims any disposition or intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over said Island except for the pacification thereof, and asserts its determination when that is accomplished, to leave the government and control of the Island to its people.

Senate Adopts It.

Washington, April 19, 1.45 a.m.—The Senate has adopted the report of the Conference Committee by a vote of 42 to 35. In the House a motion to adopt it has been made, and the previous question moved. A parliamentary squabble is delaying a vote.

The Senate adjourned at 1.50 a.m.

In the House.

Washington, April 19.—The ayes and noes were demanded in the House on the previous question. It carried 171 to 121. A vote is now (2.30 a.m.) being taken on the adoption of the Conference report. Democrats and Republicans are voting for it solidly.

By 310 Ayes to 6 Nays.

Washington, April 19.—The final roll call in the House on the adoption of the report showed 310 ayes and 6 nays. The resolution goes to the President in the morning.

A Voice From Rome.

New York, April 19.—A despatch to the World from Rome, Italy, says: "We wish war between America and Spain might be averted," said an official of Italy's Foreign Ministry, "but we recognize that Spain has not the same right over Cuba that God Almighty has.

"Spain forgot that her rights were subordinate to her duties, and she must pay the penalty.

"The powers of Europe never even dreamed of making a naval demonstration against the United States in favor of Spain."

Still at Cape Verde.

New York, April 19.—A despatch to the World from St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, says: The torpedo flotilla, under the guardianship of the armored cruisers Cristobal Colon and Infanta Maria Teresa, still remains anchored in the bay here, ready to sail, but without orders from Madrid. There has been no change in the fleet, no arrival, no departure.

Spaniards Are Departing.

Washington, April 19.—Under instructions from Minister Polo, Spanish consuls are arranging for departure of Spaniards in their localities.

O'Higgins Not Secured.

Washington, April 19.—It was stated at the Navy Department yesterday afternoon that the efforts to secure the Chilian battleship O'Higgins have been practically abandoned and that there is no longer any prospect that the United States desires or will be able to secure any more ships, either belonging to foreign nations or being built in foreign shipyards.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

Mr. Balfour in no Hurry About Neutrality Notification.

London, April 19.—The House of Commons resumed its sessions yesterday after the Easter recess. Mr. James Lowther (Conservative) asked the Government whether, "in view of the apparent imminence of war between two States with which we are on most friendly terms," it was not the intention of the Government to "immediately notify all British subjects of the necessity for the observance of strict neutrality"

Mr. A. J. Balfour, the Government leader and acting Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in reply, said he saw "no reason to depart from the universal practice of awaiting an outbreak of hostilities."

Want Consular Reports.

Mr. Edward J. Morton (Liberal) asked if Her Majesty's Government could procure through the United States Embassy, for the use of Parliament, copies of the consular reports from Cuba presented to the Congress of the United States.

Mr. Balfour, in reply, said he was not aware that there was any machinery to carry out such an unusual demand, but said the Government would be glad to consider it.

SIR CHARLES DILKE

Says the Fighting Will Be Naval—If the U. S. Wins at Sea War Will Be Short,

London, April 19.—Sir Charles Dilke, Radical, is quoted in an interview on the Spanish-American crisis as expressing the opinion that the two opposing fleets are about evenly balanced, adding: "Therefore the decisive action will be fought at sea. If the Americans win the war will be over. If Spain wins it will be the beginning of a long struggle, which must end in the crushing defeat of Spain."

Continuing, Sir Charles Dilke ridiculed the idea of the Spaniards shelling cities, pointing out that it would be no advantage to Spain for her to do so.

Sir Charles Dilke then expressed the opinion that both sides should be allowed access to British coaling stations, allowing 24 hours to elapse between the departure of one nation's ships and the arrival of their enemy to coal. He also said that he anticipated considerable trouble from the chaotic state of international law, announced that his sympathies were with the United States, and explained that the United States was quite right in interfering in Cuba, adding: "Althought I pity the grand old empire of Spain, which is crumbling."

France Proud of Her Foreign Policy.

Paris, April 19.—Prime Minister Meline yesterday made an important pre-election speech at Remiremont. He eulogized the foreign policy of France, which, he said, had prevented the Graeco-Turkish conflict from becoming a general conflagration. The present Ministry, he added, had obtained a solemn and definite consecration of Franco-Russian alliance, which gives incomparable force to France's foreign policy.

STEEL ARCH 840 FEET LONG.

Stately Bridge Built on the Site of the Old Suspension at Niagara Falls.

Buffalo, April 19.—The old suspension bridge across the Niagara River, connecting the Queen Victoria Park with Niagara Falls city, N.Y., has been converted into an arch bridge of the same model as the Grand Trunk's new single-arch bridge which spans the river lower down.

The new bridge is of the same pattern as the one built for the Grand Trunk, but is larger and has a greater span of arch, but is not calculated to sustain such heavy traffic as crosses the railroad company's bridge. The steel arch of the new bridge has a span of 840 feet, and the full length of the bridge is 1,240 feet. The length of the arch in the Grand Trunk bridge is 550 feet, and the length of the bridge, including approaches, is 1,100 feet. The centre of the new bridge is 190 feet above the river, and from this elevated position an excellent view is obtained of the Falls.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A BIG gas explosion in Ottawa. It didn't occur on the Opposition benches, either.

THE United States army is mobilizing—mob-ilize is a good word to use in relation to Uncle Sam's untried levies.

THE cruisers New Orleans and San Francisco have reached New York in safety at last. It took them nineteen days to cross from England. They won't, the Buffalo Express thinks, make the Spaniards run very fast at that rate.

THE American press prints detailed programmes of how they are going to smash Spain. Havana is to be reduced to subjection in an hour or two and without any particular trouble by what one American paper calls the mosquito fleet, composed of tugs, yachts, etc. There are people living who remember that the suppression of the Southern rising in the sixties was to be a mere breakfast "spell" that, however, lasted some four or five years. When the Eagle spreads she spreads "for keeps."

THE defeat of the Kettle River Railway bill is taken much to heart in some quarters, since it was regarded as a competing line to the C.P.R. It is probable that the factor that entered most largely into the rejection of the bill was the unconscious hostility that animated the breasts of the people's representatives. The promoter of the charter to be created by the bill was an American. The Americans have not met Canadians generously in trading and mining matters in the far west. It is therefore possible that unintentional reprisal was the main motive that underlay the rejection of the bill, without any particular reference to its possible importance as a competing line.

THE Navy & Army Illustrated of April 2nd, contains the first instalment of an interesting and well-illustrated article on the Canadian militia. An extremely appreciative reference is made to the Canadian contingent at the Diamond Jubilee. "Those who saw anything of the military contingent who came over last year," says The Navy & Army Illustrated, "could not fail to be impressed by their excellent physique and soldierly bearing. The officials and correspondents who went to meet them at Euston, at some very late hour on their arrival, were loud in praise of the discipline which prevailed, and the ease and tranquility characteristic of old soldiers, rather than of militiamen, with which they got into their places and marched off on a long tramp to Chelsea Barracks." Further on the article refers to the way in which, in respect of uniform, etc., our militia has shown some desire to "emulate the British army in their general efficiency of turn-out." It adds:—"In this latter respect no one who saw the cavalry paraded with their fine mounts at Chelsea Barracks would hesitate in saying that they succeeded, and most of the infantrymen were nearly up to the standard of the Guards."

SENATE reform or Senate extinction seems to be cropping up as a live question very much in contrast with the moribund character of the venerable body discussed. The Senate, as at present divided, is an accident of political circumstances. During the long regime of the Conservative party most of its members were appointed and the created has been as faithful to its creator as was to be expected. The Senate has been the willing tool of the Conservative party and nothing so repellant to sound ideas of political morality performed, or even perpetrated, by a Conservative Government has been able to agitate its grave and reverend stomach with so much as a qualm. But the moment the Senate gets a chance to knife a Liberal Government the steel is used with little or no consideration of how gravely the interests of the country are prejudically affected. The senate might perform a useful function in legislation but as it is at present constituted it is only a withered but still powerful disturbing and disintegrating element. If some reform could be brought about by which something like a representative character—that is, representative of the people—and a consequent condition of responsibility could be established, many of the objections that can now be fairly urged against the Senate would disappear. The Senate has as much power as the Czar of Russia, and is no more responsible to the Canadian public.

AN AMERICAN VIEW OF IMPERIAL UNITY.

In commenting upon the tariff legislation recently introduced in the Canadian Parliament, the New York Evening Post has the following to say of the course of the Liberal administration in promoting the unity of the British Empire:—"In the short space of two years the Liberal Government have made at least three notable addances towards imperial unity, and every advance has been along sound lines of economic policy. They have never raised the whine that action should come from the imperial authorities. Indeed, they have practically repudiated that demand for preferential treatment which a few years ago gave rise to the political epigram that Britain had lost her American colonies a century since because she had tried to tax them, and that now she was to lose the rest of them because she was unwilling to let them tax her. The Liberal Government have acted, while the Conservative Government only talked."

This succinct comparison of the methods of the two parties is followed, in the article from which we quote, by a criticism of Mr. Chamberlain, who is put in the same class with Conservatives, inasmuch as he confines himself to talking. "He signalised his advent to the Colonial Office by a series of flamboyant speeches," says the Post, "but it all ended in talk." He put aside Mr. Mulock's suggestion for cheaper postage, in the hope, it is hinted of getting credit for initiating such a measure himself later on. He sent a commission to the West Indies and talked about relieving them. "but nothing of any importance was done till Canada again took the initiative and gave a preference to British West Indian sugar." The criticism of Mr. Chamberlain, it is fair to say, is not just, for it should be remembered that he had a large share in securing the denunciation of the German and Belgian treaties without which the act of the Dominion Liberals might have been inoperative.

This approbation of the course of the Liberal Government [illegible] from a paper that [illegible] very front rank of [illegible] press, and whose comments on economic subjects are everywhere looked upon as authoritative, must be regarded as decidedly encouraging by those who believe the Laurier Government are moving in the direction of free trade within the Empire. "Canada," the article continues, "has wisely refrained from treating an imperial question in a huckstering spirit. It has wisely refrained from this attempt to drive a bargain, which in the sad case of the sugar islands, would have been a hard bargain. It is being criticised by its opponents for not demanding a quid pro quo, but it has followed the part of wisdom in refusing to make terms with a sister colony. If imperial unity is ever to be made more than a mere sentiment, it can be made so only by following out the policy of Canada in the matter of free-will offerings and voluntary concessions.

"The opponents of the Government in Canada are criticising the policy as easy statesmanship and twitting the Liberals with having forgotten their old maxim of free trade as it is in England; but they forget that free trade as it is in England was brought about just by the same means, by resolutely refusing to make bargains with other nations. Mr. Fielding, in his budget speech, showed that he had recognized, as his critics had not, that free trade was not a species of fair trade, according to which no nation should make a reduction in its tariff till a corresponding reduction had been made by a rival nation. The Conservative party in Canada are evidently still of the opinion that a tariff concession benefits only the country to whom it is given, and that it is a loss to the country that grants it. The Liberals have at least learned the elementary economic lesson that one country does not necessarily lose by what another gains, and accordingly are prepared to make concessions, within the empire at least, without waiting for other countries to make corresponding concessions." — Montreal Herald.

"THE VERGE OF DESPAIR."

This is Where the Senate has Brought British Columbians.

The Victoria, B.C., Times says:—With much of what The Colonist says this morning in regard to the urgency of immediate action being taken to push forward into the Yukon District a Canadian Railway, we agree. We have written and written, and urged and urged, and done our best to awaken the people to a sense of their danger in falling asleep on top of the chance of their lives to make western Canada the richest and most prosperous of the British colonies; but the apathy and indolence of Government and people, and the treacherous and narrow-minded action of the Tory majority in the Senate, have all but brought us to the verge of despair. Canada has so many internal enemies; men born in Canada, but working against her best interests and doing all in their power to thwart legislation that will do the country good, that it is no wonder Canada's friends sometimes feel despair seizing them. In regard to the Yukon, all Canada should be as one man with one aim; but what is the case? It is simply throat-cutting and mean party spite all round. The Tory majority in the Senate want a whack at the Laurier Government, and, although convinced that their action will damage Canada almost irreparably, they sing patriotism, manliness, common sense and decency and deal their country the renegade's dastard blow, for the mean satisfaction of embarrassing their political opponents. In ancient Rome they crucified and burned their traitors. To British Columbia the action of the Senate possessed tremendous importance. The destinies of the Province are bound up, so to speak, with the construction of the Yukon road; all men in British Columbia should be agreed on the single point that something must be done without delay. We note the Colonist's suggestions, which are practical, and we join in urging the two Governments to take immediate action. The miserable, childish party squabbling, which is at once the wonder and the amusement of all strangers who visit Canada, should be dropped for once until this Yukon Railway matter is settled—then gaily and with renewed vigour at one another's throats again and tear the windpipes out by the roots, if so please the partizans; the more killed the better the sport and the bigger the funeral. British Columbia has an ugly habit of remaining passive when it ought to be tackling hard work without gloves. There is now a chance for British Columbians to show the world they are not dead but have only been sleeping, and by so doing secure to themselves some of the desirable Yukon traffic. We wish we could say something hard enough and irritating enough to raise this community about our ears with a roar of rage—then we could talk to the awakened and aroused community in a way that would do them good, and perhaps we might even then indulge the wild, giddy hope that British Columbia would actually do something—besides snore.

DRESSING WELL.

Is Quite Easy When You Know How to Do It.

There are too many women who are careless about their home gowns. They imagine they are thrifty and economical because they put on from day to day a faded or dingy dress or skirt. Such women are neither economical nor wise—they are either misers, or indifferent to the feelings of their family or friends when they act thus.

At an expense of from ten to twenty cents for one or two packages of Diamond Dyes any woman can make her faded gowns or skirts as good as new. This kind of home work is wisdom and true economy.

This spring thousands of wise and thrifty women are using the Diamond Dyes, giving new life to old and cast-off dresses and costumes, fitting them for another season's wear.

When you decide to dye do not risk your materials with poor dyes or imitations of the Diamond Diamond Dyes; see that your dealer gives you the "Diamond," that works so easily and successfully.

His nerves were all unstrung, his sleep bad and appetite poor. He commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills and is now completely cured.

FODDER CHEESE.

The Commissioner of Agriculture Sounds a Needed Note of Warning—Ottawa Budget.

Ottawa, Ont,, April 19.—"I hope," said Prof. Robertson yesterday, "that the patrons of cheese factories will support the cheese manufacturers in refraining from making fodder cheese this season. Such cheese are intrinsically of an inferior quality to those which are made after the cows are on pasture. They do not keep well; they do not please the ultimate consumers; they tend to lessen the consumption of cheese, and they have a depressing influence on the market. In a year like this, the cheese trade during the whole summer season would be greatly injured by the manufacture of a large quantity of fodder cheese in April and May. It will pay the farmers directly to turn the milk which they have into butter-making, the raising of calves and the feeding of pigs, until the cows are turned out to pasture, and it will pay them indirectly but very substantially by giving the cheese market a chance to recover from the depressed condition in which it has been all winter.

HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes, Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? In Death. A premature, horrible, agonized, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

SOME OPPOSITION CHARGES.

Mr. Talbot's Unqualified Denial—Searching for a Scandal—The Nickel Steel Company's Bill Sent Back—Referred to the Railway Committee—Mr. Casey's Railway Employes' Safety Bill.

Ottawa, April 19.—During the protracted sitting of the House early on Saturday morning consequent upon the refusal of Mr. Wallace and Mr. Davin to stand by the pledge given to the Government by Sir Charles Tupper that the budget debate should close on Friday, light refreshments were partaken of by several members who had then been seventy hours in their places without food or drink. It is not usual to have luncheon served in the chamber, but the circumstances were altogether extraordinary. Mr. Davin was speaking, and this fact alone contributed in no small measure to the fatigue of those who were obliged to listen to him. Sir Richard Cartwright, who is an authority on Parliamentary form, had a cup of tea and a sandwich brought to his desk, and Mr. Tarte ordered sandwiches and ginger ale for himself and the weary souls around him. If the Liberal members had left the chamber during the sitting the object of Mr. Wallace and Mr. Davin in detaining the House would have been accomplished. The House would have been counted out and the debate would have gone over into another week, the very thing that the Government wished to avert, as the subject had been exhausted by several days' talking. Not being able to go to the restaurant, they were obliged to have brought to them the moderate refreshment that exhausted nature demanded. All this was innocent enough, but it shocked the delicate sensibilities of such proper gentlemen as Major Beattie of London, Mr. Davin and Mr. Bennett of Simcoe, who endeavored to make it appear that something improper was taking place on the Government side of the House. Mr. Bennett accused a member of smoking a cigar in the House, Mr. Beattie said that liquor was being drunk and that members appeared to be intoxicated, while Mr. Davin named Mr. Talbot, the member for Bellechasse, as the person to whom Mr. Beattie's observation particularly referred. At that early hour in the morning, when parliamentary rules cannot be too strictly enforced, the incident was allowed to pass as a joke, but as the remarks of these gentlemen appeared on Hansard it was necessary for Mr. Talbot to call attention to them yesterday.

Immediately Mr. Speaker Edgar had taken the chair he did so by saying: Mr. Speaker, I ask your protection and the withdrawal of this charge.

After a long discussion, the Speaker closed the incident with these words: There are no rules of the House that I know of that would prevent an hon. member from bringing into the House one or more bottles of ginger ale. But it is evident that such a practice must give rise to unpleasant scenes, and I have no doubt that it will not occur again. The subject dropped and the House got to business.

An hour or more was spent considering private bills, several of which were cleared from the order paper and sent up to the Senate. There was some discussion on the bill to incorporate the Nickel Steel Company.

Mr. Lariviere pointed out that the bill proposed to give extraordinary powers regarding railway construction, and he would like the Railway Committee to consider the measure. There was considerable discussion upon the point, but eventually Mr. Lariviere's view prevailed.

Third and Second Readings.

The following bills, among others, were read the third time:

To incorporate the Cowichan Valley Railway Company—Mr. McInnes.

To incorporate the Lewes River Tramway Company, Limited—Mr. Morrison.

To incorporate the Miles Canyon & White Horse Tramway Company—Mr. Bostock.

Respecting the Edmonton District Railway Company—Mr. Oliver.

Respecting the Lake Manitoba Railway & Canal Company—Mr. Jameson.

Respecting the Calgary & Edmonton Railway Company—Mr. Clarke.

Respecting the Queenston Heights Bridge Company—Mr. Clarke.

The following private bill was read a second time:

An Act to incorporate the Subsidiary High Court of the Ancient Order of Foresters in the Dominion of Canada—Mr. Landerkin.

Information Dispensed.

Mr. Taylor was informed that no arrangements had yet been made for disposition of this season's output of binder twine from Kingston Penitentiary. Tenders had been called by circular, and they are now under consideration by the department.

Mr Roche was informed that 183,170 bushels of foreign corn were imported into Manitoba between July 1 and Dec. 31 last.

Safety of Railroaders.

After recess Mr. Casey's bill to "further secure the safety of railway employes and passengers" was considered in committee. It provides that all cars fitted with air brakes shall within two years be provided with an automatic device for registering any disarrangement of the air pipes; also that freight cars shall be of a standard height and have a top rail and ladders. Other clauses provide penalties for using non-standard cars and for a scale of compensation to employes in case of accident. Messrs. Casey and Ingram supported the bill, but the Minister of Railways expressed doubt as to the power of Parliament to enact the penalty and compensation clauses, so the bill was allowed to stand for the present.

The balance of the evening was occupied in discussing the bill of Mr. Richardson (Liberal, Lisgar), which he declared was simply designed to make civil servants' salaries liable to garnishee for debt.

Mr. Richardson's bill consisted of three clauses. He moved to substitute new clauses for the first and second and to drop the third clause altogether.

On Sir Richard Cartwright's suggestion the clauses will be reprinted before being brought down again.

Paine's Celery Compound the Great Medical Prescription for Neuralgia, Sciatica and Rheumatism.

Beware of Imitations!

"PAINE'S" IS THE KIND THAT CURES

The quiet little town of Quyon, situated on the Ottawa river, has furnished many a strong and convincing testimonial for earth's most popular medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. One of the latest letters received is from Mrs. David Rass, a lady well known and highly esteemed; she writes as follows:

Wells & Richardson Co.,

Dear Sirs:—I have much pleasure in testifying to the worth of your life-saving medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. I was a victim of neuralgia in its worst form for many years, and no tongue can describe the agonies I suffered. A friend recommended your Compound to me, and after using two bottles I am completely cured. I cheerfully recommend Paine's Celery Compound to the world, especially to all who suffer the agonizing tortures of neuralgia.

Yours very truly,
Mrs. David Rass, Quyon, P.Q.

Postage Stamps.

Stamps were put on the market in August, 1847, but were so little used that the government had to pass a law enforcing prepayment of postage, which went into effect in 1855. Before this action was taken scarcely one letter in a dozen was found with a stamp affixed. Today the postoffices of the country sell 4,000,000,000 stamps (counting postal cards, stamped envelopes and stamps of all kinds), valued at $75,000,000, during a single year.

Many English accident insurance companies charge an extra premium when their policy holders travel in Canada or the United States.

The diamond mining companies of South Africa estimate their losses by theft at £1,000,000 a year, of which they recover about one-half.

Rose and Then Fell Below the Opening in Chicago—A Decrease of Nearly a Million Bushels in the Visible.

Monday Evening, April 18.

July wheat declined ⅝c to-day in Chicago, May and the remoter options remaining about unchanged. The market at first advanced 1c a bushel on the continued foreign demand, but on free offerings and large sales fell to below opening quotations. Corn advanced in Chicago from ⅛c to ⅜c on the strength of the big decrease in the visible supply. Oats ruled steady, as did also provisions. Wheat closed ¼d higher in London, from 20c to 30c higher in Paris and 37½c higher at Antwerp.

Visible and Afloat.

As compared with a week ago the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States has decreased 975,000 bushels; that of corn 5,183,000 bushels; that of oats 794,000 bushels. Following is a comparative statement for the week ending to-day, the preceding week and the corresponding week last year:

	April 18, 1898.	April 10, 1897.	April 11, 1898.
Wheat, bu.	29,154,000	36,979,000	30,129,000
Corn, bu.	34,917,000	24,103,000	40,100,000
Oats, bu.	12,746,000	13,637,000	13,540,000

The quantity of wheat afloat is placed at 30,380,000 bushels, a decrease of 440,000 bushels for the week, and that of corn at 13,440,000 bushels, a decrease of 240,000 bushels for the week. Following are comparative figures of wheat and corn afloat to-day, a week ago and a year ago:

	April 18, 1898.	April 11, 1898.	April 19, 1897.
Wheat, bu.	30,380,000	30,760,000	16,720,000
Corn, bu.	13,440,000	13,680,000	12,160,000

To recapitulate, the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States with that afloat for Europe is to-day 68,514,000 bushels, as against 53,690,000 bushels a year ago. These figures show the big increase of 14,815,000 bushels.

Finger Nails Came Off.

A wonderful story comes from Emerson, Man., to the effect that Mrs. Jas. Saunders of that place lost her finger nails through a severe attack of Salt Rheum. Nothing seemed to do her any good till she commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters, with the result that the Salt Rheum has all gone and her finger nails gradually grew on again.

JOAQUIN CRESPO KILLED.

The President of the Venezuelan Republic Was Slain While Fighting the Rebels.

New York, April 19.—A special to the Evening World from Caracas, Venezuela, says President Joaquin Crespo of Venezuela was killed Saturday while engaged in a battle with Hernandez, the leader of the rebel forces.

Heard Nothing of It.

Washington, April 19.—Up to 4 o'clock yesterday no word had come to Senor Andrade, the Venezuelan Minister here, of the killing of ex-President Crespo by rebels. The Minister's brother, General Andrade, is now President of Venezuela, having succeeded Crespo. The Minister thought it strange he had received no advices from Venezuela, but said there had been fighting in the part of Venezuela in which General Crespo was last reported.

Will Cost $200,000.

Toronto, April 18.—Assessment Commissioner Fleming estimates that it would cost the city at least $200,000 to expropriate the sites and buildings required for the laying out of Victoria square in front of the new municipal buildings. He will so report to the Board of Control as soon as they are ready to deal with the matter.

RED WAR THE ONLY POSSIBLE OUTCOME.

The United States is Firm and Spain Unyielding.

THE JOINT RESOLUTION SIGNED.

It is Generally Regarded as a Virtual Declaration of War.

Spain's Surrender of Cuban Sovereignty is the Only Hope of Peace —And Spain Will not Surrender—No Sign of Giving Way on Either Side—War an Any Day Certainty.

The Hispano-American situation is more war-like; in effect, it is war. The President of the United States will sign, as the Vice-President has signed already, the joint resolution before this is read, and this is regarded as a declaration of war, since Spain is required to withdraw her land and naval forces from Cuba and surrender her sovereignty.

Spain will be allowed only 24, or at the most, 48 hours to comply. She is not in the mood to comply, and war is sure to result, for the President and his Cabinet are united in regard to the situation.

War is as good as declared.

Cubans Cry for War.

Havana, April 19.—Quiet prevails here. The streets present a more lively appearance than they did a few days ago. Prominent people believe war may yet be averted, but business is almost paralyzed, no contracts are being entered into, and the papers are urging Spain to declare war immediately.

The Powers Still Dabbling.

London, April 19.—It is reported that that the Dreibund or Triple Alliance (composed of Germany, Austria and Italy) acting upon the suggestion of Italy, has proposed to the powers the formation of a plebiscite (the vote of a whole country, namely, Cuba in this case) to settle the Cuban question, meaning that the population of Cuba should be allowed to vote for the form of government most popular there McKinley Signs the Cuban Resolution.

Washington, April 19.—President McKinley has decided to sign the Cuban resolutions almost immediately after it reaches him and will notify Congress promptly that he has signed them.

Congress meets at noon, and as the resolutions before presentation to the President must be signed by both Vice-President Hobart and Speaker Reed it is thought at the White House that it will between 12 30 and 1 o'clock before the resolutions will reach the White House for Executive approval. Soon after his signature is affixed to the joint resolution, which every one here expects is the prelude to war, Mr. McKinley will notify the Spanish Government that he has signed the resolution and that its provisions require that Spain shall immediately withdraw her land and naval forces from Cuba and surrender her sovereignty over the Island. His notification likewise will state that the United States expects a prompt compliance with its terms. The time within which Spain will be required to make answer to this ultimatum will be determined upon at to-day's cabinet meeting, but it is not unlikely that 24 or 48 hours will be the time limit. It is not improbable that this final message to the Queen Regent may be communicated through Senor Polo, the Spanish Minister, although this point also will be left to the decision of the Cabinet. Under any conditions it is thought that of United States naval forces will be delayed not more than two or three days at the longest. Everyone connected with the administration realizes that war is to be expected as the result of our ultimatum and from this time forth the President and the members of his cabinet, it is said, will act as a unit in the execution of a most vigorous policy.

Spain Thinks it is War.

MADRID, April, 19.—The general belief in Madrid that the joint resolution makes war inevitable.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The Vice-President has signed the Cuban resolution.

A CATHEDRAL WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Ida Rivet and Mr. Richard J. Cavanagh this Morning.

A nuptial event was celebrated in St. Peter's Cathedral this morning, in which more than usual interest was taken on account of the extreme popularity of the young people concerned.

It was the occasion of the wedding of Mr. Richard J. Cavanagh and Miss Ida Rivet. The ceremony was performed by Ven. Archdeacon Casey in the presence of a large number of the friends of the bride and groom.

The bride was prettily dressed in a blue-grey costume trimmed with braid, and with rose-coloured shot silk front. She was assisted by Miss B. Phelan of Lakefield.

The groomsman was Mr. Geo White.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the Snowden House when a most tempting wedding breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Cavanagh left on the noon train for the east, where they will visit Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec.

The young couple were the recipients of an unusually large number of pretty presents. The guests of the Snowden House presented the bride with $30.00 in gold and a beautiful chair was given by the boarders of the Grand Central. A number of the groom's friends united in getting for him a handsome bedroom suite. The gift of the groom to the bride was a diamond pin whilst the groomsman's present was a silver tea service.

THIS MORNING'S FIRE.

It Was Another Burning Chimney—Too Many Alarms are Being Sent in From These Sources.

Another burning chimney was the cause of the fire brigade being summoned to Smith street, shortly after nine o'clock this morning.

Citizens should exercise more discretion in sending in alarms, and before doing so ought to ascertain whether the blaze amounts to anything or not. At this time of the year chimneys are encrusted with soot which must either be removed or else burned out. As light wood is now being used creating a hot fire, the soot is more liable to break into a blaze than during the winter.

A little forethought in the way of ascertaining whether the fire in the chimney is apt to prove serious would save the brigade from many a long run. Almost every day a false alarm comes in for a blazing chimney, and if a serious conflagration should break out in some part of the town whilst the brigade was answering some such call, much damage might result before a return to the fire hall could be made and the men dispatched to the point from which the second alarm was sent in.

OUR LADY OF THE SUNSHINE.

As a "counterblast" to Kiplings well meant, but unfortunately labelled poem, the Midsummer Annual of that enterprising publisher, "Our Lady of the Sunshine," will be worthy of a patriotically cordial reception.

"Our Lady of the Sunshine" will endeavor to give to the world as large a true idea of the bright and sunny aspects of Canadian life. The unstinted approval with which the idea of this publication has been greeted has been highly encouraging to its projectors, and numerous orders for its delivery at Midsummer are already being received, its popular price (25 cents) placing it within the reach of all. Among the contributors will be:—Sir James M. Lemoine, Hon. J. D. Edgar, Hon. David Mills, Rev. Prof. Wm. Clark, Prof. Chas. G. D. Roberts, Kit, Jean Blewett, Mary Keegan, Madge Merton, Louis Honore Frechette, Dr. Drummond, Wilfred W. Campbell, Archibald Lampman, Duncan Campbell Scott, Frederick George Scott, W. A. Fraser, F. Clifford Smith, R. S. Cassels.

Among the artistic features of "Our Lady of the Sunshine," which appears to be catching on" all over Canada, will be the following reproductions in colours of works by Canadian painters. "Pansies," by Mary Hiester Reid; "The Lady of the Lake," a beautiful picture of a bather in Lake Ontario, by E. Wyly Grier, R.C.A., (specially painted for the publication); "The Oxen," by Maurice Cullen, of Montreal, and "L'Allegro," a fine head of a beautiful girl, by A. Dickson Patterson, R.C.A. All these pictures, being reproductions of oil paintings, will be worthy of framing. In addition to these the body of the magazine will be features lavishly illustrated.

A PRESENTATION

To Miss M. Bantin, Prior to her Departure From Port Perry for Peterborough.

(Port Perry Standard.)

A very large gathering of young people met at the home of Mr. C. J. Pearce, on Monday, April 11th, to spend a few happy moments with their loved and respected friend, Miss M Bantie, who is soon to leave our midst to reside in Peterborough. Miss Libbie Pearce read the following address :—

DEAR SISTER BANTIN,—We, your sisters and brethren in the S.O.T., are here to-night to convey to you our regret on hearing of your intended departure from our midst. Be assured, dear sister that we will often miss your pleasant smile and helpful word, as well as the services of song which you have so freely given on every occasion. We trust that you may be to others who will surround you in your new home what you have been to us, and that other hearts may be gladdened and other lives be brightened by the happy influence you have ever exerted in our midst. We hope that when you are forming new associations and friendships you will not entirely forget the old friends of Port Perry Sons of Temperance, but that you will occasionally think of the pleasant times spent in the division room. Dear sister, we wish you to accept this ladies' companion and ink well and pen, as a very small token of our love, and we trust, you may value it, not only for its intrinsic worth, but for the motive that prompted it. Again we wish you every prosperity and happiness in your new home, and pray it at the Hand that has led us thus far may lead us to the haven of rest, where parting is no more.

Signed in behalf of the S.O.T.,

LIBBIE PEARCE,
MAY BENNETT, W.P.
MAUD KYLE, R.S.

Miss Bantin replied in a very appropriate manner, after which many amusing and interesting games were played, when all returned to their own homes with best wishes for their worthy friend.

It was a Great Success Under the Auspices of the C.L.A. Last Night.

The Flag Social which was held last evening under the auspices of the Catholic Literary Association proved a great success. It was well attended and the programme passed off in a manner which reflected great credit on the committee of management. Music was provided by Miss McCabe and Miss Lottie Ball. Refreshments were served during the evening.

HONOUR TO WHOM HONOUR IS DUE.

"One who was There" Tells who the Leaders Were.

To the Editor of The Examiner :

DEAR SIR,—In yesterday's issue of THE EXAMINER there appeared the copy of a paper given by Miss Dunlop, stating that in the rebellion of '37 the militia from Peterborough county was under the command of Col. McDonell and Capt. Cowall, which is a mistake. The names of the leaders were Lieut.-Col. Brown, Capt. Thompson and Capt. Armstrong.

I have re-opened the "Star" grocery, corner of Water and Hunter streets, Peterborough, with a fresh and carefully selected stock of choice family groceries—teas, sugars, provisions and everything usually found in a well-stocked grocery. The premises is well known, having lately been occupied by W. H. Bill's insurance agency, and formerly known as the "Star" grocery, adjoining the Morgan House. As I intend to do a strictly cash business I can guarantee my customers the very best value in everything they buy. Soliciting the patronage of my friends and the public generally.—P. ROBINSON.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH NOTES.

A Letter of Condolence to the Pastor—Election of Officers at the Semi-Annual Meeting.

The local lodges of the Independent Order of Oddfellows will attend divine worship next Sabbath evening, April 24th, at 7 o'clock, when the Rev. Jas. G. Potter will preach.

The anniversary of the opening of the church will be celebrated by special services conducted by the Rev. Malcolm McGillivray of Kingston, on Sunday, May 1st, at 11 a.m., and 7 p.m.

The following letter of condolence has been received by the pastor of St. Andrew's :

To our Beloved Pastor :

Whereas it has pleased our Heavenly Father to call home to her reward your dear mother, we, the members of your church, desire to convey to you and to your esteemed father who is well known to us all, our heartfelt sympathy in your bereavement. We know the sorrow it causes to be called upon to part with our dear ones, but what a consolation it is when we know they are not lost to us, although removed, but only gone before.

Your mother's work on earth was finished according to God's plans, and she has now entered upon that blessed rest prepared for all who love the Lord. We sincerely sympathise with you in your bereavement, and we know that although the loss to you is very great, yet you can discern God's hand in it and know that "this also cometh from the Lord of hosts," who though "wonderful in counsel" is ever excellent in working.

Our earnest prayer to God is that this severe trial through which you are called to pass at this time may be sanctified to you all. Yet a little while and He that shall come will come and will not tarry." Soon shall death-divided friends meet never again to know separation, and all the bitter tears and parting of a weeping world will be over. May you all be able to look forward to that blessed hope and that glorious appearing when "them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him," and may the Great Comforter give you that grace at this time which He has specially promised, and may the thought reconcile you and enable you to bear all that has been permitted by a kind and loving Father who cannot err and who doeth all things well.

Signed on behalf of congregration.

THE RANGERS' ANNUAL OUTING

To be Taken This Year on the 24th of May.

The battalion has received several tempting offers for a holiday outing on May 24th, the places mentioned being Napanee—an excellent place and the nearest — Kingston and Ottawa. The battalion, with a commendable spirit of home loyalty, thinks it would be just as well to take their jaunt on May 24th, so as to leave them clear to remain in town and join with the festivities incident to the wheelmen's meet on July 1st.

It will therefore be necessary for the boys to turn out promptly and regularly to drill so that they may be in inspection shape for the trip on the 24th of May. We have got the reputation of having a crack battalion—and the records show it—and we should keep up that reputation by the battalion putting itself in the best shape possible. To this end faithful and regular drill is necessary. Let every member of the battalion make it a point to be out at every drill parade.

'TIS THE VOICE OF THE GRUMBLER.

I Heard Him Complain, "I Have Growled to no Purpose, But I'll Grumble Again."

A citizen, in a voice muffled with street dust, wished the EXAMINER to inquire whether the tax collector has got any further west on Hunter street than the railway track. The watering tank stops there suddenly and the people who live further west do not apparently pay taxes, for the watering cart has not made its appearance. The citizen is informed that they have all paid their taxes, but that does not apparently make any difference with our "city fathers."

They take on their own deliberate gait,
And if people get anxious, 'twill soothe them to wait.

The water carts were out of order—they seem to be about as trustworthy as a Yankee battleship—and to-day the remains, after patching, have been turned over to Contractor Cameron, who has the district west of Bethune street in the centre district and it is expected that he will begin his fight with the dust to-day.

The south ward people are sharpening a stick for the councillor who is responsible for the neglect to destroy the caterpillar bracelets on the trees in the banner ward. One south ward citizen prophesied that the councillor to blame would, figuratively, at the next elections, meet the fate of Herod, be eaten by worms (caterpillars) and give up the ghost of political life. He added that a representative might well have a soul above sewers.

Driver Lawrence deserves credit for making a sharp spurt to get at the fire this morning.

Speaking of fires, the proper place for a fire is hardly in the chimney. It's a great nuisance to the firemen to be called out on what is practically a fool's errand. Within a few days several false alarms—or at least alarms that amounted to nothing—have been sent in. The people who keep their chimneys, filled with the winter's accumulation of soot, are to blame, but not all to blame.

There is a bylaw of the town requiring chimneys to be cleaned twice a year. Section 25 of this bylaw (395) reads thus :

That the occupant of every house within the said town (of Peterborough) shall cause every chimney and flue in his or her house, in which a fire is constantly made or kept, to be thoroughly swept at least twice between the first days of October and April in every year ; and in case of a chimney in daily use in a manufactory, once in every eight weeks throughout the year.

This bylaw has long been slumbering in pigeon holes of the town vaults and has laughed in its sleeve as it heard the boom of the alarm bell and the thunder of the brigade rushing out of the fire hall, on a wild goose chase. The bylaw soliloquises something thus : "I could prevent all this waste of horse flesh, this wear and tear of the fire apparatus and waste of firemen's valuable time, but the city fathers, who have charge of me, don't take the trouble to put me to work and I've got so used to resting that I don't like to be disturbed."

The chimney cleaning bylaw is not alone. It is elbowed in its resting by scores of other sleeping bylaws that are not put into force. Some bylaws are not so neglected. If a cyclist rides a few feet on the sidewalk, say from the street to his office door, he's swooped down upon and fined without mercy. And he hasn't done half the damage nor has the public incurred one tenth as much risk or actual damage as results from a single neglected chimney.

What are we going to do with the Meet since Peterborough has got the plums. So far no action has been taken. Failure to carry out arrangements for Peterborough doing its share to entertain the bicyclists on July 1st, will throw the town back ten years and do more injury to its good name than can be repaired or overcome in ten years. Don't let us hear anything drop. Preparation will be all the more effective if it is taken in time. Now is the time to begin.

It's a graceful and public spirited thing for the battalion to propose to take its annual holiday on May 24th, so as to give them an opportunity to join with the citizens in entertaining the Meet on July 1st. The boys are ready to fight or play, and a battalion that stands by the town can be trusted to do their full share in defending the country.

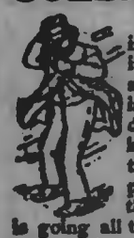
JUST A BAD COLD.



A sharp stinging pain in the back—you think it doesn't amount to anything—be all right in a few days—but it doesn't get all right—kidneys are not doing their duty, and the poisonous matter that they ought to remove is going all through the system—causing rheumatism, gout, dyspepsia, headaches, backaches—all sorts of ills.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

Cure the disease by removing the cause.

MR. WILLIAM FRANKS, in charge of the Grand Trunk Engine Shops, Port Dover, Ont., says: "Four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of a very bad attack of kidney complaint and lame back. I was suffering greatly, so much so that I was thinking seriously of giving up my situation."

"When I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills I was in such a condition that I could hardly move on account of the pain in my back. As soon as I began taking them, however, I grew better. Day by day the pain became less and less, and after having taken four boxes it was entirely gone. They made a complete cure, for I have not had the slightest sign of kidney or back trouble since."

Book that tells all about these pills sent free to any address. The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

HUMAN HOGGISHNESS.

A Species of Intemperance Fully as Deadly as Liquor Guzzling.

Midland, Mich., April 18.—Frank St. Mary, a young Poseyville farmer, had an eating contest with several friends and downed a lot of lemons, seeds and all, and a can of baked beans. A second, a young man, ate one pound each of honey, candy and peanuts, while a third drank a pint of castor oil. All were very sick as a result, and St. Mary died.

Upholsterers' Wages.

Toronto, April 18.—There is a prospect of trouble in the wholesale centres of the upholstering trade of Ontario. A new scale of wages and prices has been presented by the International Union for the consideration of the manufacturers. A decision was to be given on Saturday in Guelph, and the matter will also be considered by manufacturers and employes in Toronto to-day.

Seems as if consumption always picks out the brightest and best. Fully one-sixth of all the deaths that occur in the world are caused by consumption. Many things were once considered impossible. It would be strange if medical science did not make some progress. The telegraph and telephone, the phonograph, the electric light, all were once impossible, and once it was impossible to cure consumption. That was before the time of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Taken according to directions, this standard remedy will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. Consumption is caused and fostered by impurity in the blood. It is cured by purity and richness in the blood—surely, certainly cured by the "Medical Discovery." It builds up solid healthy flesh and vigourous strength.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a 1008 page medical work, profusely illustrated, will be sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover all postage ONLY. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y.

Bobcat In Mammoth Cave.

Our guide asks us to keep silent. Then, lifting the heavy, broad paddle with which he has been propelling our boat, he strikes with all his strength the flat side on the surface of the water. Instantly the subterranean thunders of this underworld are let loose. From all directions come rolling waves of sound, multiplied a thousandfold, receding and again returning with increasing volume, lingering for many seconds, and finally dying away in sweet, faraway melodies. Then, when the last faint sounds have ceased, he agitates the water with his paddle and asks us to listen. The receding waves, reaching cavities in the sides of the overhanging arches, break the stillness with sweet, bell like sounds. Some notes, striking the keynote of the rocks, multiply the musical melody. Some notes are soft and low, others are loud, almost with an alarm bell clangor. This music, such as cannot be heard elsewhere on earth, gradually dies away in receding echoes, coming over the waters from faraway, hidden chambers.—"The Mammoth Cave of Kentucky," by John R. Procter, in Century.

Great Rat Catchers.

According to an account in The Journal d'Hygiene, rats have become so abundant in Brazil that a domestic snake, the giboya, which has about the circumference of the arm, is sold in the market place in Rio Janeiro, to be kept in the house as a protection against rodents. It would seem that the serpent pursues its prey more for the pleasure that there is in it than from a sense of hunger, since it is said it rarely eats the rats caught. Similar in its habits and attachments to the domestic cat of our more northern latitudes, the giboya will, it is said, find its way back to the house of its master even if transported to a considerable distance.

The seal worn by the pope and used by him on official documents to which his signature is attached has on it the engraving of a fish, with the cipher of the wearer. Since the thirteenth century every pope has worn a ring of this character, and it is shattered with a hammer when the wearer dies to prevent its use on a forged document.

DYNAMITE DISASTER.

All Ottawa Shaken by the Terrific Exposion.

MAGAZINE BUILDING ON FIRE.

The Police Cordon the Blaze to Prevent Dire Results When the Expected Explosion Occurs—Meagre Particulars Under This Rule Possible—No One Thought to Be Killed.

Ottawa, April 18.—At 11.30 last night the whole sky above the city was illuminated, and a few seconds after there was a tremendous shock, as of a heavy explosion. In a few minutes a reflection of fire was seen at the back of Hull. Enquiry by telephone developed the fact that the works of the Ottawa Powder Company at Ironsides, about six miles from Ottawa, had been blown up, but at this hour no particulars can be learned, and it is not known whether there was any loss of life. Quite a lot of glass in the city was broken by the force of the explosion.

All Ottawa Was Shaken.

All Ottawa was shaken by the crash which occurred at 11.35 last night. Tall buildings were shaken as if by an earthquake, and plate glass windows on Sparks street, in the centre of the city, were shattered.

It was fully half an hour after the occurrence that the fact was learned that the tremendous detonation was due to an explosion of dynamite in the Ottawa Powder Company's factory, about six miles distant from Ottawa on the Quebec side of the river.

This is the third time in ten years that a similar disaster has overtaken these works, although never has the force of the explosion been so severely felt in Ottawa. The factory buildings are situated about three miles out from Hull in a secluded piece of bush land, half a mile off the Chelsea road. There were in the mixing house at the time fully four tons of dynamite. The force with which this mass of explosive material detonated must have been terrific in the immediate neighborhood. Doubtless all the buildings are destroyed.

Some distance from the factory is the magazine in which are stored at present 12 tons of dynamite and dualin.

The Storehouse Took Fire.

Five minutes after the explosion, the storehouse took fire. Those who rushed first to the scene, upon discovering this, ran hastily away from the place and sent word up and down the road of the impending danger of a second shock. The Hull police thereupon formed a cordon at the outskirts of the town and refused to allow people to pass in. Thus, at this hour it is impossible to give details of the disaster. It is almost certain, however, that no lives have been lost. But in Hull and its environs, the utmost dread prevails of the effect of the second explosion, which will results when the fire reaches the dynamite in the magazine.

The Damage in Ottawa.

The damage to plate glass on Sparks and Bank streets will be between $1,500 and $2,000. Among the places wrecked are the Citizen office; G. H. McGloughlin, dry goods; Young Bros., bicycles; Thomas Liggett, carpets; the Brunswick Hotel; William Bourne, books and stationery; S. Currie, bicycles, and C. Rogers, confectioner. Besides these much damage was done to the window glass in private houses in Ottawa and Hull. The guests in the big hotels, most of whom had retired, were badly frightened by the force of the explosio.

The Four Victorian Nurses.

The four nurses of the Victorian Order, who leave for the Klondike to-day, were given a hearty send-off at Government House Saturday evening. A large and representative gathering assembled at the invitation of Their Excellencies, who inspected, with evident interest, the outfits provided for the four young women who are to minister to the sick and suffering in the sub-Arctics of Canada. During the evening addresses were delivered by Lord and Lady Aberdeen, the Bishop of Ottawa, Rev. Dr. Saunders, Hon. F. W. Borden, Dr. H. P. Wright, Sir James Grant and Lieut.-Col. Evans, all of whom eulogized the movement and commended the nurses for their heroism

The detachment of the military for the Yukon, who will be commanded by Col. Evans, will be mobilized here on Wednesday, and will leave for the west to-day week. The nurses are going a week ahead in order to address meetings at points between here and Vancouver.

Military for the Cardinal's Funeral.

Application has been made to the Minister of Militia for permission for Quebec volunteers to turn out at the funeral of Cardinal Taschereau on Tuesday. The authorities here will not issue an order for the militia to parade, but will not place any obstacles on them turning out voluntarily.

Civil Service Examinations.

A civil service promotion examination will be held in Ottawa on Tuesday, May 17, having reference to the following vacancies, present and prospective, which may require to be filled during the year: Inside service—Chief clerks 1, first-class clerks 3, second-class clerks 4. Outside service, Department of Customs—Surveyors 3, chief clerks 2, clerks 10, landing waiters 16, gaugers 4, lockers 10, appraisers 4, assistant appraisers 4, tide waiters 6.

SOMEBODY'S UNCLE.

I must confess to a weakness for sales, although I haven't, as far as I can remember, ever yet made a bargain. Every time I go along the High street I feel that I must have a peep into the auction rooms.

I went in one evening not long ago. Like the juggins that I am, I began marking the catalogue for things that took my fancy.

I came across a picture in one corner—to be correct it was an oil portrait and bore underneath the words "Old Bill."

"Mighty old, too," I thought, for the face was a perfect network of wrinkles, although the picture appeared to be rather new. I looked at the nose a little too long perhaps; anyhow I get the idea that it was the image of my own. I'm rather proud of my own nose, by the way. It's the "family" nose, I'm told, although the family doesn't appear to have done anything great with it as far as I can trace. I dimmed my gaze to blot out the wrinkles on the face, and I discovered that the mouth was also my own. Good! It must be an ancestor of mine.

I felt a big thrill of joy. An ancestor was the very thing I wanted.

One thing, however, rather disillusioned me—I didn't like the name Old Bill. Ancestors who kept coal sheds or took in washing are not worth running after, and if I had one at all I preferred one with a decent vein of blood. The very next moment I felt like kicking myself. I recollected that this was the man that all my sisters had so wished to get a trace of—Old Bill, of course. Why, my old dad had mentioned him scores of times! They were brothers—Uncle Bill—William in conversation—yes, yes. He was a bit recent for an ancestor, certainly, but I only needed to get the picture. I could do the rest. As soon as I could find out that he was really worth knowing I meant to be very proud of him.

I was on the point of coming away just then when a very dainty desk caught my eye. On turning round again I found that a girl was looking hard at my uncle.

As she happened to be a very pretty girl, with the daintiest chin imaginable, I didn't hurry away. On the contrary, I should think I spent quite a few minutes taking in the nice curves of her figure. She had the sweetest little mouth that ever I saw.

She looked sideways at my uncle for fully five minutes, after which she spoke to a frosty old lady beside her, and her words were so astounding as to call me to my senses.

"Yes," she said decisively, "I'm sure it's he. Dear old Uncle Bill!"

This was interesting.

"Dear old Uncle Bill!" What did she know about Uncle Bill? However, I vowed on the instant that as long as I might say Bill as prettily as she did I'd never say William again. But I was puzzled.

Evidently the girl had a stray uncle roaming about somewhere and had picked out my relative by mistake. Well, I would travel down tomorrow and buy the picture, and if she liked to come and look at it in my sitting room she might do so with pleasure. I rather liked the idea of her sitting in my big armchair looking sideways at Old Bill.

There was quite a crowd in the auction room next day. I didn't like to appear anxious to have the picture; but, as a matter of fact, I was anxious, for I had raked out an old letter of the governor's which said that Bill had just been made county chairman or something of the sort and was going to sit for his portrait. This was evidently the identical one—maybe worth a tidy bit.

Somebody started the bidding at £1—rather a low price, but then the stupids took him for an ordinary person.

I yelled, "Thirty shillings!" and a voice close behind me said, "Thirty-five!"

"Forty!" said I, and again the voice followed, this time with "Forty-five!"

"Three pounds!" I next called, for I wanted to get the business over quickly.

I heard somebody complaining as the auctioneer called, "Going!" and turned to find the pretty girl of yesterday looking angrily at me.

"What does he want with it?" she said, half crying and speaking to the frosty lady beside her. "My uncle's picture can't interest him!"

Now this was a little more than I could bear, and I looked as hurt as I possibly could on so short a notice. I could see that she really believed the picture to be that of her own uncle.

"I beg your pardon, madam," I said, bowing. "I am simply bidding for the portrait of my uncle."

"Your uncle?" she said stiffly, with flushed face. "I'm afraid you are much mistaken. That is my uncle!"

It sounded so absurd that I was almost inclined to laugh, but I could not be made a fool before a crowd of people. I put on a very firm expression and said:

"My dear young lady, I'm afraid you do not know"—

"Sir!" She stopped me, and her mouth quivered. "You're extremely rude! I know perfectly well what I am saying. I tell you that is the portrait of my uncle."

"It is my uncle!" was on my lips, but I refrained from speaking and turned to the auctioneer. By this time, however, the picture had been knocked down to another bidder.

I felt almost angry. It was positively aggravating, after dropping on this most rare of uncles, to have him torn from my grasp in this manner.

Somehow I felt a bit of a beast when I heard the girl crying, but buoyed myself up with the conviction that mine was a just and righteous cause, and that in contesting for the age stained relic of the family nose I was, in a something sense, a hero.

I determined to call on the auctioneer the next day and find out who had bought the picture.

It had been knocked down to a man named Smith, and the buyer had paid the money and taken the picture with him. That was all I could discover.

Just at this time Jenk, our family doctor, invited me to his birthday party. Jenk and myself were old pals, and as he informed me that several of my chums would be there, I accepted the invitation.

I was in for a big surprise, however. I had hardly got into the hall when what should I clap my eyes on but that very picture. It was hanging, somewhat renovated, by a gold wire in the cosy parlor.

Then as I stepped into the room I heard a pretty voice say:

"Oh, doctor! Why, that's uncle! Oh, I am so glad! I thought that horrid"—

Now, you may guess I was surprised when I heard that voice.

Jenk caught sight of me.

"Hello, old fellow," he said. "Miss Stewart, this is an old friend of mine—Mr. Gordon."

Her face was a picture as she turned to me. I guessed instantly who the "horrid" was. She did not seem to be reconciled to me, but I felt if I could get into her good graces I might explain to her that she was laying claim to my only ancestor. I couldn't help noticing that she was even prettier than I had thought.

We were eventually left alone, for which I have to thank Jenk. He's a very good fellow in that way.

For a little while she did not speak. Then when I asked her to let us be friends she looked up shyly and slowly put out her hand. I was overjoyed to find that she took in the situation without an explanation, though I would have liked to explain.

However, I took the first opportunity of getting Jenk into a corner and telling him my story. He seemed surprised and simply said he had taken a fancy to the picture. It seemed reasonable enough for him to say this, but the moment he had spoken I felt that he had been gulling me. In some way I formed an opinion that he had brought us two there solely on account of the picture, and when we sat down to supper my suspicions were confirmed.

* * * * * * * *

"Well, Miss Stewart," he began reproachfully, "I didn't think you were capable of playing such a trick upon me. I really didn't."

She looked up surprised and gave such an innocent little laugh that I felt tempted to punch Jenk's head, for I felt certain he was alluding to the picture.

"Why, whatever have I done, doctor?" she said. Two tiny dimples were in her cheeks, and her eyes peeped merrily from under their long lashes.

My fist clinched.

"It's too bad," said Jenk in an apparently much injured tone. "After my getting interested in your story of your uncle's portrait I find that you have been laughing at me; that the uncle isn't yours at all, but Gordon's."

My doom was sealed, I knew, as he uttered those words. The smile died out of her face and the look she gave me made my head dizzy. We were friends no longer. It was war to the knife.

If I was deeply in love with her before, I was insanely so now.

I came upon her alone later in the evening. I hung on to the belief at that moment that another explanation would smooth over things. Instead she almost flew out of my sight. It was in the parlor, and that old humbug of an uncle faced me as she flew away. Why I didn't pulverize his wrinkled face then and there I don't know, but I must have been very near it.

In another hour the party would break up, and do what I would I couldn't find a means of our becoming reconciled. After passing an hour of torture cudgeling my brains, I stepped into the hall to find Miss Stewart on the point of departing.

The man who was to drive her home had just finished his whisky when his eye lighted on the picture. He looked hard and softly and squinted and finally slapped his leg and chuckled.

I glanced at Miss Stewart, who stood in the doorway, and was met by a defiant look that had a touch of triumph in it. Our thoughts were evidently in the same direction. We each expected to establish our claim now by the evidence of the coachman. No doubt he recognized "Old Bill."

"Well, if that ain't a licker!" he said, squinting and looking again.

"You know him perhaps, do you?" asked Miss Stewart, clutching the man's arm.

"Know him?" said the man, with a grin. "I think I does! Why, dash me, that's my old uncle!"

I think if I had had a mallet in my hand at that moment nothing could have prevented me from banging his skull.

I gripped him like a vise, and Miss Stewart and I exclaimed together, "Your uncle?"

"Ah!" he said, with an astonished nod. "My old uncle—old Bill! Ah!" he repeated. "'E's waitin outside, too, looking after the ole pony!"

His old uncle—waiting outside—looking after the old pony! I could hardly believe my ears.

But when he brought in his relative there was no doubt of his claim. The gray whiskered, tousled old fellow was like the portrait as two oranges are like one another.

"There y'are," he said—"that's 'im!" And he gave another grin. "Why, Bill," he said, bowling in the old man's ear, "it's no more'n two years since that chap painted it, is it—eh, Bill? 'E never turned up with the 50 pun we wus goin to 'ave when it went in the 'cademy—eh, Bill?"

And that was the dismal ending—old Bill was alive and kicking, and the family nose was a fraud.

I don't know how it came about or what was said, but I know that I walked home with Miss Stewart, and I remembered that the porch of her house was dark when we parted.—Answers.

DOCTOR WAS IN LUCK.

How He Got a Quarter of Beef He Was In Want Of.

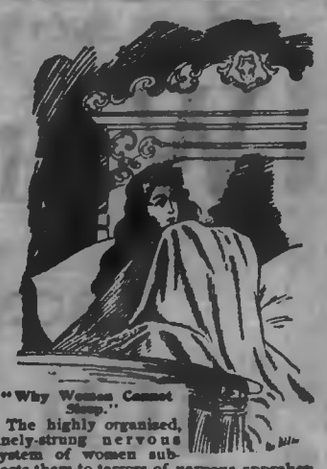
A prosperous Pittsburg physician, who resides in an aristocratic part of the city, related an experience he met with about a year after he had graduated from college. He was practicing in a small village in Indiana county about 18 miles from any railroad. He had been recently married, and in the struggle to make ends meet the prospect at times became very discouraging. It was during one of these depressing periods in the middle of the winter, with snow a foot and a half deep covering the ground, that he was called to attend a farmer who lived some miles away. The stock of provisions in the house was exhausted, and it seemed certain that the resolution that had been made by the young couple not to ask any one for credit must be broken. When the call arrived, the doctor was preparing to go to the nearest store to ask the proprietor to give him "tick" so that he could get something for breakfast. Instead of going to the store he mounted his faithful mare Molly and started off through the drifts to visit his patient. When the doctor rose to leave, after attending to the patient, the old farmer said:

"Doc, I ain't got no money, but if a quarter of beef'll do you any good I'll send it in when the roads git broke."

The young doctor's heart gave a bound. Concealing his exultation as best he could, he said: "What's the matter with me taking it right along? I was thinking of buying some beef, and this will come in handy."

The proposition was accepted, and the farmer's son helped put the quarter of beef across Molly's shoulders, and the homeward journey began. The mare was skittish, and the doctor had difficulty in keeping the beef from falling. Finally the mare shied at something, and away went the beef into a big snowdrift.

The doctor was a member of the Methodist church, and, according to his story, did not swear. He dismounted and endeavored to put the beef on the mare, but she wouldn't stand still, and after repeated attempts the task seemed a hopeless one. Thinking of the resolution, the young doctor set his teeth and tried again. This time he was successful. He felt like a conquering hero as he dumped the beef on the portico of his modest home about midnight. The faithful little wife was sure it was a dispensation of Providence, but the doctor, remembering his struggles at the snowdrift, reserved his opinion.—Pittsburg Dispatch.



"Why Women Cannot Sleep."

The highly organized, finely-strung nervous system of women subjects them to terrors of nervous apprehension which no man can ever appreciate.

The peace of mind, the mental poise and calmness under difficulties, which is necessary for happy womanhood is only possible when the sensitive feminine organism is in a perfectly healthy condition. If there be any weakness or derangement in this respect no remedy in the world so completely restores womanly health, nervous vigor and capability as the wonderful "Favorite Prescription" invented by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y. It purifies, heals and strengthens; insures functional regularity; provides physical reinforcement and sustaining power at periods of special weakness and depression.

It is the only medicine which makes the coming of baby safe and comparatively easy. In a personal letter to Dr. Pierce, Mrs. Marguerite Collin, of Cutler, Algoma Co., Ont., says:

"I was a sufferer and was cured by Dr. Pierce's wonderful medicine. When I commenced the medicine I could neither eat nor sleep. My hands and feet were constantly cold; I had a wasting, troublesome drain for three months, and my monthly periods were never regular. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it cured me. I feel well. I thank the World's Dispensary Medical Association."

CANADA LIFE
Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty-first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,068.05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3 008, for the sum of $6,186,906, of which, however, 208 for $382,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 191 applications for $378,300 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5,291,036, under 2,609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $796,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $73,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,469 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,108 45, and Endowment policies for $128,846 92, having matured, these sums, as well as $218,481.29 for profits, $145,411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,263,307.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,963,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1,272,480.05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18 678 915 67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company, I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, he prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Berritt, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

Keep the Quality of our Dairy Product up to the Pure Point.

Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, has issued the following circular to the dairying public:

In building up the dairy industry of Ontario two things have been taught and urged, namely, purity and high quality of products and economy of production. Whatever set backs this great industry may have met in the past few years can be traced to a neglect of one or the other of these important points. The cheese industry of Ontario is now fairly well established, and the annual production of a large amount of well made, whole-milk cheese of uniform quality has given Canada a controlling influence in the British cheese market. Our creamery industry is now rapidly developing, and it is of vital importance that the strictest attention be paid to the turning out in an economical manner of butter of uniformly high quality, pure and unadulterated. This industry will, if properly conducted, assume very large proportions, since the average consumption of butter is much greater than that of cheese, and the British imports of butter greatly exceed those of cheese. In the British market our butter meets in competition similar goods from Ireland, Denmark, France, the United States, Australia and Argentina. Denmark has attained a chief place by studying the requirements of the market, and now produces nearly all of her creamery export butter from pasteurized milk or cream with the use of special ferments. In some of the countries exporting to Great Britain—Australia in particular—it has become a practice to use some kind of "preservative" in butter making. Sometimes this is added as a salt; sometimes it is added to the milk. These preservatives are sold under various names as preservaline, preservatine, preservitas, being favorites. They are nearly all mixtures of boracic acid. The increasing use of these preservatives has alarmed the British consumer, and most radical measures are now proposed to exclude all butter in which traces of these preservatives are found. The British public has become alarmed, the press is actively discussing the matter, and public officials are now on the lookout for butter so adulterated. It must be carefully noted that all butter made from milk or cream to which anything but common salt is added is adulterated. The butter producers of Ontario must make no mistake. To use any of these preservatives is dangerous to the dairy interests of this country. Everything possible should be done to discourage the use of such substances, and the press should as far as possible prevent the advertising of them in this country. Ontario has a reputation for producing pure goods of high quality. That reputation must be maintained, and every person interested in the dairy business of Ontario should assist in preventing these "preservatives" from getting a foothold in this Province. "An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure." We have a reputation now for making pure butter and cheese. Help to maintain that reputation. Do not advocate preservatives. Do not advertise preservatives. Do not use preservatives.

Minister of Agriculture for Ontario.

Wheeling and Other Items of Local and General Interest.

THE WHEEL.

The first run of the Canadian General Electric Works Bicycle Club took place on Saturday afternoon to Lakefield and return. About thirty riders started from Victoria Park and it is expected that fully fifty of the members will turn out next Saturday.

The Kingston Whig says:—A monster century tour from Peterborough, under the auspices of the Toronto, Belleville and Kingston clubs, is proposed for July 2nd, after the provincial meet of the C.W.A. It is thought a party of 200 can be brought through to Kingston. A meeting of club captains will be called to consider the proposal.

WRESTLING.

Mr. Tom Doyle has returned from Toronto where he signed articles with "Bob" Harrison for a wrestling match on May 4th for $100 a side and gate receipts. The forfeit money of $25 a side has been deposited by the men with Mr. L. H. Falcher, of town. Police Gazette rules will govern the contest, no locks or holds barred. The first bout will be a Greco-Roman and the next catch-as-catch can. The man securing the quickest fall will have the privilege of naming the style of the third bout. The match will take place in Peterborough.

LACROSSE.

The Madoc Athletics, one of the fastest intermediate team in the Eastern C.L.A. district, will take an extended tour in June, playing most of the big American college teams. They will play the champions at Lehigh June 14th.

The service of Charles Querry and "Bobbie" Pringle, two of the star players of the Markham Lacrosse team, will be lost to the club this year. Querry will play with the Torontos and Pringle with the Elms, of Toronto. Both Querry and Pringle are printers by trade, and situations have been secured them in the Methodist Book Room.—Markham Economist.

KINGSTON'S RACES.

The programme of horse races at Kingston for the Queen's Birthday are: Three-minute class, purse $100; 2 25 class, purse $200; 2.18 class, purse $225; three-quarter mile running race, $150. The three minutes race will be run off in half-mile heats.

RAILWAY NOTES.

Sparks From the Wheels—Cinders for the Eye.

Notwithstanding the large number of cars being constantly added to the Grand Trunk equipment, shippers on this division find great difficulty in securing a supply. Last week only twenty-six cars were allotted to the Victoria branch.

Acetylene gas is succeeding well as an illuminant for railway trains. A plant has been installed on the government car Cumberland, and it will be of interest to railway engineers to know that the locomotive headlight generator makes the run from Ottawa to Montreal on two pounds of carbide, costing three cents per pound wholesale.

"Daddy's on the engine,"
Said the little maid;
"Daddy's got his bottle with him,
And he'll hump it down the grade
He'll rush round curves like sixty,
And smash the train I fear;
You'll wish when daddy's done with you
That he wasn't the engineer!"

General Baggage Agent Quick, of the G.T.R. has completed the new baggage rules, which went into effect on April 1st over the entire system. The greater number of the rules refer to the improved methods of checking. Prefaced to the regulations are several important directions to employees, whom is impressed the necessity of exercising constant and watchful care over the property of travellers, and of trying to give general satisfaction to the public, and of establishing a reputation for courtesy and civility. The concluding paragraph reads: "You are expected to be polite at all times and answer civily all questions addressed to you."

A correspondent of Engineering gives some interesting particulars of a fast run on the Great Northern Railway. The train was the 9.12 a.m. up express, Peterborough to London, due at Finsbury Park at 10.33, and at King's Cross at 10 40 a.m. a.m. The train was composed of six coaches, weighed about 105 tons, and was drawn by a 7 ft. 7½ inch single engine. It left Peterborough 8½ minutes late, and reached Finsbury Park at 10 35, thus running the distance of 73¾ miles in 73¾ minutes actual time. But on the journey 11½ minutes were lost by stops and signal checks, so that the net running time was only 62 minutes, and hence the average speed was 65.1 miles per hour.

Also I will have a public sale at my place on Friday next, at which I will sell to the highest bidder three yearling calves, four head of horses, some tweasty laying hens, a number of articles of female wearing apparel, almost as good as new, belonging to my late companion, whose loss I am compelled to deplore, although she is better off up there. Crackers and cheese at the above sale, and dinner to all who buy over three dollars' worth.

SPAIN TIRED OF TALK

War, the Spaniards Say, is Now Only a Matter of Hours.

SPEECH BY PREMIER SAGASTA.

An Impressive Scene—The Prime Minister's Speech Is as the Tocsin of War—Will Not Relinquish Her Sovereignty in Cuba to Prevent the Horrors of War.

Madrid, April 20.—It is officially announced that negotiations are proceeding with the Cuban insurgents to obtain their submission as a result of further concessions.

The terms of the speech which the Queen Regent will deliver at the opening of the Cortes to-day are jealously guarded, but it is said that the speech will prove firm, convincing and satisfactory to the national sentiments. It is claimed here that perfect unanimity prevails in Spain to face war rather than yield to the demands of the United States.

The Liberal says: "The Spaniards are tired of talk, of Papal and other interventions. War is a matter of hours, in spite of the rumors of delays upon President McKinley's part. The time has come for blows, and not for words."

THE WAR PROSPECT.

Spain Would Rather Fight Than Yield to the United States—Holds the U. S. Responsible.

Madrid, April 20.—The one absorbing topic is the prospect of war. El Heraldo de Madrid says that war is inevitable, and even imminent. Even the forthcoming meeting of Parliament is unheeded.

Sagasta Addressed Them.

The supporters of the Government in both Houses of Parliament met in the Senate Chamber at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Senor Sagasta, the Premier, addressed them as follows:

"The times are so grave and the circumstances so exceptional that acts and not words are necessary to face the present difficulty. Attempts are being made to sully the glorious history of Spain by an infamous calumny. The different Spanish Governments have done their utmost to avert the war to which we are being provoked.

"We have now reached the limits of concessions, compatible with honor and territorial integrity. We consented to the last concessions at the instance of the Pope and the powers. We yielded, in fact, but now attempts are made upon our honor and menaces directed against our territory that is a thing to which Spaniards will never consent. (Applause.)

"This is not the moment to trace a parliamentary programme, but the moment to unite ourselves, as our fathers have done, in the face of an odious attempt against the integrity of our territory. The insult offered us to-day is the most infamous that has ever been offered." (Prolonged applause.)

Continuing, Senor Sagasta counselled the rapid constitution of the Chambers in order to accord to the Government the means to defend the country's interests. "Spain," he added, "will not allow a parcel of her territory to be taken from her with impunity; nor will she be a party to any trafficking for her possessions." (Prolonged and enthusiastic cheers greeted the speech.)

An Impressive Scene.

Even more enthusiastic applause greeted his closing words in which he sternly and proudly declared that the Government hoped to receive the support of all Spaniards "in defense of their territory and ancient rights against more odious and unfair aggression than any their ancestors had repelled with the same energy and courage."

If the idea still existed in the mind of anyone that war could be avoided, Senor Sagasta's firm speech is regarded as finally settling all doubts.

Holding U. S. Responsible.

Madrid, April 20.—Spain has sent a note to her ambassadors outlining her grievances, and holding the United States responsible for war.

THE U. S. ULTIMATUM.

The Evacuation of Cuba by Spain and a Free Cuba Demanded by President McKinley.

Washington, April 20.—The Cabinet adjourned a few moments after 5 o'clock yesterday. It was stated that the ultimatum to Spain is not yet ready for signature. Both the ultimatum and the Cuban resolutions will be signed to-day. The President insists on giving Spain at least three days to decide whether she will evacuate Cuba or fight.

TO-DAY IS THE DAY

President McKinley's Ultimatum to the Spanish Government Will Issue.

Washington, April 20.—Spain will receive official notification of the demands of the United States to-day. She will then be informed that the Cuban resolution passed by Congress at an early hour yesterday are now a part of the laws of the United States, and an ultimatum will be sent demanding compliance with this law and an answer within a short time, probably 24 hours. Compliance is not expected, and a forward movement on Cuba will commence the latter part of this week, according to the plans of the Administration.

National Guard First.

It was stated at the War Department yesterday afternoon that only the National Guard will be given opportunity to volunteer at this time. The President will reserve the right to appoint all staff and field officers, while the Governors of States will designate regimental officers, as was done in 1862.

The Cabinet meeting practically decided to supplement the regular army in their operations in Cuba by calling for 80,000 men of the National Militia. Secretary Alger at once held a conference with Gen. Miles and Adjt.-Gen. Corbin to arrange details.

It was said by Secretary Alger, after the conference, that the matter had not yet advanced far enough to make it possible to send to Congress immediately a message from the President asking for the authority to issue a call for volunteers.

MOVEMENT OF TROOPS.

From New Jersey, Ohio, Kansas and New York Uncle Sam's Soldiers Are on the Way to the Front.

New York, April 20.—Three companies of the 13th Infantry, numbering 200, from Governor's Island, left Jersey City yesterday over the Pennsylvania Railroad for the South. They were in heavy marching order. There was an immense crowd about the Jersey City ferry station and depot. The train pulled out amid tremendous cheers.

Columbus, O., April 20.—The 17th Infantry, Col. Poland commanding, left the barracks at 2.30 p.m. yesterday, en route to Tampa.

Leavenworth, Kan., April 20.—The troops at Fort Leavenworth, composed of the 20th Infantry, which will go to Mobile, and four troops of the 6th Regiment of Cavalry, bound for Chickamauga, started yesterday amid intense enthusiasm.

Mobile, April 20.—Gen. Coppinger and staff reached here yesterday on the private car of the vice-president of the Missouri Pacific. The camp ground has been selected four miles from the city, in the healthiest portion of the country. The first troops arrived here last night.

New York, April 20.—It was said at the office of Arturo Baldasano, Spanish Consul-General, yesterday that orders to close the office are expected as soon as the President signs the Cuban resolutions, and that the Spanish officials are ready to go when so directed. When the Spanish Consulate is closed, the French Consul-General will take charge of its affairs.

Plattsburg, N.Y., April 20.—A special Delaware, Hudson & West Shore military train, bearing the 21st United States Infantry, pulled out of Plattsburg for its long run to Tampa, Fla., at 1.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The train was in two sections, the first being the baggage section. The second section carried the eight companies, band and hospital corps of the regiment in 10 second-class coaches, and the officers and regimental staff in a Pullman coach in the rear.

THE CUBANS' MODEL.

Gen. Palma, of the Cuban Junta, Tells What the Cubans Will Do After Spain Is Whipped.

New York, April 20.—The Cuban Junta displayed the American and Cuban flags side by side yesterday, in celebration of the adoption by Congress of the resolutions declaring the Island of Cuba free. In an interview Thomas Estrada Palma said that, in the name of the brave Cubans, he desired to thank the American people for the staunch and unwavering support they had given the Cubans since the commencement of the struggle for independence. Continuing, he said:

"Just as soon as the Spaniards are driven from the island, the Cubans will call a new assembly to draft a constitution and elect a Government, just as is done in the United States. If Spain goes to war, and I doubt very much if she will, I think it will be a question of not more than four or five weeks when she will be forced to ignominously relinquish her hold in Cuba."

Gen. Palma said that as soon as the Government in Cuba should have been established, he would retire from the field of active politics in Cuban matters and retire to Central Valley, N.Y., to spend the remainder of his days in quiet and peace with his family, who now reside there.

WILL GO VIA CANADA.

Spanish Minister Proposes to Go Safely Home Under the Union Jack.

Washington, April 20.—The people of Toronto and Montreal may have an opportunity to see the Spanish Minister at Washington, Mr. Polo y Bernabe, at short range before his departure from this continent. It is the Minister's present intention to return to Europe via Montreal. He will not sail from New York, where he would be an object of curiosity, but will take the first trans-Atlantic steamer between Canada and Liverpool which sails from Montreal. He may board the steamer at Quebec, or he may take her at Montreal; he has not yet decided which.

It was suggested to him yesterday that he could reach Canada by way of Niagara Falls, so that he might catch a glimpse of the Falls from the Canadian side, for it must be explained that he will tarry no longer on American soil than the necessities of the case will permit.

Circumstances may cause the Minister to change his plans at the last moment, but if not he will make the trip to Canada as here stated.

Testing a Pneumatic Gunboat.

Newport, R.I., April 20.—The pneumatic gunboat Vesuvius successfully fired a loaded dynamite shell from her guns in Narragansett Bay yesterday. She was out all the morning, and after throwing dummy projectiles for line fire and distance adjustment, she closed in into the lower range of the "measured mile course," and discharged her three guns in close succession. The first two were apparently dummy shells, but the third shot plowed along some distance and then a great black column of water was thrown into the air, which opened umbrella-like before it descended. The trial was pronounced most successful.

Agitation in Porto Rico.

Island of St. Thomas, W.I., April 20.—Advices from San Juan, Porto Rico, report that the excitement in the island is increasing, and the inhabitants are deserting the coast for the interior. The local situation is very grave. At the town of Caroline there has been a labor uprising and troops have been sent to maintain order.

There is agitation in Porto Rico towards forcing Americans to declare themselves and depart.

Dauntless a Press Boat.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 20. — The famous filibustering tug Dauntless is now the despatch boat of the Associated Press. The United States Court released her upon a bond of $35,000, and she is being provisioned and coaled for her mission in Cuban waters.

SEVERE LOSS BY FIRE.

Gaw's Planing Mill at Kingston Burned—Dwellings Destroyed at Thornbury.

Kingston, April 20.—Gaw's planing mill, Place d'Armes, was burned down yesterday, involving a loss of $12,000. The place was insured for $5,000. The cause of fire is unknown, for the fires were all out when the mill was closed last night.

Three Dwellings Burned at Thornbury.

Thornbury, April 20.—At three o'clock yesterday the residence of Mrs. Coffee was discovered to be on fire. The inmates had barely time to escape with their lives, and the two adjoining residences, belonging to Mr. J. Bates and Mrs. C. Ferguson respectively, soon caught fire. All three residences were completely destroyed. Insurance light.

THE HUDSON SHOOTING.

Brother Does Not Wish to Prosecute, But the Crown Does.

Toronto, April 20.—Percival Hudson, the young pedlar who attempted to shoot his brother Edward at 36 McGill street, Monday night, was arraigned before Magistrate Denison yesterday. He pleaded not guilty to shooting with intent and was remanded till Friday.

Edward Hudson, the brother, is not anxious to press the charge, but the Crown will endeavor to do so. The prisoner was granted an order for bail, the surety being $500.

Didn't Convict the Doctor.

Stouffville, April 20.—The people who are hot after Dr. Eastwood for alleged misdoings received a cold set-back here yesterday. The allegation that the doctor was guilty of malpractice upon Lizzie Windsor at Claremont in July, 1893, culminated in an inglorious fizzle, the Crown Attorney throwing up the sponge and consenting to the dismissal of the case after the four main witnesses had been heard.

U. S. Indians Are Restless.

St. Paul, Minn., April 20.—Advices have been received that the Indians in the West are giving evidences of disturbances. The braves in Oklahoma are already participating in "sun dances," and a disturbed condition is apparent in other parts. It is thought that the Indians will take advantage of the absence of the regulars to become troublesome.

For Payment of Behring Sea Claims.

Washington, April 20.—Senator Lodge has introduced a bill appropriating $473,157 for the payment of the claims of Great Britain on account of the Behring Sea awards made by the Commission of 1892.

Salisbury's Return.

London, April 20.—Lord Salisbury, it is reported, will return to London next week and resume his official duties.

CANADIAN BARLEY.

Inquiry as to the Probable Supply for Distillery Purposes in Scotland.

Mr. Alex. Cowan of Balblair, Ross-shire, Scotland, and proprietor of the oldest distillery in North Britain, was in Toronto recently, and interviewed the Minister of Agriculture regarding the quality of Canadian barley, and the possibility of securing supplies large and constant enough for manufacturing purposes. The home supply has run short, and the distilleries are now dependent upon barley from the Continent of Europe. Mr. Cowan says that if the right quality of barley is obtainable, a good trade may be established.

Mr. Cowan called also upon Sir Oliver Mowat. He will interview Hon. Mr. Fisher at Ottawa regarding the matter.

Pages from the Diary of Capt. John W. Moore, Newbury, Ind.

Jan. 8.
"Our little boy, who has suffered for six years with lameness in his hip, continues to grow worse, although we have applied many kinds of liniments. The family doctor has decided that the boy has hip joint disease, and he urges us not to meddle with the case, saying it is best to allow it to take its own course. We feel very anxious about him. I wish we could find something which would effect a cure. I fear it will develop into a very serious affair." J. W. MOORE.

March 22.
"A sore has broken out on the under side of my boy's hip, and it has discharged very freely and left an opening about an inch deep, the size of a silver dollar. He has to be given constant attention. Our physician tells us to keep the sore running. A second sore has appeared on his groin and broken. The boy is very low. I asked the doctor about giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla, which has cured so many such cases, but he said he could give him medicine that is four times better and does not cost as much." J. W. MOORE.

May 10.
"The doctor's medicine which I have been giving our boy has not proved of any avail. The child continued to grow worse and I have stopped giving it to him, and now he is taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. I got a bottle from the druggist a few days ago and I believe I can see that the boy is improving under the treatment." J. W. MOORE.

Oct. 8.
"How glad I am that I ever tried Hood's Sarsaparilla for my boy's hip disease. When he had finished taking the first bottle he looked fifty per cent better. I continued giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla and now he is quite well. He runs and plays with the other children and we can hardly believe he is the same child, thanks to Hood's Sarsaparilla, which we have proved to be indeed the One True Blood Purifier." J. W. MOORE.

Pages like those above are penned in the personal records of thousands of people.

In the memories of many more the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is indelibly imprinted. The cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla are literally written in blood — in blood made pure, enriched and vitalized, cured of scrofulous taints, salt rheum, boils, pimples, spring humors — in blood which properly builds up the nerves, strengthens the stomach and gives that tonic to the system so imperatively needed in the Spring.

THE RATE OF INTEREST.

Sufficient time seems to have elapsed since the announcement by the government of its intention to reduce the interests on deposits in the Government Savings Bank from 3 to 2½ per cent, to have had some effect upon bank discounts which have remained constant while the rate of interest has been steadily decreasing in every other department of finance. The rate of interest on mortgages has practically reached the average rate of five per cent. The rate of discount charged by the banks on ordinary transactions is seven per cent, and for gilt-edged security and considerable transactions, six per cent. When money is so cheap it is reasonable to expect that merchants in their bank dealings should share in the advantages derived from the low rate of interest. Such a reduction would ease the business tension and induce a greater commercial activity. Nor does it seem that the reduction would be to the disadvantage of the banks. Money is plentiful and the surplus in the banks, in a comparatively unproductive condition, might find profitable employment if it were obtainable on better terms, and thus commercial and other enterprises would be stimulated and the increased demand for capital might easily compensate for a reduction of the rate of discount. As it is, with higher prices for money at home, large financial concerns find it pays to go into the New York market for money which can be obtained for something like 3½ per cent. The reduction in the rate of interest would be beneficial all round. Farmers who are compelled to borrow money on mortgages would be considerably relieved, would be able to meet their ordinary current obligations more easily, and would become larger depositors in the bank, and thus the general conditions of prosperity would be improved to the advantage of all concerned. It does seem a little anomalous that while the rate of interest is dropping on all sides, that the rate of bank discounts should maintain their Medo-Persian character of immutability. The public note that while depression and diminished profits have been the rule in nearly every other department of business, the dividends of banks have not shared in the general falling off—and the feeling is general that there might be a reduction of the rate of discount in sympathy with conditions that obtain in all other departments of finance.

THE COMING PLEBISCITE.

A question of prime social and economic interest is involved in the plebiscite bill to be introduced into the Dominion Parliament. The question as between a vote on the bare subject of prohibition and a vote on the same subject, taking into conjunction the question of the seven or eight millions of revenue that will have to be provided for in case prohibition becomes law, is one upon which public opinion is divided. In the first case the electorate is asked to simply pronounce upon the principle of prohibition in relation to its desirability as a Canadian condition; in the other the electorate is asked for an expression of opinion modified by a consideration of the manner in which prohibition will affect the national revenue. There are those who hold that no matter at what sacrifice the operation of a traffic that is essentially evil in its effects, should be brought to an end by legislative prohibition. On the other hand there are others who, while in sympathy with the principle of prohibition, pause to count the cost. They contend that the loss of seven or eight millions of revenue, which represents about the amount now derived from the liquor traffic, will have to be made up by increased taxation. In view of the people being called upon at no very distant date to vote upon the subject of prohibiting the liquor traffic, they should be prepared to express an intelligent opinion upon the subject. It seems probable that the bare question of prohibition without any revenue rider, would receive more general assent than the other, for we are only human and the best of us are not superior to the weakness of being influenced by monetary considerations. But the matter will be in the people's hands one way or other before long; the decision rests with them. It would therefore be wise for those who expect to be called upon to pronounce an opinion to give some attention to the subject, so that whatever form the question as to prohibition or no prohibition may assume, they will be prepared for either.

THE Government Savings Bank deposits for March show deposits of $236,077, and withdrawals of $247,729.

THE United States has been trammelled by no excess of dignity in its war discussions. The spectacle of the representatives of a mighty nation—almighty they would dub it themselves—stooping to sing in the halls of legislature such songs as "We'll hang Gen. Weyler on a sour apple tree," is the most of absurd and undignified behaviour that could be imagined. One might expect a squad of young raw recruits, under the influence of holiday beer, to be guilty of some such conduct. It may be enthusiasm but it is not war, and the United States will find when they come to undertake their vaunted walk over the Spaniards.

THE sinking of the battle ship Maine has receded in the back ground as a causus belli. Now it is claimed that the doomed war ship was not blown up but that her "back broke by her own weight," the ship being credited with a tendency to "take a header," that is "go down by the head." Battleships that trip up by catching their "fore feet" in their anchor chains and quietly sunk at the wharves, won't cut much of a figure against the Spanish fleet, which is credited with being able at least to float and move a few cable lengths without running into the rock of Gibraltar.

THEY WANT RECIPROCITY WITH CANADA.

There is, apparently, a strong movement in the United States to secure a treaty of reciprocity with Canada. Several prominent commercial bodies, including the New York, Boston and Cincinnati Chambers of Commerce, have memoralized Congress to the effect that "The cultivation, extension and development of close commercial relations between the United States and the Dominion of Canada, and the Crown Colony of Newfoundland would, in the opinion of this Chamber, subserve the best interests of this country." Canadians have, for years, maintained the advantages of trade with the Dominion, were not sufficiently appreciated in the United States, and it was only after numerous and fruitless representations to this effect had been made at Washington, that the efforts to secure freer trade relations with the Republic were abandoned.

There has been little in the nature of trade that should cause dissatisfaction to our neighbours. Our commercial relations with the United Statec may, perhaps, be better appreciated by a perusal of the following table, showing the value of our imports from, and exports to that country during the past four years:

	1894.	1895.
Imports	$62,905,779	$ 59,438,317
Exports	35,809,940	41,297,676
Total	$98,715,719	$100,734,993
	1896.	1897.
Imports	$64,884,800	$ 70,766,316
Exports	44,448,410	49,373,472
Total	$108,783,210	$120,138,788

It will be seen that in each year Canadians have purchased more goods in the United States than they have sold in that country. Well may that eminent authority, the N. Y. Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, remark: "We repeat, what we have often said, that our trade with the Dominion of Canada, whether regarded in the aggregate, or in the excess of exports over imports, is far more valuable than our trade with any other part of this continent, and we should be showing sound business sense if we made more efforts to enlarge our trade with Canada, instead of efforts to enlarge our trade with countries that produce their own raw materials and are very moderate consumers of manufactured goods. Canada is far our best customer on this continent."

Why is it that, in the face of these statistics, Canadian trade interests have fared so badly at the hands of American legislators? Canada has been the victim of the class interests formed by the protectionist policy, which has so long dominated the United States. The Eastern manufacturers, in asking for protection against European competitors, have been compelled to concede similar protection to the farmers, and in carrying out their ends, have taken pains to instil into the minds of the farmers a fear of the consequences of a free entrance of farm products into the United States.

So long as Canadians were content to open their markets to the manufactured products of the United States, on the terms granted to other nations, and at the same time submit to duties on barley, eggs, lumber and coal, levied directly against this country, there was little to encourage a movement in the United States for reciprocity. But when once the policy of giving a preference to the imports of those countries, that allowed a free importation of Canadian staple products, had been established here, the reasons for reciprocity become apparent. Although all parties in Canada are desirous of continuing the closer trade connection, which has recently been formed with the Mother Country, there is no reason why careful consideration should not be paid to any terms of reciprocity which the United States may have to offer, but it should be understood that our neighbours must make all advances.—Monetary Times.

Beware of Cocaine.

Thos. Heys, Analytical Chemist, Toronto, says:—"I have made an examination of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure for Cocaine and any of its compounds from samples purchased in the open market, and find none present." Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure is a cure—not a drug. Price 25 cents, blower included.

Bright's Disease Beaten.

Mrs. John Hook, 3 Edward Street, St. Thomas, Ont., writes:—"Doan's Kidney Pills cured my son of incipient Bright's Disease. He had terrible backache and night sweats, and always felt tired and worn. His nerves were all unstrung, his sleep bad and appetite poor. He commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills and is now completely cured.

THE HOUSE DIVIDED

On the Recent Reduction in the Rates of Interest.

GOVERNMENT MAJORITY WAS 36

Finance Minister Considering Question of Offering a Three Per Cent. Loan to Encourage Thrift—Tariff Resolutions Reported Without Amendment—Conservatives Oppose British Preference.

Ottawa, April 20.—The Opposition divided the House yesterday on the question as to the advisability of reducing the rate of interest paid to depositors in Government and post-office savings banks from 3 to 2½ per cent. An amendment offered by Mr. Davin expressing regret and calling for reconsideration of the action taken was defeated by an adverse majority of 36. During the debate the Minister of Finance expressed the desire of the Government to do everything possible to encourage the thrift of the poorer class of depositors, and intimated that serious consideration would be given the suggestion of Sir Richard Cartwright that a funded loan bearing 3 per cent. interest might be offered for subscription by the people of Canada. The tariff resolutions were considered in Committee of Ways and Means and reported without amendment. What members of the Opposition termed the "sham preference" to Great Britain was severely criticised, and some of the Conservatives came out flatfooted against any concession to the motherland unless an equivalent be given. Messrs. Powell, Henderson and Davin insisted upon a quid pro quo for any advantage accorded Great Britain in the markets of Canada.

Mr. Davin moved the following amendment: "That this House regrets the determination of the Government to lower the rate of interest paid to depositors in the post-office savings banks, and would urge its reconsideration."

Mr. Maclean pointed out that one of the worst features of the reduction was to encourage the people to withdraw their money from the secure banks of the Government and invest it in institutions whose security was worse than doubtful. He believed that in Ontario alone fully $1,000,000 a year were lost to people who confided in certain loan companies, private banking enterprises and other insecure institutions. He thought the Government should rather encourage the working people to invest their savings in the post-office savings banks.

Mr. Bennett supported this argument.

Mr. Foster thought the Government was making a mistake.

Mr. McDougall, speaking for the Maritime Provinces, strongly supported the resolution.

Mr. Fielding's Remarks.

Mr. Fielding expressed sympathy with the argument that thrift should be encouraged. It was not the small depositors who held the bulk of the deposits in the savings banks, but people in moderate circumstances. Of the $42,000,000 on deposit in 1894, $14,750,000 was held by 6 per cent. of the depositors. The Minister recalled the fact that in his speech on the budget Sir Richard Cartwright had suggested that it might be possible to discriminate in some way between the rich and poor depositors. This might be done by means of a differential rate in the savings bank or by the issue of a Canadian stock at 3 per cent. payable at a fixed day. As the change was not to take effect until July 1 there would be ample time to consider the question. It had been argued, he said, that no reduction in the rate of discount would be effected. This reduction must come about gradually, but he believed the change had already begun and that the effect would be to make money cheaper to borrowers. Mr. Fielding quoted an expression of Mr. D. R. Wilkie, Manager of the Imperial Bank, Toronto, and a resolution of the council of the Toronto Board of Trade approving of the reduction of interest.

In the course of further debate it was claimed by Sir Charles Tupper that the Council of the Board of Trade of Toronto were wrong in their premises in supposing that the Government had to keep a large reserve against those deposits. He concluded by protesting against the proposed reduction.

Mr. Wallace thought the Finance Minister was in great straits when he could only adduce testimony in support of his proposal from the bankers of the country, who were the only ones financially interested in the reduction.

Sir Richard Cartwright said there was no reason why the Government should assist in keeping up an artificial rate of interest, thereby increasing the cost of working capital to the manufacturers and traders throughout the country.

Sir Richard Cartwright, continuing, said the high rate of interest which had been paid in the past had had a prejudicial effect on the general business of the country, and indirectly on the wages paid to the artisans of Canada. He announced that the Government was not unwilling to consider the expedient of making a 3 per cent. loan for the benefit of the smaller class of Canadian depositors.

Dr. Sproule said the action of the Government was the reverse of encouraging thrift and frugality.

The discussion was continued by Messrs. Moore, Rogers, Brodeur and Clarke.

The amendment was negatived by 76 to 40.

EVENING SESSION.

The evening sitting was occupied in discussing the tariff resolutions in committee. There was considerable talk over the clause which stipulates that goods to be entitled to the preferential tariff must consist of a preponderance of British labor and material. Messrs. Wallace, Maclean, Henderson, Clancy and others pointed out the difficulty in determining whether goods were of British or foreign make, and asked what machinery would the Minister of Customs adopt in order to determine where the goods were manufactured.

Mr. Fielding replied that a good deal of discretion must be left with the Minister of Customs. It would not be possible at present to determine the machinery, but every care would be taken. It might be that in addition to the affidavit of the importer, the affidavit of the exporter would also be required.

Regarding the West Indies.

An interesting discussion followed with reference to the preference given to the West Indies and the reasons therefor. Mr. Foster wanted to know why the British Columbia refinery, which gets its raw sugar from Queensland and Fiji Islands, should not receive some consideration.

Mr. Osler followed up the matter by an earnest appeal for fair play all round on this question of sugar duties. Not only would the British Columbia refineries be affected, but also British shipping on the Pacific.

Mr. Fielding then said if it could be shown to the Government that the refinery on the Pacific coast, as well as our shipping interests, would be discriminated against, he would not dismiss the matter lightly, but would look carefully into it. This declaration was received with applause. The sugar schedule carried.

On the tobacco item Mr. Clancy protested against the change from excise to customs duty. On the change being made to customs duty numbers of people in Western Ontario and in Quebec had gone into the cultivation of a class of tobacco which would take the place of imported tobacco.

Sir Henri Joly explained that the same duty of 10 and 14 cents a pound would be levied on imported leaf only. It would be collected by the Inland Revenue rather than by the customs officers, so that the "protection" still remained to the domestic tobacco grower.

Mr. McDougall complained that the tobacco duty was too high, and to the surprise of the committee Mr. Landerkin joined in the request for a decrease of the duty, both in the interest of the revenue and of the consumers.

The item finally went through, and the tariff resolutions were passed and reported.

The House adjourned at 12.45 a.m.

ONE HUNDRED ON STRIKE.

King Company's Cutters Left Off Work Out of Sympathy.

Toronto, April 20.—Instead of the J. D. King strike showing signs of cessation, it is becoming more serious and is extending its tentacles. The men seem determined to gain their point, which, in brief, is the recognition by Mr. King of the right of the men to form a union.

The trouble has extended to the cutters, who voluntarily organized a separate assembly of the same union as the bottom finishers, and yesterday morning they went out in a body, so that now about 100 hands are on strike.

The stock fitters and the girls are still working, but the real backbone of the working establishment is gone; and, unless Mr. King can fill all the vacant places at short notice, the union will have to be recognized, or the works closed down.

Mr. King did not feel at all inclined to conversation, when seen yesterday. "Situation just the same—short staff—no war news," was his brief summary.

He then tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Of course there could be but one result. It followed as it always does. Mr. Cromwell was cured. "I had given up all hope of getting well, but four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me," says he.

LAID AWAY IN THE BASILICA.

Last Earthly Tribute to the First Prince of the R. C. Church in Canada.

Quebec, April 20.—(Special.)—The first Canadian prince of the Roman Catholic Church was buried yesterday beneath the Basilica, and after a long and useful life the worthy successor of Plessis and Laval, is at rest. Mgr. Begin, who will be enthroned to-day as Archbishop of Quebec, officiated, while Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishops O'Brien of Halifax, Duhamel of Ottawa, Langevin of St. Boniface, Bruchesi of Montreal, a dozen bishops and hundreds of priests from all over the country, were present. The state was also represented by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Messrs. Scott, Dobell and Fitzpatrick, with Premier Marchand and his colleagues.

Mgr. Lahresque, Bishop of Chicoutimi, preached an eloquent sermon in which he said that Cardinal Taschereau had equalled the wisdom of a Plessis and a Laval, and had continued their good work.

At the termination of the solemn service the remains were removed to the vaults beneath the Basilica. Cardinal Gibbons received the news of the impending struggle between the United States and Spain with great sorrow, and left for home by the 1 o'clock train.

Will Be Tried at Belleville.

Toronto, April 20.—The suit of W. H. Ponton against the Dominion Bank will be tried at Belleville instead of at Napanee. The Master-in-Chambers so directed, upholding the bank's contention that the feeling of the people of Lennox and Addington is still active against the bank, Inspector Bogar and the Pinkerton detectives and the inspector at Napanee. The case is not to be heard at the Belleville sittings, but the sittings following. The bank is to pay the extra costs incurred by reason of the change. The suit is for $50,000 damages.

The Little Fellow May Die.

Kingston, April 20.—A lad named Leheup was throwing stones with a sling, and, as he twirled the sling, the stone slipped out and struck Allan Robinson, aged 10, over the right eye. The skull was fractured. The lad is in the hospital, and may die.

FAINT SPELLS AND DIZZINESS.

DANGEROUS CONDITIONS DUE TO WEAKNESS OF HEART AND NERVES.

THOSE feelings of faintness, those dizzy spells and sinking sensations which pass over you from time to time, are warnings that cannot go unheeded. They indicate a weakened condition of the heart and a disordered state of the nerves. Nature is telling you in an unmistakable manner that you must come to her aid quickly. Get Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills now. They will strengthen your weak heart, invigorate your debilitated nervous system and give you renewed health and vigor.

Mrs. C. Ovas, a well-known and highly respected lady of Collingwood, Ont., made the following statement of her case for the public benefit:—

"It is only since taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills that I have got any ease from the heart trouble from which I suffered for nearly 45 years. My heart used to beat rapidly, then seem to stop. I became dizzy and would almost faint away. I began taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills last March, five boxes in all. They have given me strength, restored healthy action to my heart, and built up my nervous system. During the past 45 years I have been trying to get something to help me, but never took anything that did me so much good as these pills. I am sure some other poor sufferers from heart and nerve troubles hearing of the results in my case, will take this great remedy and derive a like benefit."

About Newspapers.

Here is what Peter Cooper, who died worth many millions, said of newspapers: "In all the towns where a newspaper is published every man should advertise in it. If nothing more than a card stating his name and the business he is in. It does not only pay the advertiser, but it lets people at a distance know the town in which you reside is a prosperous community of business men. As the seed is sown so the seed recompenses. Never pull down your sign while you expect to do business. The most costly and ornate circular a business man sends out dies in less than a day; but the enterprising newspaper, containing the news from the ends of the earth exists from day to day, and a business card in its columns becomes as familiar and as welcome as the news itself.

DEATH OF MRS. MACK.

She Passed Away to Rest Last Night.

Last night Mary Foster Johnston Mack, daughter of the late Robt. Johnston passed away at the family residence Gilmour street, to the great grief of the household and of a very wide circle of friends who held the deceased lady in great affection and the highest esteem. Her last illness which was of only a little over a week's duration, was due to biliay calculi, and though exceedingly painful, was borne with great patience and fortitude. Mrs. Mack was born in the vicinity of Montreal, where she lived till the death of her husband, Mr. Jas. Mack. Since that time she has resided principally in Peterborough, though she spent seven or eight years with her brother in Chicago. Mrs. Mack's cheerfulness of disposition and many lovable qualities won for her a wide circle of friends. She was a faithful attendant at St. Paul's Presbyterian church, having attended both services last Sunday week. She leaves behind to mourn her loss a daughter, Mrs. Geo. Perks and four grand children, a sister, Miss Johnston, residing at home, and two brothers, Mr. W. W. Johnston, town, and Mr. John Johnston, of Chicago. The funeral takes place on Friday next, at three o'clock, from the family residence, 94 Gilmour street, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

OBITUARY.

Demise of Wm. Bletcher, who Formerly Operated Long Stage Lines.

Wm. Bletcher was born at Bletcher's Corners (now Dale in 1822, and died at his residence, Dorset street, Port Hope, on Monday, April 18th, 1898. He was the son of the late Barnabas Bletcher, one of the pioneers of this section, and was married to Caroline, daughter of the late Wm. Marsh, who, with one son, Mr. W. S. Bletcher, Port Hope, and three daughters, Mrs. (Dr.) Brent, Toronto, and two at home, mourn the departure of an affectionate and devoted husband and parent. In the early fifties Mr. Bletcher was one of the most prosperous and prominent business men in or around Port Hope. He was the proprietor of a line of daily stages that ran between Port Hope and Lindsay, and for a time he ran an opposition line of stages between Port Hope and Toronto. He was also a large contractor. He furnished all the timber used in building the first piers of the Port Hope harbour; he had a large number of teams that connected with a steamer that ran daily during the summer between Peterborough and Bewdley. The most of the goods sold in towns and villages to the north of Port Hope were taken over this route. For the past twenty-five or six years he has filled with satisfaction the difficult position of grain inspector for the Kingston district. In politics an uncompromising Liberal and a universally respected citizen. The bereaved family have the sympathy of all their friends in their trouble.

A DROP KNOCKED DOWN A MAN.

Safe Cracker Found With Enough Nitroglycerine to Blow up Great Buildings.

A despatch from Ottawa says: An explosion took place this morning in the analysis' branch of the Inland Revenue Department. The analysts were experimenting upon the contents of a bottle that had been sent them for analysis. A pen was dipped into the bottle and a drop placed upon a piece of paper. A heavy weight was then let fall upon the paper, and the result was an explosion that knocked down the analysts. The bottle in question was found in the possession of J. McDonald, who was committed for trial at Peterborough on Friday, for robbing the post office at Norwood, Ont. Dominion Policeman Parkinson brought the bottle to Ottawa. The bottle contained sufficient nitro-glycerine to have wrecked the West block, where it was tested.

Six Legged Pig.

A few days ago a pig belonging to Mr. Wm. Griffith, of Belmont, gave birth to a litter of eight young pigs, one of which had six perfectly formed legs and feet. The pig, which is a very peculiar freak of nature, seems to move around on its six legs with as much ease as his brother pigs do on four.

"Star" Grocery Re-opened.

I have re-opened the "Star" grocery, corner of Water and Hunter streets, Peterborough, with a fresh and carefully selected stock of choice family groceries—teas, sugars, provisions and everything usually found in a well-stocked grocery. The premises is well known, having lately been occupied by W. H. Hill's insurance agency, and formerly known as the "Star" grocery, adjoining the Morgan House. As I intend to do a strictly cash business I can guarantee my customers the very best value in everything they buy. Soliciting the patronage of my friends and the public generally.—P. ROBINSON.

WAR THE NEXT STEP.

The Time for Palaver and Discussion is Past and Gone.

THE PRELUDE TO HOSTILITIES

The Mutual Withdrawal of the Ambassadors.

SPAIN MUST QUIT CUBA OR FIGHT.

The Spanish-American war cloud is about to burst and the opening of hostilities is only a matter of a few days.

President McKinley signed the ultimatum at noon to-day, despatched it to Madrid.

A copy was sent to the Spanish Minister at Washington, who as once demanded his passports.

This means the end of talk, and in case of Spain's rejection of the ultimatum, war will begin.

Spain will not yield, and the result is war.

Special 5 p.m. dispatch to the Examiner.

A Canard Denied.

Madrid, April 20th.—There is no foundation for the story published in Rome that Spain has or will offer Cuba to the Pope, so that the latter may surrender the island to the United States, thus enabling Spain to escape the humiliation of a surrender to the United States. The idea is ridiculed in Spanish official circles here. The Spaniards say that they will never renounce Cuba without a heroic struggle.

Easier to Talk than Fight.

Havana, April 20.—The Union Constitutional, commenting upon the resolutions adopted by Congress, says: "Intervention means war for Spain. But it is easier to vote than to execute. So far Spain has treated the United States with contempt. Now she will kick her and use the whip."

Austria Assumes Spain's Interests.

Washington, April 20.—Spain's affairs have been entrusted to French Ambassador and Austrian Minister.

Britain Represents the United States in Spain.

Madrid, April 20.—On the departure of General Woodford from Madrid, which is expected almost immediately, the arms of Great Britain will replace those of the United States over U. S. Embassy and the British Charge D'affaires will look after the interests of the United States in Spain.

The Ultimatum Signed and Presented.

Washington, April 20.—The Cuban resolution is now a law of the land and the ultimatum to Spain an accomplished fact. The President at 11.34 o'clock affixed his signature to the joint resolutions of Congress requiring Spain to evacuate the Island of Cuba. The ultimatim meanwhile had been prepared at the State Department by Assistant Secretary Day and at 11.30 o'clock announcement was made at the White House that it had been signed by the President and had been sent to the Spanish government. The ultimatum was brought over to the White House shortly before eleven o'clock by Assistant Secretary Day, who went over it with President McKinley before the latter affixed his signature. After the announcement Assistant Secretary Day said that had been transmitted this morning to Madrid, addressed to U. S. Minister Woodford, who will deliver it to the Spanish government as soon as the final determination to send it had been reached and it had been started on the way to Madrid. Senor Polo de Bernabe Spanish Minister in accordance with diplomatic courtesies was given a copy of the paper. The Minister as soon as he received it made a brief reply and requested his passports.

It was said at the White House that the terms of the untimatum would not be made public here until to-morrow. It is understood it consists largely of a diplomatic paraphrase of the joint resolution of Congress concluding with a statement that this Government awaits Spain's reply.

LINDSAY VS. PETERBOROUGH.

The Local Y.M.C.A. Team Wins at Basket Ball.

On Monday night the Peterborough Y. M.C.A. team visited Lindsay and in the skating rink played a very interesting game. The Lindsay band was in attendance and played several selections. The Lindsay boys scored the first goal. This had a magic effect over the Peterborough boys and they soon scored four points thus carrying them ahead, where they remained. The game was very interesting, seven men playing on each side instead of five on account of the size of the rink. The Lindsay team shows much improvement over the game played here, and they treated the visitors royally. After the game both teams sat down to a banquet at which every one did justice. The score was 18 to 6 in favour of Peterborough. This ends the season for outside games. The Peterborough team has done well this year, as it is the first time the game has been played. Out of six games they won three. They expect to do better next year.

Of the match the Lindsay Post says:—"The game of basket-ball last night between the teams from Peterborough and Lindsay Y. M. C. A's. was a very interesting one. Peterborough's men were much more accustomed to a large field and seemed to play their combination game well. Those who were present enjoyed the game very much, also the music furnished by the band. The score was 16 to 8 in favor of Peterborough, but the game was much closer one than the score would indicate. The teams lined up as follows:—Peterborough, S. Hall, capt., right forward; H. Morrow, left forward; C. Mathias, right centre; W. Wilson, centre; E. Payne, left centre; T. Glover, right back; M. Breckinbridge, left back. Lindsay, J. McLean, right forward; F. Twamley, left forward; R. Willock, right centre; H. Henley, centre; F. Houghton, left centre; E. Armstrong, right back; W. Jordan, capt., left back.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Wheeling and Other Items of Local and General Interest.

LACROSSE.

Kingston is putting on a big celebration for the 24th of May and writes to the Peterborough Lacrosse Club offering liberal inducements for a team to be sent down. The Peterboroughs, however, are putting on a home game that day. Beaverton also asks for a team to be sent there on the Queen's Birthday and in all probability a strong aggregation of juniors will be given an opportunity of upholding the name of the Peterboroughs in that town on the 24th.

Word was received to-day from Varsity that their team intended playing the Torontos on the Queen's Birthday and in consequence will not be able to play in Peterborough. Correspondence has been opened up with Orangeville, St. Catharines, Markham, Stouffville and the Toronto Elms. Any one of these teams can give the Peterboroughs a close and exciting game here.

An endeavour is being made to form a junior series of the C. L. A. in this district. A great many interesting games might result if such clubs could be induced to play as Stirling, Campbellford, Marmora, Hastings, Norwood, Millbrook and Peterborough juniors. Lionel King, as representing the East on the Council of the C. L. A., should endeavour to work up such a district. It would increase the interest in lacrosse greatly and next year more junior teams would be found entering the Association.

At a meting of the Campbellford junior club recently the following officers were elected:—

President—Chas Drennan.
Vice-President—W. S. Tyrell.
Secretary-Treasurer—R. Milne.
Managing Committee—A. Donald, F. Benor, J. Gibson and J. Richardson.
Captain—Louis McCoy.

The team wants a game with the Peterborough Juniors, but the Juniors would sooner run up against the Campbellford Seniors.

The senior Committee of Management of the Canadian Lacrosse Association will meet in Toronto at 11 o'clock Wednesday, April 27, and each club intending to play in the series is asked to send a delegate.

The District Committee, which has in charge the laying out of the districts for this season, will meet in Toronto at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 26, to complete the arrangement. It is desired to meet the wishes of the clubs as far as possible, and to this end the clubs should communicate to Secretary W. S. A. Hartley their idea as to how the districts should be made up and of what clubs each should be composed. New junior clubs are particularly requested to notify Secretary Hartley, as the junior districts will be a very important feature of lacrosse in Ontario this year.

The council of the C. L. A. will meet at 2 p. m., April 27, in Toronto.

As the newspapers spoil many a good thing in sporting circles, the Toronto Lacrosse Club have decided to keep their "good things" to themselves, says the Telegram. There have been lots of talk about Harvey German playing with Toronto, but it was only to-day that he really made up his mind to play with the team. The executive will call a meeting on Saturday, when Peter Knowles will give it out officially that he has signed Canada's greatest home player. A follower of the game says: "Toronto has in the beginning of every season being touted as having such a great team, but it always fell short of the mark. This year they really have a good team, so let them keep quiet until they have won two or three games."

CRICKET.

The Cricket Club minstrels' practice was attended by forty-seven members of the big chorus last evening, and consequently it passed off very successfully. Those participating in the cake walk are practising this afternoon. The plan for the performance opens at nine o'clock to-morrow morning at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

FOOTBALL.

The Lakefield Football Club has elected the following officers:

President—Percy Brown.
Vice-Pres—T. Smith.
Captain—N. Nicholls.
Vice Captain—W. Stabler.
Secretary—F. Gray.
Treasurer—H. Morrison.
Committee—N. Nicholls, Percy Brown, E. Moore, F. Gray, Harry Moore, Gordon Galvin, R. English.

The team intend practicing as soon as possible and are open for challenge at any time.

THE WHEEL.

The Furness Railway Company are making their new passenger brake vans 54 feet in length, which will enable them to provide a special platform, seven inches in height at one end, for half a dozen bicycles. Each bicycle fits into a separate leather padded groove on this platform, and there is another groove at the end of the van for one of the wheels to fit in. Straps are also provided from side to side of the van, which fasten around the handle of each bicycle to prevent oscillation. The machines are thus made secure, and are kept quite apart from the general luggage.

CURLIANA.

The semi-annual meeting of the Ontario Curling Association was held yesterday afternoon in Toronto. The gathering had many important matters to deal with, and, though there was not a very large attendance, managed to get through the programme of business prepared for them by their indefatigable Secretary, Mr. J. S. Russell. Mr. E. B. Edwards of Peterboro' held over his motion, which has been in the hands of the association for some time, regarding the reduction in the weight of curling stones, as he thought the matter was of too important a nature to be dealt with at so small a meeting.

Secretary Russell had a great bunch of reports to submit. The report of the Annual showed a loss on the year. About 700 copies were printed, and of the lot 554 were taken by clubs and 68 otherwise disposed of, leaving 78 on hand. There was a deficit of about $23. The financial report was satisfactory, there being a balance of $96 21 on the right side of the ledger.

CAMERA CLUB ORGANIZED.

A meeting to organize a Y.M.C.A. camera club was held in the association parlor last evening. There was a good attendance of amateurs and much interest was manifested. Officers were elected as follows:—

Hon. President—Mr. Geo. Stephens.
President—Mr. Fred Hall.
Secy-Treas.—Mr. W. J. Stubbs.
Executive Committee—Messrs. Dixon, Parker, Benton and the officers.

At the close of the meeting the members inspected the third flat where the clubs' headquarters will be.

Plans were discussed relative to the arrangement of the dark room. Same will be built at once.

At the next meeting to be held next week, Mr. Geo. Whiten will give the first of a series of talks on how to begin.

QUICKLY EXTINGUISHED.

A Blaze on the Premises of the China Hall Last Evening—A Catastrophe Narrowly Averted.

Fire broke out in the office in the rear of China Hall last evening, but was so quickly extinguished that little damage was sustained.

At a quarter to eight o'clock Mr. Macfarlane Wilson lit the small gas stove in his office and before sitting down to work on his books, and ran upstairs to see that the windows were closed, prior to closing the store for the evening. The front door was open at the time and probably the draught carried the portiere towards the gas stove. At any rate Mr. Wilson had hardly reached the top of the stairs when he heard the cry of "fire" attended by the sound of people rushing through the store. He hurried down from the second flat and was amazed to see flames issuing from the office door. The firemen must have been on the scene almost instantaneously as Mr. Wilson states that three minutes could not have expired from the time of the portiere catching fire and the extinguishing of the blaze by the Babcock extinguisher. In that short period, however, both curtains were consumed and the flames had almost forced their way through the ceiling into the next story. The papering is of course spoiled, but beyond that and the damage to the ceiling the loss is slight.

The office in which the fire occurred is situated directly over the coal oil tanks in the basement and, therefore, the prompt attendance of the brigade probably averted what might have developed into a conflagration of considerable magnitude.

One of the first on the scene was the inspector of the local branch of a well known corporation. Not being well acquainted with the premises he did not know where to look for water, until glancing into the next room to the office, he saw the coal oil pumps. Rushing in, he pumped a pailful of coal oil, believing in his excitement that it was water. He was just caught in time to prevent him dashing the inflammable fluid on the flames, and causing a catastrophe which would not soon have been forgotten, as the sheet of fire which would have resulted from the coal oil's contact with the flames, must certainly have injured, to a more or less extent, every person in the crowded store.

ASHBURNHAM TRAMPS.

The Village is Troubled With "Weary Willies" Who Devastate the Hen-roosts.

A number of Ashburnham hen-roosts have been raided within the last week or so and the crime is laid at the door of the tramps who appear to be infesting the village at present.

The "modus operandi" of the weary Willies is quite clever. One of the fraternity calls at the back door of a house where hens are kept and before entering the premises hides his hat. Arriving at the door he asks for anything in the way of headgear and the housewife generally has to ascend to the attic to find something to suit the visitor. Whilst she is away he gets the lay of the land and when he and his comrades call at night the rest is easy.

DOUBLE COLLISION.

A Minister Meets with a Thrilling Experience when Driving Home from Church.

On Good Friday evening as the Rev. Mr. Tomlin was driving home from evening service in Roseneath, and had just got out of the village, he met two rigs speeding abreast at a rapid rate. The next moment there was a double collision the rear rig interlocking wheels with his and the other was overturned into the ditch. The force of the collision tore the cross bar out of his buggy and sent him head foremost over the dash. The horse however behaved admirable, and his driver crawled out safely under the rear of the buggy though the breeching still held to the shafts. The five occupants of the other rigs were all thrown out, their horses running off with broken harness, and one of the buggies was badly wrecked against a telephone pole. But happily no person was hurt. By a similar occurrance a few months ago near Picton Mr. Henry Haight, clerk of Division Court, was killed and the thoughtless cause of his death was put in prison for manslaughter.

TRIED IN BELLEVILLE.

Decision at Toronto that the Ponton Case Cannot be Tried in Napanee—Goes to Belleville Instead.

Judgment was given at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, yesterday afternoon changing the place of trial of the Ponton case against the Dominion Bank, from Napanee to Belleville. The counsel for the Bank alleged that it was impossible to secure a fair trial at Napanee of this action for the wrongful arrest of W. H. H. Ponton owing to the strong public sentiment in the prisoner's favor. The application was opposed by Mr. E. Guss Porter, counsel for Ponton. The suggestion being made that the trial take place at Belleville, Mr. Aylsworth, counsel for the bank, said the only objection to that was that Belleville was Ponton's home; but he did not object to Belleville if he could not get Toronto. The judgment of the master-in-chambers states that all expenses occasioned by the change must be paid by the bank and the plaintiff need not bring on the case until the fall assizes.

Ginseng.

Occasionally we have inquiries relating to ginseng, which grows wild in Northern Ontario, and is protected by a provincial statute. It appears that during the past few years the price of ginseng has continued to increase, the best wild root bringing, in the wholesale market for the season of 1897, $4 to $4 75 per pound. It is stated that the demand for ginseng in China is steady, and that the exports of ginseng may be largely increased without overstocking the market.

—Belleville and Kingston are not friendly, and the Belleville Ontario works off this delicate little touch on the Limestone City:—"Now there is Captain Hora, of the Kingston Rifles, who wants to go and fight for Uncle Sam. BENSFORT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

We understand Mr. Wm. Morrison, Sr., had a slight paralytic stroke last week. He is progressing favourably, however, and if nothing happens to the contrary will soon be around again.

Mrs. Galloway, wife of the late A. D. Galloway, for many years postmaster at Bensfort, is suffering from a very severe attack of inflammation of the lungs. Her daughter, Mrs. Hicks, of Bowmanville, is waiting on her. Dr. Montgomery, of Baillieboro, is in attendance.

Misses Louise Watermen, Annie Kerr and Mina Robinson, of Norwood High School, are spending Easter holidays at their different homes.

Mr. Percy Rutherford, the enterprising owner of the cheese factory, is preparing for a busy season and is now getting things ready.

Several farmers in the vicinity will soon be done spring work.

Everything indicates a favourable season and good crops.

That very useful structure known as the Bensfort bridge, is now undoubtedly an orphan, with no individual committee or county to look after its interests. Last week one of the crews of the many steamboats plying up and down the river had to open the swing themselves, and after passing through left it open, the caretaker being away or engaged at the time, did not close it. Several people on their way to town on Saturday could not cross, so had to drive away around by Hale's bridge, a distance of nearly ten miles in the round trip.

Wanted.

Every citizen to make a purchase at the Spot Cash Grocery Co.'s "convincing" sale.

The Tea Cup Test

It is well enough to talk about the good qualities of a tea, but after all it is what is shown by brewing that is the final test. The number of cups of good tea that can be brewed from a single pound has as much relation to economy as the price per pound. From a pound of Ram Lal's Pure Indian Tea, 200 cups of tea can be made. Beside, the strength there is the quality of the brew, and in this Ram Lal's stands above all others.

Isn't it easier to pay down the cash and be done with it than it would be to have a debt facing you for weeks or months, even if the price was the same?—but that could not be. Can't help but come to the surface in the form of Ulcers, Sores, Boils, Pimples, Eczema and Rashes of one kind and another. Especially is this so in the SPRING. At this time of the year the Blood needs purifying and enriching, the System needs cleansing. Nothing will do it with such perfect success as

Burdock Blood Bitters

Jessie Johnston, Rockwood, Ont., writes :—

"I had boils very bad and a friend advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, so I got a bottle. The effect was wonderful—the boils began to disappear, and before the bottle was done I was totally cured. As an effectual and rapid cure for Impure Blood B.B.B. cannot be equalled."

DOMESTIC ECONOMY PUZZLE

She Could Get the Answer, but Still She Wondered.

A dear little woman up on Capitol hill married and went to housekeeping in the most determined manner. She set to work to keep an exact account of her expenditures, balancing her books regularly once a month. One of her earliest purchases was an ice ticket for the season. It cost, I believe, $10.

A month later, in making up her accounts, it occurred to her that that $10 should be divided proportionately among the several months mentioned on the ticket in order to give to each day's account only the amount of money actually expended on that day. Also she wished to calculate and set down the number of pounds of ice used each day. The problem had several ramifications which I have forgotten, but, at any rate, it was exceedingly difficult, and the housewife covered sheet after sheet of paper with her calculation. The arrival of her husband found her dishevelled and in a state of evident distress.

"What in the world is the matter?" he asked. The wife explained.

"Well, can't you get any answer without that figuring?" he asked. The wife's eyes began to blink rapidly and she sniffed suspiciously.

"Oh, I can get an answer," she said, swallowing hard—"I can get a lovely answer, but I can't put it in my book because I can't tell—I can't tell whether it's days or ice or money."—Washington Post.

The Pony in Franz-Josef Land.

At an early stage in our journey our difficulties began. The pony broke loose the second night out, and, unfortunately, gorged herself with dried vegetables. These, together with dog biscuits and a few pounds of oats saved from the previous sledging, were her usual fodder, owing to the lack of legitimate horse food, which had quite run out more than 12 months before. As I expected, the surfeit of dried vegetables brought on a serious illness, to remedy which Armitage and I clubbed together the small supply of pills which we had with us. He produced, I think, two varieties of pills, and I had a number of podophyllin; so we made up a dose of 22 in all, which I administered to our invalid pony, mixed up in some frozen fat from our frying pan. This, I am glad to say, had the desired effect of at all events partly restoring her to health. —Geographical Journal.

A RELIABLE OFFER.

Honest Help Free to Men.

The (Peterborough Examiner) is authorized to state by Mr. D. Graham, Box 138, Hagersville, Ont., that any man who is nervous and debilitated or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from overwork, excesses or abuse, such as nervous debility, exhausted vitality, lost vigor, unnatural drains and losses, lack of development, etc., can write to him in strict confidence and receive free of charge full instructions how to be thoroughly cured.

Mr. Graham himself was for a long time a sufferer from above troubles and after trying in vain many advertised remedies, electric belts, etc., became almost entirely discouraged and hopeless. Finally he confided in an old clergyman, whose kind and honest advice enabled him to speedily obtain a perfect and permanent cure. Knowing to his own sorrow, that so many poor sufferers are being imposed upon by unscrupulous quacks, Mr. Graham considers it his duty as an honest man and a firm believer in christian sympathy and kindness, to give his fellow-men the benefit of his experience and assist them to a cure. Having nothing to sell, he asks for no money, the proud satisfaction of having done a great service to one in need, he rightly considers an ample reward for his trouble. If you write to Mr. Graham you can rely upon being cured and upon absolute secrecy as well.

Address as above, enclosing a stamp and refer to the (Peterborough Examiner). No attention however will be given to those writing out of mere curiosity, therefore state that you really need a cure.

10 CENT RATE PER CWT

Is What Mr. Greenway is Securing for Manitoba Farmers.

$8,000 A MILE IS PROPOSED.

Specific Reductions to Be Made on Cordwood and Sawlogs—Connections With Lake Superior and With Rainy River Part of the Premier's Plan—Dauphin Road Connection.

Winnipeg, April 19.—It is understood that when the announcement regarding the railway policy of the Provincial Government is brought down it will be in substance as follows:

The Provincial Government will aid the Manitoba Southeastern Railway to the extent of guaranteeing its bonds for $8,000 per mile, on 80 miles, to be constructed from the City of Winnipeg in a southeasterly direction to about Whitemouth Lake. This is a common point, so that the Government can have the connecting link built when it is undertaken next season, either southward, passing for about 35 miles through Minnesota territory, or directly east, crossing the Lake of the Woods at the Narrows and keeping entirely in Canadian territory. Certain specific reductions are made on cordwood and sawlogs. The lower rates on sawlogs will ensure that pine logs will be brought in from this part of the Province to be manufactured into lumber in mills in Winnipeg, and will also cheapen fuel. This road will also pass through a fine farming country, and from the very beginning it is believed that, like the Dauphin road, it will pay running expenses and interest.

The contract is said to call for the construction of the road from Winnipeg City, which will necessitate the company either securing a bridge across the Red River or getting right of way across the Louise bridge, which is city property.

Work on this will be commenced immediately, and by next season the construction of a link to connect the line with the west end of the Rainy River will be up for consideration.

This being outside the Province, will have to be aided by a cash grant, and in connection with which terms will be secured, absolutely securing to the people of Manitoba a 10 cent rate per cwt. on wheat from Winnipeg to Lake Superior.

Another important announcement is reported to be that of building a line of railway from about Sifton, on the Dauphin line, 140 miles northwesterly and northerly to the Saskatchewan River, through the fertile Swan River Valley. This line will be built under the charter of the Hudson Bay Railway, and it is for this reason that the Dauphin road is amalgamating with the aforementioned. Besides taking a first mortgage on all the line, the Government will be secured by a lien on the land grant of the part of the line from the boundary of the Province to the Saskatchewan River. This line, when completed, will not only open up for settlement a large area of valuable country, and take the Great Saskatchewan, which is navigable for steamers both east and west, but it will also be half way to Hudson Bay.

Connection between the Southeastern road and the Dauphin road will be made by the N.P. and M. & N.W. Railways.

A TRIO OF ACCIDENTS.

Engineer Leonard Jones Killed at Tilsonburg and Isaac Ferris at St. Mary's—A Life for a Hat.

Tilsonburg, April 19.—In a collision on the G.T.R. yesterday about 4 o'clock a westbound freight ran into a train standing about one-eighth of a mile east of the Tilsonburg loop line station. Engineer Leonard Jones of St. Thomas was instantly killed. The locomotive is completely wrecked and four or five cars, empties, burned. The track was cleared by 12 o'clock.

Ran Against a Train.

St. Mary's, April 19.—A serious accident occurred here yesterday at the G. T. R. crossing west of the Junction station. Thomas Fulcher and Isaac Ferris were on top of a load of hay driving a spirited team of horses towards the town, and when nearing the crossing they stopped to allow a westbound freight train to pass, but the horses became unmanageable and ran against the side of the passing engine. Mr. Ferris was instantly killed. Mr. Fulcher was badly, but not seriously, injured, and both horses were more or less hurt, one of them beyond recovery. The wagon and harness are a total wreck. Coroner Rankin of Stratford is expected to hold an inquest.

Drowned Close to Land.

Gananoque, April 19.—A sad drowning accident occurred here yesterday afternoon, the unfortunate man being John A. Cunningham, aged 21 years. Cunningham, along with J. Heffernan and T. Boucher, were out sailing. When near Dark Island Cunningham lost his hat, and in his efforts to get it the boat was upset. Heffernan and Boucher clung to the boat, but Cunningham struck out for shore. He was drowned a few yards from land, in about eight feet of water.

Seems as if consumption always picks out the brightest and best. Fully one-sixt of all the deaths that occur in the world are caused by consumption. Many things were once considered impossible. It would be strange if medical science did not make some progress. The telegraph and telephone, the phonograph, the electric light, all were once impossible, and once it was impossible to cure consumption. That was before the time of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Taken according to directions, this standard remedy will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. Consumption is caused and fostered by impurity in the blood. It is cured by purity and richness in the blood—surely, certainly cured by the "Medical Discovery." It builds up solid healthy flesh and vigorous strength.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a 1008 page medical work, profusely illustrated, will be sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover all postage ONLY. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y.

Life's Red Stream.

When the blood is pure and rich, health and vitality are carried to all parts of the body. When it is impure or watery, the seeds of disease germinate and grow. To clear the blood current of all impurities, to make it rich and health-giving there is nothing to equal the standard blood remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters.

TRIED TO KILL HIS BROTHER.

Percy Hudson, a Pedlar, Was Jealous of His Brother Edward.

Toronto, April 19.—Jealousy almost caused another tragedy last night. There was a shooting affray at 36 McGill street, and Percy Hudson, a pedlar, who is about 30 years of age, is under arrest charged with firing three shots from a revolver with the intention of killing Edward Hudson, his older brother.

The prisoner's home is at 319 Queen street west. A year or so ago it seems that he and his brother fell in love with the same young woman. Edward was the successful suitor and married the lady seven months ago. Since then the brothers have only met on one occasion, and then Percy was very sulky.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson boarded with Mr. Gould at 36 McGill street. Last night there was a ring at the door bell and Mr. Gould answered it. The caller was Percy Hudson and he asked to see his brother. He was under the influence of liquor and was acting strangely. Edward came to the door, whereat Percy produced a 32 calibre revolver and fired three times, but on each occasion the bullet went wide of its mark. Percy said he would kill his brother, but he was disarmed after firing the three shots and was handed over to Policeman Wilby, who took him to No. 3 Police Station.

The languor so common at this season is due to impoverish blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures it by enriching the blood.

An Imposing Spectacle.

Quebec, April 19.—The bells of the Basilica yesterday rang out their tale of grief as the funeral procession of the late Cardinal Taschereau moved solemnly along the road lined with a fringe of military standing present arms, with a brilliant military staff. The Governor-General was represented by Major Denison, aide, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, by Hon. Chas. Fitzpatrick; Lieut.-Governor Jette was accompanied by Major Sheppard, A.D.C. The bells of the English Cathedral were tolled during the procession and the Protestant schools were dismissed for the afternoon.

Must Exterminate the Pest.

Toronto, April 19.—The spruce pest, which a few days ago was announced at the Bureau of Forestry to have been found as far north as Lucknow, has now been reported from Midland. Dr. Brodie, entomologist to the department, called at the Parliament Buildings yesterday with a sample of the pest from Midland that was two or three years old. This is regarded as alarmingly near the forests, and active measures will be taken to exterminate the pest.

APPALLING DEATH

From Kidney Disease Prevented by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

"Kidney Disease." Do you know what it means? It means that the kidneys are either rotten, or rotting; the blood is full of poisonous, death-dealing corruption; that the Kidneys can't do their work; that the victim is a walking charnel-house; that his hours are numbered; that the victim MUST take Dodd's Kidney Pills if he does not want to die.

Have you Kidney Disease? Is your skin hot and dry; memory failing; breath short; urine, reddish, or pale colored; does it scald when passing; is your appetite changeable; do your ankles swell; have you bitter taste in the mouth on getting up mornings; is there a brick-dust deposit in your urine?

Any of these signs is proof positive of Kidney Disease. Will you be cured, or will you die? Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only means on earth that will cure you. They never fail.

A TRAINMAN'S RISKS

FIGURES WHICH GO TO SHOW THAT THEY ARE OVERESTIMATED.

Brakemen, and the Old Hands Among Them, Are Oftenest Victims—But the Statistics Quoted May Be Exceptional. Benefits From Safety Appliances.

It has been estimated, and, in fact, railroad men frequently make the remark, that the average life of a man actively engaged in train service is about seven years. In other words, that they are either crippled up so as to render them unfit for service again in a like capacity or are killed on an average in that time. It has been found by looking over the records of one of the leading railroads entering Louisville that this is untrue. During three years, on one of the busiest roads entering the city, there were only 2 killed and 158 injured, all of whom were brakemen except two, and they were freight conductors who had assumed the duty of brakemen, one by making a coupling and the other by assisting in unloading freight.

It would seem that inexperienced men would be most apt to get injured; but the figures show differently, as indicated by the following: Eleven, or 9.56 per cent of the total number of trainmen, were injured during their first year of service; 18, or 12.16 per cent, were injured who had been in the service two years; 15, or 11.11 per cent, had been in the service three years; 22, or 16.85 per cent, four years; 26, or 20 per cent, five years; 27, or 21.77 per cent, six years; 13, or 9.63 per cent, seven years; 6, or 3.90 per cent, eight years; 3, or 2.47 per cent, nine years; 5, or 4.16 per cent, ten years, and 12, or 8.89 per cent, over ten years, some of whom had been in the service 15, 18 and 23 years.

It will be noted that the largest average of injuries occurred after the employee had been in service six years, and the figures given would indicate that employees as a general rule are careful up to the time when they have been in the service three to four years and then become more careless until about their eighth year of service, when the indications show that they again become careful, as those who had worked over ten years have a very small comparative per cent of injuries compared with those who had worked six years. With the completion of the equipment of all box cars with automatic couplers, airbrakes, etc., the liability of a trainman being injured will have been reduced to a minimum, as the record goes to show that at least two-thirds of the injuries were caused by attempting to couple automatic drawbars with a link and pin to the old fashioned solid or skeleton drawbar, which is very dangerous even to the most experienced railroad man. Other causes were on account of uneven drawbars, some being as much as three inches higher than others. All this will be rectified with the law which requires all drawbars to be of a standard height. A great many trainmen were injured by stepping upon stones or links in jumping off to throw switches, etc., quite a number by being thrown off on account of the icy condition of the tops of the cars.

There was one case where a brakeman was standing near the end of a car when another out of cars struck it, and he was thrown from the top of the car to the ground, alighting squarely upon his feet and "stoving him up" severely, as will be readily understood. A few were compelled to jump from the top of cars in cases of derailment. Others had their feet mashed by attempting to shove an automatic drawbar over a few inches to enable it to come more squarely in contact with the automatic coupler. This is one of the serious objections to the automatic drawbar—that it will not couple readily on a curve, and it is necessary for the trainmen either to pull one of the drawbars over or shove it over with their feet.

One of the most general causes of pinched fingers was on account of the pin failing to drop all the way down into the hole when coupling with a link and pin. The brakemen invariably reach over to give the pin a start so it will drop into the hole, when the cars frequently roll one way or the other just a few inches and catch the pin just before it gets all the way down, causing it to tilt back and catch the fingers between pin and end sill of the car.

A few were injured by holding the grab iron on the end of the car—recently added to all freight cars by an act of congress—and attempting to make the coupling when long lumber or bridge iron would be extending over the end of the car to be coupled to, and catch their hands between the timber and end of the car. However, this dangerous method of coupling cars together that have lading projecting over the ends of them will soon be a thing of the past, as it is becoming a general rule for all companies not to permit the loading of cars in this manner. Whenever there is long timber to load the companies require the use of two cars instead of one, as heretofore.

With the taking effect of the new law compelling railroads to have all cars equipped with automatic drawbars and have the drawbars of equal height from rails, the position of railroad brakeman will not be such a hazardous one.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

MR. H. HANCOCK'S VICTORY

Over Kidney Disease Won by the Help of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Galt, April 11.—(Special)—The greatest "speech" delivered for many years in Galt, was made recently by H. Hancock, Esq., proprietor of the fine hotel, the Iroquois. It was short and pithy and conveyed to every sufferer from kidney disease the glad news that they need suffer no longer.

Mr. Hancock's statement runs thus:—"For over a year I suffered with terrible backaches. Nothing I used gave me the least relief till I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. I used only a few boxes, but to day every vestige of pain has vanished completely."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only cure on earth for Kidney diseases.

VIRTUES OF HOT WATER.

Many Are the Aches and Pains It Will Relieve.

Not a phrase conveying an impression of entire felicity, yet it may be found that water, hot, has manifold uses and is peculiarly able in certain places to afford comfort and relief. A physician who has tried it says that no agent so quickly relieves nausea and vomiting as water, hot as it can be taken. For constipation drink of hot water a short time before retiring at night. Dyspeptics are benefited by sipping a cup of hot water an hour before eating. The same practice tends to flesh production, and is one of the rules given sometimes in prescriptions for the cure of lameness.

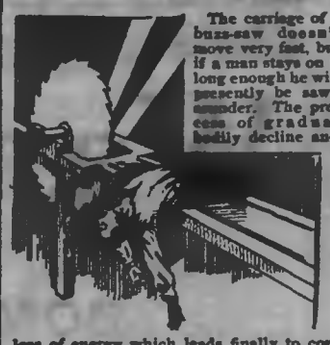
As water is so considerable an element in the physical structure, it is in some sense a food, though—knowing, too, that without it life cannot be supported—it is not usually regarded in that manner, and the knowledge that a weak stomach will retain hot water when it will nothing else may be oftentimes of value.

Let those who are inclined to sneer at "only hot water" try a cup of it, fresh water, quickly heated and brought to a boil, used with cream and sugar as for coffee. If coffee, as many believe, encourages dyspepsia, and tea renders its consumers subject to headaches, while a cold fluid with warm fluid is not hygienic, it answers to reason that if any drink must be used at meals, the one we are considering (or else hot milk), having none of their objectionable qualities, is preferable.

To ward off the cold threatened by a chilly sensation, drink a cup. To loosen a tight cough, sip water as hot as it can be borne. A hot compress, with a dry flannel over it, persistently applied to the throat and chest will cure a stubborn cough, a sore throat and cut short in its incipiency congestion of the lungs.

To dip a cloth in hot water and lay it quickly over the seat of pain is sometimes a relief in neuralgia. The same application on the stomach will banish colic. In croup place about the neck a flannel wrung out of hot water. For sprains hot fomentations are excellent. In such cases care should be taken that the clothing is protected from dampness by the intervention of a dry cloth, and in all the uses for it thus far given it must be kept in mind that the water is to be really hot.

In spasms place the afflicted child as quickly as possible in a hot bath—that is, one heated as much as comfort will allow. The convulsed frame will be relaxed and soothed by its contact with the warm water. A hot bath after exposure will do much to prevent the taking of an infectious disease. An occasional full hot bath upon retiring is of great benefit in inducing sleep. Even a footbath will be found a help as a means to the same.



The carriage of a buzz-saw doesn't move very fast, but if a man stays on it long enough he will presently be sawn asunder. The process of gradual bodily decline and loss of energy which leads finally to consumption is not always very rapid, but if it isn't stopped it will presently begin to saw its way into the most vital part of the body, the lungs. There would be very little consumption if every family would keep Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the house, and use it whenever feeling "out of sorts." It keeps the entire body in such a high condition of health and forcefulness that wasting diseases have no chance to get a foot-hold. A teaspoonful or two before meals, in a little water, gives the digestive organism power to assimilate the blood-making, nerve-toning, strength-building properties of the food.

It enables the liver and excretory system to clear the circulation of bilious poisons and remove all waste matter from the body. It replaces worn out tissue with hard muscular flesh, and changes weakness and debility into active power and nerve force.

The originator of this great "Discovery," R. V. Pierce, M. D., is chief consulting physician to the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y., at the head of a staff of nearly a score of eminent associate physicians and surgeons. He has acquired, in his over thirty years of active practice, a reputation second to no living physician in the treatment of obstinate, chronic diseases. His prescriptions must not be confounded with the numerous "boom" remedies, "extracts," "compounds," and "sarsaparillas," which a profit-seeking druggist is often ready to urge as a substitute. Dr. Pierce's medicines are the product of wide experience and deep study. Any one may consult him by mail free of charge.

When a person is tired and heated, bathing the face with warm water will prove more comfortable as well as less dangerous than the use of cold. Weak eyes are made stronger by bathing them regularly in water as hot as can be borne. If they are tired, such bathing, to which is sometimes added a little salt, will wonderfully rest them.

For a fine complexion and velvety skin never use cold, but warm water in washing the face. It may be first washed with soap and hot water, then rinsed with tepid water. To bathe the face daily in hot water will, it is said, remove pimples. And the appearance of wrinkles may be greatly delayed, it is believed, by the use of the hot bath.—St. Louis Republic.

Mistook the Mule.

Deacon Jackson was a very pious but very determined old colored citizen of Owl Creek valley. He had a young mule which his boys were unable to ride, and their failure to break the animal so exasperated the old man that he determined to ride it himself. He was, however, no sooner located on its back than he was thrown into an adjoining lot, where he was picked up with both legs broken and his neck badly sprained.

"What on earth did such an old man as you mean by trying to ride a wild young mule like that?" asked the doctor.

"Waal, suh," said Deacon Jackson, "I never does undertake to do nuthin widont fust consultin ov de Lawd an seein whut he dun thunk erbout hit. I axed him ef I orter ride dat mule what my trifilin no ercount boys couldn't ride, an de Lawd he sed, 'Yessah,' jes' as plain es I am talkin to you."

"Well, but he seems to have given you bad advice."

"No, doctor, his judgment was all right, fer de Lawd knows dis ole nigger never seed de day when he was afeered to straddle anything from a circular saw up to er elephant, but dis time I think de Lawd was jes' mistooken in de mule."—Altanta Journal.

Death Grip on a Satchel.

James Whitcomb Riley, the great Hoosier poet, never burdens himself with much baggage while he is traveling. He once explained his views on baggage by saying: "I am continually haunted by the fear that my trunk will be lost, so I go about the country with a grip. I keep a tenacious hold on it all day long and never feel quite safe about it at night. In case there is ever a fearful railway accident, and among the debris is a valise with an arm attached to it firmly, they may bury it without further identification as the fragments of the Hoosier poet."

TWO TOILERS.

Two men toiled side by side from sun to sun,
And both were poor;
Both sat with children when the day was done
About their door.

One saw the beautiful in crimson cloud
And shining moon;
The other, with his head in sadness bowed,
Made night of noon.

One loved each tree and flower and singing bird
On mount or plain;
No music in the soul of one was stirred
By leaf or rain.

One saw the good in every fellow man,
And hoped the best;
The other marveled at his master's plan,
And doubt confessed.

One, having heaven above and heaven below;
Was satisfied;
The other, discontented, lived in woe,
And hopeless died.

ALMOST A MIRACLE.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9th, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Co., Ltd., Ottawa:—

GENTLEMEN,—I hardly know how best to express my appreciation of your valuable rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline My son Gordon, who is 9 years old, has been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for the past two years; was so bad at times that he had to be carried about on a mattrass; was attended by two city doctors apparently without the slightest benefit; spent 10 days at Caledonia Springs, came home with no marked improvement; took three bottles of a Homeopathic remedy now being extensively advertised, which did not relieve him in the least I was beginning to give up all hope of his recovery, when by chance I mentioned the case to a friend who strongly advised me to give Phrenoline a trial.

I did so, with the result that when my boy had taken only half a bottle he was able to get on his bicycle and ride like any other boy around the block.

I certainly feel that I cannot say too much in praise of your medicine, and shall do all I can to make known its value to others.

Yours very sincerely,

CANADA LIFE
Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty-first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,093 05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3,006, for the sum of $6,185,996, of which, however, 266 for $631,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 191 applications for $373,329 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5,291,036, under 2,609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $798,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555.29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,469 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,168.45, and Endowment policies for $128,846 92, having matured, these sums, as well as $318,481.29 for profits, $145,411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,363,307.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,963,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1,272,486.05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18,678,915.67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company. I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies" One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on e more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, he prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Barton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Barton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Merritt, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

PRESENTATION AT FAIRMOUNT

To Miss McBain for her Services as Organist in the Methodist Church.

On Saturday evening, at the residence of Mr. George McBain, Cavan, at the usual practice of the Fairmount Methodist church choir, a pleasing event occurred. Mr. Thomas McIndoo, on behalf of the choir, presented Miss McBain with a handsome oak secretary, while Mr. Fred E. Wilson read the following address:—

To Miss McBain, organist of Fairmount Methodist Church:

We, the members of the choir, on behalf of the congregation of Fairmount, desire to tender you our most sincere thanks for your services as organist.

We duly appreciate and thankfully acknowledge the proficiency and faithfulness with which these services have been performed. We are fully aware of the sacrifice the performance of this service at times has been to you, especially as it was done without any claim for remuneration.

As a slight token of the sentiment we feel, though so feebly expressed, we ask you to accept this secretary, trusting that whenever you look upon it you will feel assured of the fact that your services are appreciated, and may it produce that peaceful consciousness of duty faithfully performed.

We do not wish you to accept it as compensation for part services nor is it with any desire that our present association should cease, rather may it prove a bond for future co-operation and may it mark but an epoch in our associations which we hope shall continue indefinitely.

On behalf of the choir we embrace the present opportunity for thanking you for the hospitality shown us from time to time which we have greatly enjoyed and thankfully acknowledge.

Miss McBain, though greatly taken by surprise, made a few appropriate remarks thanking the congregation for their handsome present which she greatly prized, also for the sentiments expressed in the address, assuring the choir of the pleasure it afforded her to have them meet for practice at her home and that the assistance given her, made the task but light and the duty a pleasure.

After enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. McBain, the choir retired to their homes.

NEXT MOVE IS SPAIN'S

The United States Has Sent Its Ultimatum.

GIVEN TILL SATURDAY TO REPLY

A Day of History Making at the United States Capital—The Spanish Minister Gets His Passports and Shakes the Dust of the City From Off His Feet.

Washington, April 21.—Yesterday was a day of events in the history of the Cuban question. The signature by the President of the joint resolution requiring intervention in Cuba, the notification of that action to the Spanish Minister here, his demand for passports, the Department's prompt reply to the demand, the departure of the Minister and the transmission of the ultimatum that Spain must evacuate Cuba and must make answer by Saturday through Minister Woodford, followed in rapid succession. The next step is Spain's answer, if she is to make any, and the movement of the United States army and navy in Cuba.

The ultimatum was sent to the Spanish Minister by Judge Day's personal messenger, Edward Savoy. The messenger was not kept waiting long at the legation, but in the course of an hour had returned to the State Department with the Minister's application for his passports.

It was not until half past 8 in the afternoon that Savoy made his second trip, carrying with him the desired paper. This was a passport for the Minister and his family and suite.

At first there was some expectation at the State Department that a response from Minister Woodford might be expected to-day. Later, however, the following statement was posted at the Department:

"The text of the ultimatum to Spain will be given out by Mr. Porter, Secretary to the President, at the White House, some time to-morrow, probably."

The next move now must be made by Spain, according to the Department officials. Spain may promptly hand Mr. Woodford his passports on receipt of the communication and thus bring negotiations to the crisis and cause a breach of diplomatic relations within the next 24 hours. It, on the other hand, it should neglect to return a satisfactory answer before Saturday noon, that line of policy will be quite as effective as a positive act, inasmuch as it would amount to refusal of the demands of the United States. In such cases the President would proceed immediately to use the naval and military forces of the United States to execute the will of Congress. How this would be done is a matter of mere speculation.

One of the policies to be followed by the United States Government in the treatment of neutrals and the privateering is contained in the following statement:

"In the event of hostilities between the United States and Spain, it will be the policy of this Government not to resort to privateering."

RECOGNITION OF CUBA.

Senator Foraker Vouchsafes Information, "Positive But Not Official," That Such Is the Case.

Washington, April 21.—During the five hours of discussion in the Senate yesterday afternoon of its recent action upon the Cuban resolutions, in the course of which several extended speeches were made by Senators who voted against the conference report upon the resolutions, only one new point was developed. That was made by Mr. Foraker of Ohio, in the course of a brief statement concerning the recognition of the Cuban Republic's independence. He said: "I think, quickly, speedily, possibly even now, on the very day when the ultimatum has been sent to Spain, pursuant to the resolutions that passed here, this Government has practically recognized the Republic of Cuba, and I think possibly is is true we will all know by to-morrow that that Government is to-day being officially dealt with by the Republicans of this Government, as it should be."

This utterance, coming from a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, created a profound sensation among the Senators. Being pressed for the source of his information, Mr. Foraker replied that his information was "positive, but not official."

Troops on the Way.

Jersey City, N.J., April 21.—The Ninth and Twenty-first Infantry Regiments went through this city early to-day on their way to the South. Each had about 500 men.

Got His Passports and Left.

Washington, April 21.—The Spanish Minister was handed his passports at 8.50 o'clock yesterday by a messenger from the State Department.

The Spanish Minister and his suite left Washington at 7.30 o'clock.

The Spanish Minister and his staff purchased tickets reading via Suspension bridge. Their ultimate destination is at present unknown.

Spaniards Sail Amid Curses.

New York, April 21.—The Spanish steamer Panama sailed for Havana yesterday with about 100 Spaniards, who are expected to join the Spanish army. Her cargo consists of provisions and several tons of gunpowder for Havana. There was a large crowd on the pier and a hostile demonstration was made. Opprobrious epithets were flung at the departing vessel. The captain and crew who were on deck were cursed in voices raised to the highest pitch. "Kill them," "Hurrah for Cuba," "Down with Spain," and many epithets not fit to print were heard. There was not a sound heard from her deck in reply. As the people left the pier many of them could be heard censuring the authorities for permitting the vessel to sail.

THE MAINE DISASTER.

A Tyne Shipbuilder Says the Explosion Was Internal—Canada Will Benefit in Case of War.

Ottawa, April 21.—A Tyneside shipbuilder, who was in Ottawa yesterday and who came here direct from Havana, Cuba, says he saw and examined the wreck of the Maine and all the information to be had, and he had no hesitation in saying that that warship was destroyed by an internal explosion.

A number of prominent men of continental reputation were discussing last night the war situation and its result on Canada. The general opinion was that in many ways Canada would benefit. For instance, the chances were that one or more of the great transatlantic lines would come to Halifax, and in connection with our two great railways a fast train service would be put on between Halifax and Chicago, and in that way build up our Canadian seaports and the St. Lawrence route. Once the trade took that route—certainly the shortest route between the West and London—it would likely continue in it.

It is also stated that the Canadian Pacific have their eyes open for an alliance of that kind either with the White Star Line or the Cunard or the North German Line. An executive officer of the Canadian Pacific said that road stood to increase their earnings by over two millions this year if war continued for six months.

Students Had a Fight.

Montreal, April 21.—A serious quarrel took place last night at the Montreal College, between a United States youth named Brower, hailing from Boston, and a young Spanish gentleman named Dumez. They started an argument as to the relative merits of the issue between Spain and the United States. Warm words led to blows, and finally both sought their pocket knives. The United Stateser was the quicker, and in less time than it takes to tell it the Spaniard was disabled with a knife wound in the left arm. It is said the wound is not a serious one, but the affair caused immense excitement throughout the college.

An Important Question.

London, April 21.—Mr. James H. Dalziel, Liberal, has announced his intention of asking Mr. A. J. Balfour, the Government leader and acting-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in the House of Commons, if steps are to be taken to retain the Spanish torpedo boat Audas, now docked at Queenstown for repairs, in the event of war breaking out before the repairs are completed, so as to "prevent a repetition of the Alabama case."

The officials of the American Line have issued a notice pointing out that their steamers from Liverpool and Philadelphia will sail under the Belgian flag.

U. S. DESERTERS.

Thirty Soldiers Who Have Lived on Uncle Sam Skip Out When There Is Sign of "Business."

Windsor, Ont., April 21.—Of the two reported deserters from the ranks of the 19th Regiment one is in Windsor. He crossed the river yesterday by way of the Walkerville Ferry, and was seen on the streets of Windsor last evening. Private Keyes of Company D, Fort Wayne, and Private William H. Vallance of Company H., Fort Brady, are the two reported to be missing, but which one was seen in Windsor is not known. Several Windsorites are of the belief that the city is soon to be flooded with citizens of the States, and it is a fact that a number of the residents are fitting up rooms to accomodate the expected influx.

Twenty-Eight Didn't Go.

Fort Crook, Neb., April 21.—The 23rd Regiment left for the south last night 105 strong. During Monday night there were no less than 28 desertions, the men wandering off in twos and threes. Their excuses were varied. Some said their country had no intention of avenging the Maine, and others that they had no intention of dying of yellow fever for a lot of dirty Cubans that never did anything for them.

QUEEN REGENT'S DEFI

Address to the Spanish Cortes on the War Question.

TRUSTS THE SPANISH PEOPLE.

Her Majesty Anticipates an Act of Aggression, and Refers to the Courage and Energy of the Spanish People Which Will Enable Them to Defend Their Rights.

Madrid, April 21.—The opening of the Spanish Cortes yesterday was a magnificent sight. All the wealth and beauty of Madrid gathered in the Senate, where every available foot of space was occupied. There was a terrific crush at the entrance leading to the Senatorial seats, many of which were occupied by ladies. Large bodies of troops were drawn up outside the building, including the handsomely-uniformed Blue Dragoons, and the magnificently-attired Palace Guards. All the members of the diplomatic corps were present in full dress. A wild cheer at 2.30 p.m. announced the arrival of the Queen Regent, who was driven to the Cortes Palace in a State coach, escorted by a detachment of Life Guards.

A wonderful picture was presented by the Queen's entourage, consisting of most of the highest persons in Spain in brilliant court, military, naval or palace uniforms. The little King Alfonso was on her right, the Premier, Senor Sagasta, standing near the King during the reading of the speech.

The Royal Speech.

Her Majesty's speech was as follows:

"The grave anxieties which saddened my mind the last time I addressed you have increased, and are heightened by public uneasiness, conveying the presentiment of fresh and greater complications as a result of the turn which events in Cuba have taken. These complications were brought about by a section of the people of the United States, which, seeing that the autonomy previously offered in my message was about to be put in force, foresaw that the free manifestation of the Cuban people, through its Chambers, would frustrate forever the schemes against Spanish sovereignty which have been plotted by those who, with resources and hopes sent from the neighboring coast, have fettered the suppression of the insurrection in that unhappy Island. Should the Government of the United States yield to this blind current, the menaces and insults which we have hitherto been able to regard with indifference—for they were not an expression of the sentiments of the true American nation—would become intolerable provocations which would compel my Government, in defence of the national dignity, to sever relations with the Government of the United States.

"In this supreme crisis, the sacred voice of him who represents human justice on earth was raised in counsels of peace and prudence, to which my Government had no difficulty in hearkening, strong in the consciousness of its right, and calm in the strict performance of its duties."

Her Majesty added: "Spain's gratitude is due to the Pope, and also to the great powers, whose action strengthens my conviction that Spain's cause deserves universal sympathy."

Continuing, Her Majesty said: "Possibly, however, the peace efforts may fail to control the evil passions excited against Spain. Lest this moment arrive, I have summoned the Cortes to defend our rights, whatever sacrifice they may entail. Thus identifying myself with the nation, I not only fulfill the oath I swore in accepting the regency; but I follow the dictates of a mother's heart, trusting to the Spanish people to gather behind my son's throne and to defend it until he is old enough to defend it himself, as well as trusting to the Spanish people to defend the honor and the territory of the nation."

The Queen Regent then referred to the trouble in the Philippine Islands, and, continuing, said:

"Although a dark and gloomy future is before us, the difficulties are not beyond our powers. With our glorious army, navy and united nation, before foreign aggression, we trust in God that we shall overcome without stain on our honor the baseless and unjust attacks made upon us.

"It is possible, however, that an act of aggression is imminent, and that not the sanctity of our rights, not the moderation of our conduct, nor the expressed wish of the Cuban people, freely manifested, may serve to restrain the passions and hatred let loose against the Spanish Fatherland.

"In anticipation of this critical moment, when reason and justice will have for their support only Spanish courage and the traditional energy of our people, I have hastened the assembling of the Cortes and the supreme decision of Parliament will doubtless sanction the unalterable resolution of my Government to defend our rights, whatsoever sacrifices may be imposed upon us in accomplishing this task."

At the close of Her Majesty's speech there was renewed cheering, after which Premier Sagasta declared the Cortes opened, and the Queen Regent and boy King, accompanied by the court, left the building amid a wild burst of enthusiasm.

The Ultimatum at Madrid.

Madrid, April 21.—Midnight.—United States Minister Woodford has received President McKinley's ultimatum and will present it to the Spanish Government to-day.

General Woodford Leaving.

Madrid, April 21.—Miss Woodford, the daughter of General Woodford, and the remaining ladies of the United States Legation left Madrid last night. They will join Mrs. Woodford in Paris. They will be accompanied to the French capital by Lieut. G. L. Dyer, the United States naval attache.

General Woodford, Colonel G. S. Sickles (the secretary of the United States Legation), and Captain T. H. Bliss (the United States military attache) will leave as soon as the Minister's final instructions from Washington have been carried out.

CUI BONO?

To what good end will the impending Spanish-American war lead? It will cost millions of money, sacrifice thousands of lives and involve immense injury to the commercial interests of both parties to the unhappy broil. It may be true that Cuba should be relieved of the incubus of Spanish rule—mis-rule, if the word is preferred. But suppose the United States is successful and Spain is driven out of the Island what better position will the Cubans be in? The United States solemnly declares by resolution that it has no territorial designs in relation to Cuba; therefore the Cubans will be left to themselves. Are they fit for self-govefnment? The answer must be in the negative. They will have to serve a costly apprenticeship if they succeed in governing themselves wisely in the end. At the best it is feared that the result of self-government in Cuba will be the periodical bloody revolution that marks the history of most of the self-governing Latin States of South America, where a president is sure of his place only so long as he is able to maintain his position vi et armis. The insurgent population of Cuba which is seeking the upper hand is largely composed of the negro element and of hybrid races which are to be regarded as devoid of the most rudimentary instincts of self government. There would be some advantage visible as a redeeming feature of the outcome of such a war as that which now threatens, if the United States were to take Cuba in charge and apply the principles of government which Anglo-Saxon rule involves. But even then the advantages would not be without drawback. As Goldwin Smith indicates in an interview the United States is not a particularly shining example of the benefits of the application of republican principles. He points out that the results of reverses to the Americans in the struggle with the Spaniards may be to precipitate the clouds that have gathered over the American horizon, and justify the contention that the Republic has become unwieldy, and has such formidable internal elements of disintegration, that the end is approaching, and that it is in danger of collapsing of its own weight. Take the most roseate view possible, one is not able to see any advantage in any degree commensurate with the terrible cost, that is to result from the war over Cuba.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

ONE of the features of the World's Exposition in Paris in 1900 will be the exhibition of a gigantic horn that will stand 300 feet high, to be shown and operated by a Yankee manufacturer of wind instruments. If we judge alone by the recent tooting in connection with the war sensation, our Yankee cousins can easily capture the red ribbon for wind.

IN the coming war, the Spanish forces will be animated by patriotism, and the Americans by mercenary motives. Spain is fighting for national existence and national honour, while the Americans, though ostensibly fighting in the name of humanity, are fighting for the supremacy of the Republican idea on this hemisphere. The Spaniards feel that in being ordered to leave their possessions at a few hours' notice, they are subjected to an outrage, and will resent the action of the United States with all the power at their disposal. While Spain's treatment of its Cuban subjects has doubtless been arbitrary and cruel, that does not relieve many people from sympathising with Spain in connection with what she regards as the international outrage of a strong power brusquely ordering her out of her own house at a moments notice.

The New York World says:—"Great Britain and the United States raise for the general government just about the same amount each year—between five and six hundreds of millions. All our revenue comes from taxes upon consumption. Nearly every dollar is a punishment of somebody for using something necessary to life, health or comfort. By the way of contrast note these items in Great Britain's net income from taxation last year:—

Inheritance taxes	$75,000,000
Stamps	38,000,000
Income tax	86,000,000

All of these items—making together more than one-third of the total—came out of superfluity. Further, Great Britain raised in taxes upon imports and in excises—both levied wholly upon luxury or superfluity—no less than $270,000,000. Almost none of her vast revenue came from the consumption of necessity and comfort. That is, Great Britain takes the most from the most able, the least from the least able. while we take the least from the most able, the most from the least able."

The following appreciative reference to Canada's practical Imperialism is from the Outlook, a London journal specially devoted to colonial affairs. "We are only beginning to realize how signal a service Canada rendered the Empire when by kindly pressure she induced British Ministers to free us ffom the antiquated shackles of the German and Belgian treaties. Dire consequences were predicted to British trade with these two countries; yet the negotiations proceeding at Berlin will probably result in at least as good an arrangement as existed before, while the colonists will be free to deal preferentially with British goods if they so desire. Canada, taking prompt advantage of this fiscal freedom, has declared for a twenty-five per cent. tariff preference for British goods from August 1st next. Following suit the Australian Federal Convention has resolved that the Federal tariff at the Antipodes should give preference to British goods, and that meanwhile each colony should individually give a substantial preference. The West Indies are now by Canada's boldness and firmness enjoying a freedom in reciprocity negotiations with the United States which they were denied in 1885, and lastly, we have the declaration of Mr. Rhodes that it is to Canada that South Africa owes the removal of obstacles to her tariff readjustments. "The treaties were in the way," he told a Cape Times representative, but Laurier has got rid of them" "Canada as a pioneer," is more than an apt phrase."

BRITISH ARMED STRENGTH.

The National Review, London, for April, speaking of the vote recently passed in the Imperial parliament to add 25,000 to the army remarks:

"We have at present 220,000 men serving with the colours, and army reserve of 80,000, and if the 100,000 men in the navy, and the 400,000 regularly drilled militia, volunteers and yeomanry are thrown in, Mr. Brodrick, under secretary for war, calculates that every year one man in four of those who attain the age of eighteen in the United Kingdom enters Her Majesty's fighting services."

This takes no account of 40,000 volunteers in Canada, 9,000 at the Cape and Natal, 7,000 in New Zealand and 16,000 in Australia (besides a fleet of five armed cruisers and two torpedo boats maintained by the Australian colonies), and a native army of 145,000 in India under 1,000 British officers.

When you come to figure up this fighting strength you find in the British Empire over a million splendidly armed men regularly under drill.

Add to this the absolute command of the sea which Britain possesses with a navy equal to that of any other three powers combined, and add again the vast wealth of Britain—and after all money is the main factor in war now—and it will be understood that the European newspapers which frequently sneer at Britain's fighting ability have not studied the situation very carefully.

SMUT IN OATS.

Remedies for Another Agricultural Enemy.

Dr. William Saunders, Director of Experimental Farms, has prepared the following bulletin on smut in oats:—"Smut in oats is very widely prevalent, causes a large annual loss to the farmers of Canada and has in the past been found difficult to subdue. The ordinary treatment, which is found so effective when used for smut in wheat, namely, one pound of copper sulphate dissolved in three gallons of water and sprinkled on ten bushels of grain, has not been found a reliable remedy for smut in oats. Soaking the grain in hot water for ten minutes, the water being kept at a heat of about 133 degrees Fahr., has the effect of materially reducing the amount of smut in oats; but it is difficult and troublesome to treat large quantities of seed in this way and at the same time keep the temperature up to the point required. Potassium sulphide has proved an effective remedy when used in the proportion of one and one-half pounds of the potassium sulphide dissolved in 25 gallons of water, and the oats soaked in this solution for 24 hours, but the long soaking swells the oats and makes them difficult to handle in sowing, while soaking for a shorter time is only a partial success. During the season of 1897 some comparative experiments were made by my assistant, Mr. W. T. Macoun, now horticulturist of the Central Experimental Farm, with smutty oats, treated before sowing with potassium sulphide, one and one-half pounds in 25 gallons of water, and Bordeaux mixture, the oats being allowed to soak for different periods. The oats used were a very smutty sample, the size of the plots on which the heads were counted was 3,343 feet (999 square feet) and from the experiment it would appear that very smutty oats used for feed, if soaked for four four hours in bordeaux mixture, are rendered as free from smut as when soaked for the longer periods of 8, 10 and 24 hours. But where sulphide of potassium is used it appears to be necessary to steep the grain in the solution for 24 hours in order to entirely free it from smut. The bordeaux mixture is a cheaper remedy than the potassium sulphide and more easily obtainable. The bordeaux mixture in this instance was made with four pounds of copper sulphate, four pounds of lime and one coal oil barrel (40 gallons Imperial measure) of water. To make this mixture, fill the barrel partly full of water, enclose the copper sulphate in a cotton bag and suspend this by hanging it on a stick placed across the barrel, so that the bag may be entirely immersed. By this method the copper sulphate will dissolve rapidly. In another vessel slake four pounds of fresh lime with about four gallons of water. When fully slaked strain the creamy fluid through a piece of coarse sacking or a fine sieve into the barrel containing the sulphate of copper solution. Fill the barrel with water, stir well, and it will be ready for use. This remedy can be so easily and cheaply prepared that it should be widely used."

Not Much to Be Proud Of.

Clara—I wonder how Mrs. Youngling can have the face to always keep boasting about her family.

Gladys—Why? I thought she pretended that her ancestors were good people.

Clara—So she does, and yet she admits that one of them came over with William the Conqueror. I've just been reading about that crowd, and, goodness, but they were a hard lot!—Chicago News.

A Confusing Order.

"We get ridiculous letters from customers sometimes," said a bill clerk in one of the big wholesale houses. "Here is a fair sample of the manner in which some rural retailers send in an order:

"'Messrs. —— Please send me 600 pounds of sugar as quickly as possible.

"'P. S.—Never mind sending the sugar. I have just found some in the back room.'"—Sioux City Journal.

Hot Water.

Much suffering might be avoided if people could only be made to realize that a cupful of hot water, a hot bath or hot applications of any kind are among the most useful forms of medication known to the human family, and if resorted to will almost immediately remove any of the violent symptoms of disease.

Any ordinary cough or cold may not be thought much of at the time, but neglect may mean in the end a consumptive's grave. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine will not cure Consumption when the lungs are riddled with cavities; but it will stop the cough, will cure Consumption in its early stages, and even in its last stages gives such relief as to be a perfect Godsend to those whose lives are nearing a close.

Bright's Disease Beaten.

Mrs. John Hook, 3 Edward Street, St. Thomas, Ont., writes:—"Doan's Kidney Pills cured my son of incipient Bright's Disease. He had terrible backache and night sweats, and always felt tired and worn. His nerves were all unstrung, his sleep bad and appetite poor. He commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills and is now completely cured.

Old Ab Drake.

Old Ab Drake was one of the "odd sticks" that flourished in a Vermont rural neighborhood a good many years ago. His wife was a meek, obedient, spiritless woman, over whom Ab tyrannized for 50 years, when she quietly slipped out of this world. Old Ab's panegyrics on his dead wife's virtues were loud and long. Before the funeral he said to one of his neighbors: "She was the best woman on the top of this earth. I jess thought the world and all of her—yes, I did! I always thought it, and hanged if there wan't times when I come mighty near telling her so—yes, sir! And I would 'a' told her so, only I've always held, and I still hold, that it ain't safe to praise anything that w'ars petticoats. 'Ceptin for that, I would 'a' told 'Lizy Ellen what I thought of her many a time—yes, I would!"—Boston Journal.

CURE BILIOUSNESS

THE TIDE HAS TURNED

A Great Wave of Immigration for Canada.

TO FARM IN THE NORTHWEST.

Galicians Are Just Suited by Such a Life —The Department, However, Will Not Hive These Immigrants— After Two or Three Years They Make Good Canadian Settlers.

Ottawa, April 21.—Are we upon the upward swell of a great wave of immigration that shall people the plains of the West as rapidly as the American wave beginning after the civil war filled up Wisconsin, Minnesota and the Dakotas? That wave is receding, partly because of the operation of the alien labor laws and the pauper immigration laws of our neighbors, as well as partly because of the exhaustion of the free grant lands of the United States. It begins to look as if the next tidal wave of immigration, following upon or accompanying a period of depression in Great Britain and continental Europe, would break upon our shores. Already there are evidences of this. The officials of the Interior Department are compiling a return which will show that between January 1 and April 19 of the present year something over ten thousand bona fide settlers were passed through the Immigration Office at Winnipeg, besides 2,500 persons who stated that they were on their way to the gold diggings of the Yukon.

The Spring Rush.

The spring rush is only beginning. Some two hundred immigrants, chiefly English, passed through last night en route to the West, having been brought to Halifax by the Numidian. The department has been advised that the Bulgaria left Hamburg last week with nine hundred and fifty-one Galicians for the Austrian colony in the Northwest. The measure of increase of this Galician stream will be the better understood when it is stated the entire Galician immigration in 1897 was only a little over 4,000. These immigrants are largely agriculturists, of uncouth garb and strange tongue, it is true, but those who have been settled for three or four years have fine homesteads and begin to emulate their Anglo-Saxon neighbors.

Immigrants Not Hived.

The Immigration Department is not making the mistake of hiving these Galician settlers all together, where they would simply become a sort of American Slav colony, speaking their own language and following their old-world customs. They are settled in small colonies surrounded by English-speaking settlers, who up to the present have done much to lighten the difficulties of the newcomers. There are Galician settlements at Stuartburn near Dominion City, at Saltcoats, at Yorkton and near Edmonton. An interpreter of the Hamburg-American Packet Company, which is encouraging this movement because it provides a class of passengers that was seriously decreased so far as the States were concerned by obstructive legislation, has recently visited the Galician colonies and to the Interior Department reports that many of the first comers have friends anxious to join them as soon as arrangements can be made. Letters are continually passing, and the Bulgaria's passengers are but the advance guard of tens of thousands of immigrants from Austrian Poland who will seek homes in the Canadian west during the next few years.

Tide Turned Last Year.

The general improvement in immigration which is becoming so marked had already begun last year.

THE COMMONS.

Some Progress Made in Committee of Supply—Items Passed.

In the House yesterday Mr. Bergeron drew attention to the vacancy in the representation of Bagot by the death of Mr. Dupont. Mr. Speaker promised that his warrant for a writ for a bye-election would be issued at once.

Sir Richard Cartwright, replying to Mr. Maclean, said that the Insolvency Bill was in the hands of a private member and the Government would not take it up.

The Minister of Militia informed Mr. Bennett that a commission is never issued to a major-general commanding the Canadian militia.

Dr. Borden will introduce a bill to grant to the major-general commanding, the usual allowance made to imperial officers on service out of England. This is done at the request of the Imperial authorities.

The House spent the greater part of the day in Committee of Supply on the estimates for next year.

Discussion of the vote for "charges of management" of the public debt, which showed a decrease of $2,900, elicited the fact that two managers of the Government Savings Banks in Nova Scotia had been dismissed for taking part in the elections.

On the item for "printing Dominion notes," increase $5,000, in reply to Mr. Foster, the Finance Minister said that the dies were still made in New York, but that the "engraving" proper, and the printing were being done by the American Bank Note Company in Ottawa.

With that the item passed.

When the civil estimates were reached, the first item struck was one of a statutory increase of $50 to a first-class clerk in the Governor-General's secretary's office. This brought about a warm debate.

Mr. Maclean wanted to know how many men there are who are entitled to statutory increases, and why not give it to all?

Mr. Fielding said the Government did not admit that civil servants could claim the increase as a right.

Sir Louis Davies said the intention of the drafting of the Civil Service Act was clearly that the increase should be permissive, and go only to deserving officers. Unfortunately, in the past, Deputy Ministers had not discriminated between deserving and undeserving men. The provisions of the Act had been greatly abused, and this Government determined to put an end to the unfair and unjust system which had prevailed.

Mr. Davin argued that the statute was obligatory upon the Government, and not permissive.

The discussion progressed for some time, when Sir Richard Cartwright rose and declared that the Government's view was that no civil servant had the right by law to any increase whatever, and this view had been sustained by the opinion of Sir Oliver Mowat.

It was after 10 o'clock when, the matter having been threshed out pretty effectually, the item passed.

The Justice Department.

The very next item considered was that of the Justice Department, wherein there were four statutory increases, and after very little further discussion it was passed.

The House adjourned at midnight.

Senate Resumes Business.

The Senate met this afternoon for the first time since the Easter adjournment. Bills respecting the Dominion Building & Loan Association; to incorporate the Prudential Life Assurance Company of Canada, and to amend the charter of the Union Bank of Canada, were read a third time and passed. Several bills from the House of Commons were introduced and read a first time.

The rest of the sitting was taken up with consideration in committee of the bill respecting the inspection of steamboats and the examination and licensing of engineers employed thereon. The bill was passed with the exception of two clauses, which stood for further explanation.

Marine Biological Observatory.

An influential deputation waited upon the Government yesterday to urge the establishment of a marine biological observatory in the Gulf of St. Lawrence for the study of the nature and sources of the food supply of fish, oysters and lobsters, as recommended by the British Association at its Toronto meeting. The deputation, introduced by Prof. Russell, M.P., consisted of Dr. Macallum, Toronto; Professors Penhallow and MacBride, Montreal; Professors Prince and Macoun, Ottawa. It will require an appropriation of $15,000, of which $10,000 would be for the outfit and $5,000 for maintenance for five years, the establishment to be under the management of a board to be composed jointly of representatives of the Marine and Fisheries Department and of the universities. Sir Louis Davies said he was glad to hear that it was proposed to keep politics out of the scheme. He was greatly impressed with the possibilities of the project, and promised favorable submission to his colleagues.

Dr. Beldon also spoke in a favorable strain.

Trades Union Labels Recognized.

The House Committee on Banking and Commerce this morning passed the trade marks bill, recognizing trades unions labels, also the bill giving the Canada Atlantic Railway the right to run vessels in connection with their railway to Duluth and Chicago. The bill granting a Federal charter to the Central Canada Loan & Savings Company was criticised and postponed.

The Cheese Outlook.

Frank Brenton, a Belleville cheese exporter, has just returned from a trip to England, and was asked by the Intelligencer what the outlook for the cheese trade was for 1898. In reply he said there was still quite a quantity of old cheese on the English market, but it was going off nicely and if Canadian factorymen go slowly the market will be good in a few weeks. Englishmen don't want fodder cheese at at any price. Speaking of the standing of Canadian cheese in the English market, Mr. Brenton said a prominent importer told him the Canadians made the best cheese in the world.

There is quite a difference in doing business to-day to what it was a few years ago. Quite a difference all over the world. This Store is alive to the fact that to do a successful business to-day—it must be done well—it must be up-to-date—it must be far reaching—It must have capital enough to be able to buy from Headquarters—It must have the nerve to sell as cheap as any concern in the country.

Otter and Beaver Skins.

Chief Game Warden Tinsley has been busy this week amongst fur dealers in neighboring towns. He found a number of raw beaver and otter skins, and as the close season for these animals extends to 1900, to replenish, the dealers were given their choice of prosecution or confiscation and settlement. They all settled, and as the settlement was quite heavy, and as the dealers promised not to offend again, the game warden made their names a close season matter and did not divulge them.

Anniversary of Oddfellowship.

THE DANGERS OF WAR.

The Spaniards not the Only Menace to the United States.

Speculation as to the eventual results to the United States of a war with Spain is being generally indulged in on both sides of the sea. In an interview, published recently, Prof. Goldwin Smith concluded by saying:—"I fear the political consequences to the Republic," and many other observers less keen than he have given expression to a similar sentiment. Clouds have gathered on the American horizon, which, if they are not soon dissipated, will lend force to the contention that the end of the Republic is approaching, and a protracted war, or even a short one in which the Americans meet with reverses, would greatly aggravate the danger. It has been pointed out by Lecky in his treatise on "Democracy and Liberty" that the subversive passions that had been aroused, and the grave internal dangers that had arisen, bore a great part in impelling the French Government into the disastrous Franco-German war. A well founded fear of the advance of Republicanism disturbed the Emperor, and after Sedan the mournfully significant spectacle was presented by the illumination of the streets of Paris in celebration of the triumph of the Republicans. There is reason for thinking that President McKinley is hampered by a somewhat similar fear. Bryanism is not dead, and if disaster should befall the American military or naval forces, the disaffected elements might become, under the leadership of some demagogue, a dangerous entity, resisting the imposition of a war tax, and threatening the existence of the administration, and, possibly, of the Republic.

PETERBOROUGH AND DAN GODFREY.

Arrangements for the Great English Band to Visit This Town.

The director of the tour of Dan Godfrey and his great English Military Band, Mr. Charles, A. E. Harris, will be here in a few days to complete arrangements for the appearance of the greatest bandmaster of the day with forty of the finest musicians who have served in the British Army. In more easterly cities where details have been further advanced, the band's visit is under the auspices of the mayor and the highest military and civic authorities and is being made the occasion of a public holiday and a popular demonstration. Special trains will bring from surrounding towns large number of excursionists. In Montreal and Toronto the concerts will be held in the immense armouries, each of them seating 7,000 people. It is hoped that successful arrangements can be made in this loyal and British town for the appearance of Lieut. Dan. Godfrey and his famous Guardsmen. The band arrives in Halifax on May 16th. This is an event to which music-loving citizens will look forward with the most lively interest and expectation of enjoyment, that will certainly be more than realized.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Miss Mary Scott and Mr. J. F. Allin Yesterday Afternoon at Five O'clock.

The wedding took place yesterday afternoon, at five o'clock, of Miss Mary Scott, youngest daughter of Mr. Geo. Scott, No. 112 Stewart street, and Mr. J. F. Allin, of town.

The ceremony took place at the family residence and was performed by Rev. J. McP. Scott, Pastor of St. John's Presbyterian church, Toronto, who is a brother of the bride.

Only a few of the family relatives were in attendance on account of the illness of the bride's father.

The bride was most tastefully gowned in green covert cloth, trimmed with black silk and pearls. She was assisted by Miss Addie Scott, her sister, who was similiarly attired. Both carried very handsome bouquets of roses.

The groomsman was Mr. W. G. Allin, and the bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Robert Scott.

The presents which were received were very handsome, amongst them being a twenty dollar gold piece from Mr. J. J. McBain, for whom the bride has acted as secretary for the past seven years, and who is unstinted in his praise as regards the faithfulness with which she discharged her duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Allin left on the Grand Trunk evening train for a wedding trip east, and on their return will take up their residence at No. 14 Wescott street.

PERSONAL.

Miss Beatty, of Winnipeg, is visiting Mrs. Capt. Eden.

Messrs. Tait, Lampiere and Grieve, of Lakefield, were in town last evening and attended the Bachelor's ball.

Mr. Moorehouse, of Toronto, was amongst the out-of-town guests at the ball last evening. Mr. George Boyd, of Montreal, also came up for the function.

Mr. Vernon McGill, who is now attached to the Lindsay branch of the Ontario Bank, was in town last evening.

Mr. R. Mulholland was in Ottawa yesterday on business in connection with the Cobourg and Northumberland Railway.

Mr. Victor McWilliams, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Miller, has returned from Toronto and will remain at home for a few weeks to recuperate after his recent illness.

Rev. A. H. Ranton is to make his home in Toronto in the future. His sister, now in Oshawa, will move to Toronto and he will reside with her. He leaves this week for Wausau, Wisconsin, where he expects to be until May 10.

Rev. W. R. Young passed through from Port Hope on his way to Norwood to-day. He is one of the Board of Examiners for young men preparing for ordination, and is on his way to a meeting held for that purpose in Norwood this evening.

MISS RUDKINS SPEAKS HER MIND.

Ladies Know the Goodness and Cheapness of her Stock of Dress Goods, Millinery and Staple Goods.

Shoppers, and especially women shoppers, have an intuitive knowledge of values, and this faculty is at its keenest these days. Merchants are reaching out with stronger claims than ever for the trade of the new season, and, naturally enough, each think their stocks most deserving of the economical buyer. Miss Rudkins, who has make a plucky fight for the satisfactory trade she is enjoying, reports her business on the increase this Spring. She makes every effort to reach out after the best possible expression of good value in her goods, and has a keen knowledge of what things sell best and what they should cost.

Miss Rudkins likes to have the value she offers in dress goods, millinery and staple goods put to the severest test, quite confident of what the result will be. He principle is to offer shoppers every day of the week only such goods as are fit to sell, and only at such prices as will sell them freely With this plan rigidly adhered to there is nothing surprising in her success and the generous measure of good will it has won from the ladies.

"I do not confine my best values to any particular day or hour. My plan is broader and more liberal than that. Bargains to everybody during every business day and hour in the week is my motto. Not one thing cheap and high price on everything else—but everything in my store is on the small profit and quick return basis. I mean to treat everybody alike, whenever they come—Monday or Friday, Tuesday or Saturday—and not make them afraid of the other days."

Miss Rudkins understands well the conditions that command trade, and how to hold it. She entertains no extravagant ideas of store expenses, sticks closely to business, takes advantage of cash discounts and gives customers the benefit. Under no circumstance will she allow herself to be undersold. She has just returned from Toronto, and invites the ladies to call and see some new values in new dress goods and millinery novelties, which she secured. After making a tour of a number of the best city establishments, she is more than ever convinced that her millinery is right up-to-date and superior in many respects. Her trimmed hats at $2.00 each cannot be excelled, and another case received of those 15c. sailor hats in white and coloured, beats the departmental stores all to pieces.

A New Industry.

Mr. J. Smith, of Napanee, is opening up a new line of business, the evaporation of potatoes. His factory is at Camden East, and he purposes using hundreds of bushels per day. The tubers are cleaned and boiled, skinned and sliced up by machinery and afterwards evaporated. By this process a bushel of sixty pounds is reduced to five pounds. They are canned or boxed and it is said can be transported to any distance. When wanted for use they are soaked in warm water for a time and then cooked. This industry bids fair to contribute its full share of Klondyke regions.

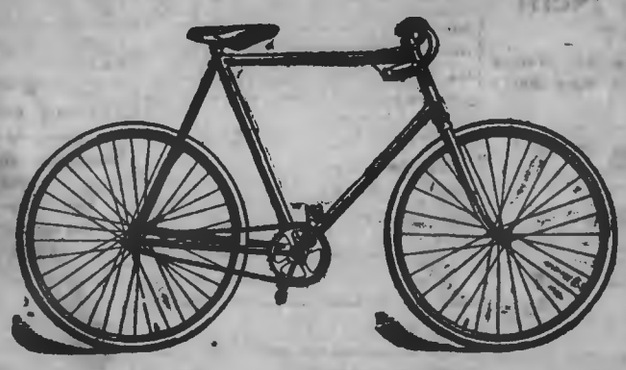
A Bicycle to You is Worth What it Will Stand
TAKEN TOGETHER WITH ITS EASY RUNNING QUALITIES.

The public have endorsed our Wheel judgment as sales have been greater so far than all the last season's trade together.



We challenge the trade to show better values or better goods.

Bicycle Riders, far and near, are always thanking us for Right Prices and for hunting out the Best and saving them from much wasteful experimenting.

SELECTION! SELECTION! That's the keynote of our bicycle business—not every wheel—but absolutely the best wheels for the money anywhere to be found.

Josh Billings said:—"I luv a rooster for to things, one iz the crow that iz in him and the other iz the spurz air on him to back up the crow with." If you are tempted to think we crow unduly just investigate and see how we "back" up the "crow":—

"OUR SPECIAL" $40.00 Wheel is equal to most of the $50.00 wheels in town—Dunlop Tires—guaranteed for one year—thoroughly up-to-date.

"OUR SPECIAL" $35.00 Wheel is the same as above with cheaper tires and rims.

"YANTIC"—unguaranteed—but a good wheel for the price $30.00. With cheaper tires and rims $25.00.

"TRENT VALLEY"—now being sold for Cash $45.00—is exceptional value. We know of a similar wheel, under another name, being sold now for $65.00 Cash.

"TRIBUNE MODEL 40" is our great Special—nothing like it was ever shown before for as low a price—$50.00 Cash—exceptionally easy running. Made of the best quality of Weldless steel tubing—joined with steel forgings throughout—no castings used—cold swaged piano wire tanget spokes, 28 to front, 32 to rear wheel—Laminated wood rims—Dunlop, Hartford or Vim Tires—forged steel detachable rear and front sprockets—Tribune extra fine tool steel ball bearings drawn to colour—Tribune chain with hardened links and rivets—Tribune dust proof ball pedals with tool steel bearings. These wheels are absolutely guaranteed—"The matter of time is not questioned, if a part returned to us is shown to be imperfect"—The Cycloidal Spocket in this wheel is impossible to describe the advantage on paper as clearly as can be demonstrated by examining its actual working in connection with a chain—Friction reduced in bearings and on chain so as to make it without doubt 10 per cent easier running than any other wheel in the market. Call and see this wheel at once.

GENDRON AND RELIANCE—Then we have the well known Gendron and Reliance makes—one of the best of Canadian manufacture—their riders all over Canada and the United States are the most satisfied wheelmen we know of—easy running always—those who know Bicycles know that nine-tenths of the road races every year are won by riders on Gendron. This means that the Gendron excels all other bicycles in easy running qualities, strength and ability to stand hard work. These requirements are what make a good wheel. The Gendron never lacks in these respects—a Bicycle to you is worth what it will stand. The "Gendron" will stand any work and never fail—$75.00 for Gendron—$50.00 for Reliance.

THE "B & D."—Famous 4-point dust-excluding, oil retaining bearings—oiled but once a season—cleaned in bearings but once in three years—extra fine workmanship—extra strong and rigid—admitted on all sides to be unsurpassed and by a great number to be unequalled anywhere in bicycle construction—bearings guaranteed against wearing and damage for three years. The famous "Palmer" Tires used only in these wheels—$35.00 Cash.

"ELFIN" and "CRAWFORD" Wheels for Children—strong, easy running—guaranteed—from $20.00 to $30.00.

CAKE WALK IS FRENCH.

When It Originated, It Also Stood For a Marriage Ceremony.

The cake walk properly had its origin among the French negroes of Louisiana more than a century ago. There is little doubt that it is an offshoot of some of the old French country dances. It resembles several of them in form. From New Orleans it spread over the entire south and thence north. It was found of convenience to the plantation negroes. They were not wedded by license, and it was seldom that the services of a preacher were called in.

At a cake walk a man might legitimately show his preference for a woman and thus publicly claim her for a wife. In effect the cake walk was not different from the old Scotch marriage, which required only public acknowledgment from the contracting parties. So this festival became in some sense a wooing, an acceptance or rejection and a ceremony. This explains its popularity with the blacks, outside of its beauties, with the accompaniment of music, which is competent at all times to command negro support.

Cake walking has improved, as do most things that are constantly practiced. It has lost its old significance in the south. Negroes now get married, when they marry at all, in the white folks' fashion. It has, however, become a pantomime dance. Properly performed, it is a beautiful one. The cake is not much of a prize, though the negro has a sweet tooth.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A RELIABLE OFFER.

Honest Help Free to Men.

The (Peterborough Examiner) is authorized to state by Mr. D. Graham, Box 138, Hagersville, Ont., that any man who is nervous and debilitated or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from overwork, excesses or abuse, such as nervous debility, exhausted vitality, lost vigor, unnatural drains and losses, lack of development, etc., can write to him in strict confidence and receive free of charge full instructions how to be thoroughly cured.

Mr. Graham himself was for a long time a sufferer from above troubles and after trying in vain many advertised remedies, electric belts, etc., became almost entirely discouraged and hopeless. Finally he confided in an old clergyman, whose kind and honest advice enabled him to speedily obtain a perfect and permanent cure. Knowing to his own sorrow, that so many poor sufferers are being imposed upon by unscrupulous quacks, Mr. Graham considers it his duty as an honest man and a firm believer in christian sympathy and kindness, to give his fellow-men the benefit of his experience and assist them to a cure. Having nothing to sell, he asks for no money, the proud satisfaction of having done a great service to one in need, he rightly considers an ample reward for his trouble. If you write to Mr. Graham you can rely upon being cured and upon absolute secrecy as well.

Address as above, enclosing a stamp and refer to the (Peterborough Examiner). No attention however will be given to those writing out of mere curiosity, therefore state that you really need a cure.

Forest Protection In Idaho.

The miners as well as the mine owners operating in northern Idaho are peculiarly interested in rational and effective methods of forest protection to what remains of the public timber lands, and as producers of national wealth have a right to demand it. They have the result of years of wanton forest destruction before their eyes and can see themselves confronted with a timber shortage before many years that threatens their commercial and industrial life. That such a condition is fast approaching needs no prophetic vision to foresee.

The extent of burned forest land the past 16 years as developed in these regions is an evidence that requires no supporting argument to make effective. That many thousands of acres of forest still exist in the Coeur d'Alene basins does not weaken the fact of an impending timber shortage. Under the present conditions two or three dry seasons would suffice to wipe out the larger portion by far of what remains of the forests in this part of the state. There is not yet adequate protection or supervision, and public sentiment upon these points is not yet sufficiently aroused.—Forester.

Seems as if consumption always picks out the brightest and best. Fully one-sixth of all the deaths that occur in the world are caused by consumption. Many things were once considered impossible. It would be strange if medical science did not make some progress. The telegraph and telephone, the phonograph, the electric light, all were once impossible, and once it was impossible to cure consumption. That was before the time of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Taken according to directions, this standard remedy will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. Consumption is caused and fostered by impurity in the blood. It is cured by purity and richness in the blood—surely, certainly cured by the "Medical Discovery." It builds up solid healthy flesh and vigorous strength.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a 1008 page medical work, profusely illustrated, will be sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover all postage ONLY. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y.

PROHIBITION VOTE.

The Plebiscite Will Be a Straight Question.

GOVERNOR TO NAME THE DATE.

It Will, However, Be After the Harvest Is Safely Garnered and at the Least Busy Time of the Farmers—An Investigation Into the Expense Account of Rideau Hall.

Ottawa, April 20.—The Plebiscite bill as drafted provides for a straight vote on prohibition, the vote to be taken at a date to be fixed by proclamation of the Governor-in-Council. It is expected that during the passage of the bill through the House an understanding will be arrived at as to the best time of the year for the taking of the vote. The disposition will be to defer the vote till after the harvest work is over at all events.

RIDEAU HALL'S EXPENSE ACCOUNT.

The Public Accounts Committee Makes an Investigation.

Mr. McMullen presided yesterday at the meeting of the Public Accounts Committee.

Mr. Hutcheson, clerk of works at Rideau Hall, was examined by Mr. Taylor as to certain purchases made for Government House. One item was $4,170 for purchases from Walpole Bros. of London. Asked as to why the purchases were not made in Canada, Mr. Hutcheson said that it was because the goods were more expensive in Canada.

A second item was $1,823 for purchases of lumber and flooring from the W. C. Edwards Company. He was asked whether some of the charges were not high.

Mr. Hutcheson's answer was that the goods were purchased at the lowest rates.

Mr. Taylor—There is another question, as to the rental of glasses. Is it true that they have not glasses enough at Rideau Hall to entertain guests without renting more?

Mr. Hutcheson—No; the stock has been so far reduced that they have now to rent. The glasses are used for entertainment. The crockery men, it seems, charge 10 per cent. of the selling price in cases of rental, and charge up the breakages as well.

Attention was also drawn to alleged extravagant purchases of champagne and sherry glasses and finger bowls.

Mr. Foster—How much was spent for repairs to the Government House ball room?

Mr. Hutcheson—Two thousand dollars.

Mr. Foster—Was any money expended on the chapel?

Mr. Hutcheson—No; nothing.

Mr. Foster—Two thousand dollars for frivolities; not a cent for religion.

Further testimony showed that $80 worth of glassware was sometimes broken in one night.

Mr. Somerville, member for Brant, said it was time some change was made, as he could never understand what became of stuff purchased for the use of the Governor-General. He had heard some in that committee say it was stolen. Now that a new Governor-General was due, they should give him an allowance for maintenance and let him see that the goods were not taken away.

Personal and General.

Mr. Burns of Kingston, N.S., has been here for some days, laying before the Government the case of his schooner, the New Day, seized in 1896 by the Venesuelan authorities for alleged infraction of the customs laws. Mr. Burns spent the winter in Venezuela, collecting information about the matter. He has laid the facts before the Government, which considers that Mr. Burns has a good case. The Imperial Government will be asked to take up the case and press it to a conclusion.

Mr. McCarthy has been heard from. He gives notice of motion for correspondence which passed between Lord Aberdeen and the Colonial Secretary in reference to certain appointments which Sir Charles Tupper proposed to make after the defeat of his Government.

MR. H. HANCOCK'S VICTORY

Over Kidney Disease Won by the Help of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Galt, April 11.—(Special)—The greatest "speech" delivered for many years in Galt, was made recently by H. Hancock, Esq., proprietor of the fine hotel, the Iroquois. It was short and pithy and conveyed to every sufferer from kidney disease the glad news that they need suffer no longer.

Mr. Hancock's statement runs thus:—"For over a year I suffered with terrible backaches. Nothing I used gave me the least relief till I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. I used only a few boxes, but to-day every vestige of pain has vanished completely."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only cure on earth for Kidney diseases.

Candles at Dinner.

A woman who has carefully studied the effects of light at her dinners says that unshaded candles in high old fashioned candelabra that branch out in many directions are absolutely the perfection of light for a table, and are, too, a most becoming light to the faces of the guests gathered around it. The candelabra should be tall enough to carry the lights fairly high. The pretty candle shades so much in use are decorative to the furnishings of the table, but they prevent the most effective and becoming light.

EXPORT CATTLE TRADE.

How Canada Is Being Outdistanced in Some Respects by South America—Interesting Interview.

Toronto, April 20.—Mr. Hunnisett of the firm of Crawford & Hunnisett, dealers in and exporters of cattle, has returned from his trip to England and the Continent very much improved in health.

Mr. Hunnisett while in England made close observations of the cattle trade and in an interview yesterday gave the following valuable information:

In the export trade Mr. Hunnisett stated that South American cattle of good quality are being shipped in large numbers to the British markets and are becoming keen competitors with Canada and the United States for that trade.

One extensive rancher and shipper from South America told Mr. Hunnisett that there were no less than 40 steamships laden with cattle from that country on the ocean at that time. This same shipper also stated that South American dealers were bound to be at the head in the export cattle trade of America, and in order to improve their cattle the ranchers make it a practice to visit England annually to purchase the very best shorthorn bulls obtainable for their herds, never using any of the progeny of these bulls, as sires, for the simple reason that in doing so their herds would become degenerated, and produce lanky, long-legged, lean cattle, instead of the low-set chunky animals with lots of flesh, such as the English trade demand.

Canadian breeders might learn a valuable lesson from their South American brethren in this very matter.

As to the dead meat trade, Mr. Hunnisett stated that there is something wrong, either in the cold storage system, or the matter of killing & handling, as a good deal of the Canadian beef and some of the American had arrived in bad condition, and something will have to be done to have this remedied if Canadian dealers wish to make a success of this branch of the industry.

Not only in the dead meat trade has there been a failure, but the shipment of live cattle has not been a success, especially in late years.

And there is a general feeling amongst cattle men that their shipments must be more carefully handled, and that other and better arrangements than those at present in force must be adopted, both in England and Canada, in order to make it a success.

Mr. Hunnisett also said that Canada was away behind in the quality of mutton, New Zealand having outdistanced us in quality and quantity. New Zealand ships large quantities of yearling lambs of good quality in cold storage, which arrive in England in extra good condition.

On the other hand Canada has only shipped bucks and ewes that have been fattened up for the purpose. Englishmen prefer the juicy meat of the New Zealand lamb to our fat mutton.

THE RED SLIPPER.

It was a clear, warm day in April, with just enough breeze to temper the ardor of the sun. Most of the ladies who had ridden from Pasadena had laid aside their wraps, while they wandered with their escorts around Eagle rock. This rock is a titanic relic of long gone ages, which raises its solitary back some 40 feet into the air from the valley to which it gives its name, and is situated about five miles from Pasadena. It is peculiar in that it is all alone at its post of duty, no other rock sentinel being near.

From one point of view the rock presents an obtuse angle, and upon either face is a cave hollowed out by the action of water or the labor of other natural masons. At a little distance the caves have the appearance of the spread wings of the national bird; hence the name.

It is possible that the natural contour of the caves has been intensified by the chisel of man, as there is a legend that one or both of the cavities, at least the more accessible of the two, was once inhabited by an old recluse, but this seems to have been after the brigands and banditti, who early infested the country, had been compelled to retire.

On the summit of the hill is a venerable adobe, in a poor state of preservation, like the old and lamented missions of the church fathers, now so attractive to all true lovers of California.

The legends that hang about this spot are responsible for christening the adobe retreat Robbers' Roost.

The party in due time gained the summit and carried away either a flower or a stone as a memento of the occasion, one of the more susceptible members capturing a piece of the old adobe.

Returning home flushed with the harvest of the day's experience and filled with the magnetism of the sun, the company stopped at the house of a lady friend.

Before there had been much time for conversation a gentleman of the party, whose bright black eyes, dark complexion and raven hair betrayed a trace of the Andalusian blood, with courtly bow, handed the surprised hostess a piece of the old adobe, saying, "A memento of our outing, senorita."

The blue eyes of the fair hostess opened wider as she questionally took the crumbling relic. She was a comparative stranger in California and had never been in the section visited by her friends during the day.

She held the piece of adobe in her hand for a few moments, when suddenly she startled all present by exclaiming, "Oh!" And immediately she half sank into a chair. Passing her left hand across her forehead, she said half dreamily: "What a fine view! Why, it is indeed peculiar! I see as readily and as easily as though I were upon the spot, but my eyes are closed. The sun shines brightly, and I see a little plastered house on a hill. A great wide porch surrounds the house, which makes it look like a great bird with widespread wings, for I seem to be looking down upon the roof." There was a brief pause, when she again exclaimed: "Oh, how dainty! How sweet!"

By this time all in the room had gathered around the speaker, who, half reclining, half sitting, in a large easy chair, seemed like one entranced.

For a moment the hum of voices seemed to disturb Miss Alice, and she hesitated, but tightened her grasp upon the piece of adobe. "Hush!" commanded the dark eyed gentleman. "Be quiet." Then lowering his tone he said gently, "What is it, Alice?"

A deep silence fell upon the company, which was broken by Alice.

"Oh, I see such a beautiful creature!" she continued. "She is like a fairy, but surely a human being. Her dark eyes are large and lustrous, with long, silky fringe and delicately arched brows. Her cheeks are soft and plump like a peach ripened by the sun. Her lips, half parted, reveal two rows of dainty teeth. She moves like the breeze, quickly, but softly Now she stands at the edge of the porch shading her eyes with one of her hands, upon the long, supple, graceful fingers of which sparkle rare and precious jewels. Yes, she's Spanish surely. Her short, silken skirts rustle in the air, changing color with every motion. Her beaded bodice is of black velvet and over her shoulders is loosely thrown a black mantilla. Her little feet are incased in a dear little pair of slippers with high red heels. Now she turns, Her eyes sparkle like diamonds. Oh, she's gone!"

"Ah! 'Come back, come back! he cried in grief,' quoted the funny man in the corner, with a long drawn sigh.

"Be still," hoarsely whispered his neighbor.

Miss Alice drew one hand across her forehead, clutched the fragment held in the other and continued, scarcely noticing the interruption:

"There is a company of men in the front room, which extends across the entire house. They are seated around a long table, eating and drinking. They are dressed gayly like Mexicans or Spaniards, and all are armed. Queer looking knives and firearms are scattered over the room, and some one seems to have given an alarm, for many of them are scurrying to windows or loopholes in the walls commanding a view of the road, from which a cloud of dust is rising."

Another pause and then Alice said: "Everything is black. I see nothing."

There was a rustle in the room as some of the ladies shifted their positions, and a murmur arose, which was silenced by a quick, sharp glance of the dark complexioned gentleman, who raised his forefinger significantly.

Once more silence, and after a few moments Alice resumed: "Yes, I see now. It is night and very dark, but there is a faint light. Yes, it comes from the flickering rays of a lantern which seems to be opened and shut alternately. It is beginning to rain.

"These are the forms of two or three men, black and shifting. They seem to be standing on the edge of a deep gorge or canyon, and behind them the outlines of the back part of the little plastered house seem wavering and unreal. The men have picks and spades. They are digging a hole. The lantern is now on the ground. Its light rests on a large box. They are dumping trinkets and jewelry of all sorts into the hole. Many of the rings and pins are set with rare, sparkling jewels. A flash of a knife and the blade strikes a man under the arm. He falls backward down the chasm. Ugh!"

With the last utterance a shudder shook the speaker, and she stopped. The conversation now became general and animated, followed by discussion more or less earnest, the opinion prevailing that there is something mysterious in psychometry deserving attention and more careful investigation.

Two of the gentlemen of the party were impressed by the words of Alice, and from the love of adventure and novelty decided to visit the old adobe upon a tour of investigation. Probably the stories current about "Robbers' Roost," some of which they had heard, had fired their imagination and given the color of probability, or at least of possibility, to the words of their lady friend.

But whatever the motive it is true that the men at an early day secretly visited the ruins with pick and spade and, selecting a spot which seemed to answer the description in their mind's eye, began to dig for the buried treasure. But no gold, no silver or precious stones rewarded them.

Their search was not entirely without result, however, for, much to their surprise and delight, they unearthed the remains of a dainty slipper with a high heel, which, to their heightened imagination, was red.

Contenting themselves with the trophy, they returned to Los Angeles.

Some days afterward one of the men carried the slipper to Long Beach, at which place, he had been informed, lived an ancient Mexican who was familiar with all the old legends of southern California.

He found the man to be a veritable patriarch, as wise as he is old and as gentle as he is wise, for he still lives, and, if rumor is to be credited, he will soon round the century post without signs of impending dissolution. But while the venerable Mexican was willing to speak he could talk but little English.

An interpreter was found, and with many digressions quite an interesting story was woven with the threads of memory and suggestion.

The aged man took the slipper carefully and tenderly. He examined it minutely, now brushing away some specks of dirt and now stroking it caressingly. He turned it over and over, especially examining the sole and the threads which in places still held it to the "upper." He remained silent a long time, but his thoughts evidently were busy.

"Yes, it is so, senor, the turn of the sole is the same. It was made by Mexican hands about the time I was a lad. It was probably worn by the divine senorita—she for whom more than one gallant has braved the poniard and, as I believe, more than one has found an untimely grave on the mesa or in the canyon, for the jealousy of Morilla was quick to kindle and the reapings of his wrath as sure as the rising of the sun. Few had the honor of a duel, but all alike felt the descent of his vengeance. He was as handsome as the prince of darkness and twice as wicked, as graceful as the doe and as brave as the lion, cunning as the fox and wise as the serpent, chief of the marauding band that once held this section in fear and trembling—fear for their flocks and gold, trembling for their women—and yet, strange as it may seem, many were the acts of courtliness and generosity which they sometimes bestowed upon the unfortunate and desolate. The "Robbers' Roost," to which you refer, was the last stronghold they possessed in their neighborhood.

"The senorita whose slipper you have found was said to be the niece of Morilla; but, I doubt not, they bore a more tender relation to each other. The senorita was as beautiful as the dawn and as proud as a queen. Her word was law with the robber chieftain.

"As the robbers grew bolder the situation grew more aggravating to the settlers. Still the Americans kept coming, the town kept increasing in population and as the city grew the settlers pushed more upon the ranches until at last the ranchers determined to declare war upon the banditti, thus stopping the predatory incursions. But it was a long time before any headway was made. Law was slow to make its way into the defiles, where the mountaineer was as much at home as other wild game, and he poised upon the peaks as secure as the eagle in its eyrie. Many times and oft the settlers organized search parties, but old Father Time was a better marksman than the Americans.

"One by one the bold outlaws fell a prey to their own passions, and, weakened by internal dissensions, they were driven farther into the mountains.

"One day in April the last remnant of the band was surprised at a carousal in broad daylight. Several of the banditti were killed and the divine senorita captured and held as a hostage. The settlers knew that Morilla would return if the maiden remained in the vicinity, so they lay in wait. In about a month he did return at night and, tying his horse in a eucalyptus grove, ventured into the adobe, which was guarded.

"He was taken prisoner, and without more ado a lasso was placed around his neck, the intention being to trample and drag him to death at the heels of horses. Providence ordained that he should meet his death otherwise. Morilla possessed a fine horse, a graceful, sensitive, nervous animal, fleet, but strong. His dappled, glossy coat was like silk, and his delicate neck, slightly arched under the restraining bit, indicating his fiery disposition, yet he was tractable to the firm hand of his master. Morilla loved his horse almost as much as he did the senorita, and it was of his horse that he thought when he saw his impending doom. He asked the privilege of a farewell caress of his beast. The men of that day were as fond of their horses as of their wives, and, appreciating the animal, they gave the desired permission. Morilla stroked and patted the velvety nose of his steed, and the horse gave evidence of almost human intelligence. At last Morilla threw his arms around the horse's neck and, drawing the animal's head downward, whispered something in his ear. Almost instantaneously the horse rose on his hind legs, and at the same time Morilla swung himself into the saddle. The horse fought like a demon, pawing the air with his fore feet, which were shod with light, but sharp shoes. Several men fell before his wild assault.

"In an instant he had broken through the crowd of armed men. Then like an arrow from a bow he shot down the steep road. The baffled ranchers were desperate and all pity died before their hot anger. They shot the horse under the rider, and Morilla's neck was broken by the fall.

"There was great rejoicing in the country at large because of the fall of the dreaded chief, but more than one heart was sad. People whom he had befriended mourned his departure."

Tears stole from the eyes of the ancient man and trickled down his swarthy cheek. He was silent; then he slightly raised and gently stroked the slipper which he had retained in his hand and continued: "The senorita died young. Her heart was broken, and here you have brought me her slipper. Well, I, too, will soon pass beyond."

WHERE WOMEN RULE.

What a Social Student Found In an Eastern Province.

While studying social conditions in oriental lands Dr. Alice B. Stockham was advised by Tolstoi to visit the Naiars on the Malabar coast of India, and witness a type of civilization unknown elsewhere among the inhabitants of earth. Here, according to a writer, the husband is a mere incident in the social organization. Woman's power is autocratic and absolute. She wins or divorces a husband at will. She frames and administers the laws by which he lives, and through her is the descent of Love that Alters.

"Love is not love that alters when it alteration finds."

That is one of the sublimest lines in all literature. It is the final definition of love by the world's greatest reader of the human mind,—Shakespeare. Nearly all women who truly love, love in this sublime way. Men seldom do.

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for many thousands of women. He has devised a perfect and scientific remedy for women's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for all weaknesses, diseases, disorders, displacements, irregularities, and debilitating drains peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it, and no honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute that he may make a little larger profit.

"I was afflicted with kidney trouble and I have always had a torpid liver," writes Mrs. E. Crosswhite, of Duffau, Erath Co., Texas. "When I commenced your medicine I was not able to stand on my feet. I used one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and five vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets.' I am now well. I had not walked in four months when I commenced the treatment; but in ten days I was able to walk everywhere."

A Nervous Woman.

"I was completely run down and had a bad cough due to bronchitis. I was very nervous but since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I have more appetite and feel a great deal better. I have also used Hood's Pills and find them very excellent." Mrs. M. Garland, 675 Crawford Street, Toronto, Ont.

Hood's Pills are easy to operate. Cure indigestion, headache.

Prompt Answers.

The lecturer on health had finished his discourse and invited his auditors to ask any questions they chose concerning points that might seem to need clearing up when a lean, skinny man rose up and asked:

"Professor, what do you do when you can't sleep at night?"

"I usually stay awake," replied the lecturer, "although, of course, everybody should feel at liberty to do otherwise if he chooses. Are there any other questions?"—Chicago Tribune.

ALMOST A MIRACLE.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9th, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Co., Ltd., Ottawa:—

GENTLEMEN,—I hardly know how best to express my appreciation of your valuable rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline. My son Gordon, who is 9 years old, has been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for the past two years; was so bad at times that he had to be carried about on a mattrass; was attended by two city doctors apparently without the slightest benefit; spent 10 days at Caledonia Springs, came home with no marked improvement; took three bottles of a Homeopathic remedy now being extensively advertised, which did not relieve him in the least. I was beginning to give up all hope of his recovery, when by chance I mentioned the case to a friend who strongly advised me to give Phrenoline a trial.

I did so, with the result that when my boy had taken only half a bottle he was able to get on his bicycle and ride like any other boy around the block.

I certainly feel that I cannot say too much in praise of your medicine, and shall do all I can to make known its value to others.

Yours very sincerely,

CANADA LIFE

Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty-first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $407,093 05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3 005, for the sum of $6,135,998, of which, however, 226 for $521,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 101 applications for $373,300 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5 291,636, under 2 609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $798,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 38,407 policies, upon 24,469 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,166 45, and Endowment policies for $129,846 92, having matured, these sums, as well as $318,451.29 for profits, $145,411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,363,307.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,963,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1 272,486 03, which increased the Company's Assets to $18,678 915.67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company, I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford a guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies" One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, he prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Merritt, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

LACROSSE.

A representative of the Cornell 'Varsity lacrosse club is expected in Ontario shortly to arrange dates for the proposed tour of the American collegians. An endeavour will be made to have the team come to Peterborough.

A large number of provincial clubs expected the C.L.A. to deal with the age limit in the junior division at the annual meeting on Good Friday, but as the matter was not considered, patrons of the game can expect to see the whiskered paterfamilias running up against juniors of fifteen or sixteen summers.

The Markham club, although crippled severely through the loss of Wilkinson, Querrie, Armstrong, Scott and the suspended Glover, will come to the fore again with a strong team.

THE RING.

A contribution to the sporting column by a juvenile amateur of the fisticuff cult:

There dwelt in a land,
That's far, far away,
A brave Knight who said
I can knock out the Dey.

The Knight was a German,
The Dey was a Turk,
And a mill 'twixt these two
Meant very quick work.

The "go" was pulled off,
They met with a rush,
And the German went headlong
Right into the slush.

The Dey danced for joy,
And the Knight with a yell
Came up—with a smile.
From the slush where he fell.

And went after the Dey
Who ran far, far away,
And he's not been caught
So most people say.

Payment of Cheques.

For the convenience of those employed on the Government Works, says the Bobcaygeon Independent, the Postmaster General has given instructions permitting the cashing of Government cheques at the post office without charge, as far as the surplus money on hand will allow. Such cheques are payable at par, at all chartered banks, but not having a bank here, the arrangement made by Mr. Mulock, the Postmaster General, is an evidence of his thorough grasp of the interests of the workmen, and of his desire to make his department of the Public Service afford the fullest accommodation to the public. His action will certainly be appreciated by those engaged on the works.

BOUGHT GOLD BRICKS.

A St. Mary's Business Man Tampered With Some Slick Strangers and Was Done Up for $9,000.

Port Huron, Mich., April 21.—J. D. Moore, a prosperous business man of St. Mary's, Ont., was swindled out of $9,000 at Sarnia last night by a gold brick scheme. One week ago a stranger giving the name of David Brown called on Moore and interested him in a gold mine in Arizona. Moore was induced to come to Sarnia and look at samples which were in the possession of Brown's partner, a Mexican. Moore was taken to the camp of the Mexican, two miles out of the city. He looked at the bricks, and, together with Brown, came into Sarnia to have them assayed. Another confederate was at the Belchamber Hotel in the person of a United States assayer. After considerable talk he assayed the bricks and stamped U.S., 20 karat fine. Moore was not satisfied and went back to the camp, where he was allowed to take some of the filings to be tested. The filings were pronounced genuine by a Sarnia jeweller, and Moore drew $9,000 in bills. He bought the bricks, which were supposed to be worth $90,000. Later the jeweller pronounced the bricks copper, and Moore made complaint to the police. Provincial Detective Griffin is on the trail of the swindlers.

Nearly Half a Million Dollars Voted to Settle Behring Sea Claims.

Washington, April 21.—Just before adjournment of the Senate yesterday, Mr. Allison presented an amendement to the Sundry Civil bill, appropriating and making immediately available $473,151, with which to pay to Great Britain in the award for Behring Sea claims made by the joint convention of Feb. 29, 1896. He had, he said, been urged to place the amendment on this bill by the Foreign Relations Committee, instead of waiting for the General Deficiency bill. The amendment was agreed to.

IN THE WORLD'S METROPOLIS.

Spanish Minister Was Not Present at the Lord Mayor's Banquet in London —Col. Hay's Speech.

London, April 21.—At the Easter banquet at the Mansion House last evening His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, most of the members of the diplomatic corps, and many other high officers were present. United States Ambassador Hay's seat was at the left hand of Lord Mayor Davies, and the Spanish Ambassador, Count Rascon, was allotted the place at his right hand, but at the last moment Count Rascon wrote that a sudden indisposition would prevent him being present.

Lord Mayor Davies, when proposing the health of the members of the diplomatic corps, welcomed the United States Ambassador and expressed the hope, "in the name of the citizens of London," that there would be no war.

Col. Hay's Speech.

Col. Hay's reply was the event of the evening. He was repeatedly applauded by the company. Speaking of the relations between the United States and Great Britain, he said:

"We are sometimes accused of looking after our own interests with a certain energy and pertenacity. I might say, in the spirit of pride, rather than contrition, that it only shows what stock we are of, but this truth is incontestable, that for nearly three generations of men and in spite of constant differences, there has been peace between us and friendly regard—a peace growing more firm and solid as the years go by, and a friendship, which, I am sure, the vast majority of both peoples hope and trust may last forever. The good understanding between us is based on something deeper than expediency. All who think cannot but see there is a sanction like that or religion which binds us in partnership in the serious work of the world.

"Whether we will or not, we are associated in that work by the very nature of things, and no man, and no group of men, can prevent it. We are bound by ties we did not forge, and that we cannot break. We are joint ministers in the same sacred mission of freedom and progress, charged with duties we cannot evade by the imposition of irresistible bands."

Col. Hay, in an impressive peroration, which elicited outbursts of cheering, recalling the sudden illumination through the fog by the searchlight of the British and American flags flying on the cruiser Brooklyn during the Jubilee festivities as a happy augury and closed his response by expressing the hope that the flags might ever float united.

The report of the first official destruction of fruit trees in the campaign against the San Jose scale was received at the Department of Agriculture. Four hundred and ninety-eight plum, pear and peach trees from an orchard near Kingsville were burned. The owner will receive one-quarter the value of the trees.

TROUBLE FOR BRITAIN.

H. M. S. Indefatigable Summoned Very Suddenly to Jamaica—Rumor of Trouble There.

Halifax, April 21.—A report yesterday afternoon that H.M.S. Indefatigable was to sail for Jamaica at 6 o'clock created considerable excitement, and it turned out that the report was correct. The commander of the fleet at Bermuda cabled in the morning for the ship to sail from Halifax as quick as possible, under sealed orders, which orders were communicated to the dock yard authorities, and handed to the captain sealed, to be opened as soon as the ship is clear of Halifax harbor. It is possible that a couple of hospital corps officials and as many men from the Leinsters as the ship will accommodate will be taken. It is believed that the ship goes to Barbadoes, where there is some trouble among the natives. The West India regiment is there, but it is not known here how this regiment would act in case of a local uprising. The Indefatigable has taken on board a quantity of coal and some powder. The orders were quite unexpected, and arrived quite unexpectedly, and she only arrived two days ago from Bermuda, and was to have remained here for a month or two, removing the naval moorings of the dock yards.

AGAINST THE CRAMMING SYSTEM

The London school board has passed a resolution against the evil of cramming for examinations. The resolution went through unanimously. It was a lengthy recital of the case. It is declared wrong, unfair and unjust to judge of the ability and character of a teacher by the results of examinations. Reference is made to the severe injury to health growing out of the system. Confidence is expressed in the present staff of headmasters, and the recommendation follows that "at the next midsummer examinations candidates only be sent up such as by reason of age, physical power and mental capacity would, in the judgment of the headmaster, be capable of going forward with higher work to their own advantage." Others they are advised to restrain to their ultimate profit and real education. In consequence the board urges parents to assist the board and headmasters to curb the present inordinate desire to have pupils pass.

SPAIN AGGRESSIVE.

Only One Voice in Spain, "Repel Foreign Aggression."

GEN. WOODFORD TOLD TO GO.

U. S. Minister Given His Passports Before He Could Deliver His Country's Ultimatum—The Spanish Senate Pledges Its Assistance to Save the Dignity of Spain—Latest News.

Madrid, April 22.—A semi-official note issued yesterday afternoon says: "The Spanish Government, having received the ultimatum of the President of the United States, considers that the document constitutes a declaration of war against Spain, and that the proper form to be adopted is not to make any further reply; but, to await the expiration of the time mentioned in the ultimatum before opening hostilities.

"In the meantime, the Spanish authorities have placed their possessions in a state of defense, and their fleet is already on its way to meet that of the United States."

SENATE PLEDGES ITSELF.

Remarkable Scene in the Spanish Senate —"Repel Foreign Aggression," Is the War Cry—Triumph of Justice.

Madrid, April 22.—In the Spanish Senate yesterday Marshal Martinez Campos asked the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Senor Gullon, to make a statement regarding the relations between Spain and the United States, whereupon the Minister replied that all relations were broken off. The former Captain-General of Cuba then made a patriotic speech, during which he declared that Cuba will never lose her Spanish Sovereignty. Senor Fernandez Gonzalez declared in the name of the Republicans the "party spirit is now drowned," adding that "there is only one voice throughout Spain, to repel foreign aggression."

A resolution eloquently supported by several leading Senators, pledging the assistance of the Chamber to save the dignity of Spain, was carried with acclamation.

There was a slight fall in prices on the Spanish Bourse to-day as a result of the severance of the diplomatic relations between Spain and the United States, but there was no panic.

The semi-official Correspondencia says: "Spain's feelings have been outraged to the highest point by the injustice, coarseness, infamy, bad faith and insults of all kinds heaped upon her by a vile people with the most ignoble passions and basest feelings. We could easily return blow for blow, but Spaniards never use such weapons, which are forbidden in any civilized country." In conclusion the Correspondencia expresses confidence in the "eventual triumph of justice."

SPAIN WOULD NOT WAIT.

It Promptly Gave U.S. Minister Woodford His Passports Without Accepting the Ultimatum at His Hands.

Washington, April 22.—The following statement of the text of the ultimatum to Spain was issued yesterday: On yesterday, April 20, 1898, about eleven o'clock, a.m., the Department of State served notice of the purposes of this Government by delivering to Minister Polo a copy of an instruction to Minister Woodford, and also a copy of the resolution passed by the Congress of the United States on the 19th inst. After the receipt of this notice the Spanish Minister forwarded to the State Department a request for his passports, which were furnished to him on yesterday afternoon. Copy of the instructions to Woodford is herewith appended. The United States Minister at Madrid was at the same time instructed to make a like communication to the Government of Spain. The State Department received from General Woodford a telegram, copy of which is attached, showing that the Spanish Government had broken off diplomatic relations with this Government. This course renders unnecessary any further diplomatic action on the part of the United States.

The Message to Woodford.

April 20, 1898.

Woodford, Minister, Madrid: You have been furnished with the text of a joint resolution voted by the Congress of the United States on the 19th inst.—approved to-day—in relation to the pacification of the Island of Cuba. In obedience to that act, the President directs you to immediately communicate to the Government of Spain said resolution, with the formal demand of the Government of the United States that the Government of Spain at once relinquish its authority and government of the Island of Cuba and withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters. In taking this step, the United States hereby disclaims any disposition or intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over said island, except for the pacification thereof, and asserts its determination, when that is accomplished, to leave the Government and control of the island to its people under such free and independent Government as they may establish.

If by the hour of noon on Saturday next, the 23rd day of April, instant, there be not communicated to this Government by that of Spain a full and satisfactory response to this demand and resolution whereby the ends of peace in Cuba shall be assured, the President will proceed, without further notice, to use the power and authority enjoined and conferred upon him by the said joint resolution to such extent as may be necessary to carry the same into effect. SHERMAN.

Woodford Told to Go.

Madrid, April 21, 1898, 9.02 a.m.

Sherman, Washington: Early this (Thursday) morning, immediately after the receipt of your open telegram, and before I had communicated same to Spanish Government, Spanish Minister for Foreign Affairs notified me that diplomatic relations are broken between the two countries, and that all official communication between their respective representatives have ceased. I accordingly asked for safe passports. Turn Legation over to British Embassy and leave for Paris this afternoon. Have notified consuls. WOODFORD.

THE QUEEN'S DEMEANOR.

Her Majesty Displayed Great Courage in Reading the War Speech.

London, April 22.—A Madrid despatch to the Times, describing yesterday's scene in the Cortes, says:

The Queen's voice, which was low at first, showed traces of strong emotion, and as she proceeded it grew louder and firmer. The passage which created the deepest impression was the one in which Her Majesty identified herself with the nation and referred to her son. That stirring call to the hereditary national loyalty took the audience by storm. On all sides rose shouts of "Long live the King!" "Long live the Queen!" "Long live Spain!" "Long live Spanish Cuba!"

The little King looked proudly at his mother and smiled and the look was returned with affectionate tenderness. The Queen evidently had difficulty in restraining her emotion, for, in uttering the next few words, her voice trembled. But she soon recovered her composure and proceeded with the calm, courageous self-possession which she always displays at moments of difficulty and danger.

WITH SHOT AND SHELL

Spain Is Likely to Answer the Ultimatum Sent by President McKinley.

New York, April 22.—A special to the Herald from Washington says: "Spain's answer to President McKinley's ultimatum may take the form of shot and shell. Her formidable fleet, which has been mobilizing at the Cape Verde Islands for some days past, have sailed from that point for an unknown destination. This information was received by the attaches of the legation of Spain who have remained in this city.

"So important is this information that there is reason to believe that the Navy Department will put every bit of machinery in motion that it is possible to start to ascertain the whereabouts of the fleet.

"It is conceded to be highly probable that the fleet will hasten across the ocean to Porto Rico and Cuba, to prevent by force the ousting from the islands of the naval and military forces of the Spanish Government now there.

"On the other hand, it is possible that the ships have gone to the Canary Islands, but this is not considered probable in view of the fact officially reported that the vessels were coaling all day yesterday and this morning before their departure, and that their bunkers are filled to overflowing with fuel.

"As a result of information which the Spanish attaches have received, the officials with whom I talked are confident that the battleship Pelayo, which was officially reported to have sailed from Cadiz on Sunday last, joined the fleet before the departure, and sailed with it, and that, furthermore, arrangements have been made for the reinforcement of the squadron by the armored cruiser Carlos V., which left Ferrol, Spain, yesterday."

The Situation at Havana.

Havana, April 22.—The weather is fine and warm to-day, and quiet prevails here. The Diario de la Marina praises the Spaniards of Mexico, who are said to have raised by subscription about $1,000,000 for Cuban relief.

The Union Constitutional refers in high terms to the stand taken by Spain, saying: "She does not need 60 hours, not even one hour, to return the Americans' insulting challenge."

The same paper says: "The disappointment of the seventy millions of people will be great when they come out of the fight with the people over whose possessions the sun has never set."

Woodford's Leave-Taking.

Madrid, April 22.—United States Minister Woodford left here at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The British Charge d'Affaires, Mr. Barclay, and the Secretary of the German Embassy saw the United States Minister off. There was a great jingo demonstration at the station.

NAVAL WAR IS NOW ON

Between the United States and Spain Without Declaration.

THE NORTH ATLANTIC SQUADRON

Sails From Key West for Havana for the Purpose of Blockading Cuba—Preparations for the Landing of U. S. Troops on the Island —The Spanish Squadron.

Washington, April 22.—War between the United States and Spain is a fact, though not yet officially declared by Congress. The stirring events of Wednesday were succeeded yesterday with rapidity by others of equal importance, culminating in the afternoon in orders for the departure of the North Atlantic squadron for Havana. This practically is an act of war, so that the war between this country and Spain may fairly be said to date from to-day, April 21, 1898. It was necessary to frame a notice to the powers of the intention of our Government to establish a blockade of Havana, a notification required by international law.

The St. Vincent Flotilla.

News came to the department to-day that tended to confirm the newspaper reports that the formidable Spanish naval forces at St. Vincent, Cape de Verde Islands, had sailed last night for an unknown destination. Naval experts say that leaving out of consideration the question of relative strength of personnel, the Spanish force is at least equal and probably much superior in some respects to Commodore Schley's fleet. It is not believed by any of the naval officers that the Spanish fleet will undertake to cross the Atlantic and attack Commodore Schley on his own base, but it would seem to be equally impracticable for the Commodore to take his flying squadron across to attack the Spaniards unless he is reinforced.

The Spanish Threat.

The threat of the Spanish newspapers to give America a surprise in the shape of a naval visitation does not cause any particular uneasiness at the Navy Department, and although nothing positive is known as to the destination of the Spanish squadron, it is surmised that it has started on its return to Spain, 1,000 miles distant from Cape Verde, thus indicating a purpose to await an engagement in their own waters.

TO BLOCKADE HAVANA.

The United States North Atlantic Squadron Leaves Key West for Cuba—Purport of the Movement.

Washington, April 22.—The North Atlantic squadron, it was learned shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, had sailed already for Havana from Key West. The decision to send the fleet was reached at the special Cabinet meeting in the afternoon and was guarded as closely as possible. Hurried orders were despatched to the fleet to establish a blockade of the entrance of the harbor of Havana immediately. The fleet later on will be supported by troops, who will be despatched to Cuba as soon as, in the opinion of the President, it is possible to use them advantageously in the occupation of the Island. Meanwhile, as rapidly as troops can be rushed in Key West and other points on the South Atlantic and Gulf Coasts, they will be hurried forward. It is believed that it will take ten days to concentrate at the coast an army of sufficient size with the necessary supplies to make an effective campaign.

It is the purpose to gather these troops and then make a sharp, decisive movement. Immediately upon the passage of the army volunteer bill by Congress, the President by proclamation will call for 100,000 men. Of this force it is intended to use 80,000 men in Cuban operations, in conjunction with the regular army now already assembled or assembling at points of concentration. The remaining

WARS WHICH GLADSTONE HAS SEEN.

The Grand Old Man, Gladstone, is still on the stage on which he has long played a brilliant part. Born 88 years ago he has had an eventful life history. In these warlike days it will be interesting to note what great and little wars he has seen. Born in 1809 he lived through the Napoleonic wars, and was 6 years of age at the time of the battle of Waterloo. During his teething period the war of 1812-14 was in progress. He was a Privy Councillor at the time of the Afghan and Chinese wars in 1839-42; then followed the Burmese war 1851-2; the Crimean war, the war of the Indian mutiny and the second Chinese war—1855-60; the Abyssinian war, 1868; the Ashanti war, 1874-5. Gladstone was prime minister four times. His first term of office was one of peace, ruffled a little at the close by the opening notes of the Ashanti war. But his second term as prime minister—1880-85, was one of continuous warfare in "foreign" fields—the Zulu war, the second Afghan war, the Transvaal war, the Egyptian war, the Soudan war; and the period of fighting was carried from the end of Gladstone's third term into the first premiership of Lord Salisbury by the Burmese war, which lasted during Gladstone's brief third term 1886, and into the beginning of Salisbury's second term. Since the Grand Old Man resigned the leadership in 1894 we, have had the South African broil, the third Afghan war and the second Soudan war. During Mr. Gladstone's life of 88 years he has seen sixteen wars of considerable magnitude waged by Great Britain, besides innumerable "skirmishes," in all of which her arms were victorious. In the closing days, as in the opening days of his splendid career he saw, and is seeing the first and second American war, respectively. In 1812-14 the United States made a determined attempt to capture Canada. We know what inglorious failure attended this attempt, though at that time Great Britain was tied up by war with half of Europe, and Canada was a scattered settlement with a population about one-fifteenth of that of the invader, but with a valour, hardihood and devotion to Empire and home that made every Canadian soldier as many. Is it possible that the issue of the first foreign war in which the United States was engaged forms any sort of precedent for the issue of the second foreign war, in which she has practically embarked? Will the Grand Old Man live to see the end of a war on the American shores similar to that whose roar ushered him into the world of action i. which he has been the most conspicuous and distinguished figure for the past half century?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

REV. DR. TALMAGE predicts that three weeks will finish the Spanish-United States war. The wordy preacher had better confine himself to dispensing spiritual advice and leave military prophecy to competent seers.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER spent three hours and over in a so-called criticism of Mr. Fielding's budget, and spoke several thousand ponderous polysyllabic words in the effort, but he made no attempt to explain away the prosperity that set in on the advent of a Liberal Government to office.

GLADSTONE is now nearing the end of a life which has lasted nearly 88 years. During that time he has been a subject of four sovereigns—George III, George IV, William IV and Victoria, Queen and Empress, who is his most illustrious living contemporary, being only ten years younger than the great statesman, who has served as prime minister four terms.

Mgr. Begin, has been enthroned as Archbishop of Quebec, in succession to the late Cardinal Taschereau. The new prelate is well qualified for the position, he having been coadjutor to the late Cardinal Taschereau. The new Archbishop is an author of considerable merit and a keen Oriental scholar. He has travelled throughout most of the countries of Europe and also to a great extent in Palestine and the East generally.

The fast Atlantic line seems likely to be established on the economical basis arranged by the Laurier Government. The provisional directorate, including such names as those of Sir Bache Cunard, of the Cunard line; Mr. William Johnston, of the Johnston line; Mr. William Bamfrey, late manager of the Cunard line, and Lord Tweedmouth, brother of Lady Aberdeen, is an undeniably strong one. The delays and difficulties which the contractors have successfully overcome in the work of getting up the company render it plain says the Montreal Witness, that the bargain is as good a one as could possibly have been arranged for the Dominion.

THE Mail and Empire, which in the "good old (Tory) days," when there was an exodus of Canadians to the United States, strenuously denied its existence. Now it informs us that there are enough naturalized Canadians in New York to form a Canadian-American regiment to serve in the Hispano-American war. And it is not probable that more than one in ten of the Canadians in the city will care to fight, so that there must be considerably more than a regiment of Canadians in the Capital of the Empire State. If the Canucks do form a regiment, we wouldn't mind laying odds of ten to one that it will be the crack corps of the United States army—the smartest, the tightest, the trustiest, the pluckiest, the steadiest, the sturdiest, the hardiest, the foermost to advance and the hindmost to retreat.

THE coming war threatens to affect prices the of products of Cuba. But the man who contents himself with the modest pipe can laugh at the man who must have his Havana. The war will run up the price of Havana cigars, for it is probable that Cuba will be the battle ground of the land forces of the contending nations, and the cultivation of tobacco will cease. But the source of our supply of smoking tobacco is not likely to be disturbed, unless the Spaniards meet with such success in their campaign as to be able to invade the southern United States in force. The smoker of tobacco, through a "briar," will be able to smoke the "pipe of peace," while the devotee of high-priced cigars will have to smoke the war article at war prices. However, the failure of the grape crop does not affect the supply of champagne, so long as the cider crop is good, and it is not likely that the failure of Cuban tobacco will decrease the supply of Havana cigars, so long as the finer qualities of cabbage flourish.

BUTTER MAKING IN CANADA.

EVIDENCE OF PROF. ROBERTSON BEFORE THE AGRICULTURAL COMMITTEE.

Grand Future for the Dominion in the British Market.

Ottawa, April 20—(Special)—The Committee on Agriculture listened for two hours to-day to the evidence of Prof. Robertson, Commissioner of Agriculture and Dairying, on the condition of Canada's dairy and creamery interests. The professor explained the methods the Government had adopted to encourage the manufacture of high grade butter for the British markets. While Canada furnished Britain last year with 12,000,000 of the 28,500,000 lbs. of cheese which she imported, this country only furnished the Mother Land with 1,500,000 of the 77,000,000 lbs. of foreign butter which she consumed. It could easily be seen from these figures that Canada's butter trade with England was not as large as it should be. As to quality, Canada's butter stood high, bringing within two cents of the price realized for the highest grade of Danish butter. The professor estimated that there would be 30 per cent. more butter produced in Canada this year than last year. The product of the North West creameries was being sent largely to Japan, where there was an active demand for it, although, owing to the mining boom at present existing, there had been a large home market of late. There were at present ten cold storage routes on the C.P.R., and eight on the G.T.R. There was a loss last year in railway cold storage carriage of $5,800, which had to be made up by the Government, but this loss would disappear as business increased. Last year 69 creameries received the Government bonus offered to creameries with cold storage attached, and Prof. Robertson estimated that this year 140, or two-thirds of all the creameries in Canada, would take advantage of this offer of a bonus, which amounted to $50 this year, and to $25 for the two following years. Last summer 300 creameries were operated in Canada, and from 150 to 165 made butter throughout the winter. The professor's evidence pointed to the fact that Canada had a grand future in the butter markets of Great Britain.

Any ordinary cough or cold may not be thought much of at the time, but neglect may mean in the end a consumptive's grave. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine will not cure Consumption when the lungs are riddled with cavities; but it will stop the cough, will cure Consumption in its early stages, and even in its last stages gives such relief as to be a perfect Godsend to those whose lives are nearing a close.

Self Made Men of Other Days.

The self made man is by no means solely the product of modern times. Columbus was a weaver, Franklin was a journeyman printer, Pope Sixtus V was employed in his young days in keeping swine, Robert Burns was a plowman, Aesop was a slave, Homer was a beggar, Daniel De Foe was apprenticed to a hosier, Demosthenes was the son of a cutler, while Virgil was a baker's son. Ben Jonson was a bricklayer, Corvantes was a common soldier, Canova's father was a stonecutter, Captain Cook commenced life as a cabin boy, Haydn, the musician, was the son of a poor wheelwright, Pizarro, instead of going to school, was sent to keep hogs. Kirke White's father was a butcher, and Ments' father kept a livery stable.—New York Sun.

Warm Water Baptism.

We would impress upon the clergy the necessity of having the water warmed. Baptism, it is true, is seldom or never administered by immersion, but even when affusion is used the contact of cold water with a child's head might injuriously affect one with an already sufficiently low power of resistance.—Lancet.

When the sultan of Turkey attends the Friday midday prayer at the mosque, in Constantinople, the garrison of 30,000 men is stationed along the route in such a way that he shall be safely guarded from the moment he leaves his palace until he is on his carpet in the sacred edifice.

DEADLY BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Cured by Four Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

GALT, April 18th.—(Special)—From town to town over the whole broad land rolls the irresistible wave of marvellous popularity of Dodd's Kidney Pills. They are bringing the luxury of life to thousands of pain-worn mortals and banishing kidney disease from our country.

Mr. Frank Cromwell of Galt, tells gladly of his escape. Unmistakable signs of Bright's Disease alarmed him. Pains in the back, bloating of the limbs, puffiness, etc., appeared. He used several remedies. All failed.

He then tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Of course there could be but one result. It followed as it always does. Mr. Cromwell was cured. "I had given up all hope of getting well, but four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me," says he.

Bright's Disease Beaten.

He had terrible backache and night sweats, and always felt tired and worn His nerves were all unstrung, his sleep bad and appetite poor. He commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills and is now completely cured.

AT A MODERATE PRICE.

The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of materials.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument

All our work is guaranteed, NO CHARGE being made if not strictly according to contract.

NAVAL WAR IS NOW ON.

20,000 men will aid the artillery detachments in guarding the coast and manning the heavy guns of the coast defense.

Great difficulty was experienced in learning the details of the operations, and Secretary Long refused, when seen, even to admit that orders had been sent to the fleet, but subsequent confirmation was obtained of a rumor that orders had been sent, coupled with the surprising information that the fleet actually had sailed. With respect to the flying squadron at Hampton Roads, no information is as yet obtainable.

COAL OIL, TEA AND COFFEE.

Tax on These Articles Proposed in Order to Raise Funds to Meet the Expense of the War.

Washington, April 22.—The Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee expect to complete the war revenue measure and have it ready for submission to the full committee to-day or Saturday at the latest. One of the biggest contests in progress in the committee is over the question of taxing tea and coffee. The proposition to place 10 cents tax on tea and 3 cents on coffee has met with considerable opposition, and various suggestions have been made as to subjects for taxation in lieu of tea and coffee. Among them is a proposition to place fifty cents per barrel tax on petroleum, but it now seems probable this will be abandoned. There is also a proposition to tax mineral waters, wines, etc., but a proposition which now meets with more favor is to tax railroad tickets and sleeping-car tickets 10 cents for each trip of over 100 miles. It is estimated between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 could be raised from this source.

The Temps Is Anxious.

Paris, April 22.—The Temps yesterday afternoon was much exercised over the Anglo-American relations and asks if Great Britain "is going to separate from the rest of Europe in order to contract an alliance with the United States."

Barton of the Central Cuban Relief Committee said to-day: "We have chartered the Mallory Line steamship State of Texas, and she will leave this port on Saturday next, carrying 1,000 tons of provisions for the reconcentrados in Cuba. The State Department has instructed me to notify it immediately when the vessel arrives at Key West, and if we need a naval escort one will be furnished."

Coal Exports Prohibited.

Washington, April 22.—Senator Quay gave notice of a resolution prohibiting coal exports. The resolution passed the Senate without division.

The Senate coal export prohibition bill authorizes the President to lay or raise the embargo. The resolution was passed by the House at 8.30 p m. yesterday.

Sleep Does Not Seem to Refresh.

WEAK NERVES AND POOR BLOOD THE CAUSE.

Do you feel wretched, mean and miserable in the mornings—as tired as when you went to bed? It's a serious condition—too serious to neglect, and unless you have the nervous system strengthened and the blood enriched by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, collapse is almost certain to ensue. Mr. Fred. H. Graham, a well-known young man of Barrie, Ont., says:—"I have had a great deal of trouble with my heart for four years. I was easily agitated and any excitement caused my heart to throb violently. I had dizziness and shortness of breath, and often arose in the mornings feeling as tired as when I went to bed. I was terribly nervous. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done wonders for me. They have restored my heart to regular healthy action, giving me back sound restful sleep, and making my nervous system strong and vigorous." Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure Palpitation, Faint Spells, Shortness of Breath, Dizziness, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Dyspepsia, Anaemia, Female Troubles, After Effects of Grippe, Debility, or any condition arising from Disordered Nerves, Weak Heart or Watery Blood.

There must be a remedy, else the system remains loaded with impurities until the hot summer comes and untold trouble follows the application of summer heat to winter blood. Get your blood pure, rich and red, coursing through the arteries in a life-giving stream, before the warm weather ferments the remains of last winter into a sickness possibly of long duration, costing too times the price of a box of Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills, that will set your whole system right and fit you for the summer season. Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills cure Springtime Limpness and Languor and that "don't feel like work" feeling that nearly every one experiences.

TORONTO.

Gentlemen,—From my experience with Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills I feel that you are to be congratulated for bringing before the public a pill that has no equal for biliousness and sick headache. Picking up one of your pamphlets, which was thrown in at my front door, and reading testimonials of people who had been cured, I resolved to try them myself, and after using them for a short time I found that they suited my case exactly. They not only helped me, but cured me, and I consider that all women who are troubled with biliousness or sick headache should try them.

MRS. J. McKNIFF.

HAMILTON.

Gentlemen,—I have been a great sufferer from nervous dyspepsia, with the usual symptoms of stomach weakness, loss of appetite and flesh, accumulation of gas, sour risings and heartburn. I used various patent medicines and other remedies without any favorable results. They would give temporary relief sometimes until the effects of the medicine wore off, but Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills overcame all these obstacles. I am better in every way now and have gained several pounds in weight. As a spring medicine for that tired, worn-out feeling, they are unequalled.

The Dr. Ward Co., Toronto, Ont.:

Gentlemen,—Before using Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills my appetite was very capricious, sometimes very good and at others loathing the sight of food. What food I ate did not digest, causing me much discomfort for hours.

I have also been much troubled with headaches, but since using Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills I have been in the very best of health and can recommend them as a medicine worthy of confidence.

F. C. LaGRANGE, M.D.,
President of the Canadian Ophthalmic College.

GLENCOE.

Gentlemen,—Nothing does a right-thinking man more good than helping his neighbors, especially the sick and weary. In recommending Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills and helping to bring them before the public I feel that I am ir ly help ng my neighbors.

Both my wife and myself used these pills and d r ved great benefit from them. We are getting along in years, and like many others feel the need of a tonic and a strengthening medicine. My blood was thin and impoverished, and my wife was miserable with general debility, brought on by dyspepsia. We used many kinds of medicine, but nothing did so much good as Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills.

It is a pleasure to me to recommend Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills to all who are suffering as we were, because I feel sure they will be benefited by their use. Yours very truly,

SENOR POLO AT THE FALLS.

Late Spanish Minister to Washington Safely on Canadian Soil.

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 22.—Senor Polo y Bernabe, the Spanish Minister to the United States, is safely on the Canadian side, and will remain at the Lafayette Hotel for two or three days.

The following constitute the party: Luis Polo y Bernabe; Pablo Soler, 1st secretary; Tomas Aguaroni, 2nd secretary; Antonio Pla, Bernardo Almeida, attaches; Captain C. de La Casa, military attache; Captain R. de Arranza, naval attache.

The Minister himself requested out boldly that he wished his telegrams handled through Canada, and that he wished no United States telegraph blanks, and when told these were Canadian blanks and Canadian wires his messages would be transmitted over, a look of satisfaction beamed on his face.

The party will remain here until Saturday under the present plans, then leave for Toronto, and will probably remain in Canada for the balance of this month.

Senor Polo Upholds His Nation.

In an interview Minister Polo stated that in the present difficulty Spain had done everything to procure peace, but there was a point beyond which no nation could tolerate and hold the self-respect of civilized nations. Spain was prepared for the worst, and would trust their cause to God. It was incredible that a sensible nation like the Americans could imagine for an instant that the Maine was blown up by Spanish officials. The agitation had been worked in the States by interested politicians in view of the approaching November elections. War, he considered, was inevitable. There was really no excuse for the war. Spain has conceded to the Cubans all they can hope for from a successful war. They have as complete self-government as that enjoyed by Canada. They have their own representatives and the next elections will be held in May. The members are either native Cubans or must have been four years resident in Cuba to be eligible.

BRITISH FINANCES

Heavily Called Upon During Past Year, But Could Stand Another Call.

London, April 22.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chancellor of the Exchequer, presented the budget statement in the House of Commons yesterday. He said the country was prosperous and that the apex of prosperity had not yet been reached. The surplus, he added, amounted to £3,678,000, of which sum £2,550,000 had been appropriated for public buildings. The Chancellor of the Exchequer also informed the House that the national debt had been reduced by £6,605,000.

Sir Michael then pointed out that the total expenditure exceeded the record, being £115,089,000, or £898,000 above the estimate. "Yet," he added, "the treasury is not depleted and could still meet an unforeseen call."

The Chancellor estimated the expenditure for the coming year at £106,899,000 and the revenue at £108,615,000.

WHEAT HIGHER.

After a Fluctuating Day Chicago Closed at an Advance—Liberal Live Stock Receipts at Toronto.

Thursday Evening, April 21.

The wheat market showed considerable irregularity to-day, but finally closed at an advance all round. At Chicago strong cables caused an improvement at the opening, but heavy selling brought about a temporary bearish feeling. The imminence of war and the strong foreign demand soon turned the trend again, and July sold up to 89½c and closed at 89c, 1½c higher than Wednesday's final figures. May and Sept. wheat each gained 1½c for the day, the December future closing 1½c higher. In Liverpool May closed ½d higher and Sept. ½d lower than yesterday. In Paris wheat closed 10c to 25c higher, and at Antwerp steady to 12½c higher. Corn improved fractionally at Chicago and practically unchanged at Liverpool. The Chicago provision market continued its strong upward trend. After gaining 60c yesterday pork rose 67c further to-day. Lard advanced 25c and ribs 27c. On the local market wheat was stronger and provisions were higher.

The receipts of live stock were again liberal to-day—28 loads, all told, composed of 515 cattle, 75 sheep, 25 calves and 2000 hogs. There were a number of cattle left over from Tuesday, which with to-day's deliveries made a large market, few pens being empty. Little business was transacted in fat cattle; and prices, if anything, were easier than on Tuesday last.

Exporters were selling at $3.85 to $4.25; and very few at the latter price, the bulk going at $4.05 to $4.15.

Montreal Live Stock.

Montreal, April 21.—There were about 600 head of butchers' cattle, 1100 calves, 110 sheep and 50 spring lambs offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day. Trade was scarcely so good as on Monday, but prime beeves brought as good figures as on that day. THE ONLY HOPE!

For Victims of Bright's Disease is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Not a day passes on which the newspapers do not record the death of one or more persons from Bright's Disease. Already its victims number hundreds of thousands. Day by day the awful total grows larger. No class is safe from this destroyer.

War and intemperance, with all their miseries and fatalities, are not responsible for as many deaths as have been caused by Bright's Disease. Yet, there is a way of resisting it; of drawing its poisoned fangs, and making it as harmless as a summer breeze. That great medicine, Dodd's Kidney Pills, has cured thousands of the worst cases. It never fails to cure, hopeless as the case may seem.

Would you safely shield your loved ones from the fatal grip of this curse of mankind—Bright's Disease? Then use Dodd's Kidney Pills, the only cure on earth for this disease.

The Quality of Real Fun.

One man said to another in an elevated car about something that he had just read, "Now, that is actually funny," and then he read it over again. The inference from this is, of course, that many of the things written in fun are not really funny, and, making due allowance for lack of appreciation, it is doubtless true that much of the matter written as fun actually does lack the true spark. It may be well intentioned, good natured, even cheerful, and yet lack the peculiar filling, satisfying, energizing, refreshing, uplifting quality of real fun.

The man who has this kind of fun in his heart and who has besides the power of communicating it to his neighbor need not go to the Klondike for his reward.—New York Ledger.

CHANGE IN MANAGERS.

The Rathbun Co. Move Mr. Schuster to Belleville, and Bring Mr. S. H. S. Reid From Kingston.

Mr. Wm. Schuster, who has been in charge of the Rathbun Co. agency here during the past year, has just been transferred to the Belleville branch, and though the many friends he has made in town during his residence here will regret his departure, yet they will be pleased to learn of his promotion. Concerning his successor here, the Kingston Whig says:

"This morning Samuel H. S. Reid, bookkeeper for the local office of the Rathbun Company left for Peterborough to take charge of the agency there. Owing to illness, the company's agent at Belleville had to resign, and Mr. Schuster was removed from Peterborough to Belleville, his former home. The company's choice for a successor to the Peterborough agent was unanimous for Mr. Reid, who was notified last evening. Samuel, who is a son of S. Reid, compositor on The Whig, entered the service of the Rathbun Company nearly nine years ago, and his service in the local office has been highly gratifying to his employers. He has proved a steady, rapid and accurate worker, and his promotion to the agency comes as the result of integrity, honesty and close application to business. Last evening a number of his friends gathered at his home to bid farewell to a popular companion and staunch friend. He will be succeeded here by Mr. C. Allen, an old employee of the company."

The People's Popular Dry Goods Store.

We are the Toilers for the Trade

There is quite a difference in doing business to-day to what it was a few years ago. Quite a difference all over the world. This Store is alive to the fact that to do a successful business to-day—it must be done well—it must be up-to-date—it must be far reaching—It must have capital enough to be able to buy from Headquarters—It must have the nerve to sell as cheap as any concern in the country.

WE ARE READY FOR THE FRAY. The past four weeks have been thoroughly convincing to this firm, that we are on the right track, and it has also been convincing to the people of Peterborough, that we can sell cheaper than the cheapest. We have inaugurated a NEW ERA OF PRICES in Peterborough that cannot be duplicated anywhere in all Canada. This accounts for the busy hum of activity at our store from mornidg till night. The people know when they get extra good value for their money and appreciate it. We have a SPECIAL BARGAIN DAY every Thursday, and we have also Better Values every day than can possibly be procured elsewhere. Here are some everyday bargains at this Store:—

THE PETERBOROUGH KLONDYKE PARTY.

They are by This Time Starting Through the White Pass.

Mr. Wm. Eyres, town, has received a letter from W. T. P. Eyres, one of his two sons who are with the Peterborough party en route to the Klondyke. The letter is dated Vancouver, April 16th, and states that the party expected to sail for the north at midnight of that day. The would, it was thought, reach Skaguay in seven days, which would bring the party to the point of starting to cross the White Pass. It is estimated that it will take the party a month at least to get themselves and their supplies though the Pass, so we may expect a considerable interval to elapse between letters, and no apprehension need be felt if perhaps intelligence is not received from the Peterborough Klondykers. The mail facilities are not as good as we have in the land of civilization. The letter of Mr. Eyres reports the party in good health and spirits. They will exercise the greatest care, and trust in Providence for a successful journey.

WEDDING BELLS.

Marriage of Miss Maggie Buck and Mr. E. J. Wildmam—Both are of Asphodel.

A charming event took place at the home of Mr. Jas. D. Buck, of Asphodel, on Wednesday, 13th inst., it being the occasion of the marriage of his eldest daughter Maggie Jane, to Mr. Edward J. Wildman, son of Mr. John C. Wildman, also of Asphodel. The ceremony was performed at 4.30 p.m., by the Rev. J. A. McCamus, pastor of Norwood Methodist church, in the presence of about seventy guests.

The bride, who was attended by Miss Rebecca Scott, of Asphodel, wore a lovely dress made of of gray coloured cashmere, with silk and lace and pearl trimmings. The bridesmaid wore a fine gown of gray silk trimmed with silk and lace.

The groom was ably assisted by Mr. Daniel Buck, brother of the bride.

The bride was the recipient of a large number of costly and useful presents, among which was a lovely china dinner set, given by her mother; a handsome clock, by the brothers of the groom; a very pretty pickle cruet from the bridesmaid; a toilet set given by the groomsman; and a costly bedroom set from her father.

A well-prepared wedding dinner was served at 5 o'clock, and after ample justice had been done to the many good things, the company indulged in games and social amusement for some time.

The young couple, who are held in high esteem, have the best wishes of their many friends for a long and prosperous wedded life.

The newly married couple have taken up their residence in Norwood.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHAPTER OF ST. LUKE'S GUILD.

THE ANNUAL CONCERT HELD IN THE OPERA HOUSE.

A Most Attractive Programme Presented to a Large Audience Last Evening—A Legend of Spring or the Victory of the Sunbeam.

The annual Easter entertainment of the Young Women's Chapter of St. Luke's Guild was held this year in the Opera House and attracted a very large audience. The programme was almost entirely carried out by children, some fifty in all taking part in it, and reflected the greatest credit upon the energetic head of the chapter, Miss Maggie Calcutt. Butcher's orchestra was present and discoursed excellent music throughout the evening, and Miss Katie Calcutt was the accompanist for the marches, May-pole dance, etc.

After the overture, a well-played piece by the orchestra, a Flag Drill was given by seventeen young ladies, in charming costume, each bearing a Union Jack. Pretty songs and choruses were interwoven with the dance, and most of the figures were greeted with applause, the whole performance being perfectly executed. The following were the performers:—Misses Florence Butcher, Mollie Blois, Laura Craig, Nellie Craig, Jessie Crane, Gertie Hutchinson, Maud Long, Eva Moore, Jennie Moore, Rosie Price, Bessie Price, Bessie Rogers, Edna Rogers, Helen Stethem, Attie Scott, Florence Scott. Miss Bertha Symonds acted as captain of this fair company.

The next piece on the programme was of a highly humourous description and was excellently performed. It was entitled "The Little Old Women from Nowhere." These were Misses Rosie Bennett, Florence Butcher, Carrie Doupe, Minnie Graham Hazel Hickey, Maud Long, Ada Pogue and Muriel Scott.

With masks fitted on to the back of their heads and with their faces closely veiled, these little old people appeared to be marching backwards. The "comic business" was well done and provoked almost continuous laughter.

Very appropriate to the season was the concluding piece entitled "A Legend of Spring, or the Victory of Sunbeam," in five scenes. The parts were taken by the following young gentlemen and ladies:

Winter.....Mr Bert Gerrans
Spring.....Miss Edith Byshe
Summer.....Bertha Symonds
Sunbeam.....Florence Butcher
Hail.....George Armstrong
Fog.....Sidney Globs
Frost.....Helen Stethem
Snow.....Allan Rogers
March, April, May....Maud Long, Eva Moore, Helen Stethem

SPRING FLOWERS.

Snowdrop, Primrose, Cowslip, Violet, Honeysuckle, Bluebell, Daisy, Buttercup, Forget-me-not—Jessie Spence, Gertie Symonds, Bella Long, Hilda Symonds, Jessie Moore, Madeline Stone, Katie Long, Lillian Rogers, Lulu Scott.

OTHER FLOWERS.

Eva Nesbitt, Florence Scott, Ruby Quartermaine, Clara Adams, Ethel Fakenham.

The first scene revealed King Winter seated in royal state upon his icy throne, attended by his guards and ministers, Hail, Fog, Frost and Snow. These, in appropriate costume, bravely indicate their determination to keep off all intruders. A dialogue ensued, which reveals the fact that King Winter holds Spring a captive in his dungeons. King Winter then sings in good voice:—

"Many have told of the winter's cold,
That fell to their fathers' share,
When cold winds blew and pierced those through
Who hadn't enough to wear;
When poor folks freezed, and rich folks sneezed
And coughs were heard everywhere.
Then I laughed ha! ha! as they quaffed, ha! ha!
Not gruel as daintiest cheer."

In the midst of this brave song, a slight glow pervades the dismal cavern, King Winter in alarm cries to his attendants, when a tiny Snowdrop (Jessie Spence) appears joyfully before him, harbinger of Spring. King Winter summons his captive, Spring, (Miss Byshe) who appears bound with chains of ice, who tells of a champion who will soon dissolve her fetters. She sings:

"Tyrant, soon I'll burst thy chains,
Links of flowers will lighter prove,
Winter's touch would freeze my veins,
Warmer hearts than thine I love.
With soft and balmy air,
And hum of cheerful bee
Will the lengthening days grow fair
When Sunbeam sets me free."

Thereupon Sunbeam (Florence Butcher) in glittering array appears. Fog, Frost, Hail and Snow vanish in terror and the chains of Spring are melted. March now trips upon the platform, followed by showery April and flowery May. Sunbeam darts a ray upon grumbling threatening winter, who vanishes.

The second scene discloses the Floral Haunt of Spring, with Winter and his satellites still skulking in the background. Queen Spring receives the spring flowers, charmingly costumed little girls, who weave together song and dance, and finally are grouped in a very pretty tableau.

But so many here are found
Now to decorate the ground,
I must see if I can try
In a bunch the rest to tie;
For the flowers that appear
At this season of the year
Are all together beautiful we know,
Blue and White, charm the sight;
Every stem bears a gem
And peep up, and creep up with blue or golden cup,
Among the leaves so green.

The third scene introduces us to May-day and the May pole dance. Florence Scott, the charming Queen of the May, is attended by the Beadle, Sidney Tivey; Robin Hood, Frank Elen; Boy Scarlet, Evelyn Dormer; Harry Rogers, George Rogers and Bob Long.

The fourth scene discloses a temporary triumph of King Winter in the shape of a sudden storm. Sunbeam encounters him and he is finally banished, and in the fifth and last scene Summer, Bertha Symonds, appears and sings:

A palace of Summer unclouded by sorrow,
The fairest of roses my bowers adorn;
Let hearts that are saddened come hither and borrow
A day-dream of joy from a bright summer bower.

Sunbeam sings:

A mantle of mist that o'er shadowed the mountain
Disps ars as soon as a sunbeam appears,
So my magical rays as they play on the mountain
Can turn into smiles what were flowing like tears.

Spring:

The darkest of days, and the saddest of hours
Will yield to the charm that a sunbeam can bring,
So oft in the summer you'll learn in these bowers
The lesson we teach in a legend of spring.

Scrofulous Sores and Ulcers

Are hard to heal with ordinary remedies. Yet no one need despair of a cure no matter of how long standing or how large the sore or ulcer may be. Burdock Blood Bitters applied externally and taken internally according to directions will positively make a cure, and leave the skin as clear and smooth as a child's. Hundreds of people, after trying all sorts of remedies, have been cured by

B B B FOR THE BLOOD

Here's a remarkable case of Mr. Arthur Greenwood, of Randboro, Que., who writes as follows :—

"Having suffered from Scrofula on the face, and the many medicines I took not seeming to do me any good, I thought I would give up trying for a cure, but decided to try B.B.B. before doing so. I got one bottle and before it was finished my face was well. I could fill this paper with words of gratitude to Burdock Blood Bitters. Nothing in the world equals it."

HE COULD KICK.

How a Mountaineer Convinced a Traveler of a Mule's Accomplishment.

At rare intervals along the mountain roads of West Virginia and Kentucky the traveler may come upon a blacksmith shop, but he is much safer in the shoeing of his horse if he will carry a few nails and tools in the bottom of his buggy. On a trip by Pound Gap on one occasion I found a blacksmith shop at the forks of the road and, as usual, a half dozen or more men sitting around it in the shade. My turnout needed some repairs, and as the smith was puttering about it inside I made talk with the men outside. One of them wanted to sell me a mule which he had hung up on the fence, and I started in for a dicker. After we had been talking for perhaps a quarter of an hour the smith asked me to step inside and show him something about the work he was doing. As soon as he got me away from the crowd he came close and grew confidential.

"You ain't thinkin uv buyin that critter, air you?" he asked in all sincerity.

"Well, I don't know. I want a mule, and that one looks all right," I said.

"You can't tell a mule by his looks, mister. Mules is fer all the world like women."

"What's the matter with him?" I inquired, quite ignoring the comparison.

"He ain't safe. Course I ain't got nothin ag'in the mule ner the owner, and I'd be glad enough fer him ter git the money fer him, fer he owes me fer the shoein nv him, but I don't like ter see a stranger tuck in an done up like he's tryin ter do you."

"But you haven't told me what's the matter with the mule," I insisted. "Will he kick?"

"That's his weakness, mister," responded the smith, letting his voice fall to a whisper. "You won't believe me, p'raps, but I'm tellin you he's the kickinest critter in the mountains. He shore is, mister, and I hope I may die right here ef he can't kick the sody outen a biscuit and never crack the crust. He kin, mister, er I'm a brother ter him." Washington Star.

Seems as if consumption always picks out the brightest and best. Fully one-sixth of all the deaths that occur in the world are caused by consumption. Many things were once considered impossible. It would be strange if medical science did not make some progress. The telegraph and telephone, the phonograph, the electric light, all were once impossible, and once it was impossible to cure consumption. That was before the time of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Taken according to directions, this standard remedy will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. Consumption is caused and fostered by impurity in the blood. It is cured by purity and richness in the blood—surely, certainly cured by the "Medical Discovery." It builds up solid healthy flesh and vigorous strength.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a 1008 page medical work, profusely illustrated, will be sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover all postage ONLY. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y.

Calorie.

The emotional litterateur had just written a piece of which he was very proud. The editor looked it over and then said:

"Do you candidly think such opinions ought to go into cold type?"

"I don't know much about the practical work of printing," was the reply, "but I don't believe it makes any difference. Even if the type is cold, I guess that article will take the chill off it." —Washington Star.

THE SPLIT INFINITIVE.

G. Bernard Shaw Says the Clamor About It Is All Nonsense.

In a letter to the editor of the London Chronicle G. Bernard Shaw writes:

I should have thought, now that we have an academy of letters, that it might rescue us from the gentlemen who occasionally write to you to explain how English should be written. Some time ago you let loose an unhappy creature to whom some competent person had incautiously pointed out a common blunder in the use of "and which." Not understanding the matter, he began accusing every writer in whose works he could discover "and which" of writing bad English. With your permission, I have extinguished him, and he has not since been heard of. There was some excuse for that poor wretch, because there unquestionable is a wrong way of using "and which," but for the "split infinitive" post there is no excuse at all. There is nothing whatever to mislead him except his own nature. If any man were to object to a split indicative such as "I greatly regret," or a split subjunctive such as "I should greatly prefer," or a split imperative such as "come slowly up," what newspaper would waste an inch of space on his foolish ignorance? And yet this split infinitive nonsense is taken quite seriously by editors who are sufficiently good writers to repeatedly use it themselves.

The infinitive is a mood in which the position of the adverb cannot possibly produce ambiguity; consequently the order of the words is not a matter of grammar, but of style, of which the ear is the only arbiter. The ear often demands the split infinitive and will have it in spite of all the silly people who do not know what style means.

When these infinite insects are disposed of, you will no doubt be attacked in due course by the even more impudent impostors who, though they pronounce the word "color" so as to rhyme with "duller," and never hear it and never have heard it and never will hear it pronounced in any other way, from time to time pretend to be shocked when it is spelt without a "u." I trust you will always insist on these nuisances definitely stating whether they pronounce it or "honor" or "neighbor" or "favor" or "behavior" so as to rhyme with "our" or "poor," as the case may be, or whether they are merely bogus etymologists—century belated Johnsons.

In either case you will be justified in recommending them to the care of their relatives and suppressing their babblings.

Black and White Effects.

Black and white effects again figure largely in the domain of both fashionable dress and millinery. Black and white silks, satins and brocades just brought from over the sea are set forth by leading importers. Black and white taffetas, surahs, failles and other fancy silks and liberty textiles appear. Black and white checks and plaids are being formed into stylish spring costumes by the fashionable dressmakers, and Frenchwomen are now wearing black and white satin brocade shirt waists with their stylish black cloth skirts. Waists of black and white or gray and white stripes or dots are always good style, whether made in the manner of the cotton shirt waists or with full fronts turned back with white revers over a tucked chemisette of fabric to match. A full blouse of cream white silk or satin, covered everywhere with a drapery or veiling merely of jetted black net, often proves the most becoming of all waists a slender woman of indifferent complexion can select. Sometimes cream ribbons matching the blouse are the most satisfactory additions she can make to the waist; again, a bow of soft pink or brilliant cerise satin works wonders of improvement.—New York Post.

Crossing Swords In the House.

Away back in the seventies, during the famous deadlock fight on the civil rights bill, the question of the adjournment of congress was under discussion one Saturday afternoon. Ben Butler, that born wit, had stepped over to Sam Randall's desk for a private consultation. Butler favored a Sunday session, while Randall opposed it vigorously.

"Bad as I am, I have some respect for God's day," said the famous high tariff champion, "and I don't think it right to hold a session on the Sabbath."

"Oh, pshaw!" responded Butler. "Doesn't the Bible say that it is lawful to pull your ox or ass out of the pit on the Sabbath day? You have 73 asses on your side of this house that I want to get out of this ditch tomorrow, and I think I am engaged in a holy work."

"Don't do it, Butler," pleaded Randall. "I have some respect for you that I don't want to lose. I expect some day to meet you in a better world."

"But you'll be there, as you are here," retorted the sly Benjamin, quick as a flash, "a member of the lower house."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

MR. H. HANCOCK'S VICTORY

Over Kidney Disease Won by the Help of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Galt, April 11.—(Special)—The greatest "speech" delivered for many years in Galt, was made recently by H. Hancock, Esq., proprietor of the fine hotel, the Iroquois. It was short and pithy and conveyed to every sufferer from kidney disease the glad news that they need suffer no longer.

Mr. Hancock's statement runs thus:—"For over a year I suffered with terrible backaches. Nothing I used gave me the least relief till I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. I used only a few boxes, but to day every vestige of pain has vanished completely."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only cure on earth for Kidney diseases.

SOCIETY IN SIBERIA.

Hostess and Guests Frequently Retire to the Kitchenette Café and Eat.

"At one of the grand balls I attended at Krasnoyarsk," writes Thomas G. Allen, Jr., of "Fashionable Siberia," in The Ladies' Home Journal, "I was impressed by the profusion of flowers used in the decoration of the ballroom, and which had been imported from Europe at enormous expense, and also by the importance given to the matter of refreshments. Although there appeared to be about four girls to one man, the male portion of the company spent the greater part of the evening at the buffet, or sokooski table, eating and drinking. The conversation of the women, I found, was most conventional, and one could invariably anticipate the same remarks upon an introduction to a lady. Knowledge of French, which I was surprised to find few could speak, is considered the most graceful feminine accomplishment.

"The kitchen, however, has for the lady of the land a peculiar fascination. Very often while dressed in silks and satins and conversing with her guests a hostess will proceed to fry a 'blin,' or pancake and eat it with the greatest gusto. The other ladies are at liberty to follow the hostess' example if they choose."

French and English Crusoes.

French men of letters have not enough of the audacious spirit of the English, says Henry D. Sedgwick in The Atlantic. They troop to Paris, where they have been accustomed to sit on their classical benches since Paris became the center of France. The romance of Villon is the romance of a Parisian thief. The romance of Ronsard is the romance of the Parisian salon. Montaigne lives on his seigniory while England is topsy turvy with excitement of new knowledge and new feeling. Corneille has the nobleness of a jeune fille. You can measure them all by their ability to plant a colony. Wreck them on a desert island, Villon will pick blackberries, Ronsard will skip stones, Montaigne whittle, Corneille look like a gentleman, and the empire of France will not increase by a hand's breadth. Take a handful of Elizabethan poets, and Sidney would chop, Shakespeare would cook, Jonson dig, Bacon snare, Marlowe catch a wild ass, and in 24 hours they would have a log fort, a score of savage slaves, a windmill, a pinnace, and the cross of St. George flying on the tallest tree.

HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes, Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? IN DEATH. A premature, horrible, agonized, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

THE SANTA DIAVOLO.

Twenty years ago the name and face of Captain Cephas Brown were as well known to the navigators and officials of the Erie canal as the guard lock at Pendleton itself. He had been born and brought up on the canal and sailed on it all his life. Every stubbing post was an old friend, and he knew every foot of the towpath between Buffalo and Albany and often was heard to say that you could put him down blindfold anywhere on the canal, and he could tell exactly where he was.

His boat was always the first one down in the spring and the last back in the fall, and he never knew what it was to have to wait for a load, for his well known reliability and perfect integrity made him a favorite with the shippers.

His invariable fairness and generosity caused him to win the respect and good will of his competitors, and so highly was his word esteemed that the saying, "Well, Captain Brown said so," left no room for further argument.

For these reasons the account of an experience he had one night on the canal, and which he admitted was true, certainly deserves at least the careful consideration of all fair minded and unprejudiced people.

There were very few boatmen who begrudged Captain Brown his success and almost constant good luck, for no one was so ready to assist a person as he, and many a poor canaler had to thank him for helping him out of a tight pinch. One of the few exceptions was Captain Jonas Crapp, commonly known as the pirate from the sinister expression of his face, who was intensely jealous of Captain Brown and tried in every manner to circumvent him.

That he was a man of enterprise and determination, however, there was no doubt, and he had the record of making faster time than any one else on the canal.

No one knew much about him or his antecedents except that, from what was gathered from odd scraps of conversation, he had once sailed in Chinese waters. Owing to his surly and disobliging manner he had few friends and was cordially disliked by most men on the canal.

He had the faculty of picking up the most villainous looking characters to form his crew that could possibly be found outside the state prison. He very seldom hired them for more than one or two trips, so every little while he had a new collection of ruffians.

Both captain and men were of such forbidding appearance and unsavory reputation that no one would have been surprised to have heard of them, some fine day as having hoisted the black flag and held up boats on the canal.

The Santa Diavolo, as the white letters on the stern of Captain Crapp's boat indicated, was its name, differed somewhat from the majority of those seen on the canal. It was painted entirely black with the exception of a narrow streak of red just above the water line, the bow was made higher than usual and came to more of a point, having a yellow painted dragon as a figurehead, which, according to some, bore a remarkable resemblance to the captain himself.

These two men, Captain Brown and Captain Crapp, although dissimilar in almost every respect, had this in common, that they were singularly fortunate in all their ventures and never had to wait for a load.

The firm of Sparks & Jones, at that time one of the largest shipping houses in Buffalo, used to give them most of their work, especially in cases where extra care and dispatch were necessary.

Early in October, 1875, the firm telegraphed to both men, who happened to be in New York at the same time, that on the 15th of the month, 12 days later, they would have a special load at greatly advanced rates, and whichever one got back first could have the contract.

Captain Brown was unable to get a tug to tow him up the river at the time he was ready to return, which was the means of his rival getting 24 hours' start of him and at the same time making it almost certain that the latter would succeed in securing the coveted cargo.

Although regretting this unavoidable delay, Captain Brown did not allow it to disturb his equable temperament, knowing full well that a load would be waiting for him at the other end, if it were less remunerative than the one referred to.

He left New York with a mixed cargo and made an uneventful trip up the river and canal, although somewhat delayed by disagreeable weather, not an unexpected occurrence at that time of the year.

When he reached Rochester, he learned that Jonas Crapp had been murdered and his boat scuttled in Buffalo harbor.

It seemed that he had got the load and had made all arrangements to leave Buffalo about 4 o'clock the following morning, but Sparks & Jones having been informed that he had not passed through Tonawanda, made an investigation, with the result of finding the boat scuttled, the captain killed, and the crew, with some valuable plate that had formed part of the cargo, nowhere to be seen.

There was a great deal of mystery about the affair, and great excitement was aroused. It came out that besides the captain only two of the crew had passed the night on board. One was the cook, a Portuguese sailor, and the other an ex-miner from South Africa, who was commonly supposed to be a fugitive from justice and went by the name Ugly Pete, from a deep scar that extended from the corner of his mouth to his ear and rendered still more repulsive a countenance in which nature had originally left much room for improvement. The remainder of the crew had spent the night on shore and could explain their movements to the police, so the crime was supposed to have been committed by the two who had disappeared, but no clew as to their whereabouts had up to that time been obtained. The news of the tragedy was quite a shock to Captain Brown, for, although he had no special cause to mourn his rival's untimely end, still the dreadful manner of his death made him forget the latter's animosity to himself.

Proceeding on his way, he arrived at Lockport about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, where he was subjected to some delay owing to the boat ahead of him having met with an accident while going through the locks. Finally, shortly after 7 o'clock, the Polly Ann, as Captain Brown's boat was named, having climbed to the upper level, started at a good rate for Buffalo.

The day was in nautical phraseology nasty in the extreme. A drizzling rain was falling and a cold wind blowing from the west. The towpath was almost impassable, and the night was so dark that there was great danger of the driver falling into the canal.

The Polly Ann had reached that part of the canal a few miles beyond Lockport where it cuts through a rocky ridge, on each side the wall rising perpendicularly to a considerable height, which, together with the rushing water, the grade here being quite steep, gives this portion of the canal the appearance of a canyon on a small scale.

Captain Brown was steering and mentally anathematizing the prospect of having to put in a very disagreeable night, when his attention was directed to the headlight of a boat approaching him from the opposite direction. This was not an unusual occurrence, of course, and called for no comment, and the captain merely speculated as to what boat it might be. Slowly the two boats approached, and now the red and green port and starboard lights of the stranger became distinctly visible. As one of the hands came toward him Captain Brown exclaimed, "Say, Jerry, I'll swan if I hadn't heard about Jonas Crapp's murder I would say that this here boat that's coming down was the Saint Devil itself."

"Does look powerful like her," said Jerry.

When two boats meet each other from opposite directions, the law of the road, or rather canal, is that the up going has the right of way, the other steering out toward the right and allowing its line to become slack and sink, so that the former can pass over it.

As the two boats got nearer, however, Captain Brown noticed that this boat kept on its way and made no effort apparently to follow the time honored custom.

Every minute he expected to see the coming boat swerve to the right and every minute the boats kept getting nearer.

At last it was plain to all that there would be a collision. The captain yelled to the driver on the towpath to stop and called to his men to get some bumpers to break the force of the contact, but before they could carry out his orders the strange boat was upon them. Every one braced himself for the expected shock, but none came, for their boat passed right through the stranger as through a mist. Nothing was felt except that the air seemed chillier as they passed and an unpleasant, creepy sensation took possession of those on board the Polly Ann, and the blood almost froze in their veins, for there at the tiller sat Jonas Crapp, his face pale in death and a red gash across his forehead. Captain Brown could have touched him as he glided by, so near were they together. On looking after her she was seen to continue undisturbed on her course, and the white letters on her stern distinctly read "Santa Diavolo."

The story of the phantom boat got out and was charitably attributed to the crew having sampled some of the liquor that formed part of their cargo, but no one could get a word out of Captain Brown on the subject, as he refused positively to have anything to say. An old friend of the captain, however, who relates the incident states that he admitted to him that the story was certainly true, but as he knew that no one would believe it he had thought it better to have nothing to say about it.—Buffalo Courier.

Waiting the Floor.

When a business man gets to the point where he cannot sleep at night, where he is so shattered of nerve that it is torture to even remain in his bed, and he has to get up and pace the floor—it is time for that man to bring himself up with a round turn. If he does not, it means nervous prostration and mental, if not physical, death.

For a man who gets into this condition there is a remedy that will brace him up, put him on his feet and make a man of him again. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It goes to the bottom of things. It searches out the first cause. When a man is in this condition you can put your finger on one of two spots and hit that first cause—the stomach or the liver or both. This great medicine acts directly on these spots. It promptly transforms a weak stomach into a healthy one. It facilitates the flow of digestive juices and makes digestion and assimilation perfect. It gives a man an appetite like a boy's. It invigorates the liver. It fills the blood with the life-giving elements of the food, and makes it pure, rich, red and plentiful. The blood is the life current, and when it is filled with the elements that build new and healthy tissues, it does not take long to make a man well and strong. It builds firm, muscular flesh tissues and strong and steady nerve fibers. It puts new life, vigor and vitality into every atom and organ of the body. It cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. Nothing "just as good" can be found at medicine stores.

"I had suffered about eleven years with a pain in the back of my head and back," writes Mr. Robert Hubbard, of Varner, Lincoln Co., Ark. "I suffered for eleven years and spent a great deal of money for doctors and medicine, but did not get relief. Then I tried four bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and improved greatly. I sent for five more and now am glad to tell everyone that I am in good health."

with some one of immense importance. Unwilling to take on themselves the responsibility for his death, they sent him unharmed to Samory's court, in the Jimini country.

Once again Lieutenant Henderson saved himself by a like exhibition of courage. He found Samory on a throne, surrounded by 4,000 warriors, yet when motioned to do homage on his hands and knees he did nothing of the sort. He simply sat on the throne beside Samory, shaking that monarch warmly by the hand. Thanks to this, and to nothing else, he was accepted as the representative of a great sovereign instead of a captive doomed to death. He talked to Samory of the queen and Samory talked to him. Thus a mission which might have ended, as so many African missions have ended, in a terrible silence and a suspicion of unspeakable horrors, did, in fact, end in a valuable basis of future relations between Great Britain and a Mohammedan power.

Commended to Kipling's Notice.

Another curious quibble very difficult for a plain soldier to understand is the following: A color sergeant had the misfortune a few months prior to the expiry of 21 years' service to be reduced to sergeant. For the requisite number of years he had held the rank entitling him to a color sergeant's pension. He made inquiries as to how the reduction affected his pension, and, to his dismay, was informed that, as he would leave the service with but the rank of sergeant, he would not be entitled to a color sergeant's pension, and as he would be sergeant only for a few months prior to discharge he could not have a sergeant's pension. It was elaborately pointed out that to earn a sergeant's pension a soldier had to hold the rank of sergeant for ten consecutive years. This man had held a higher rank for many more years than that, but there was the regulation in black and white. One thing alone was left for the miserable man to do. He went out and drowned his sorrow in drink, was reduced to corporal and after serving 21 years and distinguishing himself in two campaigns he left the service with a pension of eightpence a day—not the pension of a private.—Today.

Not an Unusual Thing.

Dixon—I don't believe young Shortleigh is half as extravagant as people say he is.

Hixon—Perhaps not, but I've noticed that he has a suit of clothes for every day in the week.

Dixon—Is that so? Why, he always had the same suit on every time I met him.

Hixon—Well, that's the one.—Chicago News.

HOW DOES IT SEEM TO YOU?

It seems to me I'd like to go
Where bells don't ring, nor whistles blow,
Nor clocks don't strike, nor gongs don't sound,
And I'd have stillness all around.

Not real stillness, but just the trees'
Low whisperings, or the hum of bees,
Or brooks' faint babbling over stones
In strangely, softly tangled tones.

Or maybe a cricket or katydid,
Or the songs of birds in the hedges hid,
Or just some such sweet sounds as these
To fill a tired heart with ease.

If 'tweren't for sight and sound and smell,
I'd like a city pretty well,
But when it comes to getting rest
I like the country lots the best.

Sometimes it seems to me I must
Just quit the city's din and dust
And get out where the sky is blue.
And, say, now, how does it seem to you?
—Eugene Field.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty-first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,093 05.

NEW BUSINESS

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3 066, for the sum of $6,155,996, of which, however, 266 for $531,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 191 applications for $373,300 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5 291,636, under 2 609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $798,080.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 38,467 policies, upon 24,469 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,168 45, and Endowment policies for $128,843 92, having matured, these sums, as well as $318,481.29 for profits, $145,411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,363,307.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,953,272.63, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1,272,486 05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18 678 915 67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company, I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, the prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Lerritt, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

A Bicycle to You is Worth What it Will Stand

TAKEN TOGETHER WITH ITS EASY RUNNING QUALITIES.

The public have endorsed our Wheel judgment as sales have been greater so far than all the last season's trade together.

We challenge the trade to show better values or better goods.

Bicycle Riders, far and near, are always thanking us for Right Prices and for hunting out the Best and saving them from much wasteful experimenting.

SELECTION! SELECTION! That's the keynote of our bicycle business—not every wheel—but absolutely the best wheels for the money anywhere to be found.

Josh Billings said:—"I luv a rooster for to things, one iz the crow that iz in him and the other iz the spurz air on him to back up the crow with." If you are tempted to think we crow unduly just investigate and see how we "back" up the "crow":—

"OUR SPECIAL" $40.00 Wheel is equal to most of the $50.00 wheels in town—Dunlop Tires—guaranteed for one year—thoroughly up-to-date.

"OUR SPECIAL" $35.00 Wheel is the same as above with cheaper tires and rims.

YANTIC"—unguaranteed—but a good wheel for the price $30.00. With cheaper tires and rims $25.00.

TRENT VALLEY"—now being sold for Cash $45.00—is exceptional value. We know of a similar wheel, under another name, being sold now for $65.00 Cash.

"TRIBUNE MODEL 40" is our great Special—nothing like it was ever shown before for as low a price—$50.00 Cash—exceptionally easy running. Made of the best quality of Weldless steel tubing—joined with steel forgings throughout—no castings used—cold swaged piano wire tanget spokes, 28 to front, 32 to rear wheel—Laminated wood rims—Dunlop, Hartford or Vim Tires—forged steel detachable rear and front sprockets—Tribune extra fine tool steel ball bearings drawn to colour—Tribune chain with hardened links and rivets—Tribune dust proof ball pedals with tool steel bearings. These wheels are absolutely guaranteed—"The matter of time is not questioned, if a part returned to us is shown to be imperfect"—The Cycloidal Spocket in this wheel is impossible to describe the advantage on paper as clearly as can be demonstrated by examining its actual working in connection with a chain—Friction reduced in bearings and on chain so as to make it without doubt 10 per cent easier running than any other wheel in the market. Call and see this wheel at once.

GENDRON AND RELIANCE—Then we have the well known Gendron and Reliance makes—one of the best of Canadian manufacture—their riders all over Canada and the United States are the most satisfied wheelman we know of—easy running always—those who know Bicycles know that nine-tenths of the road races every year are won by riders on Gendron. This means that the Gendron excels all other bicycles in easy running qualities, strength and ability to stand hard work. These requirements are what make a good wheel. The Gendron never lacks in these respects—a Bicycle to you is worth what it will stand. The "Gendron" will stand any work and never fail—$75.00 for Gendron—$50.00 for Reliance.

THE "E. & D."—Famous 4-point dust-excluding, oil retaining bearings—oiled but once a season—cleaned in bearings but once in three years—extra fine workmanship—extra strong and rigid—admitted on all sides to be unsurpassed and by a great number to be unequalled anywhere in bicycle construction—bearings guaranteed against wearing and damage for three years. The famous "Palmer" Tires used only in these wheels—$35.00 Cash.

"ELFIN" and "CRAWFORD" Wheels for Children—strong, easy running—guaranteed—from $20.00 to $30.00.

Sundries of all kinds at Lowest Prices.

LACROSSE.

If the temperature raises somewhat, the lacrosse boys will turn out for practice on Monday evening at 6.30 o'clock, but if it still continues cold, regular practice will not begin until the weather moderates.

As Campbellford and Beaverton both ask for games on the 24th, the juniors are asked to let the secretary know to which town they would prefer going on that day. The juniors are putting a very strong team in the field this year, and will make most of the senior teams of the district hustle.

The Peterboroughs are in receipt of a communication from the Torontos, making an offer for a Queen's Birthday game here. Peterborough has never entertained a team from the Big League, and though the price comes high the matter will receive the careful attention of the Executive, together with the other offers which have been received. The Young Torontos are also anxious to come to Peterborough for that day.

The Hastings Juniors send in a challenge to the Granites, but the Granites will be amalgamated with the Peterboroughs this year, and if they go to Hastings will go as the Peterborough Juniors and be quite willing to tackle the Hastings seniors.

A lacrosse match between the Campbellford and Hastings 2nd teams is being arranged to be played in Campbellford, on the last Friday in April. The return match will be played in Hastings on May 7th.

The Toronto News says:—The Peterborough club will put up a great fight for the championship this season.

WRESTLING.

There was sport royal over the Palace Restaurant last night, when Thos. Doyle, the professional wrestler, who is training here, was open to all comers.

The first man to try conclusions with him was Watty Wilson, the well-known cattle drover. Wilson is a man of fine physique and great strength, weighing over 200 pounds stripped. Doyle had a hard problem to solve in him, as though he knew nothing about the fine points in wrestling, his strength gave him a great advantage over his 140 pound opponent. The floor was not padded, and as Doyle is training for his big match against Harrison on May 4th, he was unwilling to take too much risk, and did not secure a fall again Wilson.

The next aspirant was a local man named Gokey, who being lighter made far faster play and kept Doyle moving, he finally succumbed, however, to the superior science of the professional and went under.

Doyle is getting in fine shape for the Harrison match, and the hard work of last evening seemed but as play to him, being sufficient to wind him in the least, and being capital practice.

ANNUAL CONVERSAT.

The Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium Classes Give an Exhibition in Connection With a Cycle Show.

Hundreds of visitors thronged the spacious apartments of the Young Men's Christian Association last evening. The attractions were the exhibition of bicycle models of 1898, and the closing exercises in connection with the gymnasium classes.

The objects of the wheel shows, which now are a part of the spring programme of all the leading associations, are many.

They afford an opportunity to the dealer to exhibit the merits of his wheel and to the association member the advantage of inspecting and comparing all the wheels in the market. The aim of the association is to advance wheeling interests and make bicycling the leading feature in the physical department for the summer months.

The closing exercises of the gymnasium classes are calculated to give those who support the work an opportunity of seeing what is done to develop physically the young men and boys who have been in attendance at the gymnasium classes which have been in progress during the winter months.

Mr. Burton, who has had charge of the work, deserves great credit for the manner in which his classes have been conducted. His methods in the Springfield school well [illegible] to lay a good foundation for [illegible] in the association [illegible].

[illegible] supervision of the physical work [illegible] in charge [illegible] team of Messrs. J. [illegible] Rev. E. V. Sm[illegible], H. Martin, and A. C. McCallum. [illegible] has worked hard in promoting the interests of this department, as well as the entire arrangements of the closing programme, which occupied the two days of the present week.

The members of the Ladies' Gymnasium Class had charge of the refreshments. There are some forty members in this class, and they all deserve great praise for the tasteful decorations and toothsome delicacies—consisting of ice cream, lemonade, cake and candies — that were provided.

The ladies took possession of the reading room, Secretary's office, and boys' room. They met with liberal patronage.

A number of gramaphone selections were given while refreshments were being served, and a number of young ladies presided in turn at the piano in the parlour.

In Association Hall the bicycle exhibit looked well. Some 58 different wheels were in evidence and the representative of each section vied with each other in convincing arguments that "their's was the best wheel on the market."

Mr. J. Herbert Hall represented the Eclipse with 4 models.

Mr. A. Mercer, the Columbia, with 5 models.

Messrs. Foote & McWhinne, "The Padee" 2 models.

Mr. Walker, "The Brantford," 8 models.

Peterborough Hardware Co., 4 models, "Earl and Lakeside."

W. A. Sanderson, Hyslop and McBurney's, 7 models.

Mr. Barrie representing J. W. Fairweather & Co., 17 models. Gendrons and E. & D. wheels.

Mr. McFarlane Wilson, 2 Monarchs.

McPherson & Young, 4 Common Sense and Huron models.

The Review exhibited a patent baggage carrier, and "The Times Book Store," a parent lunch basket, attachment for a wheel.

In the gymnasium gallery standing room was scarcely obtainable while the exercises were in progress.

50 boys of the junior department gave an exhibition of wand drill, marching and club passing.

They played their part well especially as a large number had only attended the classes for a few weeks.

15 young men gave an excellent exhibition of the dumb-bell drill as well as other exercises, on the parallel bars and horses. The audience was much pleased and applauded frequently.

To-night the programme will take the form of a basket ball tournament in which both juniors and seniors will take part.

Everybody is welcome, no charge for admission. The ladies' will serve refreshments again this evening.

SANITARY PRECAUTIONS.

Two Correspondents Touch the Same Key.

AS TO CLEANING THE STREETS.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

SIR,—I wish to tell our town council that they are neglecting a sanitary precaution in refusing to clean our streets. The mess of offensive matter now lying on our principal streets would hardly be found in a farm barn yard. When dry the dirt and scrapings are blown about, poisoning the air and sowing the seeds of disease. There is no excuse for this neglect. The expense is no greater than previous years and the need just as apparent. Everyone complains and rightly too. It is simply disgraceful. Where is the Inspector that he does not act? Where is the Chairman of the Street and Bridge committee that he does not get men at work? Does the council expect the rubbish to float away into the sewers!

Mr. Editor, it is time for a change in this way of doing business.

A MEMBER OF BOARD OF HEALTH.

A HUNTER STREET NUISANCE.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I wonder if it will do any good to publicly call attention of the town authorities to the nuisance that exists on Hunter street from the overflow of a cesspool or some similar source of foul fluid? The attention of several of the councillors has, I believe, been called to the nuisance which has existed ever since the spring opened. The foul-smelling, slimy water oozes over the sidewalk and pedestrians, especially ladies, are greatly inconvenienced. In addition it isn't by any means conducive to healthful conditions to have sewage flowing on top of the ground. I have to pass this way frequently and prefer to take that side of the street and this abominable nuisance confronts me every time I pass that way. I am told, though I have not seen it in the western part of the town, that a cess-pool discharges its slime into the street and overflows the crossing. Why, in the name of common sense and decency do our town councillors neglect the interests of the public in such shameful manner?

Yours, etc.,
CITIZEN.

U. S. CRUISER FIRES ON A SHIP

And Captures Spanish Merchantman, Buena Ventura.

BLOODLESS INITIAL VICTORY.

The People of Key West Wild With Excitement Over the Event—President McKinley's Proclamation Blockading Cuba—Ex-Minister Woodford's Exit From Spain Attended With Difficulty.

Key West, April 23.—The United States cruiser Nashville has captured the Spanish ship Buena Ventura, of 1,000 tons, having on board a cargo of lumber. She was on her way from the coast of Texas. The cruiser fired a six-pounder and the Spaniard surrendered.

Later Reports.

The Spanish merchantman Buena Ventura was being used as a transport for Spanish troops.

The Buena Ventura was laden with ammunition and stores for Havana.

The Nashville towed her prize into this harbor at 11 o'clock yesterday, and put a prize crew on board. Both ships are lying well out in the stream. The news of the capture of the Spaniard set the people of Key West frantic with enthusiasm. All work has been suspended and the docks are crowded with excited people.

Made Them Heave Coal.

A Key West special to the Journal says: The captain and crew of the Spanish steamer Buena Ventura, captured by the Nashville, were transferred to the Dolphin yesterday afternoon under orders to help in getting coal aboard. All save the captain did so without protest, but he was finally compelled to give in and work the same as his men.

The Gracie, Too.

Washington, April 23.—It is reported that the Spanish ship Gracie, which loaded supplies at Pensacola for the Spanish troops in Cuba, has been captured by the North Atlantic squadron.

THE BLOCKADE OF CUBA.

President McKinley Announces to the World That the War Has Begun in Earnest.

Washington, April 23.—A proclamation announcing a blockade of Cuban ports was issued yesterday. After reciting the substance of the joint intervention resolutions, and stating the necessity of blockading all Cuban ports in carrying the resolutions into effect, the proclamation proceeds as follows:

"Now, therefore, I, William McKinley, President, in order to enforce the said resolution, do hereby declare and proclaim that the United States have instituted and will maintain a blockade of the north coast of Cuba, including ports on said coast between Cardenas and Bahia Honda, and the port of Cienfuegas, on the south coast of Cuba, aforesaid, in pursuance of the laws of the United States, and the law of nations applicable to such cases. An efficient force will be posted so as to prevent the entrance and exit of vessels from the ports aforesaid. Any neutral vessel approaching any of the said ports or attempting to leave the same, without notice or knowledge of the establishment of such blockade will be duly warned by the commander of the blockading forces, who will endorse on her register the fact, and the date of such warning, where such endorsement was made, and if the same vessel shall again attempt to enter any blockaded port, she will be captured and sent to the nearest convenient port, for such proceedings against her and her cargo as prize as may be deemed advisable. Neutral vessels lying in any of the said ports at the time of the establishment of such blockade will be allowed thirty days to issue therefrom."

There's an "If" in It.

A Washington special to the Press says: The greater weight of naval opinion favors the idea that if Spain sends a fleet into western waters it must be met and destroyed before the serious work of taking Cuba is undertaken.

So far as is known, Spain has in Cuban waters 6 cruisers, 7 torpedo cruisers, 44 gunboats, 1 transport and 1 surveying vessel, the tonnage of all the small cruisers averaging 2,000, torpedo cruisers 700, gunboats 100.

The Asiatic Fleet.

A Hong-Kong special to the Sun says: It is believed the Asiatic squadron has been ordered to blockade the Philippines and will sail to-night. The squadron is now ready for sea. In the fleet are the cruisers Olympia and Boston, with the gunboats Concord, Petrel, Raleigh and McCulloch. The Baltimore is expected from Yokohama in a few hours. The gunboat Monocacy is at Woo-Sung.

Bombardment Decided On.

A Key West special to the Herald says: The bombardment of batteries along the Cuban coast east of Havana was determined upon by the fleet when it sailed, and was to take place this evening.

The cruiser Marblehead has finished taking on full supplies of coal and provisions and will join the fleet off Cuba at once. The monitors Puritan and Terror also have their supplies and are ready to sail for the Gulf.

GEN. WOODFORD IN FRANCE.

His Exciting Experiences—Attempt to Capture a Member of His Suite.

Hendaye, (Spanish frontier), April 23.—The United States Minister to Spain, General Woodford, reached the frontier safely at 8 a.m. yesterday, after some exciting experiences.

At Valladolid thousands of excited Spaniards attempted to mob the American party. Stones were thrown at the trains and windows broken. The Spanish Government attempted to arrest a member of the American legation, a Spaniard by birth, but were frustrated by General Woodford.

100,000 Volunteers Called For.

Washington, April 23. — President McKinley signed the Volunteer Army bill at 3.35 p.m. yesterday, calling for 100,000 men to serve one year. The President was advised to call out 200,000 men so that in case the ravages of yellow fever in Cuba deterred men from enlisting, the Government would not have to enforce a draft for troops. The coal embargo resolution has also been made law. It prohibits the landing of coal, or other contraband of war, at any Cuban or Spanish Port.

AFRAID OF HAVANA.

North Atlantic Squadron Will Not Expose Itself to the Dangers of the Submarine Mines.

New York, April 23.—A Washington special says the fleet which sailed yesterday morning will not, it is believed, enter Havana harbor. The plan of campaign as agreed upon by the United States Government contemplates the making of the war effective with as little mere wanton destruction of life and property as possible. If circumstances demand the landing of troops to capture Havana, United States warships would of course enter the harbor, and tremendous loss of life would probably ensue. The blockading fleet could lie off in the Gulf in a position to command Morro Castle, the fortress of Cabanas and lesser fortifications on La Punta and shell them without touching the city.

A Key West special says: All plans for starving out the garrison in and about Havana thus far have related merely to the stoppage of food supplies. But Havana must have water, and it is quite practicable to sever the sources of supply and reduce the city to the last extremity, especially in the hot season.

The North Atlantic Squadron.

Key West, Fla., April 23.—The North Atlantic squadron, with the exception of the monitors Terror and Puritan and the smaller cruisers, sailed from Key West yesterday, presumably for Cuba.

Besides the two monitors, the ships left behind are the gunboat Helena, cruisers Marblehead and Detroit, despatch boat Dolphin and the torpedo boats Cushing, Dupont and Porter.

Why the powerful monitors Puritan and Terror did not accompany the fleet could not officially be learned, but it is said they may follow shortly.

Brazilians Favor Uncle Sam.

Rio Janeiro, April 23.—The Brazilian Jacobins favor the United States in the coming war between that country and Spain. The Pais, the Jacobin organ, says: "We are with the United States, which is giving Europe a daring example of making sacrifices for a people's liberty."

Telegrams Censored.

Key West, April 23.—The United States has established a censorship of telegrams, forbidding the transmission of code messages to or from Havana. This begins at once.

U. S. WAR NOTES.

A rumor was circulated during the day that Spain would cede Cuba to Austria. This was dismissed as groundless by leading diplomatic officials whose position would make them aware of any such move.

The work of organizing the United States troops at Chickamauga Park has begun. Twelve train loads of cavalry, artillery and infantry have arrived.

There was a report that the cruiser San Francisco had been blown up. The San Francisco is safe in the Brooklyn navy yard.

The steamer Paris of the American Line, chartered by the American Government, sailed from Southampton amid great enthusiasm and the tuneful strains of "Yankee Doodle," rendered by a British band.

The flying squadron stationed off Fort Monroe, Va., is ready to sail. The American squadron at Hong-Kong is also ready for sea.

Official Report of the Occurrence at Havana.

LACK OF COAL SPAIN'S WEAKNESS

Pyrotechnic Patriotism at Madrid and Havana—Rumors of a Spanish Cabinet Crisis—Report That Spain Has Captured the American Liner Paris—Reasonable, as She Left London Unattended.

London, April 23.—The Spanish Naval Commission, now in London, has been officially informed from Madrid that the forts at Havana have fired on American warships and that the latter replied.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM.

Military Parade at Madrid at Which There Was a Great Crowd and Much Excitement.

Madrid, April 23.—An immense crowd witnessed the military parade in front of the Palace yesterday and intense enthusiasm was displayed when the little King appeared on a balcony. A big demonstration has been arranged to take place before the military club to-night.

The Queen Regent, during the day, consulted with Senors Silvela and Romero Robledo, the Conservative leaders. The former said he agreed with the declarations of Marshall Martinez de Campos, when the latter said: "There are only two parties in Spain. One is for peace and the second is for war. The first has failed and the second ought now to be called."

Senor Gamazo, the Liberal leader, urged the Sagasta Cabinet to continue in office.

The Premier, on leaving the Palace at 2 o'clock, declared that there was absolutely no foundation in the rumors of a Cabinet crisis.

Senor Sagasta has received grandiloquent accounts of the demonstrations in favor of Spain which have recently taken place at Havana.

The Premier during the day announced that the Senate will meet to-day and that the Chamber will meet on Monday.

SPAIN'S WEAK POINT.

Great Britain Considers Coal Contraband of War, and Spain Has No Reserve—Only 500 Tons in Havana.

Madrid, April 23.—The British Charge d'Affaires, acting in the absence on leave of the Ambassador, called on Foreign Minister Guilon and notified him that Great Britain considers coal contraband of war, and will not allow either Spain or the United States to get coal in any British port.

Only 500 Tons in Havana.

Washington, D.C., April 23.—An Englishman who was among the last to leave Havana says he took especial pains to ascertain how much available coal was stored in that city, and the amount is not above 500 tons. He thinks that the Spanish Government provided money for an abundant supply, but it was stolen before the arrival of Captain-General Blanco.

Spain Has No Reserve Coal.

London, April 23.—A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Barcelona, via Paris, says: "Grave apprehensions are entertained in the highest Government circles that the issue of war may be decided, not by valour and enthusiasm and dogged perseverance, qualities of which the Spaniards possess an abundance, but by reserves of coal and victuals, of which they have made but a scanty provision in Cuba. It appears that, in respect of coal in particular, they are incomparably worse off than they have hitherto imagined.

"The Spanish Government, finally believing down to the very last moment that peace would be preserved through the intercession of the Pope and the powers, neglected to lay in sufficient provisions of coal, despite the representations made to them by one or two far-seeing naval officers. Besides this, it is believed they never once inquired of the British or other neutral Governments whether coal would be regarded as contraband of war. The result is said to be a state of things which may be fraught with unpleasant surprises and bring hostilities to a premature end."

HAS THE PARIS BEEN CAPTURED?

An Alarming Report That the Spaniards Have Taken the Liner.

Washington, April 23.

Intense excitement prevails here over the reported capture of the American Liner Paris by the Spaniards. It is said the Paris had just left Southampton for New York. About thirty Spaniards were on board as passengers. After she had passed the three-mile limit a Spanish warship hove in sight and captured her without resistance. The warship and her prize started immediately for Spain. The Spanish "passengers" proved to be Spanish sailors in disguise.

The Paris is one of the fastest vessels afloat, and was under charter by the United States to be transformed into an auxiliary cruiser. Late reports from Washington give no official information, and doubts are expressed.

Is the Paris Safe?

Southampton, April 23.—The United States auxiliary cruiser Harvard, formerly the American Liner Paris, sailed for New York at 2 o'clock yesterday, 24 hours ahead of her advertised time of sailing. She carries 150 passengers and a large amount of war material.

London, April 23.—The Daily Mail says: "The Spanish Embassy immediately notified the Madrid Government of the departure of the Paris, and it is believed that fast cruisers from Cadiz and Corunna will try to intercept her.

The Liverpool correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says: Surprise was expressed here to-day (Friday) that the Paris should have sailed unescorted.

Jan. 9.

"Our little boy, who has suffered for six years with lameness in his hip, continues to grow worse, although we have applied many kinds of liniments. The family doctor has decided that the boy has hip joint disease, and he urges us not to meddle with the case, saying it is best to allow it to take its own course. We feel very anxious about him. I wish we could find something which would effect a cure. I fear it will develop into a very serious affair." J. W. Moore.

March 22.

"A sore has broken out on the under side of my boy's hip, and it has discharged very freely and left an opening about an inch deep, the size of a silver dollar. He has to be given constant attention. Our physician tells us to keep the sore running. A second sore has appeared on his groin and broken. The boy is very low. I asked the doctor about giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla, which has cured so many such cases, but he said he could give him medicine that is four times better and does not cost as much." J. W. Moore.

May 10.

"The doctor's medicine which I have been giving our boy has not proved of any avail. The child continued to grow worse and I have stopped giving it to him, and now he is taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. I got a bottle from the druggist a few days ago and I believe I can see that the boy is improving under the treatment." J. W. Moore.

Oct. 5.

"How glad I am that I ever tried Hood's Sarsaparilla for my boy's hip disease. When he had finished taking the first bottle he looked fifty per cent better. I continued giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla and now he is quite well. He runs and plays with the other children and we can hardly believe he is the same child, thanks to Hood's Sarsaparilla, which we have proved to be indeed the One True Blood Purifier." J. W. Moore.

Pages like those above are penned in the personal records of thousands of people.

In the memories of many more the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is indelibly imprinted. The cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla are literally written in blood — in blood made pure, enriched and vitalized, cured of scrofulous taints, salt rheum, boils, pimples, spring humors — in blood which properly builds up the nerves, strengthens the stomach and gives that tonic to the system so imperatively needed in the Spring.

ADVERTISING IN THE EXAMINER PAYS

Daily Examiner.

SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 1898.

A WHOLESOME RESPECT INSPIRED.

The clouds sometimes lower ominously on the British Empire, and combinations are threatened that menace its integrity, but the grand old ship of state with Britannia at the helm, sails serenely on, and soon the clouds lift, the sunshine comes, and the old flag flaps unscathed as of yore. When it comes to the point where fighting becomes a probable element, there is a general back down, and sooner or later, great powers that were ready to pounce upon Great Britain when troubles seemed thick, are glad to court the Empire's favour. A couple of years ago the United States was ready to "wipe out" Great Britain over the Venezuela matter. Now Uncle Sam is courting her favour, and is so anxious to conciliate her that he have gone out of his way to thrust the long-deferred Behring Sea award upon the British Exchequer. The cocky Emperor of Germany is fond of sending congratulatory telegrams. About two years ago he sent an unfortunate wire of this description to President Kruger, which aroused the ire of the British lion, who showed his resentment of the insult in a manner that made the Emperor's head swim. He took the lesson to heart and has since been on his better behaviour. He is even now condescending to conciliate Great Britain and has sent a congratulatory telegram to the Queen and General Kitchener on the great British success in the Soudan. There's lots of life in the Old Land yet, and the most powerful nations, when her rights are concerned, are very careful to "keep off the grass."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There will be no dearth of great victors so long as the inventive ingenuity of American war correspondents lasts.

The rumour that the cargo of the lumber barge, captured yesterday by the American cruiser and towed into Key West, was used by the Yankees there for bonfires to celebrate the great victory, has not been confirmed.

Sir Wilfred Laurier's greatness promises to become permanent, because he is reaching it gradually—he is reaching distinction by degrees. At a coming convocation of Queen's University the degree of LL.D. will be conferred upon the Premier.

If a list of the "war" craft of the United States were published it would be a formidable one, numerically, but it would in actual fighting calibre be subject to as much discount as would the fighting force of a country decribed thus:—Men, women and children.

The Mail and Empire, in its petty, carping, nasty way of criticising, blames the Government for not opening the Welland Canal to traffic before the first of May. The Kingston News, as good a Conservative journal but not quite so narrow-gauge, says that vessel owners do not want the canal opened before the first of May—there are no cargoes for them after the first trip. The canals are for the convenience of vessels, not party newspaper hacks.

Town readers of the Examiner have enquired respecting the size and population of Cuba and Porto Rico, the Spanish possessions in this hemisphere, around which the fighting in the present war is expected to circle a good deal. Cuba is an island lying almost directly south of Florida, (Havana, it capital, being about one hundred miles from Key West), about seven hundred miles long and about one hundred miles wide at the widest point. Its general shape is roughly that of Hogarth's line of beauty ~. Its area is 41,655 square miles (about one-fifth the size of Ontario), and the population is 1,631,687. To the eastward, separated by the Republic of Hayti, about 400 or 500 miles as the crow flies, is the island of Porto Rico, Spain's sole other American possession. It has an area of 3,550 square miles and a population of a little over 800,000.

Free trade Britain is not yet bankrupt, but on the contrary is showing the utmost commercial vitality and vigour. She manages to spend right royally, but has still a big surplus to smile at. Last year the Empire was subjected to extraordinary expenditures, which exceeded the estimates by about two millions of dollars, the total expenditures being 575 millions of dollars. The surplus this year amounts to 18 millions of dollars, and next year's estimates by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, places the revenue at ten millions of dollars. A couple of hundred years ago Spain and Great Britain were about on a level, if indeed, Spain did not lead, as regards power and wealth. Yet to-day Spain has to hold bull fights to raise money to man her navy. A hundred years ago Spain owned the western half of this hemisphere; now her possessions are cut down to two little islands, Cuba and Porto Rico. In the same time the sturdy oak of British sway has extended its roots and the meteor flag has painted red immense acquisitions of new territory.

It has not taken long to work up the Spanish-American row which has yet to win the dignity of being denominated a war. On February 15th the steamship Maine was "blown up or blown down," at any rate she went down in Havana harbour. On February 26th the Board of Enquiry reported that the explosion was from without and then "the fat" was in the fire. On March 3rd the United States Government talked of demanding an indemnity and rush work began at the Government naval yards, and Spain begins to buy warships. On March 8th the United States voted fifty million dollars for defences. March 17th Spain semi-officially refused to pay an indemnity. On March 29th resolutions were introduced into both Houses at Washington, recognizing Cuban independence. These resolutions were adopted and then followed within the last few days the United States demand upon Spain to quit Cuba, the refusal and the rupture of diplomatic negotiations. Yesterday came the startling news of the beginning of hostilities—the capture of a Spanish lumber schooner by an United States cruiser and great popular rejoicings over the first naval victory.

Any ordinary cough or cold may not be thought much of at the time, but neglect may mean in the end a consumptive's grave. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine will not cure Consumption when the lungs are riddled with cavities; but it will stop the cough, will cure Consumption in its early stages, and even in its last stages gives such relief as to be a perfect Godsend to those whose lives are nearing a close.

GET RID OF CIGAR STUMPS.

Young Lads Pick them up and Smoke Them.

"In the onward march of philanthropic movements active war has been made on cigarette smoking, and against the use of tobacco by juveniles. Statute laws prohibit the sale of cigarettes, etc., to minors, which laws have had some effect. They limit smoking to some degree, but a certain class of youths have another means of supplying themselves with a smoke, namely "shooting snipes," as they put it.

They collect stumps of cigars and cigarettes, and if large enough they smoke them as they are found, if not they break them up and place the mixture in a pipe.

This is an awful habit, with unlimited dangers to the young users. Some measures should be adopted to prohibit smokers from throwing these stumps on the streets. In some American cities, even spitting on the street is prohibited under penalty of a heavy fine. The same should be done here in respect to cigar stumps, thus taking away from the youngsters a growing temptation." The above is the opinion of a professional gentleman as expressed last evening.

IMPORTANT TO CHEESE MAKERS

Shippers who have just arrived from England declare that receivers there were loud in their complaints of the quality of Canadian cheese last season, in too many instances the goods being too stiff and hard textured, not showing sufficient meat, as a consequence lost a good deal of the prestige which previously characterized our cheese in the British markets. In fact a number of the dealers on the other side stated that they were compelled to take States cheese in order to obtain the quality required. It is of the greatest importance that our cheese makers should remedy the above defects during the coming season, and not allow the quality of their goods to be second to that of States cheese after having gained such an enviable reputation in the British market. It is stated that these stiff textured cheese, which are unsuitable to the trade, result from insufficient curing, which simply spoils the goods, and makes them so objectionable to consumers on the other side. It was stated in these columns repeatedly last season that cheese were being shipped from the factories in too green a state. It is a great mistake for factorymen to suppose that as long as they sell their cheese and get rid of them, they need not bother themselves whether they are properly cured or not. Here are the evil results, however, manifested after many days, and the worst of it is that those factorymen who take the trouble and pains to cure their cheese properly have to share the blame to a certain extent of those who are responsible for the whole trouble. We hope this defect will be remedied during the coming season. As stated in these columns last season, the makers of both butter and cheese in the United States are making desperate efforts to excel in the art of dairying, and Canadian factorymen will have to look well to their laurels lest they be snatched from them by their rivals.—Trade Bulletin.

A HAMILTON LADY

Testifies to the Wonderful Efficacy of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Juliana Sandberg Cured of Female Weakness After Suffering for Years —No Other Medicine Gave Relief —Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured.

Hamilton, April 22.—"In the midst of life we are in death," is a fact that should impress us deeply—so deeply as to touch the heart of our hearts, the soul of our souls. Women, our mothers, wives, daughters, sisters have it brought home to them frequently and impressively. The diseases that torture them are legion. Their sufferings never cease. Of late, however the women of Canada have been able to boast that they possess the means of not only relieving their sufferings, but of curing their diseases. They have made and are making use of the famous Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Juliana Sandberg of this city, was a great sufferer from Female Weakness. For three years the disease wrung her soul with agony, despite all the efforts of her physicians, despite all the medicines she used.

No pen can describe, no imagine can realize what she suffered. There are thousands of her sisters, though, who know just what she endured—for they are suffering similar tortures daily.

At length when it seemed as if there was no help but death for her she was induced to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. The result was the same as in all cases of Kidney Disease where Dodd's Kidney Pills are used—a speedy and complete cure.

The information contained in the above is enough for any woman who suffers as Mrs. Sandberg did. She will give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial, and that is all they need. It will convince the most unbelieving that Dodd's Kidney Pills cure even the very worst case of the Diseases of Women.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2 50, or will be sent on receipt of price by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, of Toronto.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Yes, 'Twas a Glorious Victory!

The Doctors Said the Man Would Die.

Paine's Celery Compound Snatches Mr. Morisette From the Grave.

NATURE'S SPRING MEDICINE CURES RHEUMATISM.

Are you enjoying God's best blessings this spring weather? You know not anything of them if you are a martyr to rheumatism, neuralgia, insomnia, nervousness, and diseases of the blood.

It is now an imperative duty to get back sound health and strength by a complete restoring of the broken-down, tired and agonised system with Paine's Celery Compound.

Your chief aim at this season should be to furnish the body with fresh nervous energy, and supply every artery and vein with rich pure blood, thus expelling the seeds of disease and death. There is nothing known to physicians that can for a moment approach Paine's Celery Compound for casting off diseases, purifying the blood, and making strong and healthy nerves.

Do not procrastinate if you are in danger; to-morrow may be too late. Bear in mind that your case is not too difficult for the curing virtues of such a medicine as Paine's Celery Compound.

A glorious victory was secured to Mr. Morisette, of Boxton Pond, P.Q., at the eleventh hour. His doctors failed, but Paine's Celery Compound was his true salvation. It will give the same marvelous results to all users; it is the world's only disease banisher; it is the only true life-giver. Mr. Barisette says:

"Having been given up to die some time ago by some of the best doctors of the United States, I came back to Canada last autumn terribly ill, and had lost all hope. Suffering agonies from inflammatory rheumatism, I was strongly urged to use Paine's Celery Compound. I gave it a trial as recommended, and the first bottle did me so much good I continued with the medicine until I had used seven bottles, when I found myself perfectly cured; indeed, I never felt better in all my life than at present. I use every possible means to tell others of Paine's Celery Compound, and will always recommend it to those troubled with rheumatism."

COAL IS CONTRABAND OF WAR.

A British Decision of Benefit to the United States, but of Disadvantage to Spain.

In anticipation of the war which now seems to be inevitable, Great Britain, the leading maritime power, has announced that coal will be regarded by her as a contraband article. Great will be the advantage thereby resulting to the United States. Spain's powers of attack upon the American coast now depend entirely upon her retaining possession of Cuba and Porto Rico, for her ships must keep near the ports which contain the coal, which is their breath of life. Circling around the Atlantic coast line is a row of British possessions—Jamaica, the Bahamas, Bermuda and Halifax. Could coal be bought freely in them the Spaniards could make Halifax their base of coal supplies for attacks on the New England coast, Bermuda for the central and Jamaica and Nassau for the southern coast. But this opportunity is now cut off, and the Spaniards must content themselves with the resources of their own ports. American vessels will suffer a like deprivation, but with every coast harbour from Portland to Galveston their own they will hardly repine at losing Halifax, Bermuda, and the British West Indian ports. It will be a slight disadvantage to them and a great disadvantage to Spain. The case is different in Asia, where several American vessels are said to be contemplating an attack on the Philippines, and there they have brought several ship loads of coal in anticipation of the outbreak of hostilities. * * * Coal is so vital a necessity to a vessel that the absolute refusal of it would be a most extreme measure. The principle followed by Britain is the very just one that a warship of a belligerent power calling at a British port is to be allowed coal enough to take her to her nearest home port; further, the same vessel is not allowed to coal at the same port more than once in three months. Some American papers appear to fear that a Spanish vessel might obtain coal at a British port on pretext of going home and then renew her warlike operations. But this would be a breach of faith so gross as to result in the British Government taking steps which would render such an exploit anything but profitable. It is well to remember that the right of search for contraband articles can be exercised on the seas, and that neutral vessels attempting to carry on a trade in coal by taking it from neutral ports to sell to belligerents would have to take their chance of being stopped and searched by the ships of the other belligerent.

This is but an additional instance of the practical friendship which has been manifested by Great Britain to the daughter nation. No one outside the foreign office of the powers interested knows all that she has done. The continental powers of Europe have been watching the development of the crisis with unconcealed hostility to the United States, and their diplomats have been busy. The next generation will know something of the negotiations which have been going on for the last few weeks; from time to time hints of intervention of one kind or another have got abroad, and every such story has shown Great Britain in the attitude of resolutely repressing every attempt to meddle in the affair. Imposing no conditions and making no bargain, she has been an unostentatious but most powerful ally of the United States, and the abstention of Europe from participation in the dispute has probably been a greater diplomatic victory than the acquisition of Wei Hai Wei. This important strategic advantage conferred upon the United States is but one token of the solidarity of the English-speaking world, which has made such progress in the past few months.

Mr. Rhodes made a speech, in which he said that the £6,000,000 which had already been spent in the development of Rhodesia ought eventually to be assumed as a debt by the people.

DOCTOR'S ADVICE

Is to Use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to Cure Dyspepsia.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the Only Cure for Stomach Troubles That he Found in Forty Years.

"I don't know what makes me so nervous to-day," remarked the lawyer. Every nerve in my body seems to be on fire."

"What have you been eating?" queried the doctor.

The lawyer looked in surprise at his friend.

"What has that got to do with it?" he asked.

"Everything," was the emphatic answer of the medical man. "I will give you a little advice and won't charge for it. You are a victim of nervous dyspepsia. Now I might tell you that nervous dyspepsia drives thousands of people insane. That is the plain truth.

"But I shall tell you what will be worth hundreds of dollars to you, and, if you take my advice, you will never again complain of nervous dyspepsia.

"After every meal for two weeks from to-day, take a couple of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Also use the small brown tablets that are in the box, according to directions, and I guarantee your dyspepsia will vanish.

"During my forty years' experience," continued the doctor, "I have found nothing except Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets that would cure dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness and all other stomach troubles, and that would, at the same time, rest and strengthen the stomach and regulate the bowels. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets do this. They are the only sure and certain cure for all stomach troubles,—therefore I recommend them, knowing what they will do."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists, at fifty cents a box, six bottles $2.50, or sent, on receipt of price, by The Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

He carried away 900 camel loads, or about 720,000 pounds, of bronze.

MUSTERING FOR THE FRAY

The Spanish Squadron Sails and Will Surprise Somebody.

HAVANA SHRINKS UNDER UNITED STATES GUNS.

The Captured Lumber Vessel a British Bottom.

SPAIN DESIGNATES IT AN ACT OF PIRACY

The war news this afternoon is comparatively unimportant, except as notes of preparation for the shock of squadrons on the sea. The Spanish squadron is in the ocean heading west. It would seem that the first capture of the U. S., over which such cheap enthusiasm was aroused, was a British vessel, insured in Great Britain. It may be very like catching a Tartar. We may expect hot news from Havana, which is under the guns of the U. S. Flying Squadron. The Powers of Europe show a very jealous interest and insist on the strictest respect for neutral vessels, or there will be interference.

Special 3 p.m. dispatch to the Examiner.

U. S. Fleet in Sight of Havana.

New York, April 23.—A despatch to the Herald from Havana, timed Friday 5 p. m., says: From the hills of Guanagay I saw U. S. warships this afternoon. They are advancing on Havana from the westward. The news has reached Morro Castle. There all is alert, but fear is in the hearts of the city's defenders. Havana's weak point lies dead ahead of the American fleet. The course of the ships is in direct accordance with the plan of war.

Cruiser Topeka is Safe.

London, April 23.—The U. S. Cruiser Topeka is safe. The steamer which collided with the Albatross has been identified.

A Danish Warship About.

St. Thomas, West Indies, April 23.—It is reported here that a Danish warship has sailed from Denmark to St. Thomas.

The Powers on the Watch.

Berlin, April 23—It is understood that Germany, France, Austria and Italy are agreeing upon a st. ng note to be sent to the United States and Spain warning them to exercise the greatest caution in dealing with neutral shipping, and adding that otherwise full reparation will be insisted upon. These powers also intend to send vessels to the seat of war.

Spanish Fleet Crossing the Ocean.

London, April 23.—A report has reached the U. S. Embassy here to the effect that, in spite of denials, the Spanish fleet left the Canary Islands several days ago.

U. S. Charged With Piracy.

Madrid, April 23.—The capture of the Buena Ventura has aroused the greatest indignation, it being claimed that hostilities are not yet supposed to have commenced. The newspapers characterized the seizure of the vessel as an act of piracy.

The Lumber Vessel Captured, a British Bottom.

Liverpool, April 23—The owners of the Buena Ventura, the Spanish ship captured by the U. S. cruiser Nashville, have issued a signed protest against her capture. They say the cargo belongs to British merchants and was insured in Great Britain. They further allage the capture was illegal, as the ultimatum of the President had not expired when she was captured.

The Spanish Squadron Has Sailed—A Surprise in Store.

Madrid, April 23—It is again rumoured that the Spanish squadron has sailed from the Cape Verde Islands, but its destination is not given, though it is believed the Spanish warships will suddenly appear and create a surprise.

Army Re-organization Bill Passed.

Washington, April 23.—The army reorganization bill was passed by the House at 1.45 to-day.

Street Cleaning

To whom it may concern; in regard to the complaint made in a letter in last night's EXAMINER, Mr. Ranney, street inspector, says that there has not been one day lost in scraping the streets. The dry weather followed so closely the departure of the frost that the work could not be undertaken. Even to-day Mr. Ranney found frost under some sidewalks to such an extent that he cannot replace rotten sleepers. He wishes those who wish to censure the council and the street inspector would kindly inform themselves of the facts before making such serious charges. As it has been said before, the weather has prevented the operation of street cleaning.

BATTALION NOTES.

The Rangers Decided Last Night that Ottawa Would be the Objective Point of the Holiday Trip.

After drill last evening the Rangers practically decided to go to Ottawa for the 24th of May, although many of the details have yet to be settled.

The 24th of May this year falls on a Tuesday, and a decision has not yet been reached as to whether the Battalion will leave for the Capital on Saturday evening or Sunday. Each extra day spent away from home involves an expenditure of several hundred dollars, so that the date of leaving will have to be considered from several standpoints.

It will cost fully twice as much to go to Ottawa as to have spent the day in Kingston.

THE MARKET.

Is the Attendance Falling off, and is There Anthing Wrong With its Management?

It has been noticed that the last two Saturday's there has been a very small attendance on the market, though the steamers, Beaver and Eclipse, this morning brought up an unusually large supply of passengers. The small attendance is by some attributed to recent changes in the market regulations. A farmer called this morning to say that during the last two Saturdays no meat has been offered by the quarter on the market by either farmers or local butchers. He says he and others refuse to take their meat in a clean and neat condition out of his and their wagons and place it in the "dirty weigh scales," as he described them, and "muss" them with much handling to the point of unsalability. In addition to the toll of five cents for a single team and ten cents for a double team, there is a weighing fee of from two to five cents. Instead of going to the market those persons peddle through the town, as THE EXAMINER'S informant said he did forty years ago. At any rate there is the last few Saturdays a largely decreased attendance on the market, whatever the reason. Restaurateurs in the vicinity say that their business from the market had fallen off disastrously, one man saying that he now only sold forty (or fifty meals, where he sold over two hundred before. Whatever the reason for this condition of things, it behooves the Market Committee to see where the fault lies, and furnish a remedy for a state of things that seems to be injurious to our market, and must, therefore, be injurious to general business interests. It is to our interest to get all the people possible to attend our market, but levying market tolls and imposing restrictions, that the farmers practically resent, is making a little revenue at the expense of the general interests of merchants. We want people to come to town, not for the mere sake of their market fee, but for the sake of the convenience they are to to our citizens, and for the amount of money they leave with our merchants in exchange for goods, to the advantage of both. We can't afford to kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

THE CANTATA.

Production of "The Holy City" on May 8th in the Opera House.

Great success is attending the practices for the production of the Cantata "The Holy City," under the supervision of Mr. P. Warburton Owens, organist of St. John's church.

The chorus comprises over eighty voices and their work, with orchestral accompaniment, promises to be exceptionally fine. The closing chorus of "Great and Marvellous" is one in which there is room for very effective phrasing, and is being perfectly handled.

The soloists will be Mrs. Parker, Miss Cooper, Mrs. Seward, Miss Clara Belleghem, Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, Miss Lillie Jackson, Miss Montgomery, Mr. J. Brown, Rev. E. V. Stevenson and others.

Those who have been privileged in attending the rehearsals speak enthusiastically in particular of the manner in which an unaccompanied trio is given by Mrs. Parker, Miss Cooper and Miss Montgomery.

THE CONVERSAT CLOSING.

The steady downpour of rain all last evening interfered somewhat with the attendance at the conversat at the Y.M.C.A.

The gallery in the gymnasium was however filled with interested spectators.

Two games of basket ball comprised the programme. The first was between the Reds and Blues in the junior department. The game was an exciting one and resulted in victory for the Reds on a score of 8 to 4. E. Best led the victors, and H. Brown the Blues.

The senior game was between the Roses, led by S. Hall, and the Maple Leaves by C. Mathias. The former won, score 14 to 8.

The wheels were viewed by a large number, and again the young ladies were out in attendance with refreshments.

THE LATEST WAR NEWS.

In the evenings there is somewhat of a rush for the Toronto evening papers—for the latest war news. The public would do well to bear in mind that the EXAMINER prints every day the latest war despatches of any importance and reliability which are available and is on the streets for sale about four hours ahead of the Toronto evening papers. Of course the Toronto yellow journals contain, besides, a lot of sensational matter that is self-evidently rumour and ridiculous. For instance, one paper printed what it claims was a special wire, reporting the sinking of the Spanish warship Alphonso XIII off Havana harbour, when, as a matter of fact, this ship is, according to the most reliable information in Spanish trans-atlantic waters. Besides the EXAMINER contains all the local news in addition to the latest war despatches. Patronising home industries and institutions is the part of true patriotism and in this enters the element of self interest also.

THREE HUNDRED
FOR THE C.W.A. MEET.

VOTED IN COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE LAST NIGHT.

Permanent Improvements Talked Over—Peterborough to Profit by Belleville's Experience—Action Deferred till that City can be Visited—Minor Matters Dealt With.

The Mayor presided at the meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council last night. There were present Messrs. Dawson, Denne, Robertson, Best, Langford, White, Allen, McWilliams and Hamilton.

The Mayor stated that the meeting was called to consider the question of making a grant in aid of the management of the C. W. A. Meet on July 1st and 2nd. He said he had been spoken to on the subject by several citizens, and the general feeling was that since the meet had come to Peterborough, it would be unfortunate for the town if the meet was not creditably managed. The Committee of Management would be put to an expense of about $2,000, and they felt that they were entitled to some assistance from the town in order that the good name of Peterborough for enterprise might not be adversely affected.

Mr. Dawson moved seconded by Mr. Allen, that the council make a grant of $300.

Mr. Hamilton pointed out that a year ago the council offered $400 for the occasion, and he did not think that any smaller sum would be of the material benefit that the enterprise deserved.

Mr. McWilliams pointed out that the council might give an equivalent to $400, by giving them the use of the town lumber in addition to the $300.

Mr. Hamilton said that would be no great inducement, since the management were offered the free use of lumber by outsiders.

Some conversation took place respecting a guarantee of $500 as against a straight grant. The general opinion was in favour of the direct grant which was made on the unanimous vote of the members present.

PERMANENT PAVEMENT.

Mr. Samuel Belcher, C.E., presented plans, profiles and specifications for the proposed concrete pavements on George street, from Charlotte to Brock street, a total distance of about 1,200 feet. The proposed side walks is 10 feet in width.

A long discussion took place as to the feasibility of undertaking the work, methods of payment and ways and means generally. Considerable discussion took place over the mode of payment, some, and Mr. Dawson particularly, insisting that the property owners on George street should pay a large share of the cost of the permanent improvement in front of their properties. The matter was brought to a point by the following motion:

Moved by Mr. McWilliams, seconded by Mr. Hamilton, that Mr. Belcher be instructed to propose plans for a five-foot concrete sidewalk on both sides of Water street between Brock and Murray streets and that tenders be asked for construction of that block of sidewalk between Simcoe and Hunter streets.

Mr. McWilliams explained that his aim was to give an object lesson of pavement for the business streets and residence streets respectively.

In commenting on the advantages of a concrete pavement over planks, Councillor Langford said it would be a paying undertaking for a private individual to put down concrete pavements on George street and accept in payment the amount of annual cost involved in replacing and keeping wooden sidewalks in repair.

After further more or less irrelevant discussion, Mr. Langford pointed out that Belleville had done what Peterborough proposed to do in regard to pavements and he moved that a deputation composed of the Chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee, and Messrs. McWilliams, Best, the Mayor and Town Engineer, visit Belleville and investigate their permanent pavement work in that city and report to the council.

After still further talk, the Mayor pointed out that we had been talking about permanent pavements for years and had made no progress; he suggested that we appoint a small committee to undertake the work, submit a scheme, formulate a bylaw and have the work put under way at once.

Mr. Best wished to correct the Mayor. We had not been talking so long about permanent pavements, for it was impracticable to undertake such work before we had laid down our sewers, and this had only just been accomplished on George street. It might be said that we were behind other towns in street improvements, but we were ahead of most of them in the matter of sewerage.

Mr. Best seconded Mr. Lanford's motion, which was carried, and the subject of permanent pavements dropped in the meanwhile, which of course nullified the first motion on the subject, which did not go to vote.

Councillor McWilliams suggested that something be done in regard to the street alongside the street railway track, which in a very dangerous condition for vehicles, but before any action was taken in that regard the talk drifted upon the proposed street railway scheme of Mr. Starr's, which was discussed in several of its aspects without any definite proposition being arrived at.

OTHER MATTERS.

A motion was adopted, instructing the clerk to notify the Auburn Power Company to leave the streets in the same condition they were in before the earth was disturbed for the purpose of placing the poles.

A motion was also adopted to accept the tender of the Peterborough Hardware Company for new scales for the market.

THE BEST PATHMASTER.

Mr. R. Telford Carries off the Prize and Receives the Gold-Headed Cane.

Mr. Robt. Telford, of Smith, was this morning presented with the handsome gold-headed cane which, during the summer, has reposed in Mr. H. S. Macdonald's drug store waiting to be awarded to the pathmaster who kept his section of the Chemong Road in the best condition for wheelmen.

Mr. Telford has had charge of the third section from Peterborough for the last nine years, and whilst that particular piece of road has always been kept in good condition by him, yet last season he seems to have excelled himself.

It will be remembered that the cane was purchased by some of the wheelmen who use the Chemong Road during the summer, and offered for competition amongst the pathmasters, in order to try and perfect the roadway as much as possible.

Mr. Telford's many friends will be pleased in learning that he has carried off the prize. He desires, through THE EXAMINER, to express his thanks to the wheelmen for the gift.

THE GUILTY MAN.

She had nerved herself to meet her father. She glanced in the mirror and saw how pale she was. Her father would be pale, too, but how different his pallor from her own—his a pallor like none other in the world!

A shiver passed over her. Did she love her father? Her anger went out to him, not her love. Her love was for Jack, and he could never be anything to her. Last night she had written to Jack and told him the truth, and the truth would separate them forever. She was the daughter of a thief!

What uselessness it had been for her mother to move hundreds of miles from the old home. It had been done for the husband, not for the daughter. For the daughter there had been a half year's residence in this new place and a learning to love a man whom she had last night declined to marry. Her father had wrought this unhappiness as he had wrought so much more.

What grief had not her father wrought! The day he went to prison for the defalcation in the bank where he had been cashier and her mother's father manager, had not her mother's father fallen dead? The world had said the old banker could not stand the disgrace. And what more? Had not her mother's mother, always an invalid, been stricken by her husband's death and never been told of her son-in-law's crime? There had been a mass of deception, the poor, feeble woman being led to believe that her daughter's husband, whom she loved as a son, had gone away on business, and letters written in his prison cell had been read to her, and they told her of great prosperity in the west, with a cheerfulness that was appalling. Yes, the girl almost hated her father as she thought over the events of the past four years. And yet would she have hated him save for Jack?

She pressed her hands fiercely to her eyes.

Suddenly she started. There was a step on the stairs. Her mother was bringing her father up to her. How should she meet him? Had it not been for Jack she knew how she should have met him. But her father had forced Jack from her.

The steps ascending the stairs stopped. There was a cough outside the library door. She knew the sharp little cough. She used to fly to meet her father four years back when she heard that little cough in the hall in the dear old home. Now she did not move from the chair she sat in.

She heard a voice outside the door—her mother urging her father to enter the room. Then the handle of the door turned, and her mother led in a strangely aged man.

The girl rose. Her father stood before her, expectancy in his face. She went slowly to him and held her forehead up to his lips. Her mother looked angrily at her, but she went back to her seat and caught up some sewing.

"Annie," said the mother sharply, "is this the way to meet your father? Do you know that all that has occurred has been more to me than to any one else in the world? And yet I forgive because I love. And you who have a lover"—

"I have no lover," coldly interrupted the girl. "I couldn't deceive him any longer. I wrote him last night. I told him the truth and that I would not marry him."

"Ah," said the mother, "now I understand!" She turned to her husband. "Mark, do not mind it, dear. You have me, and I shall never fail you. Have I ever failed you? What is done is done. It is all wiped away. It is only remembered by your daughter, not by me, and you are as much to me after all the mistakes and sufferings as the day when I stood by your side and vowed to be a loving and true wife till God should part us in death. We always spoke of you, mother and I."

"Your mother," his dry lips said, "where is she?"

His wife caught his hand.

"Dear," she said, "can you bear a little more?"

He looked at her.

"Annie," she said sternly, "get me those letters."

The girl went and took from the bookcase a packet, which she brought to her mother.

"My letters to your mother," the man's lips seemed to say, "and unopened."

His wife fondled his hand.

"It was only a few months ago," she said. "I could not tell you the truth any more than I could tell her. The truth would have made you unhappier, and I wished to tell you myself. She loved you as she loved me. One morning one of your letters came, and until I could read it to her she asked me to let her hold it. An hour later we found her with the letter held up to her heart, and she was very white and quiet. There had been no struggle whatever, no pain. We laid her beside father, whom she had never ceased grieving for and who had given her every comfort in life, even when, I am sure, he could hardly afford the extravagances ordered by her physicians. It is all over, and happily over, for both of them, dear, and you were always kind and good to them."

A low, long sigh broke from the man. Then silence fell, the sound of the tram bells in the street came distinctly to them, and the ticking of the clock on the mantel was strangely loud.

There was a movement on the part of Annie. She rose and came and kneeled beside her father's chair.

"Father," she said, "you must forgive me. I am not very happy. I do not mean to be hard, but I can't go back from my reasoning. You have not only mother, but you have me also. I will do what I can. I am sure you know that, and after awhile you will not miss anything in me."

"Go back to your seat," commanded her mother. "Do you know that you are in the presence of a broken heart? Doesn't your father accuse himself of more than you accuse him of? Who are you, with your paltry love troubles, to come to him in a time like this?"

"Hush, Mary!" said her husband. "Hush!"

The silence fell again.

Annie sat alone. She was apart from everything. There was no love for her any more. Her father had expiated his sin in the eyes of the world. In her heart the sin that had been his still lived. For there was Jack, and she had given him up because of her father's guilt. There was a narrowing of the radius. No matter for Jack if her father were only an innocent man. Love surely created a desire for purity, for, since she had learned to love Jack, her father's sin had grown and grown upon her, and before that the sin had been tempered by her pitying love and her prayers for heaven's forgiveness.

The daughter of a thief! Oh, why had she met Jack? Why had she allowed herself to care for him? Why had she let herself feel glad when she knew that he loved her? Why had she greatly desired that he should tell her that he had given his heart to her and demanded her own in return?

How many sadly confused questions did she put to herself as she sat there in the miserable silence, her mother and her father at a greater distance from her than they had ever been before, while she vainly tried to accuse her heart and her daughterly affection of transgressing, even though Jack called through the silence that, but for her father's crime, she might have claimed woman's perfect happiness on earth!

Her mother and her father apparently failed to realize how much she was going through. It was only her lack of response to their love that touched them. Her adoration of a man who might have been her husband was merely a foolishness of hers and not to be placed in the same category with her duty as a daughter—the daughter of a thief! That miserable word, that disgraceful word, would come uppermost to her. But for Jack would this have been so? The daughter of a thief!

There came a tap on the door, and it sounded on her ear like thunder.

Her mother went to the door and opened it.

"Mark," she said to her husband, "it is cook. She wishes to speak to me about dinner. We are going to have all the things you used to—all the things you like. Of course the servants know nothing, dear. You have been west, you know. The servants have only been with us since we moved here. Would you like to come down stairs, or will you stay here in the library?"

"I will stay here," he said in his hushed way. "Here."

"Very well," returned his wife. "I shan't be gone long. See, here is all the old furniture, all your books, just as you used to like them, and the pictures."

She leaned over and kissed him before she went out and closed the door behind her.

Annie was alone with her father. She heard him moving carefully around, taking up a book, only to lay it down again. He went up and looked at his wife's picture hanging between two tall bookcases, then at that of his wife's father. Before this last picture he lingered, making no sound, but looking at the face of the old bank manager who had fallen dead the day his trusted cashier and his only daughter's husband had gone to serve a sentence in prison. Annie could not see him, but she knew all that her father did. Her back was toward him as she leaned over her sewing, and her heart beat fast when he turned from the picture at last and swiftly crossed the carpet.

When his hand was laid upon her arm, she almost shrieked aloud.

"Annie!" said her father's voice. It was a firm voice now, no quaver of doubt in it, and it forced her like a command she dared not disobey.

She rose from her seat and faced him.

Despite the physical changes in him she saw before her his old self—strong, not unbrave, not disloyal, not a criminal.

"You have given up your lover," he went on rapidly. "You have given him up because of me. Pay attention to me. I will tell you what I had hoped never to tell a living soul on earth. And I must speak before your mother comes back, for she must never know. But you must know, and the man who had asked you to be his wife and whom you refused on account of me. I will go to him, and I will tell him as I tell you that I have wrecked no life, that I have not wrecked my daughter's happiness. Do you hear me? I have not interfered with your right to be happy with the man you love. I have been adjudged a criminal. I have served a criminal's sentence. But I am an innocent man, and"—he turned and pointed to the picture of his wife's father—"that man knew it. I sacrificed not your mother, not you, but my own standing in society and the minds of men for the sake of my wife's father and his invalid wife."

She gasped. She understood him, and she trembled from head to foot.

"I would never have told you," he went on, "only that you gave up your life's happiness because of my disgrace. Your forfeited love for me would never have brought this confession, for what I did was done to save an old man and an old woman who had been as a mother to me. If nature could not make your love surmount my shame, that love is of little account. Your mother's father's sin made me a prisoner. It was he who took the money, and I the blame. I have proofs of all this, and I am glad I never destroyed them, for I must show those proofs to the daughter whose lack of love makes my word of no account."

"Father!"

There was a quality in her cry that told him more than many words. She sprang to his arms, her heart held closely to his. He was innocent, he was innocent, and though her life's greater love might be over and done the man who had asked her to marry him had not loved the daughter of a thief.

There was some one in the room, though neither of them heeded till the girl's name was spoken by the newcomer.

"Jack!" she cried out and clung the closer to her father. "Jack!"

"You did not hear me knock," said he. "I came to tell you that I refuse to obey your note. You love me as I love you, and you will be my wife. And, coming in here, I have heard what your father said to you. Your father—will he not let me call him mine?"

Her father's head was raised, and he looked deeply into the young man's eyes.

"Well, well!" said the bustling voice of the wife, coming into the library. "And Jack here! Mark, my dear; Annie—Mark, is this the happy end of all your sadness and pain?"

"Yes," said the "guilty man" as he placed the hand of his daughter into that of her lover. "Yes."—Spare Moments.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Make Rich, Red, Energy-giving Blood

THROUGH THEIR USE THOUSANDS OF WEAK MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN HAVE BEEN MADE STRONG.

A VICTIM OF RHEUMATISM.

From the Prescott Journal.

There is no man in the Township of Edwardsburg who is better known than Mr. John Sherman. He is one of the many Canadians who at the outbreak of the Amelican rebellion joined the army of the North, aud to the exposures and hardships which he endured during that trying and perilous time does he owe long years of suffering which he has since undergone. The writer remembers seeing Mr. Sherman a few years ago when he was so crippled up with rheumatism that it was impossible for him to walk, and having heard that a cure had been effected, determined to investigate the matter for himself. When the reporter called at Mr. Sherman's home he found him in the yard handling an ax and chopping wood like a young man. "I have suffered with rheumatism for twenty years," said Mr. Sherman, "and I have doctored with four different doctors, and yet I kept getting worse and worse. I was bent double with the pain in my back and both legs were so drawn up that I was unable to straighten them, and for four months when I wanted to move about I had to do so on my hands and knees. I tried many medicines but got no benefit, and I had given up all hope of being able to walk again. One of my sons tried to persuade me to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills but I refused to take any more medicine. At last one day my son brought home three boxes of the pills, and after they had been in the house for over two weeks, I at last consented to take them, but not because I thought they would do me any good. Before they had gone, however, I could feel that my back was gettting stronger and I could straighten up. It required no further persuasion to get me to take the pills, and from that time on I began to get better, until now with the aid aid of a light cane, I can walk all over the farm, get in and out of a buggy, and do most of the chores round the house and barns. I feel twenty years younger, and I consider Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the most wonderful medicine for rheumatism in the whole world. I began them only to please my son and it was a most agreeable surprise to me when I found my legs limber, and my back gaining new strength. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to the suffering rheumatics of the world."

GENERAL WEAKNESS CURED

Mr. Jas. Canavan is a well known resident of Maxville, Ont. He suffered for a long time from general weakness, approaching an almost complete collapse. A friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and a judicious course restored his health. Mr. Canavan says:—"After having used your Pink Pills I am glad to recommend them to the world as a cure for extreme weakness and debility, and I am sure that if those who feel the first approach of such trouble will only take a box or two, misery may be averted."

A WEAK HEART.

Mr. Joseph Becktad, Martintown, Ont., says:—"About thirteen years ago I suffered from an attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which left me with a very week heart I doctored, but did not appear to get any relief. About two years ago I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after using them for some time I felt better than I had done for years. I have had no return of the trouble, and feel safe in saying that my cure is permanent. I can heartily recommend this medicine to those who are similarly suffering."

SUBJECT TO SINKING SPELLS.

From the Cookshire, Que., Chronicle.

Mr. Newell Waldron is a well-known farmer living near East Clifton, Que. As his friends and neighbors know, he passed through a very trying illness as the result of a severe attack of la grippe, and when a correspondent of the Chronicle called upon him, he had no hesitation in giving the particulars of his illness and cure. Mr. Waldron said, "I believe I owe my life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I am glad to have a chance to say a good word in favor of that reliable medicine. During the winter of 1895 when la grippe was so prevalent, I had a severe attack of it, and it left me so weak that I was unable to do work of any kind. I consulted a doctor but as he did not appear to help me I began using different advertised medicines, but the result was the same. I got no benifit, but on the contrary was growing weaker. At times I was subject to sinking spells, which verged upon total unconsciousness. I was failing day by day and was becoming hopeless. A neighbor who called to see me urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I sent for a few boxes. After using them for a couple of weeks I began to gain steadily. I am now as well as any man, and can do as good a day's work as ever I did. I know that my cure is due to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I am always glad to recommend them

CRIPPLED WITH RHEUMATISM.

Mr. Alpheus Mott, an esteemed resident of Morewood, Ont., says:—"For some years past I have suffered horribly with rheumatism. At times I was so bad that I was almost wholly deprived of the use of my legs, and could only go about with great difficulty. I had to give up farming entirely, and removed to Brockville where I had the best of medical advice but with no good results. I also tried many remedies said to be a cure for rheumatism, but with no better results. Some of my friends urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so, and somewhat to my surprise I found they were doing me a great deal of good. I then moved to Morewood, where I still continued the use of the Pills, steadily gaining in health and strength, until I could abandon the use of the cane, without the aid of which I could not move about. Every ache and pain left me, and only those who have suffered the terrible pangs of rheumatism can understand the joy I feel at what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. I earnestly urge their use on all who are similarly afflicted.

Mr. Jas. Gage, Brookdale, Que., says:—"We have always found Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a good family medicine, and think they should be kept in every home."

Spring Medicine

In the Springtime the blood needs attention. The change of the year produces in every one, whether conscious of it or not, some little heating of the blood. The best of all Spring medicines for man, woman or child is

Dr. Williams Pink Pills.

A Vanishing Type.

Only lately have Philadelphians begun to realize and reflect upon the disappearance of the Quakers as we knew them; only lately has it been brought home to us that a gradual obliteration of the old uncompromising orthodoxy has set in which means the ultimate absorption of the sect. Even now, rare as is the old garb on the streets where it was such a common sight not so many years ago, the assertion that the society is diminishing would meet with doubt and hesitation. We are so familiar with the Quaker, he is so necessary and potent a type in Philadelphia, that we would not accept the warrant even of statistics, yet, now that the visible limit has been reached, what can we do but awake to the change? We see few broad brimmed hats and drab bonnets where we once saw many. Of those who wear them, the most are old and trembling.

If there are young Quakers, how are we to recognize them? Not by their dress, at any rate, except in so far as plainness of cut and sobriety of color still rule the taste of Friends, whether wealthy or in moderate circumstances. The distinctive costume is being laid aside, with many of the distinctive customs. And why? Because the society is losing its control over its younger members? Because its rigid rules no longer suffice to hold in check the human spirit, with its unconquerable love of freedom? This is the common explanation, and the one desired by those who love romance.—Thomas Wharton in Lippincott's.

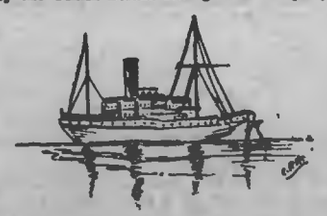
HOW A VESSEL SINKS.

PHOTOGRAPHS TAKEN OF A SHIP WHILE IT FOUNDERED.

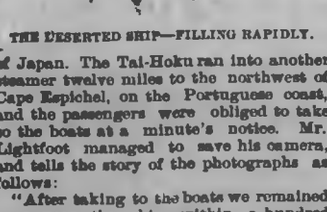
The Deserted Ship Filling Rapidly—Down by the Head—Another Stage—The Last Few Minutes—The Final Plunge. Boilers Exploding—How the Record Was Accomplished.

Everybody knows what a wreck is, but a set of photographs representing a sinking vessel is certainly a novelty. The Strand Magazine, however, publishes a set of snap shots illustrating the foundering of a large ocean steamship. They were taken by Cecil Lightfoot, a passenger on the ill-fated vessel, the Tai-Hoku, owned by the Osaka Steam Navigation Company of Japan. The Tai-Hoku ran into another steamer twelve miles to the northwest of Cape Espichel, on the Portuguese coast, and the passengers were obliged to take to the boats at a minute's notice. Mr. Lightfoot managed to save his camera, and tells the story of the photographs as follows:



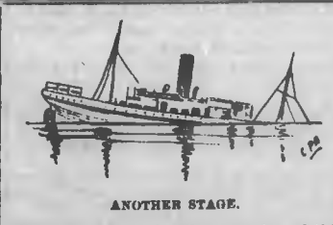
THE DESERTED SHIP—FILLING RAPIDLY.

"After taking to the boats we remained very near the ship—within a hundred yards or so. By this time day had dawned, and I was able to take the first two photographs. There was, however, a considerable interval between them. After two or three hours, a large vessel, which proved to be the Millfield of Whitby, bore down upon us, in response to our flag-signal 'N. C.'—which, according to the international code, means 'in distress—require assistance.' The captain of this ship conferred with our own commander as to the desirability of towing the Tai-Hoku, and Captain Conradi and some of the officers once more went on board their ship to make the necessary arrangements. Immediately afterwards, however, the sinking steamer began to roll heavily, and the attempt at towing had to be abandoned.



DOWN BY THE HEAD.

"At our request the Millfield left us, it being our intention to row up the Tagus to Lisbon. At any rate, we determined to see the last of our ship.



ANOTHER STAGE.

LAST FEW MOMENTS.

"After a period of anxious waiting the bridge fell forward, at the same time jerking the cords that communicated with the sirens, and causing them to send a weird scream over the face of the waters. The next moment—having, so to speak, wished us farewell—the huge ship dived deliberately head foremost into 300 feet of water, and was never seen again. As the sea rushed into the furnaces, steam and water-gas were generated; and these, rushing up through the smokestack, caused a kind of explosion, which is very plainly seen in the last photograph I took, just as the ship was disappearing. The upward rush of steam carried a great quantity of soot from the flues, and this caused a dark cloud to hover over the place where the Tai-Hoku sank. There was no whirlpool of any kind. When this great vessel of 3,100 tons took her last dive, the little flotilla of boats could not have been more than 150 yards distant. Standing by after her disappearance, we saw pathetic bits of wreckage coming slowly to the top—hen-coops, a boat, fire buckets, seats, life-belts and so on."

"How Do I Look?"

How frequently a woman asks this question! How much thought and study she devotes to it! It is natural. A woman hates to think that she is growing day by day less charming and attractive and youthful to her husband's eyes than in the days of courtship.

A woman may always retain her charms and the vivacity and freshness of youth if she will take the proper care of her health. A tremendous percentage of ill-health in women is due to weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is an unfailing remedy for all disorders of this nature. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, stops debilitating drains and soothes and tones the nerves. It preserves in a woman all the charm of healthy youth. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

"Favorite Prescription" is sold by all respectable dealers in medicines. Deal only where you are honestly treated. Any storekeeper who tries to give you a substitute for what you demand is not treating you honestly and you should take your trade elsewhere.

"For nine years I have suffered with falling of internal organs," writes Mrs. Mary Williams, of Raleigh, Wake Co., N. C. (Box 196). "I was troubled with bearing down pains. I had indigestion and female weakness and nervousness. I could not sleep at night. I was constipated and had urinal trouble. The doctor here said that no medicine would reach my disease. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' have cured me."

An every-day necessity in the home. A good home medical work. Send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover customs and mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., for a paper-covered copy of Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser. Cloth binding 50 stamps.

A PROHIBITION PLAN.

The Plain, Simple Question to Be Submitted.

PROVISIONS FOR VOTE TAKING.

Hon. Mr. Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, Introduces the Prohibition Plebiscite Bill—Detailed Provisions of the Proposed Measure—The Minister's Explanation—The Franchise Act Repeal Bill.

Ottawa, April 22.—"Are you in favor of the passing of an Act prohibiting the importation, manufacture or sale of spirits, wine, ale, beer, cider and all other alcoholic liquors for use as beverages?" This is the plain, direct and simple question that the Government, true to the pledge of the Liberal party, will submit to the people of Canada upon a day in the near future to be named by proclamation. The issue will not be burdened by subsidiary considerations, such as the question of meeting the deficiency of revenue that must result from the adoption of a prohibitory measure, or of the inevitable difficulty of enforcing the law if it should be enacted. Every person who will be entitled to vote in the election of a member to the House of Commons under the Franchise bill now before Parliament shall be entitled to vote on the plebiscite. The voter will simply answer "yes" or "no" to the question by so marking a specially-prepared ballot that will be provided. Provision is made for the representation at the polls of the two sides of the liquor question. These are the salient features of the plebiscite bill submitted to the House yesterday by Hon. Sidney Fisher, whose record as a sincere and consistent advocate of prohibition in Parliament and in the country is well known. Mr. Fisher, following the usual practice in introducing a Government measure, simply made a statement of its provisions, leaving whatever arguments may be necessary to be adduced in its justification to the time for the second reading.

The Minister's Explanation.

Mr. Fisher, in introducing the prohibition plebiscite bill, said that it was one that had been looked forward to with some expectation by the country. The bill was a straight and simple one. It contains in the third clause the question to be submitted to the people of Canada. That was the point most discussed by those interested in the measure, and the question which, he thought, would meet the approval of those interested in its submission. The question was, Are you in favor of the passage of an Act prohibiting the importation, manufacture or sale of spirits, wines, ales, beer, cider and all other alcoholic liquors for use as beverages? It would be found, he added, that the question was framed on the basis of the several prohibition resolutions introduced at various times in the House of Commons.

The fourth clause provides that the Governor-in-Council shall by proclamation name the day on which the voting shall take place, such proclamation to be published in three successive issues of the Canada Gazette and of the official Gazettes of the provinces.

Who Are Entitled to Vote.

The provision as to who may vote reads: "Every person who is entitled to vote for a member of the House of Commons under the Franchise Act of 1898"—that is, the Franchise Act now before the House.

Clause six applies the Electoral Franchise Acts of the Dominion in every respect to the voting in question. In other words, it provides the machinery and necessary powers to enforce law and order and such penalties as may be incurred by contravention of those Acts at the voting.

Clause seven provides that the Governor-in-Council may make regulations for effectively carrying out such provisions.

Clause eight relates to the ballot paper, which contains simply the question above recited. On the right hand of the paper are two columns, with the word "Yes" at the top of one and "No" at the head of the other. The voter desiring to vote for prohibition will place his cross in the blank space under the word "Yes," and the voter desiring to vote against it will place his mark under the word "No."

Clause nine provides for the appointment of representatives of both sides of the question being present at the polls, the same as in the case of an ordinary election. The candidates are entitled to be represented at the poll.

Clause 10 provides for the administration of the oath to such representatives, as under the Election Act.

Clause 11 enacts that these representatives shall show written authority from some authorized body of the electors who may wish to be represented at the poll, such as the Dominion Alliance or Good Templars on the one side and the Licensed Victuallers on the other.

Clause 12 provides that in case no such person comes forward as representative the returning officer may, as in the case of a Dominion election, call on any elector present to act as "representative at the counting of the ballots."

Clause 13 provides what shall be done in the presence of these representatives, the procedure being the same as at an election.

Clause 14 describes how the ballot papers shall be marked.

Clause 15 enacts that the Returning Officer shall record the total for and against.

Clause 16 provides that the returns shall be made the same as by the deputy returning officers under the Dominion Election Act.

Two copies of the return must be delivered to the representatives of the two sides as in a Dominion election, and a return is delivered to the agents of the candidates.

Clause 17 enacts that the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery shall publish the returns in the Canada Gazette and give the results in each electoral division as they come in.

Clause 18 provides that a summary of the returns, by provinces and for the Dominion, shall be published in the Gazette.

The Act, said Mr. Fisher, in conclusion, is simple, providing merely for the submission of a question to the people of Canada by means of the same machinery employed in a Dominion election.

Mr. Foster Makes a Suggestion.

Mr. Foster raised the point that in the question the expression "manufacture or sale," should read "manufacture and sale."

Mr. Fisher replied that if the word "and" were substituted it would mean that to prove an offense it would be necessary to show that all the acts prohibited, and not a single one, had been committed to secure a conviction.

Mr. Foster said that, without wishing to raise a debate on the first reading, he would merely state that the Government should have added another clause, because if we were going to the cost of taking a plebiscite and getting the opinion of the people, it should be stated in the bill that, in the event of a majority being in favor of prohibition, the Government will then consider it their duty to introduce a prohibition law to carry out the wishes of the electorate.

Mr. McInerney had another point to raise. "Suppose," he said, "that the Franchise bill should not pass?"

"The Government," interrupted Mr. Fisher, "have not contemplated that the bill will not pass."

Mr. McInerney reminded the Hon. Minister that not every bill the Government brought in had passed Parliament. But what he wanted to call attention to was the fact that this bill provides the vote shall be taken under the "Franchise Act of 1898." Now there was no such Act, and if the Government should have the good sense to withdraw the Franchise bill, or that bill should be defeated—

Mr. Casey—Where?

Mr. McInerney—In this House or in another place having the authority to defeat the bill, then we would have no such thing as the Franchise Act of 1898, and therefore the temperance people of this country would be deprived of the opportunity next year of passing on the prohibition question. (Hear, hear.)

"I do not know," replied Sir Wilfrid Laurier warmly, "whether we are to interpret the words of my hon. friend who has just spoken as a threat that the fate which has already overtaken another bill which has passed this House this session is to overtake the Franchise Act, but I will wait until the Senate have pronounced against the will of the people once more before I will accept the suggestion of the hon. gentleman. But," he added, "let me remind him that if the Franchise Act which is before the House should be rejected in another House, then this House will have to determine either to have what I have called 'a terror' to the members of this House—another revision this year of the electoral lists—or have the vote of the people taken on lists four years old, which, I do not suppose my hon. friend would consider advisable, nor do the Government, at the present time at all events, intend to have this plebiscite taken under lists four years old, which disfranchise perhaps, one-fourth of the electors.

The Franchise Act.

The House considered the Franchise bill in committee, devoting the greater part of the day to the discussion of a proposition brought forward by Mr. Heyd of South Brant to insure a continuance of the Indian franchise, notwithstanding any restrictions of Provincial legislation. The committee rose without coming to any determination.

The House then adjourned.

PERVERSE.

Cupid met me on the way,
Strung his bow and eyed his arrow.
Tired was I of yesterday,
Tired of waiting for the morrow.

Blithe, I flung my two arms wide
To receive the barb he carried.
"Shoot, I pray thee, Dan!" I cried,
But the willful youngster tarried.

Straight I donned my trappings now—
Visored helm and shirt of leather,
Greaves and breastplate, gauntlets, too,
Stoutly riveted together.

"Since you would not shoot," I said,
"Put your arrow by, false charmer!"
Cupid laughed, took aim. It sped
Through a joint of my armor.

Her Borrowed Plumage.

A Syracuse woman was in Boston some time ago, and she had occasion to get a check cashed, being without ready money. She had no friend who was easily available, but she went to a bank and presented her check. Of course she was told she would have to be identified. The cashier of the bank suggested that she might have one of her cards. She took out her cardcase, but the card she produced proved to be that of one of her friends. This caused her a great deal of confusion, but the accommodating cashier suggested that she might prove her identity by the initials on her cardcase. But these, alas, proved to be those of her mother. Her confusion continued to increase until she thought of the initials on her handkerchief. The marked article was produced to be put in evidence, but when it was examined it was found to bear the initials of another friend. She was thwarted in every direction, but the cashier was "easy." Boston cashiers are apparently not as strict as those in this part of the country, for this particular one said he "guessed" that it was all right, and he cashed the check. Conductors of flim-flam and three card monte games are directed to Boston for a good field of operation.—Syracuse Post.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9th, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Co., Ltd., Ottawa:—

GENTLEMEN,—I hardly know how best to express my appreciation of your valuable rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline. My son Gordon, who is 9 years old, has been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for the past two years; was so bad at times that he had to be carried about on a mattress; was attended by two city doctors apparently without the slightest benefit; spent 10 days at Caledonia Springs, came home with no marked improvement; took three bottles of a Homeopathic remedy now being extensively advertised, which did not relieve him in the least. I was beginning to give up all hope of his recovery, when by chance I mentioned the case to a friend who strongly advised me to give Phrenoline a trial.

I did so, with the result that when my boy had taken only half a bottle he was able to get on his bicycle and ride like any other boy around the block.

I certainly feel that I cannot say too much in praise of your medicine, and shall do all I can to make known its value to others.

Yours very sincerely,

THE BICYCLE MEET—A SUGGESTION.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—In view of the Meet to be held here on the 1st of July I suggest that one way of pleasing our visitors would be to take some pains to have the roads to Chemong Lake and Lakefield in good order for wheeling. A little care and oversight at the time of the road making in June, and a few dollars spent in raking off loose stones would help wonderfully.

But I would go further. I think that a bicycle path could be made on the side of the road to Chemong Lake at a very trifling cost. If the township authorities were appealed to I think they would give some work on the different divisions towards making a path on the roadside, if the bicyclists would hire some men to help. If the stones were removed, and three or four furrows turned inwards with a plough, the hollows filled in, and a roller run over it, a path would be made which the constant running of the wheels would soon make perfect. A thin surface coating of cinders or coarse sand would improve it for wet weather. Even if this were only made in sections, where most practicable and where most required on account of the conditions of the road, it would be of great service, and would make the trip much more enjoyable.

As wheeling increases there is an increasing necessity and advantage both for the bicyclists and for the farmers as well, to have a separate path for bicycles, especially on main thoroughfares leading from a town. The path, too, would be useful as a foot path, which the farmers along the road and the children going to school would not fail to appreciate.

Yours truly,
E. B. EDWARDS.

April 23rd, 1898.

Although a very busy man, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has found time in which to write a great book of over a thousand pages entitled, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in Plain English, or Medicine Simplified. Few books printed in the English language have reached so great a sale as has this popular work, over 680,000 copies having been sold at $1.50 each. The profits on this enormous sale having repaid its author for the great amount of labour and money expended on its production he has now decided to give away, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this valuable book, the recipient only being required to mail to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., of which company he is president, 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent postpaid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. It contains 1008 large pages, and over 300 illustrations, some of them in colours. The free edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50 except only that the books are bound in strong manilla paper covers, instead of cloth. It is not often that our readers have an opportunity to obtain a valuable book on such generous terms, and we predict that few will miss availing themselves of the unusual and liberal offer to which we have called their attention.

THE NAVAL FORCES

Of the Two Powers—Now in Commission and Ready for Active Operations.

There are now two main American fleets, with a third in process of formation. The North Atlantic squadron, the parent fleet, for months have been stationed at Key West, about one hundred miles across from Havana, and it will probably fall to its lot to strike the first blow. This fleet comprises two heavy battleships, the Iowa and the Indiana; the flagship, a fine, fast armoured cruiser, the New York; three modernized monitors, the Puritan, the Terror and the Amphitrite; three cruisers, Cincinnati, Detroit and Marblehead; seven torpedo boats, the Cushing, Dupont, Ericsson, Foote, Porter, Rodgers and Winslow, and six gun boats. The 11 main ships are heavily armed, but, with the exception of the New York, are slow, and one monitor, the Puritan, is said to have broken down. At Hampton Roads, at the mouth of Chesapeake Bay, is stationed the flying squadron. This is composed of one heavy battleship, the Massachusetts, a sister of the Indiana; one second class battleship, the Texas, very similar to the luckless Maine; a splendid armoured cruiser, the Brooklyn, and two very fast unarmoured and rather lightly-armoured cruisers, "commerce destroyers," they are styled, the Columbia and the Minneapolis. Supposed to be composed of fast vessels, this squadron will be hampered a good deal in its movements by the slowness of the Massachusetts, its most formidable fighter. The Texas is fairly fast, the Brooklyn can go 20 knots an hour, and the two commerce destroyers 22 or 23 knots. Hitherto this squadron has been kept in its central position at Hampton Roads to cover the coast line of the United States from attack. Now, however, a third fleet is being formed to undertake this duty. The flagship will be the San Francisco, a good-sized second-class cruiser, and she will be supported by a number of the improvised cruisers recently bought, and armed. The flying squadron will thus have a comparatively free hand.

The Spaniards have two squadrons. At the Cape Verde Islands are four very fine fast cruisers, the Viscaya, the Almirante Oquendo, the Infanta Maria Teresa and the Cristobal Colon. They are almost exactly of a size, are of about the same speed, 19 or 20 knots an hour, and are heavily armed and armored. In addition there is the torpedo squadron, of which so much has been heard. The four big vessels possess in their homogeneity a great advantage over the American flying squadron. They possess 48 heavy guns to 62 in the American squadron, and while they are individually inferior to the Massachusetts, and in some measure to the Brooklyn, in hitting power they easily outclass the Columbia and Minneapolis as fighters, and are superior to the Texas. The torpedo boats form an added advantage. They have been taken clear away from Cuban waters, well across the Atlantic to Cape Verde Islands, and the Americans are wondering what this rather strange manoeuvre means. The reason possibly is that the Spaniards decline to risk these vessels against the heavy fighters of the North Atlantic squadron, and intend to let the latter do what it can with Havana while they go to look for the flying squadron. The American battleship Oregon, similar to the Indiana, is steaming up the coast of South America, on her way from San Francisco, and the Spaniards may be thinking of intercepting her. In Spanish waters there is gathering a fleet composed of the Pelayo, a battleship not quite so powerful as the big American ships, a very formidable fast armored cruiser, the Emperador Carlos V., the Cardinal Cisneros, a sister of the Viscaya, two old and slow reconstructed ironclads, the Numancia and Victoria, a good unarmored cruiser, the Alfonso XIII., a smaller cruser, the Regina Mercedes, and a torpedo squadron, composed of a torpedo gunboat, three destroyers and three torpedo boats. There are rumors that the Pelayo has joined the Cape Verde fleet.

WOMAN'S WAY

I certainly don't like to be always grumbling, but I don't suppose I am so much to blame as long as occasion is supplied. If I conducted my housekeeping as the City Fathers—City Children would be a better term—my husband would be justified in demanding a divorce. Talk, talk, endless talk, seems to be the extent of their transaction of business. Our streets are kept in a most wretched condition for a town of our size. They have been talking—of course, talking—about permanent improvements in the way of walks for months, and the first step has not been taken. Don't you think that Peterborough is something better than an overgrown village? Yet our sidewalks and streets are no better than a village's. My husband says that Ashburnham's streets are better than ours, and better looked after. Why the very word permanent should be enough. I believe in permanent work—I carry out that principle in my housekeeping. I don't buy hemp carpet at ten cents per yard for my hall, the most used room in the house, and put down a a new one every three weeks. But our town dads have been treating our streets on the hemp carpet, homeopathic principle. They have put mud on the streets, my husband says, at one time of the year and taken it off another. We have only just begun to try to make half decent streets. If we had begun years ago and made only a little permanent improvement at a time we should have had at least a mile or two of good streets such as streets should be, where we haven't a yard now. Then they talk of replacing our rattle-trap board walks on George street with permanent concrete pavement; but that seems to be the end of it; not a move has been made yet that looks like business. I think it is disgraceful that the leading business street of a town like Peterborough with its palatial stores, as fine outside and in as any city in the province and nothing but plank sidewalks like a country village. Why, when I have a visitor from a distance and take her down town to see our shops, which I show her with pride, I almost feel like blindfolding her till I get her inside the store, so ashamed am I of the shabby down-at-the-heel wooden walks. People may wonder how a woman takes such an interest in streets. Why the streets are the means by which we move about, the way women get down town and to their neighbour's. If you only heard Mrs. Street Waulker open out on the town councillors it would make a city father's hair curl. Just another word. A few days ago we were smothered with dust. Now we are deluged with mud. If we had the mud removed we should have less dust. I am glad a member of the Board of Health wrote such a nice letter to the EXAMINER. Are we to have the mud taken off this time or will the policy of masterly inactivity wait till it turns to dust in face of another broken-down water wagon? O dear! I'm sick of such doings, and I will get to something more pleasant.

War is a horrid hateful thing anyway, though at present I don't care very much who wins—the bull fighters or the horn-blowers. They say that there is never anything so bad that there is not something good. The war cloud seems to have a silver lining—to us woman especially, since it threatens to make tobacco dearer and if there is one thing I hate more than shame it is tobacco smoke. My John is not perfect, but in some ways he is a model husband. He supplies me with plenty of money for household and personal purposes, according to our means—I don't have, every time I want a quarter, to go on my knees and ask for it with the faith and humility of a good little girl. But he smokes, though he doesn't smoke in the house. If he presumed to pollute the house I keep with his pestiferous tobacco smoke he would soon learn the truth of the French proverb—Il n'y a pas fumée sans feu—if there was smoke about our house you may venture that there would be fire also. I try to be a good wife, but I'd "fire" his nasty pipe and nastier tobacco into the street without hesitation. I'm for peace, but not "peace at any price." I draw the line at smoking in the house. Therefore, if war only makes tobacco dearer, I shall be glad for one redeeming feature of it.

I don't see how any good housekeeper can tolerate smoking in the house. I can't fancy anything nearer Aunt Corny's most virtuous detestation of "shiftlessness" than snowy window curtains and drapery turned to dirty ecrue with the tobacco smoke and saturated with the heavy-smelling odour of stale putrefied smoke.

But I am busy to-day, and must close this, and promise to do better—or worse—next time.

A LIVING DEATH.

Shattered Nerves—Appetite Gone—Digestion Deranged—Discouraged to Death—South American Nervine is Hope and Health in all Such Cases.

Mr. C. J. Curtis, of Sandwich West, Ont., testifies: "I had a very severe attack of LaGrippe, which left me very weak; no appetite, and my nervous system and general constitution very much shattered. I purchased five bottles of South American Nervine, and when I had taken but three bottles I was as well as ever I was. I attribute my recovery—my regained strength and appetite—entirely to this great remedy. I cannot recommend it too highly." Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

Celebrated his Ninety-First Birthday'

It does not fall to the lot of many persons in this world, says the Lakefield News, to see ninety-one years pass by, and there are very few in this section who have done so. On Monday evening last Mr. Isaac Garbutt celebrated his 91st birthday at his residence, and a number of his sons and daughters assembled to congratulate him on the auspicious occasion. A very pleasant evening was spent by those present, and many reminiscences of old times were dwelt on. Among those present were Mr. John Garbutt, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Garbutt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garbutt, of Smith; Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Garbutt, jr., and Mr. and Mrs. W. Garbutt, of Douro; Mr. and Mrs. S. McKibbin, Lakefield, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mann, of Bridgenorth.

THAT OPEN SEWER.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—In Friday's EXAMINER "Citizen" complains of a nuisance existing on Hunter street, near the Ashburnham bridge. Of my own nasal knowledge, that open sewer, for it is nothing else, has been polluting the air and offending the eye for at least four or five years. It is only comparatively lately, however, that it has begun to overflow the sidewalk, and thus make itself more offensive than ever. Corporations are said to have no souls; some, apparently have no sense of smell.

YANKEE WAR PRIZES.

Spanish Merchantmen Falling a Prey to U. S. War Vessels.

AMERICAN FLEET UNDER FIRE.

A Few Shots From the Batteries of Morro Castle—Chasing Spanish Ships—Several Captures Made by the Americans—Troops to Be Sent to Cuba—Army Reorganization.

On board the flagship New York, off Havana, April 23 (2 a.m.).—Morro Castle opened fire on the fighting squadron of the United States at 11 o'clock last night. About ten shots were sent in the direction of the American ships, but not one of them took effect, and no shots were fired in return.

The Spaniards had apparently seen the lights of the New York while the latter was signalling to a ship of the squadron.

The firing was reported by the officer on deck, Ensign J. R. Edie, to Captain Chadwick, who was asleep at the time. The young officer asked the captain, in somewhat excited tones, whether the New York hadn't better discontinue signalling.

"No," muttered Captain Chadwick, with the utmost coolness, "there is no necessity for stopping the signals. Go ahead."

A little later Captain Chadwick was on the forward bridge, from which he watched the tongues of flame shoot out from Morro Castle. He glanced in the direction of the Spanish fortifications for a few seconds, and then turned his back on them, and went back to his bed, perfectly certain that the Spaniards could do no damage at five miles, which was then the approximate distance of the flagship from Morro Castle.

There was no excitement on board the flagship during Morro Castle's futile attempt at gunnery. The discipline was really splendid. In fact at this hour many people on board the flagship do not know that Spain's first guns of war have been fired and that the New York was their target.

The United States cruiser Cincinnati, Captain C. M. Chester, reported to the flagship at midnight: "I have prizes." It is therefore evident that other ships besides the New York have been busy during the night. The extent or value of the captures made by the Cincinnati is not known at this writing.

Morro Castle light, which was burning brightly all the evening, was put out at midnight. The Spaniards evidently realized, though rather late, that the sole use of Morro light up to that time had been to serve as a guide for the fleet of the United States.

The Capture of the Pedro.

The capture of the Spanish steamer Pedro and the incidents attending on the squadron's appearance before Havana form an interesting initial chapter of the history of the war.

About 4.30 p.m. yesterday, when Havana was 15 miles distant, the squadron was signalled into battle formation of the double column, the New York leading the battleships, and the Cincinnati leading the cruisers and gunboats. Just as the evolutions were completed, the following signal was hoisted on the flagship: "Disregard movements of commander-in-chief."

Simultaneously, Captain Chadwick sent Chief Engineer C. J. McConnell this message: "Get up all the steam you can. A steamer has been sighted and the admiral wishes to capture her."

A few moments later smoke was pouring from all three of the New York's funnels and she stood away to the southeast.

The squadron, led by the Iowa, continued on its course, heading in a southwesterly direction. The New York was soon tearing through the water at a rapidly increasing speed, and was fast leaving the squadron in the rear. Away in the distance, close under the mist-covered hills of Cuba, midway between Havana and Matanzas, could be seen the outlines of a large steamer heading to the eastward.

A Chase.

Then the old cry of "A chase, a chase," echoed fore and aft, and the officers and crew of the New York gathered on her deck, eagerly watching the flagship churn through the blue water, foaming white at her stern, until she was making about 18 knots. The New York gained rapidly on the stranger until, to the great delight of all on board the cruiser, it was evident that the latter would out off the steamer from escape. The crew of the New York, by this time, were at their stations, and the guns were loaded and trained.

When the Spanish flag was seen flying at the stranger's stern, a cry of delight went up from the blue jackets on board the New York. It was evident that the Spaniard was doing her best to get away from the cruiser, and was heading in nearer and nearer to the coast, hoping to find safety in shallow water where the warship could not dare to follow her. When the Spaniard was about three miles from the shore at about a mile from the New York, an eight-inch gun from the cruiser's forward turret suddenly belched out a stream of fire, accompanied by a crashing report. It was only meant as a warning shot, but the steel projectile went on ricocheting over the water, in dangerous proximity to the fleeing merchantman.

The Spaniard Hove To.

The echo of the report had hardly died away among Cuba's hills when the Spaniard hove to. About 10 minutes later the New York was near her. In the distance a few lonely-looking houses could be seen perching on a wild-looking beach.

A prize crew, commanded by Lieut. E. E. Capehart, and composed of Assistant Engineer Neall, four marines and a boat's crew, all well armed were lowered over the side of the cruiser, and amid exultant cheers from their comrades on board the New York they pulled over to the Spaniard, which proved to be the Pedro, of Bilbao, an excellent prize.

WAR TO BE DECLARED.

The President Will Ask Congress to Do So at Its Meeting To-day.

Washington, April 25.—A resolution formally declaring war against Spain will be introduced in the Congress of the United States to day. The decision to do so has been reported after mature deliberation, in order to safeguard the interest of the United States. All the arguments, pro and con, were discussed this afternoon at the White House, at a conference in which President McKinley, Attorney-General Griggs, Assistant Secretary Day and Senators Davis and Hales participated, and on its breaking up the announcement was made that Congress tomorrow would be asked to declare what it is held already exists. This was the most important Washington developments of the first war Sunday.

INVASION OF CUBA.

The President Calls Upon the People to Manifest Their Martial Strength—Army Reorganization Bill Passed.

Washington, D. C., April 25.—The President Saturday called upon the people of the United States for the first time in 30 years to manifest their martial strength, this time the call being upon United States people to go forward to battle with a foreign foe. The Secretary of War created a new army corps. The two, taken together with other news, showed that the regular army soon will move on Cuba, and that meanwhile the volunteers will be equipped and drilled.

Army Reorganization Bill Passed.

The House passed the army reorganization bill at the urgent request of the President and Secretary of War, but the Senate did not remain in session as was expected, and the bill will not go to the President until next week. The bill reorganizes the army into the three battalion form, and authorizes the 25 regiments of the infantry arm of the service to be recruited up to a total of 31,800 enlisted men. It authorized the recruitment of the 10 regiments of the calvary arm of the service to a total of 12,000 enlisted men, the seven regiments of the artillery arm of the service to 16,457 men and the engineer battalion of five companies up to 783 enlisted men, including two noncommissioned officers, which makes a total for these four arms of the service with a maximum strength of 61,010.

The bill also makes a total of commissioned officers in excess of the present number authorized by law, of 259, of this number, 25 are majors for the permanent second battalion.

The Reponse Is Prompt.

Telegrams have been coming from almost every section of the country to Secretary Alger from Governors and militia officers, conveying information as to the length of time, surprisingly short, in many cases, that would be required by them to gather their forces ready for muster. The men as fast as mustered in by regular army officers in the various states will be brought to one of these great depots, namely, Washington, Richmond and Atlanta, where they will be organized to meet the requirements of modern army tactics. The fact that Richmond is named as one of these points is taken in some quarters as an evidence that General Lee is to receive a volunteer commission either as one of the four major-generals or one of the nine brigadier-generals provided for in the volunteer bill.

THE SAILORS PROFIT

From the Admiral to the Humblest Sailor on the Boat the War Business Pays.

Washington, April 25.—The Spanish merchantman Buena Ventura, captured off Sand Key light by the United States gunboat Nashville, is said to be worth, with her cargo, $500,000. This is the way the prize money will be divided when the ship and cargo are sold: Value of the prize $500,000, Government's share, one-half, $250,000; Rear-Admiral Sampson's share, one-twentieth, $25,000; Fleet-Captain Staunton's share, one-one-hundredth, $5,000; balance to be divided among officers and men of the Nashville, $220,000; Commander Maynard, one-tenth of ship's share, $22,000; Executive Officer Dillingham, $3,250; Navigating Officer Winslow, $2,250; Ensign Magruder, $1,750; Ensign Kuenzil, $1,750; Ensign Snow, $1,750; Ensign Walker, $1,750; Chief Engineer Freeman, $4,000; Passed Assistant Engineer, $2,500; Assistant Engineer, $2,125; Assistant Surgeon Pleadwell, $2,375; Assistant Paymaster O'Leary, $2,375; Pay Clerk Inglehart, $2,375; boatswain, $1,500; gunner, $1,500; carpenter, $1,500; three hundred petty officers and enlisted men, average share each, $550.80.

LATER CAPTURES.

The Torpedo Boat Porter Brought in a Spanish Schooner, and Gunboat Helena the Str. Miguel Jover.

Key West, April 25.—The fleet captured another prize Saturday afternoon, the schooner Mithilla of Havana. The schooner was taken by the torpedo boat Porter after a lively chase, during which a number of solid shots were fired. A prize crew from the flagship was put on board the schooner, but no ship could be spared to tow her, and she was brought into Key West in tow of the Associated Press dispatch boat Dauntless, which arrived about midnight.

Still another prize was brought in here by the United States gunboat Helena, Commander W. T. Swainburne. She turned out to be the Spanish steamer Miguel Jover, bound from New Orleans for Barcelona, with a cargo amounting to about 2,000 tons of cotton and staves.

She has a crew of 53 men, and the prize is estimated to value $400,000, her cargo alone being worth $150,000. She belonged to the Pinillo line, Barcelona.

A Rich Prize.

Leon Fisher, playing with an old revolver on Wolfe Island, near Kingston, was accidentally shot in the abdomen. The wound is in a dangerous spot.

Mr. Thomas Robinson of Emily died at Omemee, the result of an injury sustained two weeks ago through the running away of a span of spirited horses. Deceased was a member of the Board of Education.

William Kelly, 17 years old, who lives with his uncle, Timothy Kelly, on lot 10, concession 1, Mosa, was committed for trial on a charge of indecently assaulting Louisa Hurdle, aged 12, daughter of Edward Hurdle of lot 11, concession 2.

The young German who accidentally shot himself on Thursday, while hunting near Niverville, Man., was Henry E. Hermes. Instructions were received to have the body embalmed and sent to the deceased's uncle, Mr. Munderloh of Montreal, late German consul at that place.

Lorenzo Stevens, a London bailiff, went to seize an organ in the Piper home, and after he entered the place he took a chair, a few feet from the stove. In a minute he felt boiling water being poured on his face and right arm, burning both badly and causing the flesh to blister. Stevens says Mrs. Piper handled the kettle, and he had her arrested a short time afterwards.

BIG JOHN IS IN LUCK.

The Old Indian Pilot of the St. Lawrence Has Paying Privilege.

Caughnawaga, Que., April 25.—There are great honors in store for Big John Canadien this summer, and profitable honors at that. Dressed in all his warpaint and feathers, like an Indian chief of the first magnitude, and conveyed by a batteau full of other braves, he will set off every afternoon in the year, rain or shine, from his beloved native village, and stop the boats of the New American-St. Lawrence River line, for the purpose of boarding them, and acting as honorary pilot down the rapids. Although the boats will have regular white pilots on board, the passengers will be in blissful ignorance of this and imagine that they are being piloted down by a regular Indian chief. Big John signed his contract yesterday, and is more than delighted with it. He will receive a regular weekly salary, and in addition the right to sell his pictures on all the boats.

Outside of this, his snowshoe business has greatly increased through the Klondike trade. He says that he is continually shipping them by the dozens of pairs, and is getting twice the price for them he used to get.

—From now until May 1st the Spot Cash Grocery Co. will have a "convincing" sale. A copy of the Robert Simpson & Co.'s catalogue is now our counter, so you may compare and "convince" yourself that our prices are as low in every particular.

THE PROHIBITION PLEBISCITE.

The Dominion Government has redeemed its promise to the country in respect of submitting the question of prohibition to a plebiscite. On April 21 Hon. Mr. Fisher introduced into Parliament a bill to provide for the taking of the plebiscite. In national conference assembled the Liberal party formulated a platform of policy, one of the planks of which read thus:—

"That whereas public attention is at present much directed to the consideration of the admittedly great evils of intemperance, it is desirable that the mind of the people should be clearly ascertained upon the question of prohibition by means of a Dominion plebiscite."

This decision was arrived at in 1893, and the Government has taken the first feasible opportunity to implement the promise implied in this resolution. The question to be submitted to the people is very simple, as simple as it could be made. This is the question which the elector is to answer in the plebiscite vote:

"Are you in favour of the passing of an act prohibiting the importation, manufacture or sale of spirits, wine, ale, beer, cider and all other alcoholic liquors for use as beverages?"

It is argued that there has been unnecessary delay in submitting the vote. Those familiar with political events since the accession of the Liberal Government to power, know that more pressing questions have engrossed the attention of the Government to the exclusion of a question of this character, which possibly has gained strength by the discussion it has received in the interval. Besides it is well known that the Government contemplated enacting a new franchise act, and under this bill the vote is to be taken. This will admit of the most complete expression of popular opinion, which could not be obtained with the incomplete voters' lists under the former Dominion Franchise Act. The people will thus have an opportunity of expressing a full unbiased opinion upon the prohibition question, untramelled by any side issue or complicating question, an opportunity which a large proportion of our citizens have demanded.

A SATISFACTORY REPORT.

The official returns to the Customs Department of the foreign trade of Canada for the nine months ending March 31st last are very satisfactory from a national point of view, and show an excess of trade for the current year of no less than $38,715,904. The figures are as follows:

	1896.	1897.
Imports.....	$ 90,549,636	$ 93,042,769
Exports.....	96,336,785	123,096,078
Total.....	$176,886,421	$216,138,847

This shows an excess for 1898 of $39,252,426, exclusive of coin and bullion, which is included in the grand totals, and reduces the excess to the thirty-eight millions mentioned above.

The dutiable imports for the nine months, the duty collected and the free goods are as follows:

	Dutiable.	Duty.	Free.
1897..	$50,300,000	$15,169,800	$30,249,701
1898..	56,534,679	16,585,988	36,508,090

This shows an excess of duty collected for 1898 of $1,416,312 over 1897. The import of coin and bullion for 1898 was $1,400,000 less than in 1897, and the export was nearly a million more.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

AMERICANS are now generally known in Spain as "pigs." This is the result, says the Buffalo Express, of holding the World's Fair in Chicago.

IT is pointed out by the Globe that while the reduction in the rate of interest on Government and Postoffice Savings Bank deposits from 3½ to 3 per cent. has materially reduced the liability for increasing their deposits. The aggregate at their credit in both departments on June 30th last was $48,934,975.72, and on November 30th $49,263,594.75, an increase of $328,619.03. On the total deposits a saving to the country's revenue at the rate of $246,317 per annum has been effected. It is argued, therefore, that the same result may flow from a further reduction of interest, that the deposits may not be diminished, but that the country may make a further large saving in interest.

THE anxiety of the United States to conciliate Great Britain by the payment of the Behring Sea award, forms a precedent which is not without a following. The Boston Herald says: "There is reason for believing that as soon as the attention of President McKinley can be drawn from the subjects that have recently preoccupied his mind, the matter of appointing a commission to consider and adjust the differences that now exist between the United States and the Dominion of Canada will be taken up and pressed to a conclusion. The Canadian Government, it is understood, is strongly desirous that a method of settlement of this kind should be adopted, and in view of the friendly relations which now exist between the English-speaking people of the world, and the advantage to us of being on the best of terms with our northern neighbours, it is to be hoped that within a short time this needed action will be taken."

A ROMANTIC BLUE BOOK.

Only to those who are fond of statistics will an ordinary so-called Ottawa blue book prove interesting. But the report of the Commissioner of the Northwest Mounted Police for 1897, is not an ordinary volume, and it contains much that will please and instruct anyone who is contemplating a journey to the Yukon, or who, having friends in that far away country, is eager to obtain reliable information.

The diary of Inspector Starth, as published in the Government blue book, being the story of his trip from Regina to the Yukon, covers a period extending from the 8th April to the 12th June last; and yet the Inspector contrives in eleven pages of the Report to give an extremely graphic account of the journey of his party of mounted police to Fort Constantine. The Inspector's diary deserves reproduction in a newspaper, so that all might judge of the interest attaching to his official report. We have only space for two brief extracts from this romantic book of travel.

"Man who was camped about three miles above us on Bennett has never been heard of since he stopped to dinner with us one day. His tent and outfit remain there untouched I have heard from parties who came down since."

There is a certain grim suggestiveness about this brief reference to a nameless man who disappeared after dinner, and whose tent and outfit remain untouched, lest he return.

Again, we are surprised at the closing paragraph of this official report to the Government:

"The whole trip has been a delightful one, and the scenery along this route is unsurpassed by anything I ever saw before. We were almost sorry when the trip was over."

How are we to reconcile the story of this mounted policeman with the conflicting recitals of frightful hardship and suffering experienced by other well-equipped expeditions. Can discipline and physical fitness for a journey to Klondike make all the difference, or does the disposition of ordinary traveller lead him into exaggeration?

HON. JOHN DRYDEN'S WORK.

Complimentary Comment by Competent Authority—"Farming."

The Hon. John Dryden has served his native province faithfully and well, and we have no hesitation in stating that no one in Ontario has done more for the advancement of our agricultural interests than he. Being a practical and successful farmer, as well as a thorough business man, he has combined liberality and an intimate knowledge of every branch of the work in his management of the Department of Agriculture. This has enabled him to deal generously with its various branches and at the same time to expend wisely and effectively the moneys allotted to his department.

In looking over the legislation of the past few years in the interest of agriculture we find his guiding hand in every portion of it. Among the acts of legislation introduced by him may be mentioned an act for the prevention of yellows in peaches and of black knot in cherries and plums; an act for the prevention of the spraying of fruit trees while in full bloom, in the interests of beekeepers; an act for the protection of fruit trees from the San Jose scale passed at the last session. In addition he has, by amendment, improved many of the acts on the statue books relating to agriculture, the whole tending towards more effectiveness and greater consolidation. Mr. Dryden has, during his administration, been instrumental in greatly enlarging the scope of work at the Ontario Agricultural College, and making it more effective. He has given every encouragement to the dairy industry by grants to the various dairy associations, by inaugurating the travelling dairy, and by establishing successful dairy schools at Guelph, Strathroy and Kingston. He has established twelve fruit experimental stations in the Province, and organized a spraying outfit to give the fruit growers practical lessons on the advantages of spraying. Other acts of his worthy of note are the appointment of a Provincial Road Instructor; the improvement of the Farmers' Institute system, and placing it in charge of a permanent superintendent; the development of Northwestern Ontario and the establishment of the pioneer dairy farm at Wabigoon; the distribution of more reports on agricultural subjects among the farmers, and the assistance rendered Hon. Mr. Fisher in removing the quarantine regulation between Canada and the United States. All these acts will be of lasting benefit to the Ontario farmer.

Although a very busy man, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has found time in which to write a great book of over a thousand pages entitled, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in Plain English, or Medicine Simplified. Few books printed in the English language have reached so great a sale as has this popular work, over 680,000 copies having been sold at $1.50 each. The profits on this enormous sale having repaid its author for the great amount of labour and money expended on its production he has now decided to give away, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this valuable book, the recipient only being required to mail to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., of which company he is president, 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent postpaid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. It contains 1008 large pages, and over 300 illustrations, some of them in colours. The free edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50 except only that the books are bound in strong manilla paper covers, instead of cloth. It is not often that our readers have an opportunity to obtain a valuable book on such generous terms, and we predict that few will miss availing themselves of the unusual and liberal offer to which we have called their attention.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

All the members were present. The following communication were received from Kerr & Kerr, solicitors, Peterborough, that Geo. Moved by Messrs. Doyell and Grady, that from the evidence of the overseer of highways, in who-e division the trouble is said to have occurred, and from other reliable evidence, that there was no hole in the travelled road, therefore the said George Steele has no claim on the township, and the clerk be instructed to notify him of the fact.—Carried. POSITION OF SPAIN.

As Defined in a Decree Just Gazetted in Madrid.

NEUTRAL FLAGS RESPECTED.

The Right of Privateering Treaties With the United States Annulled—A Plan of Campaign Agreed Upon—The Cabinet May Formally Declare War—A Protest From England.

Madrid, April 25.—The following decree was gazetted yesterday: "Diplomatic relations are broken off between Spain and the United States, and the state of war being begun between the two countries, numerous questions of international law arise, which must be precisely defined, chiefly because the injustice and provocation come from our adversaries, and it is they who, by their detestable conduct, have caused this grave conflict."

The decree then says Spain maintains her right to have recourse to privateering and announces that for the present only auxiliary cruisers will be fitted out; treaties with the United States are annulled, 30 days is given to United States ships to leave Spanish ports, and the rules Spain will observe during the war is outlined in five clauses, covering neutral flags and goods, contraband of war, what will be considered a blockade, the right to search and what constitutes contraband of war, ending with saying foreign privateers will be regarded as pirates.

Continuing, the decree reads: "We have observed with the strictest fidelity the principle of international law, and have shown the most scrupulous respect for morality and the right of government. There is an opinion that the fact that we have not adhered to the declaration of Paris does not exempt us from the duty of respecting the principles therein enunciated. The principle Spain unquestionably refused to admit then was the abolition of privateering. The Government now considers it most indispensable to make absolute reserve on this point, in order to maintain our liberty of action and uncontested right to have recourse to privateering when we consider it expedient, first, by organizing immediately a force of cruisers, auxiliary to the navy, which will be composed of vessels of our mercantile marine and with equal distinction in the work of our navy.

"Clause one—The state of war existing between Spain and the United States annuls the treaty of peace and amity of October 27, 1795, and the protocol of January 12, 1877, and all other agreements, treaties or conventions in force between the two countries.

"Clause two—From the publication of these presents, 30 days is granted to all ships of the United States, anchored in our harbors, to take their departure free of hindrance.

"Clause three—Notwithstanding that Spain has not adhered to the declaration of Paris, the Government, respecting the principle of the law of nations, proposes to observe, and hereby orders to be observed, the following regulations of maritime law:

"One—Neutral flags cover the enemy's merchandise, except contraband of war.

"Two—Neutral merchandise, except contraband of war, is not seizable under the enemy's flag.

"Three—A blockade to be obligatory, must be effective, viz.: It must be maintained with sufficient force to prevent access to the enemy's litteral.

"Four—The Spanish Government, upholding its right to grant letters of marque, will at present confine itself to organizing, with the vessels of the mercantile marine, a force of auxiliary cruisers which will co operate with the navy, according to the needs of the campaign, and will be under naval control.

"Five—In order to capture the enemy's ships and confiscate the enemy's merchandise and contraband of war, under whatever form, the auxiliary cruisers will exercise the right to search on the high seas, and in the waters under the enemy's jurisdiction, in accordance with international law and the regulations which will be published."

Six—Defines what is included in contraband of war, naming weapons, ammunition, equipments, engines and, in general, all the appliances used in war.

Seven—To be regarded and judged as pirates, with all the rigor of the law, are captains, masters, officers and two-thirds of the crew of vessels which, not being American, shall commit acts of war against Spain, even if provided with letters of marque issued by the United States.

As to the Paris.

Madrid, April 25.—It is said that at the meeting of the Spanish Cabinet held Sunday instructions were issued to effect the capture of the American liner Paris.

May Formally Declare War.

London, April 25.—It is announced in a special despatch from Madrid that Spain may formally declare war against the United States as a result of the capture of the Spanish Buena Ventura.

An Act of Piracy.

Madrid, April 25.—El Epoca (Conservative) characterizes the capture of the Buena Ventura as "an act of piracy befitting a nation which has carried on for three years' filibustering against a friendly power," and adding, "The rumored intention of the United States to supplement their inefficient blockade by means of submarine mines would be illegal."

France Will Help the Wounded.

Paris, April 25.—The French Society for the Assistance of Wounded Soldiers has donated $10,000, and has opened a subscription for the purpose of aiding the American and Spanish Red Cross Societies.

WAS IT ILLEGAL?

Spanish Cabinet Says the Capture of the Buena Ventura Was Unlawful.

London, April 24.—It is announced in a despatch from Madrid to the Evening News, dated last evening, that at a Cabinet Council, presided over by the Queen Regent at noon on Saturday, summoned to consider the capture of the Spanish steamer Buena Ventura by the United States cruiser Nashville, it was decided to claim that the vessel was unlawfully captured, and the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Senor Gullon, was instructed to seek the support of the representatives of the foreign powers at Madrid.

AS EUROPE VIEWS IT.

Condemnation of the United States Except From Russia.

London, April 25.—With an important exception, there is general continental condemnation for the United States today. This exception emanates from Russia. The St. Peterburg Viedomosti, treating of Russia's attitude toward the United States, says: "The friendship which has subsisted for many years between the two states excludes every idea of an unfriendly attitude upon the part of Russia at the present juncture." The other continental newspapers continue their bitter hostility.

China Squadron Sails.

Hong Kong, April 25.—Five warships belonging to the United States squadron, accompanied by two storeships, left here yesterday under sealed orders.

The United States cruisers Olympia and Baltimore will await the arrival of the United States consul, Mr. C. F. Williams, from Manila, and will follow the fleet to-day.

The Foreign Enlistment Act has been proclaimed by the British authorities here, thus enforcing the neutrality of British subjects.

Hayti Will Not Sell Coal to Spain.

Port au Prince, Hayti, April 24.—Mr. William F. Powell, the United States Minister, had a two hours' conference with the Minister for Foreign Affairs, and received the assurance that a special order would be issued forbidding Haytians to supply coal to Spaniards at any of the ports of the republic.

A Plan of Campaign.

Madrid, April 25.—It is believed that the Spanish admirals, at their meeting yesterday, approved of a plan of campaign against the United States. All information on the subject, naturally, is withheld. The rush to change paper currency for silver has ceased, thus ending the monetary crisis.

Protest From England.

New York, April 25.—A Washington special to the Press says it is understood England has protested against the capture of the Buena Ventura. Though the ship was owned by Spaniards, the cargo belonged to Englishmen, it is asserted.

The need of a good Spring Medicine is almost universal and Hood's Sarsaparilla exactly meet this need. Be sure to get Hood's.

WHEAT IN DEMAND.

Prices at European Centres Continue to Advance—Chicago Rises in Sympathy—Spring Chickens $1 a Pair.

Saturday Evening, April 23.

Grain and provision markets were rather unsteady to-day, but on the whole continued the upward trend of the last few days. The chief factor in the strength of these markets is, no doubt, the outbreak of hostilities between Spain and the United States, which causes Europe to hasten purchases, but the situation is also given backbone by the real requirements of France and Italy, which countries, it is rumored, will temporarily reduce their import duties on wheat. Foreign markets were excited to-day, and reported a continued large demand, accompanied by rising prices. At Liverpool wheat futures opened ½d higher, and closed ½d higher to ⅝d lower for the day, while Paris showed a gain of 25c to 50c, and Antwerp an improvement of 25c over yesterday. Russia reported a scarcity of wheat, and an advance of 15c in prices. These advances caused Chicago to rise in sympathy, July gaining ⅝c for the day. Corn closed ½d to ¼d higher in Liverpool, and ⅜c higher in Chicago. In the Windy City provisions reacted slightly from their big advances of the week, but across the water the stiff prices maintained their strength with advances in some lines, lard alone declining. At Toronto wheat was strong and higher. On the street spring wheat sold at 98c, and red winter at 99c.

Caterpillars on Fruit Trees.

All apple trees, wild cherry trees, etc., should be carefully watched for the next two weeks and the nests of young caterpillars which are beginning to show life should be removed. If the trees are not worth caring for they should be cut down. A little care just now will save a great deal of trouble later. We do not wish to let this plague get the mastery as it threatened to do last year. A great deal has been done to save the shade trees. The fruit trees must not be neglected.

The Easter Lily.

There is at present on exhibition at the West End Greenhouses (A. Blade, Manager), a very beautiful display of lillies in full bloom. These popular herbaceous perennials had not sufficiently matured at Easter, and but few specimens of any kind were to be seen—Easter having come rather too soon for them this year. The collection at Mr. Rogers's West End Greenhouses are now fully developed and well flowered; and what with the great beauty and variety of the colours and the sweetly intoxicating odours of the bell-shaped flowers, the senses of the visitor is delightfully charmed.

The celebrated imported Clydesdale stallion, McNair, formerly owned by Mr. Robert Bailey, of Fowler's Corners, has been sold to Mr. James Kimhirst, of Keene, well known to the farmers of Peterborough as an enterprising horseman for the past 14 years, having brought into the county some of the best stallions that have travelled in it during the last decade. This last stroke of Mr. Kimhirst's enterprise must commend him to the farmers and horsemen of this district, for in McNair he has a horse with more than a provincial fame, and it is hoped he may receive that support he is entitled to. It is understood he will travel this season in the East Riding of Peterborough.

BLAZING AWAY AT HAVANA.

The United States Formally Declared War This Afternoon.

THE FLEET AT HAVANA IS STILL INACTIVE.

The Spanish Fleet Lying at Cape Verde Islands.

A CASE OF "GREAT CRY AND LITTLE WOOL"

The war news is still disappointingly meagre. The U. S. Squadron is lying idle in front of Havana and the stay of the Spanish fleet at Cape Verde Islands is a puzzle. The most ominous feature of this afternoon's despatches is the conference of the powers and the decision of Russia to support Spain. This may lead to a complication that will give rise to something more serious than capturing peaceful merchant vessels, whose details read like amiable pirate stories adapted to Sunday school reading. There hasn't been a drop of blood spilt yet.

Efforts to Save Maximilian.

In The Century is printed "The Fall of Maximilian," the final paper in Mrs. Cornelius Stevenson's series of reminiscences of the French intervention in Mexico. Mrs. Stevenson says of the sentencing of the unhappy Austrian prince:

Brought up for trial on June 13 before a military tribunal, which held its court on the stage of a public theater, he was ably defended by Mexico's foremost lawyers, Messrs. Mariano Riva-Palacio, Martinez de la Torre, Eulalio Ortega and Jesus-Maria Vazquez, but his doom was already sealed. On June 14, at 11 o'clock at night, he was sentenced to death.

Every effort was made by his lawyers and by the foreign representatives whom he had summoned to his side to obtain from the republican government a mitigation of the sentence. The queen of England and the government of the United States begged for mercy. Baron Magnus, Baron Lago and M. de Hoorickx, in the names of the European monarchs allied to the prince by ties of relationship, moved heaven and earth to influence the president. Princess Salm-Salm cleverly used every means in a woman's power to accomplish the same end. In vain.

President Juarez could well afford to be magnanimous, but under the existing social conditions in Mexico who, knowing all the facts, could blame if stern justice was allowed to take its course?

FELL DOWN STAIRS AND WAS KILLED.

DEATH OF MR. JAMES GIRVEN SR., OF DOWNER'S CORNERS.

He was Ascending the Stairs on the Way to Bed When he Suddenly Lost His Balance and Came Crashing to the Bottom—He was Picked up Dead.

The little settlement at Downer's Corners was horrified on Saturday evening to hear of the very sudden manner in which death had overtaken Mr. James Girven, of that village.

It appears that when he was ascending the stairs at about 9 p. m. and had just reached the top, he lost his balance and fell to the bottom. Death was almost instantaneous, for after being picked up by his son he only opened his eyes before expiring, not being able to even articulate. At the time of his death the deceased was living with his son Henry, and by a singular coincidence at the time of the accident the family were in the sitting room listening to Henry reading aloud from the EXAMINER, an account of the sudden death of Mrs. Lawrence Smith, he was interrupted by the fall of his father on the stairs and rushing out picked him up just as he was expiring. The only external evidence of injury was a severe scalp wound.

The deceased was 93 years of age, but had always been a very healthy and active man up to the time of his death. He was able to walk into town and to Mrs. Fawcett's, his daughter, regularly, and had been working around in his garden on Saturday.

Mr. Girven was born in the County Fermanagh, Ireland, in 1806, and left there at the age of 21, coming to Canada and settling in Otonabee, where he has resided ever since, with the exception of one year that he spent in the United States. He was married to Miss Eliza Baxter, sister of the late Wm. Baxter, of Peterborough, and Jas. Baxter, of Otonabee. About a year ago she suffered a paralytic stroke, which resulted in the breaking up of the homestead, the wife going to live with her daughter, Mrs. Fawcett. Besides the widow, six sons and three daughters survive, viz., Richard, of Dummer; John, of Minnesota; William, James and Henry, of Otonabee; Samuel, of Norwood; Mrs. Spence, of Peterborough; Mrs. Fawcett, of Otonabee, and Mrs. Fields, of Minnesota. Robert, the eldest son, died some years ago.

Latterly the deceased has been living with his son Henry, at Downer's Corners, from where the funeral took place at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Attention is called to the Auction Sale of House and Lot, No. 19 Gilmour Street, at present occupied by Mrs. W.H. Sherwood, on Wednesday next, at 12.30 This is a desirable property, with all modern improvements, and in one of the best localities in town.

THE LATEST WAR NEWS.

THE EVENING EXAMINER has all the latest despatches, containing all the reliable war news up to 3 o'clock—four hours ahead of the evening Toronto papers. No use waiting for news you can get in THE EXAMINER.

LIEUT. JOLY DE LOTBINIERE.

He Spent Sunday in Town With His Sister, Mrs. Greenwood.

Lieut. Joly de Lotbiniere, of the Royal Engineers, who has returned home on leave from India, spent Sunday in town with his sister, Mrs. H. S. Greenwood.

Lieut. Lotbiniere, son of Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere, Minister of Inland Revenue, is at present recruiting his health in Canada before rejoining his corps in India. He is a young Canadian who has seen much hard work on the frontiers of the empire.

He graduated from the Royal Military College nine years ago, and is only in his thirtieth year now, and after a brief stay at Chatham, the training headquarters of the Engineers' offices, he was sent out to India, and for some time was stationed at Gilgit, in Cashmere, but was unfortunate enough to miss the Chitral campaign, which began suddenly while he was off on leave. From Cashmere he was transferred to Somaliland, which is a particularly warm bit of Africa, adjacent to the Red Sea, with natives of a sort that need careful watching. After eighteen months, during which he assisted in instilling a wholesome respect for the flag into the Somalis, Lieut Joly was transferred to Central India, where he had charge of the famine camps at Nagpur during the famine of 1896-97. On the outbreak of hostilities on the frontier he was attached to the Tirah Field Force, and went through the campaign. The hardships of the campaign resulted in a breakdown, which took the form of fever and dysentery, and he was at its close sent home on leave. He will leave Ottawa in June to rejoin his company in India.

A FATAL ACCIDENT.

PETERBOROUGH MAN KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Struck by a Locomotive at Perrytown and Died a Few Minutes Later—No Blame Attached to Trainmen—Was Crossing the Track.

A fatal accident occurred at the Perrytown station Friday afternoon, by which Andrew Davidson, aged about 70 years, lost his life.

It seems that just as the one o'clock train was coming down the grade towards the Perrytown crossing, Mr. Davidson, who lives in a small house near the railway, was in the act of crossing the track. He stepped forward, and apparently thought he was out of reach of the engine, as did also the engineer. Unfortunately, however, he did not step far enough, for the engine struck him a terrific blow, knocking him over and causing him to roll in the ditch by the side of the track.

The train was stopped at once and the unfortunate man was carried into his house and every care given him. The blow he received, however, was a fatal one, and the man died a few minutes after being taken in.

Mr. Davidson was a resident of Ashburnham for a number of years and at present has two daughters and a son residing in the country.

The Speeding Committee reported, showing a programme of special attractions with a prize list not exceeding $350. On motion of Messrs. Hunter and Winch the races will be held on Driving Park track, provided arrangements can be made for procuring it. Messrs. Winch and Bennett were appointed as a committee to arrange this matter.

On motion of Messrs. Stothart and Winch the society will hold a picnic on June 9th at Jubilee Point. The society will meet at 4 30 p.m. next Saturday to confer with Mr. Calcutt in regard to arranging for the grounds, etc.

DROPPED DEAD IN HIS BOAT.

James Gilroy, of Smith Township, Dies Suddenly.

A VICTIM OF HEART DISEASE.

His Demise Occurred on Saturday Evening whilst he was out Fishing—Interment to Take Place at Newmarket.

Special to The Examiner.

LAKEFIELD, April 25th, 1898.

On Saturday evening Mr. James Gilroy, who resides on the 17th concession of Smith, left home with the intention to set out some night lines for fish in Mud lake. Not returning search was made, and on Sunday his dead body was discovered in a punt on the shore of the lake.

He had evidently sat down in the punt; and started to bail out a little water in it, or arrange the lines, when he fell over backward and died without a struggle, the fishing tackle and bait taken from the house being in the boat.

A messenger was at once sent to Coroner Dr. Bell, Lakefield, who, on hearing the particulars, and learning that the deceased had been troubled with heart disease, issued a burial permit.

The body will be taken to Newmarket.

Aldon Sequel is a little sister of Aldon Visor, owned by Mr. Chas. McCormick, of town.

WRESTLING.

On Saturday evening Mr. Thos. Doyle was aroused from his sleep by a young man who wanted to "try a fall" with him. He boasted that he had "crown de chief," and nagged Doyle until he got up and took the disturber of his peace to the training quarters. Naturally Tom was somewhat riled at being roused at such an hour, and proceeded to dispose of his man in short order. A sudden grip of his ankles brought him to the floor in a moment, then he got the "grapevine and hip," and as he struck the ceiling and then the floor he thought he had struck a cyclone. One more fall completely disabused his mind of the idea that he could wrestle, and it will be a long time before he wakes up a professional wrestler again.

Doyle is now in fine shape for his match on May 4th, with Harrison, and his friends will be at the ring side with plenty of money.

THE WHEEL.

The Canadian Wheelman says:—The meet fight was really a tame affair when compared with those that preceded it last year and the year before. There was no doubt that the climax was reached in '97. Ottawa 'tis true made considerable of a spread but Peterborough—well a person would hardly know they were in town—but they got the votes. The Capital men had a room at the Rossin House, where they displayed some beautiful photographs of the scenic grandeur of the Washington of the north and every delegate was loaded up with badges, small souvenir photographs, meet literature and cigars. A coterie of choice spirits—human—was in charge and every caller was given the glad hand and pleasant smile. There is no doubt that Ottawa made a third of their votes at least, while in Toronto.

Peterborough's methods were so different to anything seen for some time as to excite comment. It was hard to locate a Peterborough man until it was all over. One of their rooters expressed the sentiments of the crowd when he said: "We've spent our good money in former years, had brass bands, parades and sport galore, but this time it is different. We are confident we are going to win and will save the money to entertain the boys on July 1st."

A BAD BOY.

He Stole a Pocket Book Out of the Golden Lion.

A nine-year-old boy was arrested on Friday charged with stealing a pocket book out of Mr. R. Fair's store. The lad spent the night at Relief Officer Miller's, and on being brought before the magistrate on Saturday, was dismissed with a warning. The warning, however, had little effect, as the same lad created quite a disturbance on the market square a little later in the day by teasing a negro fakir, so that the police had to be sent for in order to frighten him away.

TEACHERS' TROUBLES.

Teaching School a Severe Tax on the Nervous System.

How Teachers may Prevent the Breakdowns and Collapse which often Threaten.

The worry and work, the strain and anxiety of a teacher's life are such as to tell severely on the nervous system. Time and again teachers have had to give up good positions on account of run down health and shattered nerves. To such we confidently recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and in doing so we are supported by the testimony of Mrs. Reilly, Colborne Street, Chatham, Ont., who made the following statement:—"Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are, beyond question, the best remedy for nervousness and all exhausted conditions of the system I know of. My daughter, as a result of over study and close application to her duties as school teacher, became much run down and debilitated and was very nervous. Two months ago she began taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They acted quickly and effectually in her case, making her strong and building up her entire system." Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure Palpitation, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Dyspepsia, Anaemia, Female Troubles, After Effects of Grippe, Debility, or any condition arising from Disordered Nerves, Weak Heart, or Watery Blood. Price 50c. a box, or 3 for $1.25, at all druggists. T. MILBURN & Co., Toronto, Ont.

TO TEACH THE FARMERS.

A System of Local Farm Illustration Stations to Be Established All Over the Dominion.

Ottawa, April 23.—At a meeting of the Agriculture and Colonization Committee yesterday, Professor Robertson gave a possible plan for the establishment and maintenance of Dominion illustration stations for farmers. This will be another advance in the direction of further help by the Government, intended to assist farmers in every county to obtain the largest returns from their farms and their labors.

Local organizations are asked to provide an illustration field or illustration station, to be used for the purposes mentioned. The county or township council might provide a field where all farmers would see the best methods put into practice, and they would be able to adopt them in their own farms. All details would be carried out by the department, which would also provide seed and compensate the occupier of the land, who would be superintendent of illustrations, for the expenses incurred. The expense to the Government for seed and labor would be from $50 to $100 per "illustration field."

A traveling inspector and lecturer would be provided for each group of twenty-five illustration stations. The cost of the whole scheme to the Government would be from $100 to $200 per station.

Trickery Among Yukon Prospectors.

The gold commissioner in the Yukon, writing from Dawson City to the Minister of the Interior, calls attention to the custom of staking every stream and gulf in the country whether there is any prospect or not. Men think nothing of perjuring themselves by taking the oath that they have found gold. Streams are staked for several miles in the space of a few hours. The definition of a mining division, which allows a claim on every different stream which flows into the Yukon, like every other regulation which allows any latitude, has been abused. Many of these creeks will never be worked. It would cost more to make a survey of these small streams than all the revenue which may be expected from them. Hundreds of those worthless claims will be advertised for sale on the markets in the outside world this winter at prices far in excess of their value. Small investors will suffer and the money paid by them will be as good as thrown away.

How Mr. Hobbs Got the Twine Contract.

Douglas Stewart, inspector of penitentiaries, was examined at the public accounts committee yesterday. He stated to Mr. George Taylor that the contract for the output of binder twine from the Kingston Penitentiary for 1896-97 was given to Mr. Hobbs of London, on his recommendation. McColl Bros. of St. John, N.B., had a higher tender in, but failed to put up the deposit and afterwards withdrew their tender. The department managed to work up the tender of Mr. Hobbs to be nearly equal to McColl Bros., and gave him the contract. Mr. Stewart said he was satisfied that there was collusion between the two parties, but the contract as decided upon finally was recommended by him.

The Canada Atlantic Grain Route.

The steamer William R. Linn, with a cargo of 214,500 bushels of corn from South Chicago to Parry Sound, is the first vessel to feed the Canada Atlantic line, the new lake and rail route from Chicago to the coast. The Linn's cargo is for export by way of Montreal, and its progress to the ocean liners will be watched eagerly by grain shippers, as the managers of the line will endeavor to show that their route is what they claimed for it—the shortest, quickest and cheapest way from Chicago to tide water.

THE FRANCHISE BILL

And the Alien Labor Act Discussed in the House.

J. D. KING STRIKE IN TORONTO.

The Right of Civil Servants to Vote—Mr. Heyd's Indian Amendment Defeated—Some Progress Made in the Discussion of the Franchise Bill of 1898.

Ottawa, April 23.—The authority of the alien labor law was invoked in the House yesterday for the protection of the striking shoe operatives in Toronto against the introduction of foreigners from the United States to take their places. It was stated on the authority of two evening newspapers that agents of J. D. King & Co. are in the United States in quest of operatives, and it was urged that this is a proper case for the application of the law against alien workmen. The Postmaster-General informed the House that it is competent for any resident of Toronto to call upon the Attorney-General of Canada to institute proceedings under the Act to exclude these people. The franchise bill occupied the attention of the House during the greater part of the Parliamentary day and some little progress was made. Mr. Heyd's amendment guaranteeing a continuance of the franchise to Indians was rejected. Mr. Wood's bill to incorporate the Nickel Steel Company of Canada was given its third reading without opposition.

J. D. King and Alien Labor.

The alien labor discussion was raised by Mr. Clarke of West Toronto, who called attention to the strike of the employes of J. D. King & Co. He said it was stated that the firm was endeavoring to defeat the strikers by sending an agent to the United States for the purpose of inducing aliens to go to Toronto to take the places of strikers. In view of the legislation passed last session, he thought the attention of the Government should be drawn to the action of Messrs. King & Co. The dispute between that firm and their employes was a domestic one, not an international one, and could be best settled without the aid or intervention of foreigners. His view was that the importation of aliens would cause much more friction than would otherwise result, and would delay an amicable settlement of the dispute. Under the provisions of the Act of last session Messrs. King & Co. were acting illegally by sending to the United States for workmen. Knowing the excellent character of many of the employes of the firm, as well as the high standing of the employers, he would be sorry to see anything done that would intensify the feeling now prevailing. If the alien labor law was to be valid and effective, its operation should be invoked on an occasion of this kind. He asked the intervention of the Minister of Justice to see that the employes of King & Co. got justice and fair play.

Mr. Mulock explained the mode of operation of the Act by application from a resident of any locality to the Attorney-General to institute proceedings or to authorize their institution, saying that in every case where such petition had been made action had been taken, in accordance with the spirit of the Act. If the charges in the newspapers were well founded, he said, he was quite sure that the department, as in the past, would be equal to the occasion, and would apply the Act in accordance with its intent.

Mr. McLaren (Conservative, South Perth) said there was a good deal of complaint in Stratford against Americans being brought in to take the places of Canadian railway men. He would like to see protection given to the Canadians working for the railway companies there.

Mr. Cowan said the Act had been enforced in the city of Windsor, and as a result since not a single Canadian had been turned back from Detroit.

Mr. McGregor claimed that the Act had given general satisfaction in Essex. Messrs. McCleary and Taylor condemned the Government for not enforcing the law.

The subject then dropped.

The Franchise Bill.

The House then went into committee on the Franchise bill.

Mr. Kaulbach called attention to injustice of the disqualification of Dominion officials by the provincial bodies in certain provinces.

Mr. Heyd's amendment to retain the Indian franchise was then put and declared lost.

Mr. Russell (Liberal, Halifax) said it was quite possible under the terms of the bill that the measure might throw doubt on the qualifications of certain persons under the provincial laws. He objected to Opposition members taking up the time of the House with long constitutional disquisitions. He moved to add the following sub-amendment to clause 5:

"Provided that any person whose name appears as a voter on any voters' list, and would be qualified to vote at a Provincial election, but for the fact of his being or having been an employe or in receipt of wages in any department of the Dominion Government, or any Provincial Government, shall be qualified to vote at any election of a member of the House of Commons, notwithstanding the provisions of any act disqualifying him from voting at such Provincial election.

Mr. Monk offered a more comprehensive amendment.

The Solicitor-General said that Mr. Russell's amendment did not go far enough, and Mr. Monk's did not provide the necessary machinery. He would therefore move an amendment himself, which would provide for Dominion officials being put on the lists in provinces in which they are not entitled to vote locally, and also to extend the franchise to them in provinces where they are not entitled to vote at all. As he would not be ready to submit his amendment till Monday the clause was allowed to stand over in the meantime.

An amendment or two being rejected, it was finally agreed that the Government should add another sub-section to the bill, giving effect to the objections indicated.

On the next sub-section dealing with the voters' lists to be used, the Solicitor-General admitted it was evident there was a danger of the Local Legislatures interfering to make the franchise on lists such as the Parliament of Canada might not be willing to accept. Therefore, he proposed to take the lists in force 60 days before the proclamation for a general election.

The Solicitor's amendment was eventually carried.

The House was still in session at 2 a.m.

WHEAT HIGHER.

War Scare and High Freights Responsible—Stronger Local Grain Markets—The Local Prices.

Friday Evening, April 22.

To-day's wheat markets were irregular, with marked strength at foreign centres.

At Liverpool spot wheat closed 1d to 2d higher than yesterday, and futures 1d to 2½d higher. Paris and Antwerp closing quotations were from 25c to 50c higher. These advances abroad, accompanied by heavy purchasing orders from England and the Continent, kept prices up in Chicago pretty well all day. July wheat sold up to 90c, and the more remote options also advanced. Later, however, on the feeling that the European demand was due to a desire to avoid high freight rates, and not because of any scarcity, the Chicago market became heavy, July closing ½c below yesterday's closing, and the later options also lower. May, however, maintained an advance of 2½c for the day and closed at $1.14½. Corn is ½c higher in Chicago and 1d to 2d higher in Liverpool. The local grain market is stronger.

SAVE THE MOTHERS

Dodd's Kidney Pills Their Only Safety in Female Diseases.

You have seen a flower nipped by frost, fade and die in the flush of its beauty. That is how women die when attacked by any of the diseases peculiar to their sex.

Woman's burdens are woefully heavy. Her sufferings are agonizing. Her patience is grand. Disease preys upon her. The light dies out of her eyes, her steps become slow and dragging; she loses flesh; grows sallow, listless, droops like a flower. Then she dies. Her family is left to the cold mercy of the world.

"Mother's dead!" What a piteous phrase. What sufferings have been endured before it was used. Why should mothers, wives, sisters suffer so? They need not. Dodd's Kidney Pills will quickly and thoroughly cure all cases of Female Weakness. They never fail. They give health, strength, courage: a new lease of life.

A QUEEN IN RAGS.

"Houp-la!"

Crack went the circus master's whip as the girl's flying figure went through the last tinsel covered circle, higher even than the preceding ones, and alighted safely in the saddle amid rounds of rough applause.

One solitary figure occupied the "dress" seats—a tall, dark man, with bronzed face and keen eyes—and to this one upper class patron was the cream of the entertainment directed.

As the girl rode round before her exit she made the usual feint of blowing a kiss to the stranger, but the circus master's jealous eye noted that a deep flush dyed her forehead. He also noted that the same solitary figure was there for the third night in succession—was there alone—and that as soon as Queen Camilla left the ring he got up, collected stick, hat and gloves and departed.

"He's a fish out of water," muttered the man to himself. "What's he doin here, I wonder? If he's got an eye upon Camilla, he'll soon find as how others 'as got an eye upon him."

And that night, after a frugal but somewhat noisy supper, the ringmaster sought out a fat, elderly woman, always strongly redolent of gin, but who, in spite of that and other little delinquencies, was called by courtesy the wardrobe mistress. The manager—for in Leo Salterne's circus the manager, owner, director and ringmaster were rolled in one—came upon this lady as she was folding away Camilla's glittering robes.

"Look here!" he began roughly. "Have you heard anything about the gent that's been hangin around?"

"Course I have," muttered the woman sullkily. "Who 'asn't? He's the new squire, just come home from Australy."

"And what's he doin here?"

"Come to see Salterne's circus, I suppose," she replied; "leastways he pays 'is money like the rest."

There was silence save for the tinkling of baubles as she folded the costumes. Then the man seized her by the arm.

"You ain't been splittin?" he hissed. "If you have, Meg Hudson, it'll be the worse for you."

"D'you think I want to get rid of the girl? D'you think I don't know that the show would soon go to the dogs if it warn't for Queen Cam? D'you think I don't know that she keeps things goin both before and behind scenes? Why, there isn't one of the whole company but what loves her and," with a scowling glance, "hates you."

"Well, it's a dangerous neighborhood anyway," said the man, shifting uneasily beneath the glance, "and it's time we was movin on."

"Aye! As long as the hall stood empty and no one knew where to look for a heir"—

"Hold your tongue for a croaking old fool!" cried the manager angrily, glancing round at the thin wooden partition. "Who knows who might hear you, you old bird of the night? Anyway we'll be movin on. We can't afford to throw away money, but there's worse might happen if we staid." And, slamming the door, he went.

At least old Meg thought he had gone, and she muttered to herself:

"No, and you can't afford to be found out neither, my fine master."

The whiff of a cheap cigar and a muttered oath told her that she had been overheard, though she didn't catch the manager's concluding remark.

"I'll find some means of stopping your tongue, madam. You know too much and seem like growin dangerous."

When Ronald King laid his half crown on the grimy sill of the little pay office next night, he was informed that "the reserved seats was all took by a party." But instead of the turning away in disgust, as the manager hoped, he merely exchanged the coin for a sixpence and passed in among the crowd.

Queen Camilla was to do her high flight tonight, and it was Queen Camilla he went to see. He hadn't waited to analyse the attraction. He simply went because he was attracted. To be sure, entertainment was scarce in the village where he had suddenly been cast, and, though he was the owner of a lovely estate and £5,000 a year, there wasn't a more friendless creature than he in existence.

He had been ranching for 14 years in Australia and had been recalled in most unexpected fashion to step into his dead uncle's shoes. The family history was to him a sealed book. His uncle had had children who had died, and that was all he knew.

Queen Cam was later than usual that night, and many watches had been impatiently consulted before she came. The "dress" seats remained empty, and the ringmaster had a frown on his brow. His ruse had failed, and he was 2 shillings poorer for having tried it. One swift glance Camilla gave toward the seat Ronald had occupied; then her eye traveled along the line as if drawn by his steady gaze, and she gave a quick start of recognition.

The master cracked his whip sharply, and the horse began its accustomed amble, but even as it started on its treadmill pace the ringmaster's eye caught the flutter of a loose strap, and he stooped to readjust it. Quick as thought the girl raised her head and looked straight at Ronald King. She was pale that night. There were dark rings round her brilliant eyes, and as she met his glance gravely and steadily for one moment she slowly shook her head. It seemed to him there was supplication in her glance. What did she mean?

Then the buckle was secured, the whip cracked again, and the round began.

Houpla! She seemed to skim through the air more lightly than ever that night, though her face was rigid, and it was with difficulty that she summoned a smile to her lips. She trotted round amid even louder applause than usual, but her little artificial salute—that sham stage kiss—was lacking that night. Perhaps Queen Cam had forgotten.

At the entrance she was met by Meg Hudson.

"Come away, my lambie!" said the old woman, folding the girl in her arms as she slipped from her saddle. "I've got a nice bowl of milk for your supper; then you can go straight to your bed. You shall have no more harsh words tonight—no, nor any other night—from that old tartar, if I can help it."

A flaming placard on the boardings next day announced a specially attractive programme for the last night at Braxton. But before night came the circus tent was struck, the caravans were packed, and the traveling company had fled in sudden panic.

Old Meg had been ailing for two or three days. No amount of warm gin had succeeded in banishing the shivering which took possession of her, and that morning she was seriously ill, and no doctor was needed to pronounce the terrible word "smallpox." Old Meg was left deserted in the small caravan where she lay. The wardrobes fortunately were not in the same caravan, and Leo Salterne's circus company took a rapid flight to the nearest town.

Queen Cam had begged hard to stay behind, but the manager wouldn't hear of it, so, weeping and reluctant, she took her place. She would be required for the parade, and, besides, if she got smallpox and lost her beauty her career would be ended. An old woman more or less didn't matter, and secretly the manager rejoiced that a sure and certain means was at hand of silencing Meg's tongue forever. She was the only one who knew the dreaded secret.

It was 18 years now since Jack Forrest, the handsome young riding master, had run away with the only daughter of the squire of Braxton. The squire had never noticed his daughter since, and when Jack broke his neck over a gigantic hurdle in view of a crowd the shock killed his young wife, who left behind her in old Meg's charge a few valuable jewels, her marriage lines and a tiny baby girl. Old Meg had stuck to those treasures fiercely through thick and thin, but the secret would die with her. Camilla's identity would remain unknown and the manager would take possession of the girl soul and body.

There was a hue and cry in the camp next morning, for the queen was missing. Her rough bed had not been slept in, but all her tawdry robes and finery were there. She must have gone away in the veriest rags. Of course they knew where she had gone, for Cam knew no such thing as fear, and the manager swore loudly that some one must go at once and fetch her. But there was the smallpox—that was a greater terror than the manager's wrath.

Ronald King went home haunted by the supplication of those beautiful eyes. He hurried over an important engagement next day to go to the last performance, but reached the place only to find that the Arabs had folded their tents and silently stolen away. One solitary caravan alone marked the spot, and, lighting a cigarette, he strolled up to where it stood.

The sound of moaning came from within, and after knocking vainly he opened the door. A miserable sight met his eyes. An old woman—ill, dying, lying on a rough straw pallet—turned a haggard face to the intruder.

Ronald had seen sickness before. Out in the bush any one helped a dying comrade, and soon he had moistened the parched lips, arranged a pillow under the aching head, lighted the swinging lamp and sat down in the miserable hovel, while with eager hands the woman gave a packet into his keeping and told him a story which seemed to the young man only the ravings of delirium. It was vain to seek a doctor then. The nearest one was miles away. In the morning he should come.

Presently the moaning ceased, and the old woman slept. Then Ronald slipped quietly out, with a strange thankfulness at heart that it was not the beautiful Queen Camilla who had fallen a victim to this terrible scourge.

With morning light he was back again, but paused on the rickety steps of the caravan at the sight that met his eyes, and in that moments his heart went out from his keeping.

Seated on the floor in Cinderella garb of brown rags, the woman's head in her lap, was the girl he loved. What matter that she was a circus rider, a girl of the people—that she was shorn of her pomp and glitter? Though she were the very scum of the earth, he loved her. She was his queen—a queen in rags!

One glance told him old Meg was dead, and gently he relieved the girl of her burden.

"You must come with me," he said, looking into her beautiful eyes. "You can do no more for her. She is dead."

"She was the only friend I had. Oh, what shall I do without her?" sobbed Cam. "I have no home. It is all a strange, dark mystery. I do not even know my own name."

Then it flashed across Ronald that those papers, that rambling talk, had not been delirium after all.

* * * * * * * *

"So you are really my cousin? It is you who must reign here and not I."

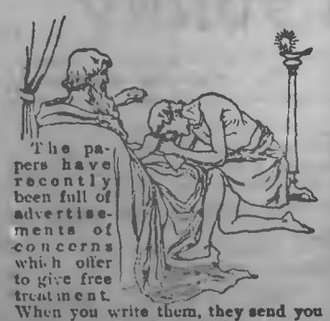
"And what shall you do?"

"I?" He met her gaze steadily. Never now must this girl know that he worshiped her. "I shall go back to Australia," he said huskily.

"There is room enough for us both here, Ron. But if you must go"—shyly—"you will take me with you?"

Then she was in his arms.—Answers.

Plain Talk to Weak Men



The papers have recently been full of advertisements of concerns which offer to give free treatment. When you write them, they send you a package C.O.D., which you must either accept or be exposed. Look out for them! Their medicines are no better than their methods.

FREE TRIAL TREATMENT

The Erie Medical Co. is composed of trained specialists in the treatment and cure of men of all ages who are weak in the organs of generation, who lack confidence, whose parts are shrunken, who have involuntary losses, dizzy spells, and are "run down" generally.

We prescribe and furnish medicines to fit the peculiar needs of each case, and supply a never-failing appliance for restoring organs that have lost power and natural proportions. To any reputable man we will send our entire treatment for a ten-days' trial. Not a dollar is to be paid in advance, and everything to be returned at our expense if not satisfactory.

This offer is made by a company of the highest professional and financial standing. It is an honest offer to honest men. When you write, ask for a free copy of our great book, "Complete Manhood." All printed matter and letters from us are sealed in plain envelopes. Cut out this notice or mention this paper.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N.Y.

We pay duty and send all packages from Canadian side.

When you have a sick horse you do not hitch him up to a sulky and take him to the race track for a little healthful exercise. You doctor him. You cannot work or medicate a man into good health any more than you can a horse. Bicycling will make healthy men more healthy; it will make unhealthy men more unhealthy. When a man has been living in too big a hurry, when he has worked himself out, when he has got so that he does not sleep or eat, or rest, and the whole world looks gloomy to him, it is time for him to take medicine. Then, when he is braced up a bit, it is time enough for him to take to the bicycle.

When a man's nerves have an edge on them, so that the least little disappointment rasps on his temper like a file, when his stomach and liver and nerves are deranged, and he is continually gloomy and melancholy, he should take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It makes a man as hungry as a fisherman and sees to it that all the vital elements of the food are absorbed into the blood. It braces up the liver and puts it to work in the right way. It drives all bilious impurities from the system. It fills flesh, nerves, brain cells, sinews and bones with the life-giving elements of rich, red, pure blood. It makes a man healthy and then a bicycle will make him strong. Medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing "just as good."

"Through your skillful treatment I am once more a well man," writes J. N. Arnold, Esq., of Gandy, Logan Co., Neb. "I suffered for years with constipation and torpidity of the liver, irritation of the prostate and inflammation of the bladder. I took six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' and am permanently cured. You have been the means of saving my life."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. All medicine dealers sell them. No other pills are "just as good."

Health is Better.

"I had no appetite and could not sleep at night, and I was so tired that I could hardly walk. I saw Hood's Sarsaparilla advertised and procured four bottles. My health is now better than it has ever been since I was a child, and I have not been sick for a long time" Miss Jessie Turnbull, Cranbrook, Ont.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Easy and yet efficient.

THERE WAS NO CHARGE.

The Coarse Fellow Wanted to Pay, but Razors Prevented Him.

There was a big, coarse voiced fellow, with red face, a superfluity of beef about his head and an insatiable desire to hear himself talk, that was nicely come up with in a barber shop the other day. He was flashily dressed and seemed aggrieved that every man employed in the place did not rush to help him get ready for the chair. He had assistance in having himself brought down to condition for being shaved, declining to handle anything from his hat to his collar and necktie.

While being lathered and shaved he told boisterously about the degeneracy of the times. Men who had to earn their living didn't know their places and acted as though they were just as good as those who hired them. The greatest mistake this country had ever made was when it did away with slavery instead of extending it to every state and territory in the Union.

After he had insisted upon half a dozen additions and extra touches from the knight of the strop the big man stepped from the chair and produced a fat pocketbook, while still holding forth in his offensive vein.

"Nevah mine dat," said the proprietor, who had known life on the plantation in the old days. "We don' made no cha'ge fo' takin de bris'les off of an'male like you."

The bully was about to break loose like an unheralded cyclone of destruction, but he saw half a dozen barbers about him, each one whetting a razor on the palm of his hand and looking solemn.

"How do you make money at that price?" he asked, with a sickly grin.

"We make it up offen ge'men, sah." And it was wonderful to see how soon the big man was dressed and away.—Detroit Free Press.

CANADA LIFE

Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty-first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified to announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,093 05.

NEW BUSINESS

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3 006, for the sum of $6,183 906, of which, however, 266 for $521,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 101 applications for $373,300 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5 291,636, under 2 609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $798,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,469 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,168 45, and Endowment policies for $128,846 92, having matured, these sums, as well as $318,481.39 for profits, $143 411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,263,307 84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,953,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1 272,486 05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18 678 915 67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company, I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, he prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Barton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Merritt, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

THE USE AND ABUSE OF SUNDAY CYCLING.

A QUESTION OF RELIGIOUS LIBERTY.

"The Sabbath Made for Man, Not Man for the Sabbath"—Sermon by Rev. E. V. Stevenson on the Subject.

Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased.—Daniel, chap. xii, v 4.

The preacher began by stating that his subject had been chosen for him. The question of Sunday bicycling should not present any difficulties to a devout Christian—its anoidation suggested the discussion in days gone by of such inventions as the church organ, which was regarded as a Satanic contrivance to supersede the actual praise of men. After referring to the marvellous advances in invention, in increase of knowledge—and facilities for "running to and fro," the latest development of which was the bicycle, the speaker doubted if parallel with this advance there was a corresponding advance and deepening of spiritual life. The only means by which the power of the Gospel and the supremacy of God should be made to prevail was by a deepening of religious devotion and a free exercise of Christian liberty. Many good Christians thought otherwise—they regarded the advance of science with suspicion—exemplified alike in the early opposition to the church organ and by the campaign against the Sunday street car. Legislation was sought to compel observance of the claims of the Gospel—a course that was a reversion to a legal system, which had failed as it must fail again, and from which we were removed since the advent of the kingdom of Christ. The past taught that legal restraint killed instead of promoting the spiritual life. Christianity did not need to be

BOLSTERED UP BY LEGISLATION.

The Christianity of Christ was the embodiment of all truth against which the powers of darkness were impotent. Christianity feared no light and welcomed all inventions that helped human lives. God's cause did not require the protection of man. Law failed; grace conquered. While the earnest religionist was fencing the outskirts the devil was busy sowing evil seed within. Legislation for moral and religious purposes had its place and effected a great deal for the outward decency of society, but legislation in either the Church or the state would fail to reform man or society. One could not make a man a Christian by law. Laws might prevent persons from doing certain things on Sunday, but that would not ensure their making good and proper use of Sunday. Thus a man might be prevented from riding his wheel on Sunday, but his life would be none the better for that. It savoured more of Judaism than Christianity. It disclosed a lack in man of a generous, living faith in God. The man was simply did no wrong was not necessarily a good man. The Christian should be more concerned about doing good than avoiding harm. That should be our attitude towards the observance of Sunday. Some for the sake of conventionalities would avoid Sunday wheeling and yet do nothing or worse than nothing with their time. Sunday was, the speaker said, not a day of obligation. Nowhere in the Gospel, by inference or command, was found any demand for as vigorous observance of Sunday as of the Jewish Sabbath. Still Sunday was an outgrowth of the Jewish Sabbath—not by demand but a free will offering of one day in seven for the service of God—a day which the Christian would keep in commemoration of the marvellous consummation of the work of God in the resurrection of Jesus Christ—the

DAY OF ALL DAYS OF THE WEEK

in which nothing should keep the Christian from the privileges of the church of God, the day in which, though all the world besides, indulge in festivity, he will kneel before the altar of God to receive afresh the food of eternal life—to worship and to praise his Creator and Redeemer. Gratitude alone should lead him to such a course, and if bicycling or anything kept him from such privileges, his Christianity was sown in very shallow soil. Thus St. Paul said (Romans, xiv-5), "He that regardeth the day regardeth it unto the Lord, and he that regardeth not the day to the Lord he doth not regard it." Take recalled the words of Christ that "the Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath." The Sabbath was not made to coerce and oppress men but made for his benefit—for rest, for his happiness. Create a gloomy rigorous observance of it and you recreate the Jewish Sabbath, but not a Christian Sunday. The Christian in his use of Sunday would be mindful of two things—his bodily and his spiritual health. These formed man's duty to himself and to God. One was as binding as the other. If man did not rest his body it would be weakened and his usefulness impaired. If he only thought of the health of his body and nothing of his spiritual life, he would be feeding his body and starving his soul. A man with such a conception of duty would trouble little over the petty matter as to whether Sunday riding of a bicycle is a dishonour to God or an injury to his soul. It would seem to be a most trivial matter—as well discuss the irreverence on walking on Sunday. The harm consisted not in the use, but the abuse. A man who spent all Sunday on his wheel had not a very deep appreciation of his privileges. "But," said the preacher, "I would not coerce such a man; if his love for God is no greater than his love for pleasure, then you had better begin by and not by restraining his personal liberty." But our brothers in the shops would plead for the Sunday for rest. If they loved themselves more than their God let them spend it on their wheel. They, at least might share it with God. There were services at 8 and 11 in that church. Let them draw near Him in His house. Then they would enjoy their rest and fresh air on their wheels all the more. There were two things, the speaker said, that tended to destroy the simplicity of our faith—first, a hollow conventionality about our Christianity. Custom recognised a certain line of conduct, and the danger was in taking a certain line of innocent pleasure and pressing it to the limit of custom to the injury of consistent Christian conduct. This applied to not only bicycleriding but to Sundry social entertainments, if both were cultivated to the exclusion or neglect of religious services. In the second place there was too much fear in our service of God, the wrong spirit for a Christian. We were "no longer servants, but sons." If we are to serve God as His dear children it must be a free service of the heart and will and not by a prescribed law. The preacher concluded in these words:—"I have presented to you merely generalities. It has been my effort to give you principles and not laws; for I think he is a poor Christian who regulates his devotion to God by arbitrary laws. My appeal is for a deeper, a more generous and more genuine love of God. Strive to gain a high idea of man's duty to himself. Have your hearts filled full of a jealous desire for God's glory, and all the Sunday bicycling will produce little harm to yourself and detract nothing from the glory of God."

OUR ODDFELLOWS AT ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

REV. J. G. POTTER PREACHES THE ANNUAL SERMON.

He Discourses on the Principles Which Underlie Oddfellowship, as Well as Christianity—Friendship, Love and Truth.

One of the best attended church parades in the history of the Independent Order of Oddfellows in Peterborough took place last evening, when the two local lodges turned out and marched to St. Andrew's church, where the pastor, Rev. J. G. Potter, preached to them their annual sermon.

After welcoming the visitors and expressing the pleasure it gave the congregation and himself to have them present, Mr. Potter stated that probably all were cognizant of the great work which the Order had undertaken and were also aware that it was to commemorate the of the foundation of their organization in Canada that they were present.

Whilst, in looking back through the Old Testament, instances are found of the formation of a society for the assistance of the helpless, yet the first authentic record of the establishment of Oddfellowship is 1657, when the organization was known as the Manchester Unity, and was formed for the purpose of assisting to employment members who were out of work. A man applying for assistance was passed from one lodge to another until he got the employment he was seeking.

The honour of having the members of the Order present could not be expressed in a formal manner. It was well known that the society existed for benevolent objects. Insurance was a part of the work undertaken, but this was not obligatory on a member. The Order had very practical methods of extending relief to the widowed and fatherless, and had the honour of being closely followed by numerous other societies.

As stated, Oddfellowship owed its origin to the Manchester Unity, which name was still retained by a large number of the branches. There were at present 900,000 members of the Manchester Unity and 960,094 members of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, making of 1,860,094 men banded together for the purpose of relieving distress and sickness, and also of providing for the fatherless and the widow. When we consider that with similiar objects in view there are banded together 887,000 Freemasons, 338,000 Ancient Order of United Workmen and over 150,000 Independent Foresters, it must be considered that this is an age in which the helpless are well looked after. In these societies the lesson and fundamental principles of the Christian religion are well carried out. It may be said that some of the members do not think very much of the principles that underlie the Order, yet by far the greater majority recognize these principles as those which teach the true spirit of the God-man. Such a society cannot but merit the eulogies of humanity and the blessings of Almighty God,

ENNOBLING AND BUILDING UP

as it does, the character of its members to an extent that it will be eternal and infinite in its results.

Christianity, as well as the Order, must have friendship, love and truth for its basis. The whole aim of God's truth is to teach us what we ought to believe of God and what God expects of man. Love, therefore, as practiced towards God and man is needed as a basis of Christianity. We are commanded to love God and to love our neighbour as ourself. It is not enough to be good to your neighbour as he is good to you. These are not the purposes which underlie either the I.O.O.F. or Christianity, such as can be looked forward to by any one—by the heathen or unbeliever. The principles of the order are to do good whether it be to our interest or not. In joining the I.O.O.F. and laying out your substance you do it with the aim of being a blessing and help to your fellow man and not for the good which you, yourself, may derive. The work is done in the presence of the All-Seeing Eye—in the presence of one who despises all formality and reads the inmost soul. It is, therefore, a work which must stand scrutiny, and a work which with such aims and objects faithfully carried out, must merit the blessings of Him whose teachings it tries to inculcate into its membership.

On the return of the Oddfellows to the Lodge room, Bro. A. Rose, N.G., Otonabee Lodge, took the chair, with Bro. Frank Perry, N. G., at his right. A cordial vote of thanks was then passed to Rev. Mr. Potter and to the Board of Management of St. Andrew's church, and the choir.

A RELIABLE OFFER.

Honest Help Free to Men.

The (Peterborough Examiner) is authorized to state by Mr. D. Graham, Box 136, Hagersville, Ont., that any man who is nervous and debilitated or who is sufferiog from any of the various troubles resulting from overwork, excesses or abuse, such as nervous debility, exhausted vitality, lost vigor, unnatural drains and losses, lack of development, etc., can write to him in strict confidence and receive free of charge full instructions how to be thoroughly cured.

Mr. Graham himself was for a long time a sufferer from above troubles and after trying in vain many advertised remedies, electric belts, etc., became almost entirely discouraged and hopeless. Finally he confided in an old clergyman, whose kind and honest advice enabled him to speedily obtain a perfect and permanent cure. Knowing to his own sorrow, that so many poor sufferers are being imposed upon by unscrupulous quacks, Mr. Graham considers it his duty as an honest man and a firm believer in christian sympathy and kindness, to give his fellow-men the benefit of his experience and assist them to a cure. Having nothing to sell, he asks for no money, the proud satisfaction of having done a great service to one in need, he rightly considers an ample reward for his trouble. If you write to Mr. Graham you can rely upon being cured and upon absolute secrecy as well.

Address as above, enclosing a stamp and refer to the (Peterborough Examiner). No attention however will be given to those writing out of mere curiosity, therefore state that you really need a cure.

HE IS ALL RIGHT.

News of the Man Whose Disappearance Caused Alarm.

Belleville was quite seriously worked up over the sudden disappearance of a traveller during the night from a hotel. The mystery is cleared up by the following statement in the Ontario:

Mr. S. Curry this morning received a letter from Peterborough, from the young man who so mysteriously disappeared from his hotel on Sunday night last. The young men gave his name as Thomas R. Campbell, of Montreal. A post office order was enclosed to pay his hotel bill and he requested that his luggage be sent on at once.

Mr. Curry and the hotel staff feel much relieved on hearing from the stranger, as his sudden disappearance had caused considerable worry at the hotel, and they were about to institute a search for him.

It was learned to-day that he had been in the city all last week and had gone afterwards to Montreal, returning on Sunday morning.

FEMALE WEAKNESS CURED.

Mrs. Saunders Made Well and Strong by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Brantford, April 25—(Special)—The wives and mothers of Ontario are the most ardent disciples of Dodd's way of curing ouring Diseases of Women—i.e. by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

This is natural, for no medicine, no earth, no agency known to man has saved women one tithe of the agony that Dodd's Kidney Pills have banished.

Mrs. F. Saunders, of Brantford, tells her suffering sisters what Dodd's Kidney Pills did for her: I have been a martyr to Female Weakness for the past year and suffered terribly. Dodd's Kidney Pills made me strong and well and healthy, though several other remedies I used did me no good whatever."

So the record grows. Cures made every day. Failures—never.

SMELTER AT MADOC.

A Complete Reduction Works in Operation in a Few Days.

The Madoc Review states that a complete smelter and reduction plant for the treatment of all classes of gold and silver bearing ores will be in operation in that village in a few days. Mr. W. A. Hangerford will have full charge of the works and has fitted up the old White foundry premises for the reception of the plant, which is expected in a few days. "When in full operation the smelter will treat all classes of ores, both mispickel and copper sulphurates, also galena and free milling ores, guaranteeing to give 95 per cent. of the assay value in gold, silver, lead and copper that it contains, and saving all by products as well. The premises are large, with ample room for handling from 15 to 20 tons per day, and will be second to none in Ontario. It is also intended to erect another 5-ton test smelter for testing custom work in small lots. Notwithstanding the offers of bonuses and other inducements to locate in other sections of this district, and against the wishes as well of some of the members of the company, Mr. Hungerford was firm in his determination to establish this smelter in Madoc, confident that this is the proper place for works of this kind. In this our citizens cordially agree with him, and the people of this vicinity are delighted at the progress already made and the good prospects of the Toronto Smelting Co. in the place."

Dear Sirs,—Constipation for years has been my chief ailment; it seemed to come oftener in spite of all I could do. However, some time ago I was told to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which I have done, with the result of what appears now a perfect cure.

Truly yours,

J. HARRIS.

New York Navy Yard Officers Afraid of the Spanish Flotilla.

PORTUGAL AND CAPE DE VERDE

The Little Kingdom Bounded on the North by the Bay of Biscay Has Her Work Cut Out for Her—A Fight Expected at the Philippines Within Twenty-Four Hours.

New York, April 26.—No time is being lost in pushing forward work on ships in the navy yard for North Patrol Squadron. The officers in the yard believe the Spanish flotilla will threaten New York and operations are rushed as if a descent of the formidable Armada were imminent.

PORTUGAL AND CAPE DE VERDE.

Must Drive the Spaniards From the Islands or Take Sides With Them.

New York, April 26.—A London special says: Our treaty requires Portugal, war having actually begun by decree of Spain, to order to sea the Spanish fleet lying in wait at Cape Verde Islands for the Oregon, or else seize and hold it to the end of the war. The beginning of war, for international purposes, has been construed by Great Britain, which makes it the hour Spain delivered his passports to General Woodford, and this decision is in strictest agreement with the principles applicable to the case, and cannot successfully be appealed from. Should Portugal not make the demand on Spain, she ceases to be neutral, and becomes a belligerent, to be dealt with accordingly. Should Spain refuse to comply with the demand, Portugal has no naval force to enforce the demand, and by her impotence ceases to be a free and independent nation, and is practically a protectorate of Spain's for all purposes of war

A Fight Expected.

Washington special to Herald: Commodore Dewey is expected to establish a blockade of the principal ports of the Philippines by this afternoon. The Navy Department is expecting reports of an engagement within the next twenty-four hours.

DECLARATION OF WAR.

Congress Rushes It Through in Less Than Two Minutes and the President Signs It the Same Day.

Washington, April 26.—The President yesterday sent to Congress a message, recommending a declaration of war against Spain.

In the House the President's message was ordered printed and referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs by the Speaker. The committee reported a declaration of war in a few minutes thereafter.

It took the House one minute and forty-one seconds to pass the declaration of war.

Following is the bill reported by the House Foreign Affairs Committee:

A bill declaring that war exists between the United States of America and the kingdom of Spain.—

Be it enacted, etc., First, that war be, and the same is hereby declared to exist, and that war has existed since the 21st day of April, A.D., 1898, including said day, between the United States of America and the kingdom of Spain.

Second, that the President of the United States be, and he is hereby directed and empowered to use the entire land and naval forces of the United States and to call into the actual service of the United States the militia of the several States to such extent as may be necessary to carry the Act into effect.

The Senate passed the bill in less than two minutes, and the President signed it at 6.30.

SHERMAN RESIGNS.

U. S. Secretary for War Gives His Resignation to the President.

Washington, April 26.—Mr. John Sherman, the venerable Secretary of State, handed his resignation to the President. This resignation took effect at noon yesterday, and with it Mr. Sherman retires after a service of over forty years, embracing the House of Representatives, the United States Senate, the Secretaryship of the Treasury and the Secretaryship of State. The reason for the resignation is the condition of the Secretary's health.

Sherman's Successor.

Judge Day Has accepted the position.

Prof. Moore Succeeds Judge Day.

Washington, April 26.—John B. Moore, Professor of International Law of Columbia University, New York, and formerly Second Assistant Secretary of State, has been chosen to succeed Judge Day as Assistant Secretary of State.

New York Harbor Guarded.

New York, April 26.—The War Department has issued regulations for the entrance of vessels to New York harbor. No vessel will be allowed to pass Sandy Hook between sunset and sunrise, and rules are established for the guidance of vessels in avoiding submarine mines.

Canadian Boats Not for Sale.

Montreal, April 26.—The Canadian Pacific authorities deny that they will sell the steamers Tartar and Athenian, now ready to run on the route between Vancouver and Alaskan points, to the United States Government for use as auxiliary cruisers on the Pacific coast. These steamers were recently purchased in England specially for the Alaskan trade.

Two More Captives.

Key West, April 25.—The latest captures of the fleet are a schooner, sugar laden, for Havana, and the brig Canelite, coal laden. The former was taken by the Porter, and the latter by the Wilmington, almost within range of the Cagimar batteries. Both were towed here by the tug Algonquin.

The Somers Tied Up.

London, April 26.—The officials of the United States Embassy fear the United States torpedo boat Somers, now at Falmouth, is destined to remain in England for some time to come, as the neutrality proclamation will be issued to-day, and no convoy for the little craft has yet been secured, and it is impossible for her to attempt to cross the Atlantic without an escort. The Embassy was crowded yesterday with ship brokers, negotiations being on foot to purchase, on behalf of the United States, some British ships which are now in American ports.

The report circulated in the United States that the British Consul at Havana had cabled to the Foreign Office notifying the authorities here that Havana would be bombarded, is incorrect. What he cabled was that he expected Havana would be bombarded.

AT THE PHILIPPINES.

The First Naval Battle Between Spain and the U. S. May Take Place.

New York, April 26.—A special to the World from Hong-Kong says: Hong-Kong is an English port, 628 miles from Manila, the capital of the Philippine Islands, and was the rendezvous of the Pacific fleet of the United States, which at present consists of the Olympia, Boston, Concord, Petrel, Raleigh and two new merchant cruisers, but is soon to be joined by the Baltimore. In addition the Charleston, now at San Francisco, will sail to the China seas as soon as repairs are finished. Offsetting these Spain has the cruisers Castilla, Reina Christina, Don Juan de Ulloa. Don Juan de Austria. Velasco and a number of light gunboats and torpedo boats, in what condition for service is not known, but which may be in a position to act on the offensive instead of the defensive, so that the first naval combat may take place in the Pacific, not the Atlantic.

Appreciates Good Will.

London, April 26.—The Washington correspondent of the Daily Mail cables that in an interview yesterday President McKinley said: "Not the Government alone, but the whole nation feel most deeply the good will sent to them across the sea." And he added, impressively: "Nor will they forget it."

Roosevelt Has Resigned.

Washington, April 26.—Theodore Roosevelt has resigned as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, to take effect at the President's convenience after the commencement of active military operations.

Two Cruisers Have Left.

Hong-Kong, April 26.—(7.55 p.m.)—The United States cruisers Olympia and Baltimore have left this port. It is said that Commodore Dewey and the United States Consul, Mr. William E. Hunt, protested that it was not necessary to leave, as they had not been notified by the United States Government of the declaration of war.

Although it is not so stated, the United States squadron was apparently re-guessed to leave by the British authorities, in consequence of the proclamation of neutrality.

A LOG PINNED HIS LEG AGAINST A PIER

AND AS A RESULT IT MAY HAVE TO BE AMPUTATED.

A Galway Man Has a Leg Fearfully Crushed While Working on Boyd's Drive in Glamorgan Township.

Kinmount, April 25.—Mr. John McGee, one of the most popular young farmers of Galway township, met with a terrible accident on Saturday evening. He was with a gang of men engaged running logs over a slide, and the logs having "jammed" above the slide, he and others started to pull them apart with pike-poles. After a number had thus been drawn out of the tangled mass the "jam" gave way suddenly and one huge log shot forward with tremendous force and pinned McGee's leg against the side of the pier, crushing it in a fearful manner.

Foreman Cresswell at once improvised a stretcher, and detailed twelve of the men to convey the [illegible] fellow through the bush to Kinmount, a distance of seven miles, where he would receive medical attendance. They gained the railway track at Maxwell's Crossing, a few miles above the I. B. & O. Ry. junction, where a lorry was procured to take him into Kinmount. When Dr. Frost had examined the limb he decided that it would be better to dress it after McGee has reached his home, so the poor fellow had to endure a further trip of five miles in a waggon. He is doing as well as can be expected, but there is grave danger that the limb will have to be amputated.

McGee is a magnificent specimen of manhood, weighing 225 pounds, without an ounce of superfluous flesh, and his popularity is evinced by the widespread expressions of regret heard on every side. He had hired for one month and was to leave camp for home one hour later in order to begin seeding on his farm.

THE FORESTRY COMMISSION.

Interesting Matters Respecting Forest Products of Ontario Discussed.

A meeting of the Ontario Forestry Commission was held Tuesday afternoon and was attended by E. W. Rathbun, Deseronto, chairman; John Bertram, Toronto; J. B. McWilliams, Peterough; A. Kirkwood, Crown Lands Department, and Thomas Southworth, clerk of commission. The work for the coming season was discussed, but inasmuch as the Commissioner of Crown Lands had to be consulted the programme could not be given out. The commission was pleased to note that the establishment of an iron smelting works at Deseronto would, after the opening on May 1, utilize much of the waste at present incident to lumbering, as the short ends and otherwise useless fragments can be made into charcoal, and all the by-products secured by the wood distillation process. Several thousand cords of this rough wood will be used. It was also stated that an Austrian chemist with a formula for the making of smokeless powder from sawdust had been in Deseronto for some days examining the sawdust from the mills there. He is at present in the States trying to sell his idea to the Government. The clerk of the commission received a sample of white pine from Prescott, which is infested with a white scale insect very similar to the insect found on three other kinds of pine in Toronto. The scale has not yet been classified.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE United States Jingoes who egged on the war with Spain have the proud reflection that their ill-timed enthusiasm has led to the necessity of taxing that great national necessity, chewing gum, for the purpose of paying the expenses of the war.

WAR is a costly luxury. It is estimated that the cost of the Spanish-American war will be about two million dollars per day. So far the war is costing more in cash than blood.

PORTO RICO pays taxes to Spain this year amounting to $4,374,874, of which only $650,000 is spent for the benefit of the native population. This is given as an example of the leech-like policy that Spain has invariably applied to her colonies. If Canada were in the same position to Great Britain as Porto Rico is to Spain, thirty-two million dollars out of our thirty-eight millions of revenue would go to Britain and six millions would remain for our own purposes. We wouldn't stand that, much as we love the "Widow at Windsor."

IT may be all right, but the United States cruisers trawling for and hooking peaceful and unarmed Spanish merchant vessels, looks more like piracy than war, especially when it was done before a formal declaration of war by the United States, which was only made after half a dozen scows were captured and towed into port in triumph. Some of these days the flying squadron won't be so "fly"—it will meet with something worthy of its steel.

THE Spanish at Morro Castle, Havana, may not be able to drop a shot upon the modestly distant American flying squadron, but when the Yankee forces land, "Yellow Jack" will probably put up the death roll big enough to make up for the bad markmanship of the Spaniards. Yellow fever, tarantulas, scorpions and snakes will fight better for Spain than her legions.

BRITAIN'S GIGANTIC BUDGET.

MARVELLOUS TALE OF STURDY BRITISH STABILITY.

Excellent Retort to the Hostile Criticism of Foreign European Press—Surplus Over £3,000,000.

New York, April 24th.—Harold Frederic, cabling to the Times from London to-day refers as follows to the budget speech delivered by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, on Thursday night last:—"Though the budget may seem to be a tame thing to talk about in these stirring times, it would be worth our people's while to pause one moment from the considerations of war to the studying of the sturdy financial position of that nation whose hearts have already gone out to them, and who only wait the opportunity and the invitation to hold out helping hands. In view of this undoubted fact Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's statement is enough to set any European concert out of temper and tune. A surplus of over three millions and a quarter pounds sterling and a sound prospect of a far greater balance next year constitute a comfortable financial position for what the Germans now jeeringly call 'the eastern branch of the Anglo Saxon race.' The circumstance of a fat surplus is not altogether a surprise for those who had been taking careful note of the enormous sums pouring into the exchequer from the death duties. The Tories are perhaps a little grumpy that more is not done for their willing middle class supporters than some trifling juggling with the income tax limit, but this is a small matter compared to the excellent retort furnished by the budget to the angry criticism of the so called decadent England by the foreign press. The Anglo-Saxons here are no more decadent than those on the other side of the Atlantic."

On the same subject the London correspondent of The Evening Post says:—"With what envious eyes England's rivals must read the marvellous tale of British stability which Sir Michael Hicks-Beach unfolded in the House of Commons on Thursday night. The annual expenditure now has reached the enormous sum of $573,000,000, yet the Chancellor of the Exchequer finds himself with a surplus of $18,300,000 for the past year, and can afford to spend $12,000,000 on beautifying London's public buildings, while his surplus for the coming year is estimated at $8,930,000 which he can devote to cheapening the workingmen's tobacco, lessening the income tax burden on the middle classes, whose incomes vary from $2,000 to $3,500, and all this while the army and navy each year are swallowing more and more. Last year the navy cost $160,000,000 and the army $96,000,000 and strikes and lockouts hindered revenue accumulation in other directions. Well may Sir Michael Hicks-Beach say, 'I don't think anything can be gathered from last year's statistics to justify doubt of our ability to compete on fair terms with any foreign competitor.'"

FEMALE WEAKNESS CURED.

Mrs. Saunders Made Well and Strong by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Brantford, April 25—(Special)—The wives and mothers of Ontario are the most ardent disciples of Dodd's way of curing curing Diseases of Women—i.e. by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

This is natural, for no medicine, no earth, no agency known to man has saved women one tithe of the agony that Dodd's Kidney Pills have banished.

Mrs. F. Saunders, of Brantford, tells her suffering sisters what Dodd's Kidney Pills did for her: I have been a martyr to Female Weakness for the past year and suffered terribly. Dodd's Kidney Pills made me strong and well and healthy, though several other remedies I used did me no good whatever."

So the record grows. Cures made every day. Failures—never.

Regular action of the bowels is necessary to health. Laxa-Liver Pills are the best occasional cathartic for family or general use. Price 25c. Any druggist

WHEAT HIGHER.

Liverpool Speculating on Possible Shortage—The War Sends It Up in Chicago, Too.

Monday Evening, April 25.

The Spanish-American war is sending the price of wheat upwards at a great rate. Europe fears the cutting off of her grain supplies from America, and the markets across the water derive additional strength from the report that Russia's holdings are short and that she has withdrawn all offerings. Another factor of strength is found in the reported increased requirements of France, which country is said to be about to reduce its import duties on wheat. Italy will prolong her grain exemption till June 15. The latter rumor has led to speculative buying in Liverpool, where wheat, on top of last week's big gains, made an advance to-day of from 3d to 5¼d. It advanced 10 to 50 centimes in Paris and 50 centimes at Antwerp. On this side the Atlantic the prices also climbed up. At Chicago May wheat sold up to $1.20, the highest price since "Old Hutch's" corner of '88, and closed at $1.19⅝, 5¾c higher than Saturday's final figure. The July option sold as high as 98½c and closed at 92½c, a gain of 3⅝c, and remoter options showing like improvements. At St. Louis and New York wheat advanced 4c, and at Minneapolis and Duluth 8c. Corn and oats advanced about 1½c per bush for the day. Provisions also moved up. At Chicago pork gained 25c and lard 15c, while bacon advanced from 6d to 1s in Liverpool.

ACRES OF PIE

Are Eaten Annually by the People of this Dominion.

And Almost Endless Suffering from Dyspepsia would Result if Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets were not Used.

There are thousands of bakers in Canada. Each one bakes hundreds of pies every year. There are thousands of housekeepers in the Dominion. Each of these bakes hundreds of pies every year. Think then, how much pie does every person in Canada eat in a year!

Now, the pie is called the "seed of Dyspepsia." And the pies baked in Canada in a year would cover acres of ground.

Think of it! Acres of dyspepsia!

And this means hours, days, weeks, months of terrible suffering! It means ill-health and ruined constitutions! It follows that the Canadian race will become weak and unhealthy unless some means of checking this dyspepsia be found, FOR PEOPLE WON'T GIVE UP THEIR PIES.

Fortunately there is no need to search for a way to check dyspepsia. It has been found already. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, not only check the worst cases of dyspepsia, but cure them outright. So you may eat your pie in peace, if you only take one or two of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal. Then you can laugh at dyspepsia.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure dyspepsia and all stomach troubles by removing the cause. They digest the food, clean the stomach, rest and strengthen it, and regulate the bowels perfectly. One or two taken after each meal, will cure the worst case in a few weeks.

There's no uncertainty about it, but you can satisfy yourself, and cure your dyspepsia, indigestion, heartburn, etc., by buying and trying a box.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists, at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or sent on receipt of price, by The Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

Finger Nails Came Off.

A wonderful story comes from Emerson, Man., to the effect that Mrs. Jas. Saunders of that place lost her finger nails through a severe attack of Salt Rheum. Nothing seemed to do her any good till she commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters, with the result that the Salt Rheum has all gone and her finger nails gradually grew on again

Bid Backache Good-Bye.

If you are troubled with Backache, Lame Back, or Weak Back, you will find Doan's Kidney Pills a remedy that will take out the pains and aches and give your back needed strength.

One Laxa-Liver Pill every night for thirty days makes a complete cure of biliousness and constipation. That is—just 25 cents to be cured.

Intense Physical Sufferings from Neuralgia in Head and Face.

A Kind Neighbour Recommends Paine's Celery Compound The Matchless Spring Medicine.

It Was Commenced With a Small Degree of Faith.

Now There is Joy, Thankfulness and Gratitude for a Marvellous Cure.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,

SIR:—I suffered intensely with neuralgia in my head and face, and was in such a condition that I could not rest day or night for two and a half years. I was treated by different doctors and used their medicine and sometimes got a little relief, but the pain would come back as bad as ever. I walked the floor night after night and thought I would go crazy. A neighbour, knowing my condition of suffering, asked me if I had tried Paine's Celery Compound. I said "No, I have no faith in anything now, as I have tried so many medicines and they have not done me any good." However, I decided to try one bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and it gave such good results I continued until I had used six bottles and was cured. I can never cease to express my gratitude for the great good I derived from Paine's Celery Compound.

Yours truly,
MRS. THOS. JACKSON,

PRIDE COSTS SPAIN A FALL.

U.S. Unpledged Because of Non-Delivery of Her Ultimatum.

SPAIN'S SHIPS PAINTED BLACK.

Cuba and Spain Now Communicate With Each Other Over a British Cable—Spain May Have an Ally in Russia—What the Squadron at Cape de Verde Is Doing.

Madrid, April 26.—A new point has been raised relative to the non-delivery of the ultimatum of the United States. The view now taken is that its non-delivery leaves the United States unpledged in regard to the reservations made with reference to Cuban independence. Thus, it is pointed out, while her pride is gratified, Spain has lost a diplomatic point.

AT THIRD SEAS OVER.

Details of the Work the Spanish Squadron Is Doing Preparatory for the Coming Naval Tussle.

London, April 26.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, dated Monday, says:

"Visiting the Spanish fleet has been forbidden, and no manoeuvering, target practice or exercising whatever is proceeding. All the ships have been painted black since they arrived here. No shore leave is granted.

"The cruisers, including the Vizcaya and the Almirante Oquendo, have been all day coaling from the Ciudad do Cadiz. All the stores, medicines and supplies in St. Vincent have been purchased to supply the squadron, and even passing vessels are laid under contribution. The Bay is quite busy with launches and boats carrying stores, and the port is brilliantly illuminated all night with electric searchlights and signals.

"Two Portuguese men-of-war are here. Governor-General De Lacerdo is staying until the Spaniards depart. The Portuguese consider the Spanish fleet very strong and believe that Spain will be victorious at the commencement, but that America's money will eventually triumph."

CUBA AND SPAIN

New Have Cable Communication by Way of Bermuda.

Montreal, April 26.—A talk with Mr. Charles Hosmer, general manager of the Canadian Pacific Telegraph Company, yesterday, convinced the correspondent that the man who wired from Key West that the cable between Cuba and Spain had been cut, knew very little of what has been doing of late in cable laying. Old Spain is still in communication with Cuba, and is destined to be for some time to come. The difference is this: Before the Western Union cable between the Florida coast and Cuba was cut, Spain had to send her despatches over American territory, while after this they will go over British ground. Happy for all concerned, a cable was completed Feb. 1 last from Bermuda to Jamaica, thus connecting with Halifax, and, as there is a line from Cuba to Jamaica, the circuit is still complete. In a word, had not the cable just alluded to been completed before the outbreak of hostilities between the United States and Spain the whole of the British West Indies would have been deprived of cable communication with the outside world. It is also learned here that the United States Government will order that after to-morrow no cipher messages can be sent out of the country.

Russia Loans to Spain.

London, April 26.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says: Emperor Nicholas granted an audience to the Spanish Ambassador on Saturday last, and discussed with him the Cuban question at great length. A conference of the Ambassadors of the powers on the subject of Cuba has been held at the Foreign Office, and well-informed persons declare that Russia will support Spain.

The Censor Gets His Work In.

Havana, April 24 (delayed in transmission), via Key West, Fla., April 26.—As the Government of the United States will not allow Madrid and New York telegrams to come to Havana for the press, the Spanish censor here will not allow correspondents to telegraph to the New York press.

The above message is from the correspondents of the Associated Press at Havana, and is the first news received direct by cable from Havana since the despatches of the Associated Press on Saturday morning last, announcing the arrival of the United States fleet off Havana, and the establishment of the blockade of the Cuban coast.

Still at Cape Verde.

New York, April 26.—A special to the World from St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, says: The Spanish squadron concentrated here, remain. Neither of the expected battleships has arrived, and the fleet still consists of four armored cruisers, six torpedo craft and two transports. The rumor that the warships will sail is still current, but is not confirmed officially.

A Flamboyant Letter.

Madrid, April 26.—The Archbishop of Madrid has issued a diocesan letter, in a flamboyant style, that occasionally sinks into absolute rhodomontade. The Archbishop makes the war appear a question of good and evil, with Spain all white and the United States all black. He appeals to all the saints to protect the Spaniards, almost promising invulnerability against American bullets.

Italy Proclaims Neutrality.

Rome, April 26.—The official Gazette published a proclamation enjoining upon all Italian subjects strict neutrality during the war between the United States and Spain.

How Spain Will Raise Funds.

Madrid, April 26.—Senor Pulgcerver, the Minister of Finance, will probably read his budget to the Cortes to-day. Its chief features will be an ample authorisation to the Government to raise such funds as may be deemed necessary for war expenses. The new source of income will be loans guaranteed by the tax on navigation and the Almaden quicksilver mines. New taxes will be imposed on gas, petroleum and electric lighting.

Two years' taxes will be levied, payable quarterly in advance, and reimbursed within a decade by special bonds.

REPUBLICAN MOVEMENT.

An Address to Senor Castelar on His Recovery From Illness.

Madrid, April 26.—About 2,000 Republicans, of all shades of opinion, have signed an address to Senor Castelar, the great Republican leader, under the pretext of congratulating him upon his recovery from recent sickness, but, in reality, offering him their support if he proclaims a republic. Senor Castelar has, so far, made no reply, but it is certain that he will now emerge from his retirement from Parliament, into which he has not put foot for the past twenty years, although constantly returned in the Cortes. His coming speech in the Cortes will, it is said, dispel the idea that he is heading a revolution. On the contrary, it is asserted Senor Castelar will, from patriotic motives, not oppose the present Democratic monarchy.

Spain's Fleet Is Powerful.

London, April 26.—A special despatch from St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, dated Monday, 7.25 a.m., says: "There is reason to believe the Spanish fleet sails to-day. It is exceedingly formidable, including, as it does, four first class cruisers, six torpedo boats and two armed transports.

"Since the arrival of the transport San Francisco, the latter has transhipped to the cruisers 2,000 tons of coal."

The Pope Wants Peace.

London, April 25.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail says: Cardinal Rampolla, the Papal Secretary of State, declares that the Vatican will observe the strictest neutrality. The Pope desires prayers only for a speedy conclusion of peace. He classes the singing of Te Deums for victory an utterly incongruous proceeding.

Audax Told to Leave.

London, April 26.—The British Admiral commanding at Queenstown ordered the Spanish torpedo boat Audax to quit the port before 6 o'clock yesterday morning. There is little doubt that the Spanish torpedo boat Audax, when she leaves port, will go to Ferrol or Cadiz, as she still lacks considerable quantities of her war equipments.

WAR NOTES.

The cruiser Admiral Rigault will protect French interests in Cuban waters. She will be stationed at Porto Rico.

The English agents of the ship Shenandoah state there is not the slightest evidence to justify the report that their vessel has been captured by the Spaniards.

WAR'S INFLUENCE ON BREAD.

Wheat Rises 11 Cents in One Week—Provisions Have Advanced in Sympathy—Bread to Go Up.

Toronto, April 26.—Yesterday witnessed another phenomenal advance in the grain markets of the world. At Chicago May wheat reached $1.20, the highest point since 1888, when "Old Hutch" engineered the famous $2 corner. The net gain for the day at that point was 6c per bushel, while at Minneapolis and Duluth prices heaped up 8c. The advance is attributable to a decrease during the past week of over 3,000,000 bushels in the American visible supply, but more especially to the Spanish-American war, which threatens to stop the flow of food supplies from this side of the water to Europe, and this gives rise to a speculative demand in Liverpool. Additional strength is lent that market by the increased requirements of France and Italy, and by Russia's withdrawal of all offerings. Wheat yesterday rose in extreme 6d in England, from 10 to 30 centimes at Paris and 50 centimes at Antwerp. As compared with a week ago May wheat is 11c dearer in Chicago, 11d dearer in Liverpool and one franc 5 centimes dearer in Paris. Provisions have advanced in sympathy and at Chicago pork is $1.95 and lard 87c higher than on Monday last.

The stiffening in the price of food supplies is already felt locally. Flour is 50c a barrel dearer than a week ago, and Toronto bakers will at once advance the price of bread. Montreal bread makers have already added 2c to the cost of a loaf.

Another local effect of the war will likely be seen in higher house rents, for the prospect is that a very large number of Americans, especially from the Atlantic coast cities, will take up their residence in Toronto until the war blows over. Canadian summer resorts will also doubtless benefit by the desertion of American watering places the coming season.

Get a U. S. Contract.

Hamilton, April 26.—Andrew Onderdonk, the New York contractor who built the Hunter street tunnel for the T., H. & B., is in the city paying his family a flying visit. He says his company has been awarded the contract for building steel piers and coal sheds for the United States Government at Key West and Dry Tortugas.

MR. GEO. N. GRAHAM

The Genial Host of the Oriental Hotel has Words of Praise for DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS.

They Cured him of Kidney Disease When he was Growing Worse Under Medical Treatment.

It is nothing short of marvellous the way in which Doan's Kidney Pills are curing kidney disease here in the town of Peterborough!

One after another is coming forward and telling how these conquerors of kidney ills made a cure after everything else failed. Mr. Graham, of the Oriental Hotel, suffered sometimes with pains across the back, extending up between the shoulders, swelling of the limbs, dizziness, loss of appetite, and was in fact completely broken up.

"I lost seventeen pounds in three months," said he, "and thought I would never get better. I took many kinds of remedies and was treated by medical men, but did not seem to get any better, in fact was constantly growing worse.

"I saw DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS advertised, and got a box of them, and by the time I had taken one box noticed a change for the better.

"I have taken seven boxes altogether, and am completely freed from pain. The swelling of my limbs has disappeared, and my appetite is good. In fact, I feel that I am completely cured; and heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to those suffering from any form of kidney trouble."

If you are suffering from Diabetes, Dropsy, Bright's Disease, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Gravel, Scalding of the Urine, Weakness of the Bladder, Pain in the Back, Swelling of the Limbs, Dizziness, Headaches, Paleness under the eyes or any other condition resulting from disordered kidneys and want a prompt and permanent cure, you'll take DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS. There are many kidney remedies advertised, but the kind that cures is Doan's.

Sold by all druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c a box, or 3 for $1.25. The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

Paris in.... Peterboro

We can't bring Paris to Peterborough, but we can give our patrons a peep into the Paris Millinery world, and present to their view the latest conceits of the French Capital.

You can look here and see what's over there. As a matter of fact you cannot keep in touch with the dictates of Fashion without knowing what we have to offer.

A MAY-DAY OPENING.

Busy as we are, we set to work a month ago to prepare for a Semi-Opening of Fashionable SUMMER Millinery during the first week of May.

Every Dollar's worth shown will be the very latest in style and colouring.

But every week here has been a series of elaborate "Opening" events. Extensive Novelties have claimed the eager attention of the ladies, day in and day out, and rendered their repeated visits quite as entertaining as the regular Formal Opening events of other stores.

Fast as the loveliest samples are picked new ones replace them to keep the display perfect, steadily beautiful and interesting.

The crowded condition of our workroom is unmistakable evidence of the leadership of this store in Millinery of all kinds, and the service is so successful that the wants of every lady is promptly supplied.

This week, we are making another and attractive display of New Styles in New Hats and Bonnets, New Flowers and Ribbons, New Vellings, Gloves and Neckwear—equal to the best attempt at any second Millinery Opening elsewhere. We welcome you to look or to buy. Were you here recently?

The Caterpillar Crop.

The caterpillar bracelets are now pretty well hatched, and the little worms are ready for work on the foliage as soon as it makes its appearance. Though the crusade against the egg bands in town has greatly reduced the number, it is probable that all that were in existence were not found, and that we shall perhaps have enough left for samples or to perpetuate the species. It is expected that No. 1 Ward will supply the best crop of caterpillars.

Attention is called to the Auction Sale of House and Lot, No 19 Gilmour Street, at present occupied by Mrs. W. H. Sherwood, on Wednesday next, at 12.30 This is a desirable property, with all modern improvements, and in one of the best localities in town.

A BLOODLESS WAR SO FAR.

British Neutrality Compels U. S. Torpedo Boat to Leave Falmouth.

GENERAL BLANCO NEEDS NO HELP IN CUBA.

The news of the Spanish American war to-day, as for two or three days past, amounts to nothing. Both powers seem to letting "I dare not wait upon I would." There has not been a hostile movement looking the least like business, and if either power doesn't do something soon the world will look on the war as a flash in the pan. The columns of chaff sent over the wires contain a vast deal of nothing.

New York, April 26.—The World's special from Nassau, Island of New Providence, W. I., says: "The Spanish soldiers presented a pitiable sight, but their spirits were undaunted, and they were eager to meet the Yankees. President Masso and his cabinet are delighted with the action of the American Congress, and are eagerly awaiting the landing of the American troops."

Now we can see ammunition without stint." They say "We will listen to no proposals of an armistice only when the Spaniards leave Cuba its independence, or death."

"The End of Spain."

New York, April 26.—The World's Rome special says: In answer to a question as to the result of the American-Spanish war, a prominent member of the Cabinet says:—"It is the end of Spain." "They have committed monstrous sins for which they are paying now." He adds: "It is to be feared that the Americans, intoxicated by an easy victory, will throw haphazard all their energy against the European colonies left in their neighbourhood. Canada will assuredly be one of their first victims unless an Anglo-Alliance is established between London and Washington. Where it will end I do not know. In any case it seems to me the war has in store some unpleasant surprises.

YESTERDAY'S RUNAWAY.

Mr. A. E. Sims' Horse Makes a Dash up George Street.

Yesterday afternoon the horse attached to A. E. Sims' bakery waggon ran away from in front of a house just on the other side of the C. P. R. track, on George street. The animal started to walk off, and some little youngsters set up a shout, resulting in the horse breaking into a fast trot, and then a gallop. After crossing the C. P. R. track, coming northward, it struck a truck, dishing one of the hind wheels, and breaking the tire in such a manner that it came off and flatenned out. A couple of loaves of bread were thrown from the waggon, and this was the extent of the loss. The horse was caught on the market square.

DEATH OF MRS. BURCH.

The Demise Occurred in Sydney, Cape Breton—Funeral Yesterday.

The funeral took place yesterday from the residence of Mr. W. H. Meldrum of Harriet Burch, wife of Edward Burch. Her death occurred a few days ago at Sydney, Cape Breton, from pneumonia.

The deceased was a former resident of Toronto, and had many friends in Peterborough having been the guest here of her neice, Mrs. W. H. Meldrum, McDonel street, on numerous occasions. At the time of her death she was visiting her daughter in Sydney, and her remains were brought to Peterborough for interment.

The surviving children are Charles and Edward, of Toronto, Harry and Ernest, of New York ; Fred, of Kingston, Jamaica ; Arthur, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Gould, of Sydney, Cape Breton.

The funeral ceremony was conducted by Rev. J. C. Davidson, the pallbearers being Messrs. Charles, Edward, Harry, Ernest and Arthur Burch, five sons of the deceased, and Mr. W. H. Meldrum.

OBITUARY.

Demise of John Perrin, of South Monaghan Last Thursday.

Last Thursday evening Mr. James Perrin, of South Monaghan, passed away. Mr. Perrin suffered for about three weeks from a very large carbuncle on the back of his neck. On Monday there were signs of blood poison, which continued to show itself more and more, and on Thursday Mr. Perrin passed quietly away.

The deceased has lived the greater part part, if not his entire life, in South Monaghan, and was an industrious and prosperous farmer. He was a member of the school board and council and also a member of the Ballieboro Baptist church, being a regular attendant until the time of his affliction. He was the eldest son of a large family. His father, Mr. Josiah Perrin, survives him.

Sunday morning a large number of friends and relatives met at the family residence where the funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. W. Kirkpatrick, after which the cortege, which was over a mile long, proceeded to the Ballieboro Baptist church cemetery, where the body was interred. Four brothers and two brothers-in-law acted as pallbearers.

Mrs. Perrin, one son and three daughters, one of which is Miss Perrin, of the South Ward Public School, have the sympathy of the community in their loss, but they do not mourn as those who have no hope. They have reason to believe that he is among the redeemed.

Dr. Montgomery was the attending physician. Dr. Scott, of Peterborough, was called in for consultation.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL MATTERS DISCUSSED

BY THE BOARD OF TRADE LAST EVENING.

The Old Joint Committee Will be Reinstated With Representatives on it From Every Municipality Along the Line of the Canal Operations.

There was a large attendance last evening of those interested at the meeting of the Board of Trade, held to discuss the best methods of calling the attention of the Government to the necessity of placing additional sections of the Trent Canal under contract.

The president, Mr. John Carnegie, occupied the chair and in opening the meeting stated briefly the reason why the members had been called together. He called on Mr. Dumble, as one of the committee from the board which had waited on the town council in reference to the matter.

Mr. Dumble stated that, as instructed, the committee had waited on the council and the matter of the canal had been discussed freely. It was felt that while the adverse resolution of Toronto board of trade influence any who were acquainted with the canal project, yet, as it issued from an important body it was apt to influence those who did not know the merits of the great work. The advisability had been discussed of putting the claims of the canal in pamphlet form, in order to reach everyone who might be interested in the scheme. The people of the country in general should have placed before them in short, clear, pithy form the arguments setting forth the merits of the scheme. It would require the expenditure of considerable money, as the country should be flooded with the literature. It was also thought that the old joint Board might be revived in order that the claims of the canal might be constantly kept before the people along the line by the representatives, who would be asked to work up the deputation in their different municipalities, if it was decided to go in a body to Ottawa again. The interesting of Montreal was also thought to be a good idea. If on the Government could be secured, it would be the strongest kind of leverage to bring to bear to offset Toronto's unfavourable report on the project. Montreal had not realised the merits of the scheme, so the canal promoters are left standing in such a position that it appeared as though it was merely a local scheme which they were advocating. The way to interest Montreal was to open the way by literature, which would make it easier for a deputation which could go to Montreal later on. Statistics for this literature would be required from the big canals of Europe, as well as the United States. In order to re-arouse the interest of the municipalities along the line the revival of the old Joint Board was urged by both the committee and the council.

COULD NOT POSSIBLY

In concluding Mr. Dumble characterized the action of the Toronto Board of Trade in condemning the scheme as a mean and small action occasioned by the fact that they were evidently afraid it would divert traffic from them.

MR. STRATTON

stated that Mr. Dumble had covered the ground thoroughly in his remarks. He had attended the council meeting in question with Mr. Dumble and the general feeling was that an effort should be made to re arouse interest in the project. He, himself, was strongly in favour of the resolution of the old Joint Board, and the inviting of representatives from every municipality along the line to assemble in Peterborough to discuss the matter. When the canal scheme was in its infancy he had not taken as much interest in it as he did at present, and had not been in a position to get such information as he at times needed. The literature which was to be issued would have been very useful to him on various occasions when he had been asked questions as to the details of the scheme. As Peterborough was the most important town on the waterway, it should be the most actively interested in pushing the scheme. Although there was at one time differences of opinion as to the advisability of carrying on the work, he thought that at present all were agreed on the point that it should now be finished. Concerted action was necessary to impress Hon. Mr. Blair with the importance of the work. It was evident that great pressure would have to be brought to bear to have the canal gone on with, if it was to be finished within the next four or five years. He would be in any way with the Board. He suggested that a resolution be passed with the object of resuscitating the old Joint Board of the Trent Valley Canal Association.

In accordance with his suggestion, it was moved by Messrs. Dumble and Stratton,

"That in the opinion of this Board it is desirable to organize on a permanent basis the Joint Board, representing all the interested bodies, with a view to the advancing and urging to completion the Trent Canal and that, with this in view, the secretary be requested to write all mayors of towns and wardens of counties along the line to cause to be appointed representative members of this committee to meet at Peterborough on a day to be named."—Carried.

Mr. Dumble then introduced the following resolution as regarding the recent action of the Toronto Board of Trade in condemning the expenditure of further money on the canal :

"Whereas the Government of Sir John A. Macdonald and of Sir John Thompson on a report of a Royal Commission, adopted the Trent Canal as a great national work, and proceeded to let large contracts for the construction thereof ; and whereas for years large expenditures have been made and much work accomplished in construction ; and whereas during all this time the Board of Trade of Toronto failed to pronounce against the scheme, this Board protest against the recent utterance of that Board assuming to dictate to the Government at Ottawa what its policy should be in reference to the great national undertaking ;

The Board again reiterates that nature has on the line of shortest communication between the great lakes of the west and the waters of Lake Ontario, placed a chain of lakes and rivers affording open and free navigation over two thirds of the route and that nothing but apathy and the absence of great political influence has hindered the country from completing the other third of a waterway, which in its relation to the vast carrying trade of the lakes would supply a link of communication more economic and effective than the Erie Canal, which, besides keeping down railway charges, has, against the keenest competition, brought to New York as much grain as all the railways combined and this Board asserts its faith in the Trent Canal, as not alone a local work, but one which in view of the great future development of our great West will materially assist in cheapening grain freight and so add to the value of western produce. That Board suggests to the Toronto Board of Trade that a broad view of such national undertakings will best ensure the prosperity of cities like Toronto which must depend in the future more and more largely on the vast western country which is destined to be the larger Canada, giving scope for the energies and trade of the East. This Board wishes all prosperity for Toronto, but respectfully suggests that if its Board of Trade would retain its high place it should refrain from utterance on matters, which, in the nature of things, it can have but slight knowledge of, especially when the time and manner of its action are transparently open to question."

In seconding Mr. Dumble's motion, Col. Rogers took occasion to also regarding the issuing of such literature as would promulgate knowledge as to the benefits of the canal.

On motion of Messrs. Hay and Stratton, a copy of the resolution, which was carried, will be forwarded to the Toronto Board of Trade, and to the Toronto papers.

The first Wednesday in June was fixed as the day upon which the representatives from the municipalities should meet in Peterborough.

Mr. Dumble advocated having a dinner for the representatives, and Mr. Stratton strongly endorsed the suggestion.

Mr. Carnegie and Col. Rogers urged that a trip over a portion of the route be included in the programme of entertainment.

Messrs. J. R. Stratton and V. Eastwood moved :

"That Messrs. Peter Hamilton, Robert Fair, T. E. Bradburn, Richard Hall, D. W. Dumble, J. J. McBain and J. R. Stratton be a committee to wait upon the town council asking a grant for the Trent Canal Joint Association to assist them in advancing the interests of this important work, and also request the town council to appoint a committee to co-operate with this committee in asking the County of Peterborough for a grant for the furtherance of the work of the Trent Committee."—Carried,

The Board then adjourned.

ELEPHANT CURIOSITY.

An Animal Which Stands With Its Feet Imbedded In Rocks.

On the Miles Wilbur farm, less than two miles from Palmyra, Wis., nearly midway between Bald bluff and the Curelian spring, on a wild, rocky hillside of the Kettle range of bluffs, may be found a huge rock known far and near as the "stone elephant."

It is equally visited by large numbers of people, some of whom pronounce it a petrified elephant of monster size, but the theory most generally believed is that it was hewed out of the solid rock in which it seemed imbedded centuries ago by some prehistoric race.

As if to substantiate this latter theory, from time to time many valuable tools, relics and implements unknown to the people of this age have been found about its base and in that immediate vicinity. It is about 20 feet long, 6 or 8 feet high, of a dark gray color and weighs hundreds of tons. The body only is above the level of the ground, its legs being deeply sunk below, holding it firmly in a standing position.

A tradition believed by many is that around this huge stone the Indians gathered to offer sacrifice to the Great Spirit and burn their prisoners at the stake or make them the victims of slow torture known only to the Indians. It is a long established and generally believed theory that in this immediate vicinity and about Bald bluff and the big spring were some of their most famous battlefields and hunting grounds.—Boston Transcript.

Although a very busy man, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has found time in which to write a great book of over a thousand pages entitled, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in Plain English, or Medicine Simplified. Few books printed in the English language have reached so great a sale as has this popular work, over 680,000 copies having been sold at $1.50 each. The profits on this enormous sale having repaid its author for the great amount of labour and money expended on its production he has now decided to give away, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this valuable book, the recipient only being required to mail to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., of which company he is president, 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent postpaid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. It contains 1008 large pages, and over 300 illustrations, some of them in colours. The free edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50 except only that the books are bound in strong manilla paper covers, instead of cloth. It is not often that our readers have an opportunity to obtain a valuable book on such generous terms, and we predict that few will miss availing themselves of the unusual and liberal offer to which we have called their attention.

Mrs. Gascoigne the Cause.

Ottawa, Ont., April 25.—Major-General Gascoigne has been contemplating for some time past the resignation of his position as commandant-in-chief of the Canadian militia, now announced authoritatively that he has carried his intention into effect. The reason assigned for his action is the desire of Mrs. Gascoigne to return to England on account of her health. General Gascoigne has been in Canada for three years, and while personally desirous of serving out his completed terms yet he feels that under the circumstances he should respect the wishes of his better-half. It is understood that General Gascoigne will remain in Canada until his successor is appointed, or at any rate until June.

GLADSTONE WORSE.

The Family Summoned to the Patient at Hawarden.

BRITISH OPEN DOOR POLICY.

The Mother Country's Diplomacy Successful in the Far East—A Recent Case Which Emphasizes This Fact—Coal for the World for 2,000 Years—Italy's Help.

London, April 25.—The morning newspapers say Mr. Gladstone is sinking fast. A change for the worse was observed last night, and Dr. Habershon and Sir Thomas Smith, Surgeon Extraordinary to the Queen, were hastily summoned to Hawarden and spent the night there. It is considered significant that no bulletin was issued from Hawarden until noon, and that Mr. Gladstone's family have been summoned.

9 p.m. Sunday—Alarming reports regarding the health of Mr. Gladstone are circulated. Doctors Dobie and Bliss went over to Hawarden and consulted with Doctors Habershon and Smith.

The following bulletin was issued yesterday at 5 p.m.: "Mr. Gladstone's condition is one of increasing weakness, though he is more free from pain."

BRITISH DIPLOMACY.

In Spite of Russian Opposition an English Syndicate Secured Lease of Rich Coal Fields in China.

New York, April 25.—The London correspondent of the Evening Post turns from the all absorbing topic—the Spanish-American war—long enough to wire the following to his paper regarding what is going on in the far East:

The British policy of the open door, in pursuit of which the British Government sought, and still desires, the co-operation of the United States, has this week made a decisive coup in North China.

A group of English capitalists, among whom may be named Baron Rothschild, Earl Mayo and Mr. Causton, the last of whom is associated with Cecil Rhodes in the South Africa Chartered Company, calling themselves a Pekin Syndicate, have secured, after a long diplomatic tussle between England, Russia and France, a 60-year concession of the enormous coal and iron fields, 250 miles by 40, in the Shansi Province.

The value of the concession may be gauged by the fact that Baron Von Richthofen estimated that the anthracite alone from it would meet the coal consumption of the world for over 2,000 years, while the British railway now under construction through this region, gives a new artery of free commerce in China, and vastly increases Britain's hold on North China. By securing Wei-Hai-Wei British diplomacy scored a triumph, but mainly a naval triumph. By securing these concessions in Shansi Lord Salisbury and Sir Claude Macdonald, the British Minister at Pekin, have shown the reality of the policy of the open door, for they did it in the face of the most active opposition of Russian diplomacy at Pekin, aided by France. With a bountiful supply of the best coal on the spot, Great Britain holds a trump card in the commercial game in the North Pacific.

It is not a little significant that in the pursuit of this policy of the open door Lord Salisbury solicited and obtained the active diplomatic support of the Italian Government, while it is noteworthy that Charles Rudini, son of the Italian Premier, is himself a member of the syndicate, and is now in Shansi. In connection therewith, Lord Salisbury, who is expected back again at the Foreign Office from the South of France in restored health, himself initiated the diplomatic negotiations which resulted in this concession. Their success, doubtless, proved the best possible tonic after the influenza, from which he now has almost completely recovered.

There has been some silly newspaper talk this week about Lord Salisbury's illness having been diplomatic in character. This is absolutely untrue. His illness was so real as to compel immediate rest, but never once has he allowed himself to consider his retirement either from the Prime Ministership or the Foreign Secretaryship. He retains both positions.

MERCHANT AND BANKER.

A Case Interesting to Every Business Man in Canada.

Quebec, April 25.—An action for $1,000 damages has been taken in the Superior Court by a merchant of this city against a local bank, and the case will probably be an important one to business men. The plaintiff had and still has a deposit in the bank referred to. Three cheques were given out by him, and when they reached the bank they were not acknowledged, as the manager was holding on to the deposit as security for some notes endorsed by the plaintiff, but which are not yet due. This, naturally enough, has caused a certain amount of damage to the merchant, who has sued for the above amount.

Counter Protest in South Ontario.

Toronto, April 23.—A fortnight ago a protest was filed against the return of Charles Calder, as Conservative member of the Legislature for South Ontario, and the seat was claimed for Hon. There are now 62 protests before the courts, and $62,000 has been deposited with the Bank of Commerce.

HER CHOICE.

Miss Kitty Hurst ran out with an unfinished break of 21. "Gloves all round," she said to the group of men who had succumbed to her prowess with the cue.

"Bravo, Kitty!" exclaimed an enthusiastic youngster.

"You have most extraordinary luck, Miss Hurst," said Fanshawe of the Coldstreams. Fanshawe was voted a cad and frowned upon.

"Would you like me to play it over again?" asked Miss Hurst of Fanshawe of the Coldstreams. "I'll give you more points, just to compensate for my luck, you know."

Fanshawe pawed his mustache, and Miss Kitty smiled at him like an angel. She wore a white dress, cunningly devised from pique, and at her waist nestled three happy red roses which young Barker had picked at 6 o'clock that morning, and young Barker was always seriously indisposed by dinner time if he got up before breakfast.

"Well, what shall we do?" asked Kitty. "No more billiards, eh?" The group of men uttered an inharmonious assent.

"You come into the orchard and flirt with me," said the enthusiastic youngster, "and these fellows can go into the library and improve their minds. It'll do them a lot of good, and me, too—in the orchard."

Kitty shook her head. "I daren't," she said. "You have such a fascinating way with you that I might say and do all sorts of silly things."

"You're rather good at that," said the boy.

Barker and the boy were Miss Hurst's most ardent admirers, and Barker considered the boy an "impertinent young idiot," while the boy was loud and consistent in describing Barker as a "silly ass."

"Well, then, come and upset the professor's specimens," suggested the boy. "He's got a new lot in—brought 'em home in his pockets last night. There were three caterpillars in the bath this morning, but it didn't take long to drown them."

"Shut up, Tommy!" said Hemming, the rising barrister. "By the way, has any one seen the professor this morning?"

"I saw him groveling in the kitchen garden," drawled Barker, "and when I asked him what he was up to he muttered ghastly things about some one having seen a death's head among the potatoes."

"He's a queer chap," said Hemming.

"He has a nice voice," said Kitty.

"I believe Kitty is in love with him," said the boy. "I saw her stroking one of his butterflies the other day. It spoiled it, didn't it, Kitty?"

"I didn't know the color came off," protested Kitty.

"Ah, that was a female butterfly," said the boy. "Well, you fellows, if anybody wants to relabel portions of a small museum, they had better come with me. It's jolly slow here, and it's horrible to see Barker yawning in the corner over there. I wonder why Barker looks so dreadfully unpleasant when he yawns? Never mind, you won't help it, and hitting me with a billiard cue won't improve your method of yawning."

"You'd better leave Mr. Sinnett's specimens alone," said Kitty.

"And so had you," retorted the boy. "I don't go stroking all the color off. You know you won't get him to love you that way. Entomologists are awfully touchy people. I say, Barker, don't you think you had better go to bed or cover your face with a newspaper? Hello, there is the professor. Don't look at him, Kitty. His trousers are positively indecent—Barker said so."

Alfred Sinnett stepped lightly across the lawn. A basket, swinging from a leather strap, banged against his right hip, tin boxes bulged from his jacket and in his left hand he carried a stick conveniently hooked to pull down the branches of trees. He was tall, dark, clean shaven and apparently about 40 years of age.

"Perhaps he has some beetles with him," suggested Hemming, the rising barrister. Every one laughed except Fanshawe, who suppressed a shudder.

"Never mind, Fanshawe," said the boy; "beetles can't run as fast as guardsmen. Look out, here he is! Does anybody know a few lines of Darwin as a recitation? He might consider it a delicate compliment."

The professor raised his straw hat in salutation.

"Any sport?" asked the boy.

The professor raised his eyebrows interrogatively.

"Have you got anything to kill?" went on the boy. "There's nothing like drowning for caterpillars."

The professor smiled, and his smile was rather pleasant. "No; I have brought home nothing alive this morning," he said.

"May I see what you have collected?" asked Miss Kitty.

"I shall be delighted to show you." The professor opened one of the tin boxes and extracted a small specimen of blue quarts. "This," he said, "is peculiar and different from any I have hitherto seen in this neighborhood, but if you can spare me a short time after lunch I shall be able to show you my recent acquisitions with less inconvenience to your friends." And he smiled pleasantly at Fanshawe of the Coldstreams.

"It's so good of you to take so much trouble over me," said Miss Kitty to the professor.

"I am very glad if you find my hobby of interest," said the man of learning.

"I always envy you scientists. Every foot of the road contains for you some object of study which the uninitiated never dream."

"You must come with me one morning, and I will show you how to observe all the curious minutiæ which are lying around you at every step. Will you excuse me now? I shall be rather busy till lunchtime. Good morning, gentlemen."

Barker yawned, the boy whistled, Fanshawe of the Coldstreams snorted, Hemming, the rising barrister, smiled; Kitty blushed. The boy shook his head at Kitty reproachfully.

"You might leave the poor old professor alone," he said. "He never did you any harm. He didn't put caterpillars in your bath, and he didn't make beetles run after you."

"Don't be silly," Kitty said.

"That isn't argument," said the boy.

The next morning Barker, the boy, Fanshawe and Hemming watched Miss Kitty Hurst and the professor pass through the wicket gate at the bottom of the rose garden and enter the copse a few yards beyond. The professor walked hurriedly, avoiding the patches of wet clay by instinct. Miss Kitty had more than once to request a less speedy progress, and at the stile, which they reached after a few minutes' hurried tramp, she was glad to stop and recover her breath.

"Isn't it lovely?" gasped Kitty. "This meadow and this copse are worth the whole of London season." Two months hence Kitty would be dying for a dance.

The professor looked at the flowers and dissected them with his eye, looked at the butterflies and classified them at a glance. "Yes," he said; "it is very lovely."

They walked on until the basket and the tin boxes were almost full, and Kitty heard about many things which she tried vainly to remember. Kitty Hurst felt happier than she had been for a very long while. There was something instinct with pleasure in thus wandering through peaceful meadows, beside hedgerows, finding wonderful things in the least considered places and feeling your step spring upon the turf with continually renewed vigor.

On the following morning Kitty and the professor again set forth with basket and boxes, and on several successive mornings, until the young men who assembled in the billiard room began to detest the professor most cordially.

"Miss Hurst," said the professor, staring curiously at the twisted trunk of a massive oak tree, "do you intend to undertake a serious study of botany?"

"Oh, it's very interesting," said Kitty, "and it's very nice to be among these delightful green fields and copses, but as to becoming a really serious botanist, I am afraid I am not built that way."

"Yes, it's very pleasant," said the professor, "and your presence seems to make it even more pleasant."

"It's very good of you to say that, but I thought that you scientific men always spoke the truth as far as your knowledge allowed. In fact, I thought that that was the basis of the scientific spirit and what made it so objectionable to the imaginative creature."

"As far as my knowledge admitted I spoke the truth," said the professor.

"Ah, that's because you haven't the artistic instinct! If you had, you would know that my person in its present relations to those trees is abominable and that my frock is simply revolting beside those purple flowers."

The professor smiled and walked on. Blue shadows dappled the olden grass, a soft breeze shook the boughs overhead; the morning was perfect. Miss Hurst and the professor staid suddenly in their walk as if by instinctive sympathy and gazed at the soft line of the downs which stretched far on their left hand.

"What a paradise, this pastoral England!" said the professor. His glance had synthesized, not analyzed.

Kitty nodded. There is an element in such a scene that hushes the human voice.

"For this," went on the professor, "would you care to give up a great deal of the pleasures which are in your London life—the dances, theaters and concerts—to watch nature as your sole entertainer, to watch her in her passive and dramatic moods in her minute and her mighty effects?"

To such an appeal as the sunlight offered who could say "no?" Kitty knew that dances and theaters must be loathsome and wondered how she could have considered them satisfactory.

"Yes," she said, "I could live like that with thorough happiness. I am sure that one is very foolish to consider so many trivial and artificial pleasures."

"And would you care to live that life with me, if I tried to do all that might lie in my power to increase your happiness? I love you. I am not an old man, but not young enough to get bitten by a passing fancy. I know that you have scarcely known me long enough to be able to say whether you would be happy as my wife or not. My manner of living has been entirely different from yours, but I could make some concessions to your habits, and that need not be a barrier."

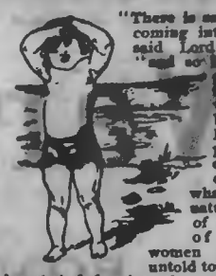
Miss Kitty Hurst suddenly discovered why she had been so contented during the past few days.

"I should be very, very happy with you," she said.

The group of men in the billiard room were spending an uncomfortable morning. Barker swore, the boy sulked and broke the jigger, Fanshawe of the Coldstreams pawed his mustache, Hemming, the rising barrister, smiled. "Fancy Kitty Hurst being engaged to the professor," he said.—St. Paul's.

The Sarcastic Caddie.

Golf is responsible for many caddie stories. One of the latest is about a youngster and a well known course in Scotland. The caddie was waiting around a railway station, hoping for an engagement to carry clubs. Suddenly he spied a new member carrying a bunch of clubs under his arm. "Carry your clubs for a bob, sir," said the caddie, walking up to the new member and placing a hand on the bag insinuatingly. The recruit shifted the bag out of the boy's reach and looked daggers at him, but made no reply. The boy followed to the links, continuing to importune him, but to no purpose. The new member went into the clubhouse, reappearing with an opponent whose clubs were carried by a boy. "Carry your clubs for a tanner, sir," said the persistent caddie, but no notice was taken of the offer. The new member's opponent opened with a good drive, and then the novice placed the ball carefully, threw himself into position, swung his club like a forehammer and—missed. The rejected caddie laughed joyfully. Once more the novice drove and missed, and the caddie's laughter became uproarious. At the third try the ball was dislodged from its perch and spun over the turf for about six feet. "Hi, man," yelled the caddie derisively, "I'll carry your clubs for the fun o' the thing!"



"There is so much trouble coming into the world," said Lord Bolingbroke, "and so much more in going out of it, that it is hardly worth while to be alive at all." If a man and a philosopher comes to this conclusion, what must be the natural conclusion of the thousands of suffering women who undergo untold torture in bringing their babes into the world?

Philosophy of this kind is based upon gross ignorance. The fact is, that there is no necessity for the severe pangs undergone by the average woman. If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the majority of women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can always be remedied. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a sure, speedy and permanent cure for all disorders of this description. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic. It banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits. Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good."

"I suffered fourteen years," writes Mrs. Mary J. Stewart, of Box 46, Saratoga, Santa Clara Co., Cal., with female weakness, nervousness and general debility. I tried everything to no avail. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me."

The names, addresses and photographs of hundreds of women cured by Dr. Pierce's medicines are printed by permission in the "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." It's free. For a paper-covered copy send 21 one-cent stamps to cover customs and mailing only. Cloth binding 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Every woman needs a great medical book. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser fills this want. It contains over 1000 pages and nearly 800 illustrations.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said :

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company, I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, the prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

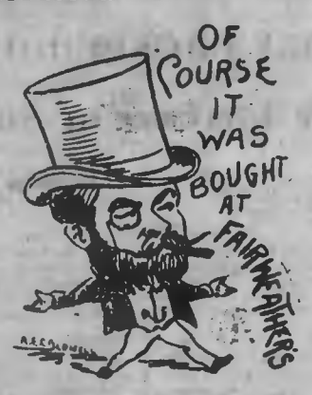
Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Barrett, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

STYLE IS THE DRESS OF THOUGHT

Chesterfield Once Said.



We amend that by saying it's the mark of good taste—especially in Hat wear.

Handsome Hat and good variety to suit every taste and every head.

Well made Hats that come down to modest pocket books through the wonders wrought by having large buying facilities. Every new style, shape and shade is here—Youman's, Christy's, Tress, Stetson and all the rest. Prices start for good Hats at $1.00, and go up to $2 00 and $3.00 But we are as proud of our 50c Hat values as we are of our $3 00 ones.

If gentlemen will drop in at any convenient moment we'll easily convince them that it's good business sense to buy their Hats and Outing Caps here. It means having the most approved styles and colours, also a saving that soon amounts to many dollars.

PETERBOROUGH AND TORONTO.

ADJOURNED VESTRY OF ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

A LARGELY ATTENDED MEETING LAST NIGHT.

Important Business Transacted—Several Reports Received—School House Extension to be Pushed on.

The adjourned vestry meeting held in St. John's last night was unusually well attended, the Rector presiding. After prayers, the business of the meeting proceeded.

Mr. P. Campbell, who was elected people's churchwarden, in accepting the position with applause, expressed his thanks for the confidence of the congregation, implied in his appointment.

The auditors, Messrs. Edg. Pearse and P. Campbell, presented their report, which was received.

AN UNPLEASANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

The rector said he had a most unpleasant duty to perform in announcing the resignation of Rev. E. V. Stevenson, curate of St. John's. He appreciated the loss which himself and the congregation must feel by Rev. Mr. Stevenson's removal. He had used every effort to induce Mr. Stevenson to reconsider his resignation, and the latter had taken further time to think over the matter, but at the last he had expressed his inability to withdraw his resignation, which was to take effect on the first of the coming August, which would mark the end of Mr. Stevenson's three years' stay in the parish. The rector paid a warm tribute to the excellent nature of Mr. Stevenson's services, to the manly independent stand he had taken and the good work he had done in certain lines of Christian activity, where his loss would be especially felt. The rector stated that through a very natural reluctance he had hesitated to accept Mr. Stevenson's resignation, and had not yet done so, though he feared that there was no other course open to him.

On motion a committee was appointed consisting of the Church-wardens, Dr. Burnham, Dr. Boucher and Messrs. Fessenden, Dennistoun and Pearse, to wait upon Rev. E. V. Stevenson and urge upon him a reconsideration and withdrawal of his resignation, and, in case the committee was unfortunately unsuccessful, the following gentlemen were appointed a committee to draft a resolution or memorial, expressive of the congregation's appreciation of Mr. Stevenson's services and regret at the severance of relations that have been so uniformly and, it is believed, mutually pleasant:—Messrs. Fessenden, Dennistoun, Pearse and Yeldme.

SCHOOLHOUSE EXTENSION.

The advisory committee, respecting the re construction of the school house, verbally reported, stating that the committee had decided on recommending that the outside figure of expenditure for the purpose, including furnishing, be $3,500.

After considerable discussion and explanation the report of the committee, which also included the extension of the present building northward and the construction of a basement, for infant class purposes, was adopted.

BUILDING COMMITTEE.

On motion, the rector, churchwardens and advisory committee were instructed to appoint a building committee to take immediate steps to proceed with building operations and to make any changes in the plans required to conform with the amount of expenditure agreed upon.

THE RECTOR'S REPORT.

The Rector presented his report of the general work of the parish, which referred to the advance of the work in the south as well as the north of the parish. Among other interesting items the number of communicants for the year was reported at 2,750 in St. John's alone. After reference to the ordinary services and cottage meetings, work in the public institutions was outlined. Some $140 had been expended for the relief of the poor by different agencies. After dealing with other matters the Rector acknowledged the warm support of the members of the congregation, and a still wider co-operation was appealed for.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY.

Miss Errett presented the report of the women's Auxiliary. There are 65 members, 8 of which have joined during the year and 54 subscribers to the "Letter Leaflet." Two bales have been sent out to mission fields in Algoma and South Bartleigh of the value of $45. Garments had also been made for the poor of Peterborough. The sum of $267.40 was collected for missions. The report showed a marked increase in interest in the cause of missions.

MISSION BAND.

Miss Dollie Comstock presented the report of the Mission Band, an admirably written report, showing receipts of $82.50. Among the gifts were $20 to the Sunday school fund.

CHANCEL GUILD.

Mrs. W. R. Sherwood's report of the Chancel Guild showed receipts of $61.26 and expenditure of $49.09. The report contained the following paragraph:—"The Chancel Guild has suffered an irreparable loss in the removal by death of one of its most earnest and devoted members, Miss Beak. Since her childhood she laboured to advance the interests of the church in every way, and as the daughter of our late esteemed rector she took a special interest in the work connected with the church."

In putting the motion for the adoption of the report, the rector referred to the subject of this paragraph in feeling and appreciative terms.

KING'S DAUGHTERS.

Mrs. C. W. Sawers presented the report of the King's Daughters, which showed receipts and expenditures for the benefit of the poor of $69 30, with a balance on hand of $15.00 Over one hundred garments had been given to the deserving.

THE GIRLS AUXILIARY.

Miss Peck presented the report of the Girl's Guild. Receipts were $62.70, disbursements $10.04 less.

Mr. Fred Sawers presented satisfactory reports on behalf of the Sunday school, the Boys' Department of St. Andrews' Brotherhood and the Boys' Brigade, all of which showed satisfactory progress and condition.

The several reports were adopted.

A cordial vote of thanks was passed to the choir for their faithful services during the year.

The meeting adjourned.

ADJOURNED VESTRY MEETING OF ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

A Large Attendance—The Financial Report Presented—Other Interesting Proceedings.

There was a good attendance at the adjourned vestry meeting of St. Luke's church last night. An elaborate financial report was read by Mr. Quartermaine, one of the auditors, which was discussed clause by clause, and passed with the exception of a minor point regarding the valuation of the church property, which was referred to a small committee.

It will be remembered that last year a prayer book was presented to Mr. H. G. Strickland on the completion of his 21 years of service as People's Warden. Last night on motion of Mr. F. Adams, seconded by Mr. Nesbitt, the following resolution was passed, with direction to have it suitengrossed and presented at a special meeting of the vestry:

Resolved: That this meeting of the vestry hereby desires to express its sense of the valuable services rendered to St. Luke's church by Mr. H. T. Strickland during the twenty-two years of his office as People's Warden. During that time he has seen the parish steadily grow in numbers, and in the value of its property. The church edifice has been erected and enlarged, and is now completely and beautifully equipped for its sacred purposes. The Sunday School has been built, and an excellent rectory, recently enlarged, has been provided for the rector of the parish. In all these works Mr. Strickland has taken the warmest interest, and by courtesy of manner and kindliness of heart has deservedly won an abiding place in the affections of the members of the church.

And this meeting in tendering its thanks to Mr. Strickland, further desires to express the earnest hope that he may be spared for many years to occupy his accustomed seat in the church, and to see the good work which he has handed over to younger workers continually prosper and grow in extent and influence."

Mr. Strickland made a suitable and feeling response.

Mr. Strickland, on behalf of Miss Strickland, the secretary, read the report of the Women's Auxiliary. Mr. D. Curtis, on behalf of Mis Ada Curtis, read the report of the Sunnyside branch of the Women's Auxiliary. Mr. Spence and Mr. H. Adams reported for the Sunday School; Mrs. Meade for the Visiting Chapter; Miss Armstrong for the Young Women's Chapter; Miss A. Meade for the Decoration Chapter, and Mr. R. B. Rogers for the Men's Chapter. These were all of a highly satisfactory character and will be published in the Parish Magazine.

Messrs. Grasett, Nesbitt, Peck, Mitchell, Strickland and Dawson were appointed a committee to report on the enlargement of the vestry into a church parlour.

After passing a hearty vote of thanks to the auditors, Messrs. Quartermaine and Nesbitt, the meeting adjourned.

RIGHTS OF SPANISH VESSELS.

President McKinley Lays Down the Rules Which Are to Govern—Two Other Small Captures How the United States Will Be Helped When They Bombard Manila.

Key West, April 27.—The big Spanish steamship Panama of the Cebellas Line, which left New York for Havana on April 20 for Havana, with a number of Spanish refugees on board and a very valuable cargo, including, it is understood, stores for the Spanish army, was captured yesterday evening, about 20 miles from Havana, by the little lighthouse tender Mangrove, now belonging to the Mosquito fleet. The Mangrove mounts two six-pounders and four 38 revolvers. She is commanded by Light Commander W. H. Everett, and has a crew of 13 men. The Panama is of about 2,000 tons, and a very valuable prize.

When the Mangrove sighted the Spaniard she ran up to the latter and fired a gun across her bows. The liner did not take the hint, and a second shot was fired, after which the Panama slowed down a little. A third shot was fired across her bows at 100 yards, and the deck officer of the Spanish vessel was hailed and notified that if he did not heave to a shot would be sent through the vessel. This notification caused the Panama to be brought to. Ensign Dayton then boarded the Spanish steamer and took possession of her. Capt. Everett brought his capture into this port with a prize crew borrowed from the battleship Indiana. The prize of the Mangrove was formerly the British steamer Branksome Hall. She is of iron, registers 2,085 tons gross and is 331.4 feet long.

The United States gunboat Newport, Captain B. F. Tilley, has brought in the Spanish sloop Panquete, and the Spanish schooner Pireneo, Cuban coasting vessels, which she captured yesterday.

Value of the Panama.

New York, April 27.—It was stated at the office of the Spanish Transatlantic Line, which owns the Panama, that that vessel was valued at $200,000, and her cargo at $75,000.

A Sloop and a Schooner.

Key West, April 27.—The United States gunboat Newport has brought in two prizes, a sloop and a schooner.

RIGHTS OF SPANISH VESSELS.

President McKinley Issues a Proclamation Setting Forth the Rules.

Washington, April 27.—The President yesterday issued a proclamation respecting the rights of Spanish vessels now in or bound to United States ports, and also with regard to the right of search, with the following provisions:

First. The neutral flag covers enemy's goods with the exception of contraband of war.

Second. Neutral goods not contraband of war are not liable to confiscation under the enemy's flag.

Third. Blockades in order to be binding must be effective.

Fourth. Spanish merchant vessels in any ports or places within the United States shall be allowed until May 21, 1898, inclusive, for loading their cargoes and departing from such ports or places; and such Spanish merchant vessels, if met at sea by any United States ship shall be permitted to continue their voyage if, on examination of their papers, it shall appear that their cargoes were taken on board before the expiration of the above term, provided that nothing herein contained shall apply to Spanish vessels having on board any officers in the military or naval service of the enemy or any coal (except such as may be necessary for their voyage) or any other article prohibited or contraband of war, or any despatch of or to the Spanish Government.

Fifth. Any Spanish merchant vessel which prior to April 21, 1898, shall have sailed for any foreign port bound for any port or place in the United States shall be permitted to enter such port or place, and to discharge her cargo, and afterwards forthwith to depart without molestation; and any such vessel, if met at sea by any United States ship shall be permitted to continue her voyage to any port not blockaded.

Sixth. The right of search is to be exercised with strict regard for the right of neutrals and the voyages of mail steamers are not to be interefered with, except on the clearest ground of suspicion of a violation of law in respect of contraband or blockade.

MANGROVE'S PRIZE.

The Valuable Panama Captured by the Lighthouse Tender.

THE PHILIPPINE REBELS.

More Spanish Blood Will Be Shed by Them Than by Americans When Manila Is Bombarded.

Hong-Kong, April 27.—Consul Williams has arrived from Manila. He brings important information for Commodore Dewey. He says that ten times more Spanish blood will be shed by the natives than by the Americans when the city is bombarded. There are 30,000 rebels with 6,000 modern rifles, who will invest the approaches to Manila and are ready for attack. The rebels are poorly officered, however, and may degenerate into a mob, which increases the fears for the safety of non-combatants. The fleet will try to protect the inhabitants as much as possible.

Consul Williams says the Spanish have very little ammunition, have only one ten-inch coast defence gun and only five shells, one of which is defective. He places no credence in the story of mines and torpedoes at Manila harbor. Twenty-five mines, he says, are being constructed, but they cannot be laid in time.

AS IN ACTUAL WAR.

The Washington Authorities Are Getting the War Routine at Their Fingers' Ends—Capt. Mahan Summoned.

Washington, April 27.—Conditions in Washington are rapidly settling down to those of actual war. Notices came to the State Department from the four quarters of the globe yesterday showing that the nations as a rule are prepared to assume an attitude of strict neutrality as between the United States and Spain in the present struggle. In most cases they were in answer to the identical note sent out by the State Department to all United States embassies and legations, instructing them to inform the Governments to which they were accredited that war has existed since April 21.

Notwithstanding the frequent reports that came from unofficial sources of engagements between the fleet and the shore batteries, no word of confirmation came officially. The three prizes reported yesterday to have been seized by the fleet were not referred to in the official despatches, but the press reports of the seizures were received with the greatest satisfaction by the officers of the department.

Among the orders issued yesterday was one directing Captain A. R. Mahan, the author and world-renowned authority on naval tactics, to report for duty at the Navy Department. Captain Mahan is a retired officer, and will be assigned to a position on the Strategy Board. Probably he will replace Admiral Walker, for whom the President and Secretary Long cherish the highest regard, on account of his professional ability, and who is to be assigned to duty of the highest importance in the immediate future.

A CANADIAN REGIMENT.

A Committee in Chicago Calls a Meeting of Canadians to Find Out How Many Will Go to Fight.

Chicago, April 27.—A committee composed of G. A. Baynes, late Major of Montreal Garrison Artillery; D. N. Campbell, late of Canadian Militia, and W. H. F. Holmes, late of the Queen's Own Rifles, Toronto, have called a meeting of Canadians who are in sympathy with the United States in the present war and are willing to volunteer their services and form a Canadian regiment to assemble at the Sherman House for the purpose of effecting an organization. The object is to raise a battalion composed of Canadians, of whom there are upwards of 50,000 in Chicago, besides large numbers in St. Paul, Minneapolis and other cities.

A Correspondent Captured.

New York, April 27.—A Washington special to the Journal says: Porto Rico advices just received give details of the arrest of George Clark Musgrave, the Journal correspondent. He is a prisoner on board the Buenos Ayres, confined in a filthy hole with steerage passengers, many of whom are recovering from yellow fever. The Buenos Ayres called at Porto Rico en route to Spain, where Musgrave will be thrown into prison, and it is said probably shot within ten days.

Mines in New York Harbor.

New York, April 27.—Thus far, 74 mines have been placed in the bay, and it is believed that three times that number will be "planted" from Fort Wadsworth to Sandy Hook.

Should a hostile fleet succeed in passing the Sandy Hook fort, they would come to grief in the harbor, because of the mines and dangerous reefs.

Orders from the War Department were received yesterday to place "secret" buoys in the lower bay, as a guidance for our vessels, which might have occasion to enter the harbor after dark.

Getting Ready at 'Frisco.

San Francisco, April 27.—The concentration of the heavy artillery batteries, stationed near San Francisco, will begin immediately. The army and navy officials in this city have sent to Washington a message pointing out the necessity of the immediate establishment of a system of coast patrol, so that the presence of hostile vessels in California waters may at once be made known.

Anglo-American Alliance.

Berlin, April 27.—The New York correspondent of the Cologne Gazette cables his paper that he learns from "an especially trustworthy source" that agreements already exist between the United States and Great Britain, which, if the present British Government continues in office, must lead, in the future course of events, to an alliance."

Holding the Spanish Mails.

New York, April 27.—The exchange of mails between this country and Spain and all Spanish colonies has been stopped in accordance with orders received from Washington yesterday to hold all Spanish mails. Since all mail from the United States for Spain passes through this office the order stops all Spanish mail. Mails to Cuba are likewise stopped by the order.

Sighted the Paris.

Queenstown, April 27.—(1 a.m.)—The White Star steamer Majestic, which has arrived here from New York en route to Liverpool, reports that at 4 o'clock on Monday morning, in lat. 48.52 and long. 29.8, she passed an American liner, presumably the Paris. She saw no Spanish warships during the voyage.

Buena Ventura to Be Held.

Washington, April 27.—The Cabinet decided not to release the Buena Ventura or other early prizes, but to let the courts settle such matters.

Forbidden to Sail.

Kingstown, Ireland, April 27.—The mail steamer Ireland, said to have been purchased by the United States, has been forbidden to sail.

PERMANENT PAVEMENTS.

Councillors Acquiring Information About Them Down in Belleville To Day.

Belleville has recently replaced the board sidewalks on its principal business streets by asphalt pavements, which are a great success, and this morning Mayor Davis with the Street and Bridge Committee left for that city to inspect them and inquire into the cost and method of payment for the same, with a view to acquiring more information before letting the contracts for the paving of George street.

THE CHARGE DISMISSED.

A Young Lad is Saucy and when Punished has a Summons Issued.

The charge of assault against Thomas Hetherington, preferred by Wesley Allen, was dismissed this morning by the Magistrate, who would have been better pleased if the defendant had made the assault even more pronounced, as Allen is a forward little urchin, with a very old head on young shoulders, and is entirely too free with his tongue. He is the lad who was sent up to the Children's Aid Society in Toronto, and escaping, came back home again.

The case in court this morning arose through young Hetherington ordering Allen off his father's lot, where a crowd of mischievous boys had gathered. Allen refused to leave, and was so saucy that Hetherington assisted him off the premises with his boot.

THE RECTOR APPRECIATED.

Rev. Mr. Kenrick's Services at St. Mark's Recognized.

At the annual vestry meeting of St. Mark's, Port Hope, which was held on Monday, the 25th inst., the following resolution was unanimously passed:

Resolved, that we, the members of St. Mark's church, Port Hope, take this opportunity of tendering to you, sir, our beloved rector, our deep and kindest thanks for the good work you have done in the Parish for the past year. We are also thankful to you for the beautiful church we now have to worship in, and to you we consider belongs the praise for the good financial standing the church is in to-day. We trust and pray that God in His goodness will long spare you to minister unto us.

The vestry further showed it appreciation of Rev. C. B. Kenrick by voting an additional hundred dollars to his stipend.

THE MAYOR OF FALAISE.

It was dark in the streets of Falaise.

The mayor issued a proclamation that every citizen should hang a lantern in front of his door.

But still the streets were no lighter.

Then the mayor swore an oath, and issued a proclamation that the citizens should put candles in the lanterns.

And still the streets were no lighter.

Then the mayor swore a greater oath and issued a proclamation that the citizens should light the candles.

Then the streets were lighter.

A man once wished to make money.

He secured a good store.

He secured good goods.

He secured good clerks.

He made no money.

Then he turned on his store the light of newspaper advertising, and let people know he was in business, and why. He kept them in the dark no longer.

Then he made money.

Spring Humors

During the colder season impure humors accumulate in the blood.

The surface of the body being chilled, the pores are closed and clogged, and impurities which might pass off in perspiration are forced back into the blood. Besides this, winter's hearty food, fats and sweets, contribute more impurities.

This briefly explains the existence of Spring Humors—those unsightly eruptions, painful boils, annoying pimples and other affections, which make the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla absolutely necessary at this season.

But with some people, impurities in the blood cause very different symptoms. The kidneys, liver and bowels are overmatched in their efforts to relieve the clogged system. Dizzy headaches, bilious attacks, failure of appetite, coated tongue, lame back, indigestion or that tired feeling are some of the results.

From the same cause may also come scrofula, neuralgia sciatica or rheumatism.

All these troubles and more may properly be called "Spring Humors," and just as there is one cause, a cure is found in just one remedy, and that is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the impure blood.
Hood's Sarsaparilla enriches that which is weak and thin.
Hood's Sarsaparilla vitalizes that which lacks vitality.
Hood's Sarsaparilla leads in Merit, Sales and Cures.

THE HORRORS OF WAR.

Rev. J. E. Starr is always unusual in his methods, as his friends in Peterborough will remember. In Kingston last Sunday he read a war despatch from the pulpit as a reward to those of his flock who left the excitement of the newspaper bulletin boards to attend church. It is questionable where the element of reward came in, or what sacrifice was involved in refraining from reading bulletins respecting a most eventless and farcial war. We have seen more blood split in a sham battle than has been poured out since this "war" began, a few days ago by the gallant capture of a lumber scow by a full-armoured battle ship, and which has developed into what the members of the London Stock Exchange playfully denominate a "prize competition." Not a shot has been fired with the object of hitting anything more vulnerable than the Atlantic ocean. If all the wind that has been wasted in war philippics by our valiant American cousins were concentrated upon their most puissant battle ship ship it would be blown out of the water like a cockle shell. In default of doing anything warlike, the Americans take great comfort in bombastic rodomontade reminiscent of the vainglorious vapourings of Bombastes Furioso. The printed story, of the chase of a cruiser, taking nearly a column of a big city daily, set out with glaring headlines, telling in moving and eloquent periods of the "most exciting event" yet recorded, reads like a cheap theatrical extravaganza. Almost the entire fleet in front of and at a safe distance from Havana, joined in the heroic pursuit described in the despatch referred to. A man of war appeared in the distance. The steamer Cincinnati was seen with smoke pouring from her funnels—doubtless the proper place to pour—and she was in full chase of the unconscious battle ship. "Smoke" also "poured from the other ships" of the American squadron, but we are left in doubt as to whether it "poured from the funnels or the cook's galley." It was a thrilling moment. The flagship "throbbbed with the vibrations of her twin screws." Then the cry went up "She's a Spaniard." "The men at the guns shouted with glee." Then Admiral Sampson clapped a glass to his eye as coolly as though he were five hundred, instead of five, miles from the terrible Spaniard. He said "deliberately,"—deliberately mind you; he was in no more hurry to speak than his fleet was to tackle Havana—he said deliberately to Captain Chadwick, "Yes, the Oquenda or the Viscaya; I should like to bag them both." But this heroic aspiration was doomed to disappointment. Another puff of smoke—there's a deal more smoke than fire in this war—and then "came the boom of a gun across the waters." It was an Italian cruiser, that in deference to international decency fired a salute, such as is heard a thousand times a day in different parts of the world in the piping times of peace. The Italian for such it was, went on about her business, and then entered the harbour of Havana, where, of course, prudence prevented the American fleet from following. It is surprising that the despatch failed to state whether the smoke kept on "pouring" or simply came out. Then this bloodless war, this anæmic struggle at long range, is making history. Blazoned on the pages of American history will be the fact that on the occasion when the Americans "cried" havoc, and let slip the dogs of war—that is to say, the capture of the lumber scow, Beuna Ventura—it was a bad venture for her—the man to fire the first shot that ploughed up the shuddering sea into a column of spouting foam, was Patrick Mullen. Michael Rafferty was the first man to set foot on the trembling merchantmen; and Jonathan Green, of Vermont, was the first to take a chew of tobacco on board the fated craft. The names of these heroes, whose triumph was not marred by the effusion of blood, will be embalmed in history, and their statues in due time will grace the marble corridors of the national capital. Great is gush, and Jonathan is his prophet!

But before long there will, it is possible, be bloody work, and many lives will be sacrificed to the wicked aims of jingo politicians.

GALWAY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

While Mr. Martin and Terrence McGee were taking a block of logs down Swamp Lake to the mouth of Nogie's Creek last Tuesday for the Rathbun Company, a terrific gale arose and broke the boom, allowing some of the logs to drift over the lake. The wind continued to blow so hard that Mr. McGee and his brother were forced to allow their boat (being a delicate structure) to drift with the waves, landing them on the opposite shore. They had to relinquish their boat and walk a distance of two or three miles along the shore, climbing over logs and crossing marshes, wading in places in several feet of water. When they came within hearing distance of Mr. O'Brien they shouted and were heard by him. Mr. Wm. Simpson, foreman for the Rathbun Co., was told of it and immediately got one of his men and a boat and rescued the men, who were much fatigued.

Owing to the dry weather bush fires of a specially serious nature have been raging around here, but are entirely extinguished by the recent rains.

Mr. Patrick Hickey, who has been ill for about two years with consumption, died last Thursday and was buried in the Roman Catholic cemetery in Galway. Deceased was a son of Mr. M. Hickey and was one of the most promising young men of this locality. He was twenty-eight years of age and unmarried. His demise will be lamented by a large number of friends, among whom he was a special favourite. Over fifty vehicles followed the remains to its last resting place, which is evidence of the esteem in which he was held by his many friends.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle stirs a rack of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

A FIGHTING ADMIRAL

Villamil, Spanish Commander at Cape Verde, Impatient.

PORTUGAL ORDERS SPAIN TO GO

The Spanish Fleet, However, Still Remains at the Islands—While Awaiting Attack of United States, Spain Presents Her Side of the Story—Strong Claims —General War News.

Madrid, April 25.—(Delayed in transmission.)—The Pais to-day announced that the Spanish admiral in command of the fleet at St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, has cabled to the Government here that when the United States fleet is before Havana his place is not at the Cape Verde Islands, adding that he would sail against the American squadron in the morning, order or no order.

Spanish Fleet Ordered Away.

Washington, April 27.—The Post to-day says: "The Spanish fleet, which mobilized at Cape Verde Islands, was yesterday notified by Portugal to leave St. Vincent."

A Pre-Arranged Plan.

London, April 27.—The dismissal of the United States squadron from Hong-Kong, and the apparent severity of the British Government in regard to the United States torpedo boat Somers at Falmouth, the Associated Press hears, were incidents pre-arranged by American and British diplomacy, their real object being to force the Portuguese Government to order the Spanish fleet to leave the Cape Verde Islands, and to prevent other nations at a critical moment, from offering similar hospitality.

Still at Cape Verde.

St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, April 27.—The Spanish fleet was still here at 6 p.m. yesterday. Ammunition and projectiles are placed ready on deck, and the men appear to be anxious to fight. The squadron is still busy coaling and taking stores on board.

Spanish Squadron Not Needed.

Havana, via London, April 27.—Captain-General Blanco has cabled the Government at Madrid to the effect that the Spanish squadron of warships can be utilized elsewhere, as he can account for the defence of Havana without the assistance of the fleet.

They All Favor Spain.

London, April 27.—The Consuls-General of Ecuador, Nicaragua, San Salvador, Honduras, Costa Rica and the Republic of San Domingo, all of whom have been interviewed with respect to the attitude of their Governments, declare that their countrymen sympathize with Spain, but that their respective Governments will observe the strictest neutrality.

PUTTING THEMSELVES RIGHT.

Vigorous Denunciation of General Fitzhugh Lee's "Execrable Conduct."

Madrid, April 27.—The Spanish Government yesterday sent a circular to the powers, supplementing its circular of April 18, and expressing regret at the "hard necessity of being compelled to appeal to force in order to repel the scandalous aggression of the United States and defend the national dignity and historical integrity of the fatherland."

Continuing, the circular note says: "History presents few instances wherein the reason is so evident on one part, and the outrage so undisguised on the other. Spain has on her side right, correct procedure and prudence, the United States has on her side only disloyalty and the impulse of unbridled ambition."

After a reference to the "execrable conduct" of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, the note reproduces the text of the resolutions of Congress, underlining the last words, "As intended to deceive the Cubans."

It is then predicted that the Island of Cuba will not be declared pacified until "it is ready for annexation." Further, the note gives the details of the rupture of the negotiations between Spain and the United States, concluding with the following declaration: "The Spanish people await the attack with tranquil serenity, decided to sell their lives dearly, and to defend energetically their right to remain in America, confident that in this work they will have the assistance of the Cubans, who are Spaniards like themselves."

BLANCO'S PROMISE.

Marshal Count Chaste Hopes That Gen. Blanco Will Come Through the Conflict Victorious or Dead.

Madrid, April 27.—In the Senate Marshal Count Chaste eulogized the army in Cuba, and recalled his experience 45 years ago, when, as Captain-General of Cuba, he ordered the forts to fire on the Anglo-American fleet, which was obliged to retire. He said he hoped General Blanco would fulfill his promise to come through the conflict dead or victorious. (Cheers.)

Americans Repulsed.

General Blanco cables that the situation is unchanged. His dispatch says: "This (Tuesday) evening a division of five American vessels approached Marianao. The Spanish gunboat Niger repulsed three destroyers which tried to enter the port of Cardenas and compelled them to restreat. I believe the Americans will not dare to disembark in Cuba."

FREEDOM OR DEATH.

Cuban Insurgents Determined to Expel the Spaniards—News From the Interior of the Island.

New York, April 27.—A special to the World from Nassau, Island of New Providence, W. I., says: Your correspondent has just returned from an observation trip to Cuba. The famous Moron-Jucaro trocha, across Puerto Principe Province from ocean to ocean, has been abandoned to the insurgents, the Spanish troops guarding it having left Moron, its northern terminus, by boat for Mauvitas, near the eastern end of the province.

The Spaniards Undaunted.

The Spanish officers laugh at suggestions that they can be beaten by American troops.

The Spanish soldiers, who, until now, have been guarding the trocha, presented a pitiable spectacle with their gaunt faces and ragged uniforms, but their spirits were undaunted and they appeared to be eager to meet the Yankees.

President Masso and his Cabinet are, of course, delighted with the action of the American Congress and are eagerly awaiting the landing of the American troops. "Now we can use our ammunition without stint," they say. "We will listen to proposals of an armistice only when the Spaniards leave Cuba. It is independence or death."

Spain Gets a Submarine Vessel.

London, April 27.—According to the Mail, Spain has acquired the lease of a vessel called a submarine worker, which was invented by Count Peaze and constructed in France.

The vessel is a steel sphere, with an external diameter of nine feet nine inches. She is propelled by electricity and has a speed of eight or nine knots an hour. She carries a supply of compressed air that will last three men for eight or nine hours. She can lay mines and discharge them electrically after retiring to a safe distance. She can be connected with the desk of a vessel and guide a warship safely through mined waters.

Mr. Ackerman, the London agent of the owner, says that the boat is on board a Spanish vessel that is now five days out for the United States.

SENOR POLO IS SAFE.

The Ex-Ambassador Is Simply a Private Resident of Toronto.

London, April 27.—In the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. James F. Hogan, anti-Parnellite, asked whether Senor Polo y Bernabe, the former Spanish Minister at Washington, who is now in Canada, is at liberty to use Toronto as a base of supplying Spain with information, and whether there is any foundation for the suggestion that Senor Bernabe is accredited to the whole of America north of the equator, and that he has thereby acquired a definite status in Canada.

Mr. Balfour, replying, said: "Senor Polo y Bernabe is now a resident of Toronto, and is in exactly the same position as any other foreign resident in a private capacity in Her Majesty's Dominion, and he has no limitations placed upon him other than the duty of observing the provisions of the Foreign Enlistment Act. There is no foundation for the suggestion that he is accredited to the whole of North America, and has therefore a definite status in Canada."

Senor Polo Explains.

Toronto, April 27.—Senor Polo explains his standing in Canada in view of the question asked in the British House of Commons yesterday, if Senor Polo is at liberty to use Toronto as a distributing centre for supplying Spain with information.

"Absurd!" exclaimed he: "I am a Spanish Minister accredited to Washington. I am not in Canada officially, but merely in a private capacity, resting under the British flag."

TREATY OF PARIS IGNORED.

Premier Sagasta Makes a Statement in the Spanish Senate.

Madrid, April 27.—In the Spanish Senate yesterday Count Almenas asked whether the Government adhered strictly to the treaty of Paris in regard to privateers, or whether it would issue a letter of marque to anyone asking for such authority. The Premier, Senor Sagasta, said the moment was inopportune to reply to the question. On Count Almenas insisting upon an answer to his question, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Senor Gullon, said Spain occupied the same position as she held before the treaty of Paris. At the close of Senor Sagasta's speech in the Senate yesterday, the President of the Senate said, amid great applause, that the Spanish Senate had replied to "the insults of the American Senate with the most profound scorn."

Spain After the Yachts.

New York, April 27.—The Commercial Advertiser says: The report from Madrid that the Spanish authorities have determined to keep a sharp lookout for American yachts in Mediterranean waters has given rise to some apprehension concerning the safety of several well-known New Yorkers.

The Imparcial of Madrid says, ingenuously, that the yachts would be worth capturing, as those in the Mediterranean alone at the present time represent several million dollars. Several of the swiftest vessels of the Spanish navy have been ordered to cruise about the Straits of Gibraltar, the Suez Canal and in the English Channel also and make prizes of any of these yachts they may intercept.

INCREASE YOUR WEIGHT.

LOSS OF FLESH A SIGN OF DECLINING HEALTH.

GAIN IN FLESH A SURE INDICATION OF RETURNING STRENGTH AND VIGOR.

DO YOU feel yourself getting weak and languid—health and strength slipping away from you—hollows showing that used to be filled with flesh—cheeks getting pinched and pale, muscles flabby, nerves unstrung, heart weak, appetite poor.

Do the scales tell you—does the fit of your clothes tell you—you're losing flesh? You need Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

They so vitalize the nerves, improve the digestive powers, increase the appetite, strengthen the heart and enrich the blood, that the angularities of your body fill out with healthy flesh, your muscles become firm, your spirits revive. The scales tell you you're gaining in weight. You feel your old buoyant, vigorous health returning—Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done their work well. Here's what Mrs. D. N. Ostrander, of Trenton, Ont., has to say about them:—

"I have been a great sufferer for many years with my heart and nerves. When going around the house I would get so bad that I had to lie down on the lounge until I could recover my breath. At night I could hardly sleep at all, and when I would drop off to sleep would wake up with a start, followed by a suffocating feeling as if my heart had stopped beating forever. I got very languid and weak, had no ambition, and thought that everything was going wrong with me. I grew morbid in mind, lost my appetite, and had to force myself to eat what I did. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, weighing only 90 pounds at the time I started to use Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I can tell you that I would have given but little for my chances of living much longer. Several doctors attended me, and I have taken al. kinds of proprietary medicines, but without avail. I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and thought I would try them as a last resort. The results were simply marvellous. I began to improve from the first few doses, and noticed a big difference before I had taken one box. Now I sleep well, the suffocating feeling is completely gone. I have splendid strength and my appetite is such that I have to restrain myself for fear I eat too much. I can eat anything that is set before me and am better that I have been for years. Am increasing in weight right along, and feel that life is worth living, thanks to Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cost 50c. a box, or 3 for $1.25, at all drug stores, or sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price. T. MILBURN & CO., Toronto, Ont.

Paris in Peterboro

We can't bring Paris to Peterborough, but we can give our patrons a peep into the Paris Millinery world, and present to their view the latest conceits of the French Capital.

You can look here and see what's over there. As a matter of fact you cannot keep in touch with the dictates of Fashion without knowing what we have to offer.

A MAY-DAY OPENING.

Busy as we are, we set to work a month ago to prepare for a Semi-Opening of Fashionable SUMMER Millinery during the first week of May.

Every Dollar's worth shown will be the very latest in style and colouring.

But every week here has been a series of elaborate "Opening" events. Extensive Novelties have claimed the eager attention of the ladies, day in and day out, and rendered their repeated visits quite as entertaining as the regular Formal Opening events of other stores.

Fast as the loveliest samples are picked new ones replace them to keep the display perfect, steadily beautiful and interesting.

The crowded condition of our workroom is unmistakable evidence of the leadership of this store in Millinery of all kinds, and the service is so successful that the wants of every lady is promptly supplied.

This week, we are making another and attractive display of New Styles in New Hats and Bonnets, New Flowers and Ribbons, New Veilings, Gloves and Neckwear—equal to the best attempt at any second Millinery Opening elsewhere. We welcome you to look or to buy. Were you here recently?

TAPPED THE TILL.

A Well Known Merchant Loses all His Small Change.

Another merchant was the victim this morning of a till-tapping expedition on the part of a gang of small boys and as a result he is two or three dollars poorer than he was earlier in the day.

He had gone into the back shop for a few minutes and on coming to the front to make change for a customer found the till stripped of all the silver which was in it. The police were immediately placed in possession of the facts and this afternoon a couple of small boys who were suspected of being implicated were arrested. Although they had been spending money very freely in the morning, and had purchased two dinners each at restaurants, nothing could be proven against them and they had to be released.

The merchants cannot exercise too much care in keeping a sharp look out to circumvent these young rascals, one of whom stole a purse from the Golden Lion only a day or so ago.

SEWER ACCIDENT.

Patrick Lavery's Leg Was Crushed by a Cave-in.

This morning a portion of the sewer caved in on Murray street owing to the fact that boarding along the side only reached down to a depth of about six feet, whilst the excavation was as deep again.

When the side gave way the planking above came down with it and Patrick Lavery's leg was caught and crushed between two timbers to such an extent as to seriously injure it. He was carried into Smith's blacksmith shop, when the injured member grew so badly swollen as to necessitate his being taken home.

THE MINSTREL MATCH OF THE CRICKET CLUB.

A SPLENDID ENTERTAINMENT PRESENTED LAST NIGHT.

A Crowded House—A Sparkling Entertainment Provided—A Big Financial Success—Another Appearance To-Night.

The Cricket Club minstrels' entertainment last night was "dead on the wickets"—it took the "middle stump" of popular appreciation flying, judging by the plentiful applause that greeted the many meritorious features. It would be flattery to say that everything was first class; as is the case in every match, there were a few "tail enders" that didn't contribute much to the score.

To begin, there was an excellent orchestra, that not only furnished splendid accompaniments to the choruses, but performed several overtures in a most creditable manner, winning large applause for the fine music presented. The orchestra was composed as follows: Miss Lottie Bell and Mr. J. M. McCaig, violins; flutes, Messrs. J. Butcher and E. Hodgson; Mr. K. G. Loch, cello; Mr. W. E. Loch, double bass; drums, Mr. Robert Beech; cornet, W. Miller; pianoforte, Mr. C. Lang. Miss Harley and Miss McCabe furnished excellent accompaniments for some of the vocal numbers.

The performance opened with a rattling chorus, "The Handicap," which was performed by the entire company. The Rad men's march was capitally presented, and merited the loud applause that rewarded it. The end men were—Tambos, Messrs. Geo. Ames, Bert Jones, Harry Neil and H. Nelles: bones, Messrs. Jim Spence, Walter Phelan, Clarence Bell and E. Hall. The "Scorcher" overture also contributed by the Radmen was a rattling and fetchy musical extravaganza. Mr. Herb Morphet's solo "Carissima," was most creditably sung, and Mr. Morphet is welcomed as a valuable addition to our male solo singers in town. This was followed by another fine solo, "Ma Angeline," by Mr. Walter Squires. To this succeeded the coon song, "Kentucky Babe," by Mr. Harold Nelles, singing with excellent feeling. Mr. Jim Spence's song was an excruciatingly comic musical fantasm, and Mr. Nelles' second appearance in "The Real Thing," was a capital representation of the latest type of swell, in whose performance Mr. Jim Spence contributed effective "asides." Mr. Bert Dolan made his debut in a very creditable manner in the ballad "Banks of the Wabash." Mr. G. Ames' topical song "On the Tapis," brought down the house, and the chorus to the air of a "A hot time" was given with splendid spirit. In fact this applies to all the choruses that were an appendage to the several solos, all excellently given, showing the excellent training they had received at the hands of Mr. John Crane. The choruses were, from an artistic point of view, perhaps the best and most appreciated features of the programme. The chorus "The Coloured Four Hundred," closed the first part. The members of the choruses were:—

First Tenor—W J Tranter, Fred Browne, A T LeFevre, E P Crossley, W J English, W J Montgomery, W Stocker, W Phelan, J Connors, A C B Pousette, H W Pousette, A Hollingshead, Stanley Bradd, M McDonough, G T Garraas, W H Collins, Alf Terrill, R A W Hey and J G Spence. Second Tenor—W Squires, E Hall, A Kingscote, Herb Morphet, C Ball, R Mein, Ed Dawson, S Pigeon, H Goldey, H Nelles, A W Spence and A J Waddell. First Bass—Bert Dolan, W Moncrief, A J McLellan, E H Still, B D Jones, E Wasson, A F MacNee and A Stethem. Second Bass—F Hubbs, J M Edwards, A Bell, W F Skitch, H Neil, J A Dawson, E Shelton, D Gordon, J Pease, C Chowen and R B Rogers.

The second part of the programme opened with a splendid performance of a drum-major's exhibit by Mr.—Andrews, a Peterborough boy who has developed a marvellous proficiency in this exercise. It was a splendid exhibition of skill and well deserved, the applause it received, as well as a printed place on the programme. He was obliged to respond to an encore for his splendid performance. To this succeeded a finely performed sand dance by Messrs. Richard Simons and Ed. Graham, which was also delightedly encored. The banjo fantasia, "The Cricketer's Return," by Mr. Bert. D. Jones, showed the hand of the artist upon this instrument. Mr. Jones also furnished a mandolin solo in the third part in capital style. These two numbers showed Mr. Jones' complete mastery of these instruments. He teaches them, and his performance furnished ample proof of his abilities both as a teacher and performer. The coster song, "My Old Dutch," sung in character by Mr. Charles H. Flood, a visitor to town, was one of the best numbers of the evening. It was given with just the right degree of pathos to escape the burlesque, and the character was admirably sustained. The pantomime "Silence and Fun," by Messrs. Johnny Connors and Miles McDonough brought out some clever tumbling, that has never been excelled by visiting professionals.

Mr. Jim Spence's side-splitting character sketch that opened the third part of the programme, was enthusiastically encored by the audience. Mr. Spence's contributions to the programme throughout showed how heartily and successfully he had entered into the spirit of the occasion. Mr. C. H. Flood received a hearty recall for his whistling solo. Perhaps the best feature of the third part was the magnificent robe de nuit drill by the "Sixteen Immortals." The evolutions, intricate and brilliant, were perfectly performed and continuous applause accompanied the several movements. The performance concluded with the farce, "Three of a Kind," by Misses Bert Jones, Jim Spence and George Ames.

God Save the Queen brought to a close a most enjoyable and excellent performance. There were perhaps necessarily a few crudities, but on the whole the immense audience that patronized the entertainment were heartily satisfied with the result. Mention has been made above of the excellent character of the musical part of the programme and no little praise is due to Mr. John Crane, who was the musical conductor, and the aptitude of the excellent material at his command. Mr. Mack Pousette is deserving of the greatest credit for the energetic work he did in organizing and recruiting the excellent talent that contributed to last night's satisfactory success. Mr. R. M. Roy acted as stage director with his usual efficiency.

The Minstrels will appear in the Opera House to-night with an entire change of programme, of which the "cake walk," a specimen of which was given last night, will be a leading feature. The fancy drill will also be repeated. The prices will be 25 and 35c.

C. C. MINSTRELS repeated to-night. Change of programme. Prices 25c and 35c. Plan at Ormond & Walsh's. Hear Mr. C. H. Flood of Toronto.

GLADSTONE IS DEAD.

The Great Statesman Enters Into Rest.

CLOSE OF A LONG AND BRILLIANT CAREER.

(Special to The Examiner.)

New York, 1.30 p.m., April 27th.—A cable despatch just received announces the death of Mr. Gladstone.

[The great statesman, man of letters, and man of action, Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, died at Hawardan to-day. It is no disparagement to others to say that, taking him all in all, he was the greatest man this century has produced. Now that the Grand Old Man has passed into history, the record of his life and deeds will prove one of the brightest and most copious pages of the history of the century. As the monarch he has served under, has had the longest and most beneficent reign of any British sovereign, so Gladstone's career as a statesman has been unparalleled for length and fruitfulness of service by any precedent Englishman. He has served his country almost continuously for over half a century, and has been personally concerned in nearly all the great movements that have resulted in the advancement of increased happiness to the British people and to the world at large. He has had a hand in broadening the bonds of freedom, and in enlightening, and uplifting the condition of, the world. Mr. Gladstone was born at Rodney street, Liverpool, on Dec. 29th, 1809, and was consequently at the time of his death 88 years and four months old. He was educated at Eton and Oxford. He first entered parliament in 1833 as representative of Newark, a pocket borough. In 1841, at the age of 32, he was made a Privy Councillor under Melbourne. In the year 1865 began his long parliamentary duel with Disraeli, which, according to Gladstone's own testimony, was conducted without personal bitterness. He became Prime Minister in 1870 and held this position till 1874, succeeding and being succeeded by Disraeli. Again in 1880 Gladstone became Prime Minister and remained in that office till 1885, when he was succeeded by Lord Salisbury. He was also, for a brief period, prime minister in 1886, being replaced by Lord Salisbury, who held the position till 1886. After Salisbury's short term in 1886, the reigns of government again fell into Mr. Gladstone's hands. During this term he put into concrete form his long struggle for the betterment of Ireland, by introducing his Home Rule bill, which, as is well known, was defeated. In 1893 the Home Rule bill was passed by the House of Commons, but was rejected by the House of Lords. At the end of his fourth and last term as prime minister of the greatest empire of history, he resigned the leadership. As one of the closing incidents of his great and eventful career, Gladstone in 1896 had a part in the events that marked the era of closer relations between the Empire and the colonies, signalised and in no small degree brought about, by the visit on the occasion of the Diamond Jubilee of the Premier of Canada, Sir Wilfred Laurier. This is merely a sketch of the salient chronological points in the career of a man whose history is practically the history of the Empire for the past half century. For Mr. Gladstone, as a statesman and parliamentarian, was intimately associated, as the moving spirit or active participant in all the great political events that have marked the last fifty years of the Queen's reign. He might truthfully say respecting these events, with the hero of the Æneid, though in a far different spirit—"et quorum pars magna fui."

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs. Charles Coben, of Galway.

One of the oldest and most respected citizens passed away last Tuesday in the person of Mrs. Chas. Coben, widow of the late Chas. Coben, whose death preceded hers about eight years.

Deceased was seventy-three years of age at the time of her death, having come to Galway with her husband forty years ago this spring. She bore her share of the difficulties that are found in a newly-settled country. She was ill only nine days and was conscious up to the last hour.

On Monday morning she got quite well, and it was expected that she would recover, but she got a relapse that afternoon and passed peacefully away on Tuesday morning. All the members of the family were present at her bedside when the end came. Her remains were interred in the Kinmount cemetery, the funeral being one of the largest ever seen in the township.

MULOCK OFFER ACCEPTED.

Master-in-Ordinary Confirms the Report of the Advisory Committee.

Toronto, April 26.—The Master-in-Ordinary, Mr. Thomas Hodgins, at the meeting of the Farmers' Loan Company held yesterday morning in Osgoode Hall, directed that the offer made by Hon. William Mulock of $150,000 in satisfaction of liability as a director and a further $50,000 as a fund for the widows and orphans who had lost by the failure of the company, should be accepted.

Mallory Line Cut Off From Service.

New York, April 26.—Mr. Charles A. Mallory stated yesterday that the Mallory Line service to Galveston and Key West would be suspended for the present, owing to the war with Spain.

Gladstone Free From Pain.

London, April 26.—Mr. Gladstone, it is announced from Hawarden, passed a poor night, but he had not suffered pain yesterday.

Although a very busy man, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has found time in which to write a great book of over a thousand pages entitled, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in Plain English, or Medicine Simplified. Few books printed in the English language have reached the phenomenal sale as has this popular work, over 680,000 copies having been sold at $1.50 each. The profits on this enormous sale having repaid its author for the great amount of labour and money expended on its production he has now decided to give away, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this valuable book, the recipient only being required to mail to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., of which company he is president, 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent postpaid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. It contains 1008 large pages, and over 300 illustrations, some of them in colours. The free edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50 except only that the books are bound in strong manilla paper covers, instead of cloth. It is not often that our readers have an opportunity to obtain a valuable book on such generous terms, and we predict that few will miss availing themselves of the unusual and liberal offer to which we have called their attention.

With the Largest Cargo.

Parry Sound, Ont., April 25.—The steamship Lynn, now running on the new Chicago and Parry Sound route, arrived Saturday at Depot Harbor, the terminus of the Ottawa, Arnprior & Parry Sound Railway. The Lynn is the largest vessel in the fleet and carried a cargo of 215,000 bushels of corn. She has a length of 490 feet and beam 50 feet, and came in drawing 20 feet of water. It is the largest load ever taken to a Canadian port on the lakes.

Found in the Grand River.

Preston, Ont., April 25.—The body of John Myers of Bridgeport, who was drowned in the Grand River at the time of the big spring flood, was found Saturday on the river's bank about half a mile below Preston by a number of lads who were fishing. Coroner Mulloy deemed an inquest unnecessary.

Canucks Can Enlist if They Like.

Windsor, Ont., April 25.—Magistrate Bartlet says that no particular precautions will be taken along the border to enforce neutrality laws. The United States will not be allowed to enlist men in Canada, but if Canadians want to go over the river to enlist nobody will interfere with them.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Mr. McMullen's Proposed Board of Civil Service Supervisors.

GEN. GASCOIGNE'S RESIGNATION

Rights to Be Conferred by Mr. McMullen's Bill—Question of Offensive Partisanship Before the House—Mr. Bertram's Trades Union Legislation Successful—Passage of Private Bills.

Ottawa, April 26.—A thin and passive House yesterday gave itself up to the consideration of private members' business and public bills. The dismissal of a customs official for offensive partisanship was the threadbare theme of debate in the afternoon, while in the evening Mr. McMullen's bill to create a board of civil service supervisors was discussed without any definite conclusion being reached other than to defer consideration of the measure for the present.

Replying to a question by Sir Adolphe Caron, the Prime Minister, in the absence of the Minister of Militia, confirmed the published statement that Major-General Gascoigne has resigned. Sir Wilfrid Laurier added that the resignation has been accepted, but that the Major-General will remain in command of the forces until a successor is appointed.

Three private bills were put through the final stage, namely, to incorporate the Klondike and Peace River Gold Mining, Land and Transportation Company; to incorporate the Montmorency Cotton Mill Company and the Edwin Heyward (Toronto) divorce bill.

The Minister of Customs was asked by Mr. Foster for the several amounts paid in refunds of duty collected upon goods of the various nationalities subsequently ascertained to be entitled to the benefit of the reduction.

Mr. Paterson, Minister of Customs, said, "It is practically impossible," he said, "to give the required information, for the reason that the certificates of origin which accompany goods imported from England which are the growth, produce or manufacture of other countries, do not give specific information as to the country of origin of each particular item of goods mentioned in the shipment, it being merely set forth in such certificates that the goods in shipment are the growth, produce or manufacture of certain countries which are entitled to the benefits of the reciprocal tariff." The Minister intimated, however, that he might be able to give the total amount of such refunds.

It appears from an answer given by the Minister of Railways and Canals to Mr. Bergeron, that the only papers in Montreal which last fall published the call for tenders for cement for the Soulanges Canal were La Patrie, The Herald and The Shareholder.

Mr. Roche was informed by Mr. Tarte that Mr. Thomas Cole, Parliamentary correspondent of La Patrie, is not in any way in the employ of the Public Works Department.

Mr. McCleary was told by the Solicitor-General that the Government had appointed Collector Lawson a special officer to enforce the alien labor law in the Fort Erie district, his instructions being to enforce the law whenever the alien labor law is enforced by the Americans.

Mr. Quinn spoke for an hour and a half in reference to the dismissal of John F. Tennant, collector of customs at Gretna, Man. He charged that Tennant had been dismissed simply because he was an Irish Catholic.

Mr. Richardson said Tennant had been dismissed because he was an offensive partisan.

The Minister of Customs repeated this statement, and said further that Mr. Tennant while he was electioneering had left his office in charge of the American customs officer.

The debate was adjourned.

Mr. Bertram's bill to amend the Trade Mark and Design Act was read a third time and passed. It gives union labels the same legal protection as trade marks.

Mr. Casey's bill to secure the safety of railway employes was long under discussion in committee. Four clauses of the bill were struck out, and, on Mr. Blair's motion, clauses were substituted, providing that after two years from the date on which the Government shall decide a satisfactory device has been invented for automatically registering accidents to air brakes the building of a car not fitted with such device is punishable by a fine of $25, while the use of a car not thus equipped involves a penalty of $5 per day. The clauses providing for compensation for accidents precipitated a lengthy discussion, which was ended by Mr. Casey agreeing to postpone consideration of the bill for another week.

Mr. Charlton's seduction and abduction bill was lost on the second reading.

Mr. McMullen, in moving the second reading of his bill for the board of civil service supervisors, read a list of customs ports in which the cost of collecting the revenues runs from 4 per cent. to 400 per cent. He contended that his bill provided the only remedy for this. His supervisors would have power to enter any custom house, inland revenue office, or interior department office, in the outside service, examine the books, look into the work and dismiss any employes they considered superfluous, giving the department 15 days' notice. Although the Liberals had not been long in office, they knew that any attempt at reduction would evoke a cry of injustice, the number of officers' children would be pleaded; yes, even their religion would be used as a plea to save them. He didn't believe people who had for 15 years proved mere failures in business should be foisted on the civil service list, so long as there were poorhouses in the land.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, while expressing appreciation of Mr. McMullen's intentions, etc., did not think the bill should be pressed to a second reading just now.

The debate was adjourned.

The House then at 11.05 p.m. adjourned.

FEMALE WEAKNESS CURED.

Mrs. Saunders Made Well and Strong by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Brantford, April 25—(Special)—The wives and mothers of Ontario are the most ardent disciples of Dodd's way of curing curing Diseases of Women—i.e. by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

This is natural, for no medicine, no earth, no agency known to man has saved women one tithe of the agony that Dodd's Kidney Pills have banished.

Mrs. F. Saunders, of Brantford, tells her suffering sisters what Dodd's Kidney Pills did for her: I have been a martyr to Female Weakness for the past year and suffered terribly. Dodd's Kidney Pills made me strong and well and healthy, though several other remedies I used did me no good whatever."

So the record grows. Cures made every day. Failures—never.

Regular action of the bowels is necessary to health. Laxa-Liver Pills are the best occasional cathartic for family use. Price 25c. Any druggist.

NEW RAILWAY ROUTE.

An Indian Chief Gives Mr. Coste, Canada's Chief Engineer, Some Valuable Information—Ottawa Notes.

Ottawa, April 26.—It is stated that on his recent trip to the coast Engineer Coste discovered a new railway route devoid of engineering difficulties. The statement goes that an Indian chief gave Mr. Coste information of a trail into the Yukon which is practically as level as the ordinary route from Ottawa to Toronto. The route is said to follow the bed of a river long since diverted from its original course, and hitherto unmentioned by the explorers. The river was a winding one and avoided the great obstacles which go to make railroad construction difficult and expensive. The Free Press says Mr. Coste is very favorably impressed with the route, and estimates that a road can be constructed for at most $3,000 a mile.

A FAMOUS SEA FIGHT.

ENGAGEMENT BETWEEN CHILEAN AND PERUVIAN IRONCLADS.

The Destruction of the Huascar Off the Bolivian Coast — A Terrible Slaughter What a Fight Between Modern War Vessels Means.

In The Century Claude H. Wetmore has an article on "A Famous Sea Fight," describing the engagement between Chilean and Peruvian ironclads off the coast of Bolivia in 1879. Mr. Wetmore says:

From the first of the battle the encouraging voice of Gran had come to the men in the turret through the speaking tube from the conning tower, but when the Blanco crowded into the thick of it and great shot struck the Huascar's sides as regularly as blows of a battering ram the orders of the commander were no longer heard. The officer in charge of the turret called to his superior. There was no answer, and when Commander Elias Aguerre ran up the narrow little ladder that led to the tower he stumbled over the dead body of his admiral. A shell had struck the conning tower and had taken off Gran's head as neatly as if the decapitation had been by the guillotine. This shell also killed Lieutenant Ferre, the admiral's aid. There was only time to push the corpses aside, and the new commanding officer pulled back the tube flap to give his directions, but as he did so the Huascar staggered, keeled over, then shook in every plate, while a concussion more terrific than any so far told that a shell had entered the turret and had burst there. When the fumes had cleared away so that a person could speak, a midshipman called out that one of the great guns had been dismounted and 20 men killed. The survivors tumbled the bodies through the hatch that opened into the deck below, thus releasing the clogged machinery, and as the corpses rattled down other men rushed up, throwing off their clothing as they jumped into the pools of blood to seize hold of the gear and swing the remaining gun into position, that it might train upon one of the ships—they could no longer make out which, nor did they care—and it was discharged, hauled in, loaded and discharged again.

Once more all was silent in the conning tower. Lieutenant Palacios hastened there, but before he could enter he was compelled to push three bodies out of the way. He had barely given his first command when a bullet from the well aimed rifle of a marine in an enemy's top lodged between his eyes. Then the fourth to command the Huascar that day, Lieutenant Pedro Garezon, took the place, and as he did so he called through an aperture telling the quartermaster to put the helm to port; for he had determined to ram one of the adversaries and sink with her if necessary. Over and over spun the wheel, but the Huascar's head still pointed between the Chileans.

"Port! Port, I say!" screamed the commander.

"She won't answer," came back the sullen reply from the only one of four quartermasters alive. The bodies of the others were lying upon the grating at his feet.

"A shot has carried away the starboard steering gear, sir," reported an ensign, and he dropped dead as the words left his mouth.

The Huascar now lay drifting in a hell of shot and flame, but all the while the red, white and red fluttered from the peak. One by one, in twos and in threes, the men in the turret dropped at their posts, and at last the remaining great gun was silent, its tackle literally choked with dead. The turret could not be turned for the same reason. Corpses hung over the military top; corpses clogged the conning tower.

With coats and waistcoats off the surgeons had been laboring in the wardroom upon the wounded, who, shrieking in their agony, had been tumbled down the companionway like so much butchered beef, for there was no time to use stretchers or to carry a stricken comrade to a doctor's care. Steam and smoke filtered through the doorways, and the apartment became stifling. While they were sawing, amputating and bandaging a shell tore into the wardroom, burst, and fragments wounded the assistant surgeons, the chief of the medical staff having been killed earlier in the conflict. Those unfortunates who were stretched upon the table awaiting their turn under the knife and those who lay upon the floor suffered no more pain. They were killed as they lay groaning. This shell tore away wardroom and stern cabin, and hardly a trace was left of the bulkhead. After that what little surgery was done was performed in the coal bunkers.

Huddled in a passageway near the engine room were a score or more of non-combatants—stewards, pantrymen and stokers. They were in a place that was lighted only as flashes came from the guns. It was filled with powder smoke, and clouds of steam that drifted from below told that the Huascar had been struck in a vital spot—her machinery. Suddenly they heard a crash, followed by the reading of the deck, and the little ironclad swayed as if she had struck a reef. Some one passed the word that the maintop mast had been shot away. As it came down it brought living men to be dashed to death, also corpses that had been hanging over the sides of the military top.
